THE OLDEST PEERESS.

Enviable Position Occupied by Lady Burdett-Coutts, Wife of Ashmead Bartlett.

When the great coronation day of King Edward VII. of Great Britain arrives and the many notable people who have the right to attend the magnificent ceremony assemble to do honor to the king and queen, certainly two of the most interesting ladies present will be Baroness Burdett-Coutts, the oldest peeress in her own right, and sweet-faced little Lady Betty Bligh, Baroness Clifton of Leighton Bromswold, the youngest peeress, who will be barely two and a half when the king is crowned.

BARONESS BURDETT-COUTTS.
(The Oldest Peeress in Great Britain and Ireland.)

Still another child baroness is little Lady Beaumont, who was born in 1894 and is therefore just seven years of age; the young countess of Cromartie also came into her title while still a girl in her teens, and yet another of the few baronesses in their own right is Lady Yarborough, Baroness Conyers, who holds two titles, her husband's, by which, of course, she has been known since her marriage some 15 years ago.

Among the peeresses, it is safe to say, not one is held higher in estimation by her personal friends and the world at large than the aged Baroness Burdett-Coutts, who, although 87 years of age, still takes the keenest and most practical interest in the many philanthropical schemes with which she is connected and is surprisingly vigorous. The baroness, whose life has been one long round of philanthropy, was created a peeress in 1871, just ten years before her marriage with Ashmead Bartlett (who has since adopted her name) created so much comment.

A SCHOLAR OF NOTE.

Dr. Edward Asahel Birge, Acting President of the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Edward Asahel Birge, who will temporarily fill the office of president of the University of Wisconsin, at Madison, pending the selection of a successor to Dr. Charles Kendall Adams, is one of the most capable and most popular of the teaching staff of the university and, moreover, has been connected with the faculty for upwards of 25 years. When he came to Madison in 1875 it was in the capacity of instructor in natural history, and his early work led to his promotion within a year to the chair of zoology. About ten years ago he was elected head of the department of letters and science, and in that capacity has demonstrated his entire usefulness to the university and his general ability as a man of science. In his earlier days Dr. Birge was a student of histology in Leipsig, and he has developed an international reputation in his chosen line. The acting head of Wisconsin is not yet 50 years old, and is in the prime of a strong and intellectual manhood.

DR. EDWARD A. BIRGE.
(Ad Interim President of the University of Wisconsin.)

Passing of a Noble Bird.

Another bird believed to have become extinct is the California condor, twice as large as the condor of the Andes. Its length was 5 feet, weight 25 pounds, and spread of wings 12 feet. An egg of this bird is worth $2,000 to collectors, but none has been found for 17 years. Eggs of the golden eagle sell in San Francisco for $32 each.

Latest Sea Serpent Story.

This season's sea serpent story takes the form of a sea of snakes. A ship just arrived in Philadelphia reports a belt of snakes 15 miles wide in the Indian ocean. The snakes, averaging three feet in length, were of an unknown species and are supposed to have been brought to the surface by a volcanic disturbance.

The Leal's School eleven will play one more game before the close of the season. The contest will be with the Rutgers 'Preps,' but the date has not been fixed.

A movement is on foot to organize an All-Collegiate team for a game which will take place in this city Thanksgiving Day morning. The opposing team will either be the Rutgers' college eleven or the Alls A. A. team. In all probability Charles Dupee, last year's Yale full back, will be chosen captain of the local eleven.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of East Front street, has the distinction of playing Monday one of the best golf scores ever credited to a woman on the Lakewood golf course, having covered the full circuit in 94 in an eighteen hole competition with Lieut. Bowdle.

A Physician Testifies

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Bandolph.

Left Him to His Fate.

Richard Totten, of North avenue, was run into yesterday by a horse and wagon, while he was attempting to cross North avenue. Aside from being turned about a few times, there was no damage. The woman who was driving the horse did not stop to inquire whether Totten was injured or not.

LEAVES IT TO OTHERS.

Chas Battell Loomis Explains That He Will Not Sing Tonight.

Fanwood, N. J., Nov. 12, 1901.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—May I presume upon your good nature and your space to the extent of correcting a slight error which has crept into your columns in regard to the progamme for Thursday night at the Casino.

The notice reads: "Mr. Loomis is the author of all the things that he will read and sing. He is the possessor of two singing voices, a baritone and a falsetto, etc."

I plead guilty to the charge of being the author of all the things I read and I have made use of two "voices" but on this occasion I shall be only too glad to leave all singing to the very delightful quartette which Miss Sally Frothingham Akers directs.

A bird that can sing and knows when to sing is—a bird.

Yours very truly,
Charles Battell Loomis.

The Future of War.

The first and most important lesson which will be learned from the next great naval battle, will be that armored protection will not protect, and that the fight will be a duel between battleships at long range, aided by various forms of torpedo boats and light unarmored cruisers, throwing high explosives; and these latter will be the factors which will determine the fight. The heavy armor-clad will be discredited, and then there will be a wild scramble by the nations in the endeavor to make up for the lost time wasted on its construction, and light aud very swift unprotected war vessels will be constructed, depending for their safety upon their speed and upon their own ability to strike death-dealing blows. These are the true principles which must sooner or later be recognized.

The British government now proposes building still larger and heavier battleships, and, of course, enormously more expensive. Within the next decade, and sooner, in the event of a great war, this will be learned by the British war office to be a great mistake.—Hudson Maxim, in Popular Science Monthly.

Too Realistic Altogether.

The drama has sometimes a curious effect on the mind of the people, and an incident proving this occurred here recently. The drama "Inez de Castro" was being played by a Lisbon tournee company at Evora. In the fifth and last act Inez is cruelly murdered by three men, who stab her and her children to death in a most harrowing manner. This aroused such indignation in the hearts of the occupants of the gallery that a party of them waited at the stage door for the murderers to come up, and attacked them with sticks and bludgeons, to the great dismay of the actors.—Lisbon Vanguarda.

Another Ancestor for Man.

In a lecture before the University of Aberdeen, Dr. A. Keith expressed the opinion that both the gorilla and the chimpanzee are codescendants of an anthropoid animal which lived in the early miocene time, and he suggested for this creature the name of pretroglodytes. He estimated that more than 5,000,000 years have elapsed since the separation of the human stock as a distinct animal form.—Science.

"With coal oil! Mercy, child, what do you mean?"

BOROUGHITES WED IN THEIR FUTURE HOME.

Marriage of Miss E. E. Hoagland and D. W. Winckler Yesterday Afternoon.

UNDER A FLORAL BELL.

INFORMAL RECEPTION FOLLOWED THE CEREMONY.

Chrysanthemums Formed the Principal Decoration—Almost a Floral Garden—Rev G. W. Gardner Officiated—The Bridal Party.

Beneath a beautiful floral bell, which was suspended in the parlor of their future home, at 17 Duer street, Miss Elizabeth E. Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hoagland, of Linden avenue, and Dyckman Waldron Winckler, of Westervelt avenue, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of both the bride and groom.

Tasteful decorations enhanced the appearance of the interior of the pretty little home. Chrysanthemums were largely used though there were numerous potted plants and palms placed about in the various rooms. Rev. G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church, of which the young couple are members, officiated, using the Episcopal service.

The bride was attended by her father, They entered the parlor, while P. Ludwig Conde, the violinist, accompanied by a New York pianist, played the wedding march from "Lohengrin." John A. Steiner attended the groom as best man. During the nuptial ceremony "Cavalleria Rusticana" was played softly.

The whole effect was pleasing. Back of the clergyman were banked masses of chrysanthemums, roses, smilax ferns and palms, and these seemed to make the scene almost a floral garden.

As soon as the ceremony was concluded Mr. and Mrs. Winckler held a reception, the host of friends being profuse in their congratulations. A wedding supper was served. The bride and groom dined at a table placed beneath the floral bell, from the artificial clapper of which dropped strands of silk ribbon to the four corners of the table. The table linen, doylies and and silverware used are heirlooms of the Hoagland family and have been in its possession for over a century.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Winckler left for their honeymoon. They will be gone for a fortnight and on their return will take up their residence on Duer street. After the young couple had departed a dance was held, the many guests participating in the delightful festivity. Music was furnished by P. L. Conde.

At the wedding, the bride was gowned in white Louisiane silk, trimmed with chiffon and duchesse lace, en traine. The presents she received were quite elaborate, consisting mainly of fine designs in cut glass, silverware, cutlery, Dresden and Haviland china, Favrile glass, jewelry, ornaments, and furniture. Four checks, each for a goodly sum, were also received by her. One was from the American Sheet Steel Company, of New York, with which company the bride has been identified and another from A. M. Day, the leather merchant, of New York, with whom the groom has been associated for some time past. An uncle of the bride and the groom himself gave the other two checks.

H. M. BLISH DEAD.

Well-Known Plainfielder Passed Away After an Illness of Over Seven Months.

The death of Henry M. Blish occurred yesterday morning at his home on West Seventh street after an illness, with a complication of diseases, lasting about seven months. During that time he was able to attend to business but very little.

Mr. Blish was born at Delhi, N. Y., and spent his boyhood days there. When a young man he went to New York and secured employment with the Standard Oil Company, where for twenty five years he held the position of an accountant. He was a faithful and shrewd business man and held the highest esteem of all his associates as well as all who knew him.

Mr. Blish was a resident of Plainfield for eight years, having moved here from New York. A few years ago Mrs. Blish died. There are now two daughters remaining, Miss Fiorella A. Blish and Mrs. George O. Stevens, both of this city. Mr. Blish was a member of the First Presbyterian church and a sincere and devoted Christian.

GERMAN'S IMPROVED HALL.

OPENING OF SAENGERBUND HALL TAKES PLACE MONDAY NIGHT.

Wonderful Improvement Has Been Made to the Place Which Will Cost $4,000.

Much preparation is being made by the Gesang and Turn Verein for the opening of its improved headquarters, Saengerbund Hall, Monday evening. Little work remains to be done on the interior of the building, and it is expected that everything will be in readiness by Saturday evening.

Viewed in the interior few would recognize the structure as being the same one as formerly occupied by the society. To begin with the hall is now 125 feet deep, forty feet having been added in the course of the improvements. The old stage has been torn out and an up-to-date one erected. It is thirty-four feet deep and twenty-two feet wide. Some elaborate scenery and other stage settings adorn it.

In the rear of the main floor are commodious retiring rooms. From the front is a grand staircase leading to the basement, and in the rear are stairways at either end. The basement is a large banquet hall and adjoining this room is a double bowling alley, sixty feet in length. Back of the dining room is a kitchen equipped with a modern range and all necessary utensils. Another room is fitted up as a bar and in still another section is the billiard room.

The entire cost of the improvements is over $4,000. Fortunately the society has the necessary funds on hand to pay this indebtedness. Herman Hansen was awarded the contract for the carpentry work and Titus Leury signed the agreement to do the mason work. The range and plumbing was furnished by Richard Heidelolf. The slag roof, which covers the building, was constructed by William Claassen. Albert Luthman is the artist who did the frescoing.

FUNERAL OF ISAAC SMALLEY.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, including a pillow of ivy and galax leaves bearing the word "Father." There were also other tributes consisting of bunches of flowers. The interment took place in Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue. The six grandsons of the deceased acted as pall-bearers.

MANAGER EDWARDS KEPT HIS PROMISE.

Provided Excellent Programme For Opening of Casino Under His Managemet.

AUDIENCE ENJOYED IT ALL.

CHAS. BATTELL LOOMIS AS FUNNY AS MAJOR POND HAD SAID.

Miss Sally Frothingham Akers and Her Quartette of Young Women Sang in Delightful Fashion—Voices Harmonious.

Those who were privileged to attend last evening the initial entertainment at the Casino under the management of Maze Edwards, found that Mr Edwards had kept his word and provided a programme of decided excellence. The attractions were two-fold. Chas. Battell Loomis, the author-humorist, was fully up to expectations, while the singing of Miss Sally Frothingham Akers and her quartette was a rare treat. Many counter attractions had its effect on the size of the audience, but those who were present found much to please.

Mr. Loomis' stories are funny in themselves. As read by him, they are simply great. To look at him, you might think he had just stepped in from his own funeral. Throughout the evening his face never lost that solemn resigned expression. It made his selections, however, seem all the funnier. Then he gave some character impersonations which were very true to life. He certainly justified Major Pond's high recommendations.

The "Singing Girls" were excellent. Besides being very pleasant to look at they possessed sweet, well-trained voices which blended in delicate harmony. Their careful training was evident in the perfect time they kept. Their selections were varied and all pleasing. Miss Chapman's solo, "Doan Ye Cry Ma Honey," with quartette chorus, was particularly satisfactory.

MISSIONARY TEA.

Was Given By Missionary League of Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed Church.

A delightful missionary tea was given yesterday afternoon by the collectors of the Missionary League of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church at the home of the pastor, Dr. Cornelius Schenck, West Front street.

Everyone had a most enjoyable time and a great treat was given all present by an informal talk on her work in Nagona, Japan, by Mrs J. W. Schenck, who is in Plainfield on a leave of absence on account of her health.

During the hours, 3 to 6 o'clock, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. A. Woodruff and Mrs. D. C. Adams poured chocolate, while several other members of the league assisted in serving.

CONSISTORY IN SESSION.

Pastor Schenck Announced Committees While Officers Were Re-Elected.

The regular monthly meeting of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church was held last evening. A very gratifying report was received from Marconnier chapel, and considerable business was transacted. The condition of the church in all its departments was reported to be excellent.

Pastor Schenck, in the course of the evening, announced his committees for the ensuing year. Two faithful officers, F. E. Smith, clerk, and H. E. Gayle, treasurer, were re-elected, and a hearty vote of thanks tendered to each for their gratuitous services for several years.

ANOTHER NIGHT.

St. Joseph's Church Fair Will Be Continued This Evening.

Although the fair in Saengerbund Hall for the benefit of St. Joseph's church was scheduled to close last night, its success has been such as to continue it this evening. The excellent programme will again be rendered with slight changes and the contests will be closed. Last evening an additional feature was instrumental selections by Vincent Sokol and Mr. Speer. The crowd was the largest that has been in attendance on any night.

How to Teach Astronomy.

The teachers of the Plainfield schools held a meeting in the Stillman High School building, yesterday afternoon, which was largely attended. Professor Prentiss, of Rutgers College, New Brunswick, gave an interesting talk on "The Teaching of Astronomy."

VAUDEVILLE AT CASINO.

Weber & Fields Will Furnish Talent for Series of Local Entertainments.

Manager Maze Edwards, of the Casino, yesterday effected arrangements with Messrs. Veon & Homans, representatives and sole booking agents of Weber & Fields, New York, whereby they will furnish, from time to time, bills of refined vaudeville presented by artists and companies under direction of Weber & Fields.

For a beginning, an engagement was made for the first appearance of the famous Ten-Ichi Japanese Troupe of Oriental Wonder Workers, who present a wonderful and unique exhibition of astounding legerdemain and mysterious illusions. The organization includes four genuine and original Geisha Girls who dance, and in conjunction with Ten-Ichi, who is said to be the superior of the Great Herrmann in feats of necromancy, and other performers will be seen in startling novelties. They make their debut Thursday evening. Reserved seat tickets will be on sale at Armstrong's tomorrow.

AT HALF YEARLY MEETING.

FRIENDS LISTEN TO ADDRESSES AND REPORTS.

What Happened at Sessions Yesterday Afternoon and Evening and This Morning.

The half-yearly meeting of Friends was continued yesterday afternoon and evening in the meeting-house on Watchung avenue, when Henry Wilbur, of New York, gave a talk on philanthropic work among Friends. Mr. Wilbur is at the head of this work in New York, and from his wide experience he was able to give some exceedingly interesting facts.

During the noon-hour and supper hour yesterday, lunch was served in the upper part of the meeting-house by the members of the Plainfield meeting. Provisions were recently for such an occasion, the friends having purchased a full set of dishes to use at such times.

Last evening the meeting was in charge of the Young Friends, and after a recitation by Miss Nettie V. Field, there followed a general discussion on current topics of interest to the Friends. This proved to be a most profitable part of the programme. The closing part of the evening session was devoted to sociability.

The closing session was held this morning when reports were received from the various branches. W. D. Williams presented an interesting report of the last half-yearly meeting held at Shrewsburg last May. A portion of the morning was devoted to religious worship, while the business of the meeting was closed for the coming half year.

The next meeting will be held at Shrewsbury. The present meeting has been one of the most helpful and spirtual yet held and many topics of interest has been discussed with much profit to the members. After the close of the session at noon dinner was served at the meeting-house.

PRIZE FOR RAGS.

Guests Arrayed in Tattered Garments Enjoyed Novel Kind of a Social.

An amusing entertainment was given in Mount Olive church, last evening, under the auspices of the women of the church. About twenty young people were masked and dressed in the most ragged costumes procurable, prizes being awarded to those having the most unique. A short programme of songs and recitations were rendered, and selections were given by the Rockland orchestra.

The first prize for costuming was awarded to Miss Fanny Olden, and the second to Miss Hoffman, of Somerville. Refreshments were served at the close.

A Promotion.

William Wilson, who has been the night man in the baggage-room at the North Avenue station, has been promoted to night ticket agent, and his former position has been taken by Charles Layton.

Dr. Richards to Speak.

At the golden jubilee celebration of the Third Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth, next Tuesday evening, Rev. Dr. W. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, will be one of the speakers.

Captured Grey Fox.

Fred Godfrey, of Springdale, shot a grey fox while hunting near Sebring's Mills, Wednesday. He brought the animal to this city yesterday to exhibit to his friends.

—Neuman Brothers will have tomorrow a fine display of fresh vegetables, including table celery and Boston head lettuce.

GAUL'S "HOLY CITY" WAS WELL RECEIVED.

Great Success of Musical Harvest Festival at Holy Cross Church Last Night

COMBINED CHOIRS SANG.

WAS A DISTINCT TRIUMPH TO ORGANIST W. E. MACCLYMONT.

Church Was Packed to the Doors by an Appreciative Audience—Many Clergymen Took Part in Service—Members of Choirs.

A sacred musical celebration, called a harvest festival, was held in the Church of the Holy Cross last evening. The very aisles of the house of God were crowded by a congregation, highly edified by the inspiring rendition of Gaul's "Holy City" by the combined choirs of Holy Trinity church, of New York, and the Church of the Holy Cross, of North Plainfield. William E. MacClymont, A. G. O., the choirmaster of both churches, from the organ, directed the singing and scored a distinct triumph.

A short form of evening service was used, the "Holy City" being arranged to take the place regularly assigned for the sermon. The chancel and altar were adorned with flowers, large chrysanthemums being a feature. Although many of the congregation were not Episcopalians all seemed to join in the service which was impressive. The two choirs preceding the clergy sang a processional hymn as they wended their way down a side aisle from the choirroom and up the main aisle to the chancel, where they took their places in the choir stalls.

In the chancel together with the rector, Rev. William Montgomery Downey, were Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector of Grace church, of this city; Rev. Joseph P. Taylor and Rev. William Bryce Morrow, two retired clergymen, and Rev. E. E. Madeira, all of this city; Rev. Arthur S. Phillips, of Bound Brook; Rev. Harrison B. Wright, of Somerville; Rev. Mr. Jarvis, of Westfield, and Rev. R. E. Pendleton, of Middletown, N. J. The Magnificat in D was sung by the combined choirs and the congregation, and preceding the rendition of Gaul's famous composition, Mr. McClymont played a very superb selection on the organ.

The "Holy City" was magnificently rendered, surely as well, if not better, than ever before in this vicinity. The skillful work of Mr. McClymont as a choirmaster and the unusually good voices which to some extent he has developed in his capacity as a musical trainer, were clearly evident. It was a rare treat to listen to the solo work of Mrs. E. W. Burkhout and no less enjoyable were the contralto solos by Mrs. Katherine Hanford. As for A. B. Pattou, he delights one with his clear, strong and perfect tenor. The three bass solos in the composition, which were sung by Edwin H. Lockhart, almost led one to forget the sanctity of the place and burst into applause.

The choir of the Church of the Holy Cross is composed of P. W. Brakeley, E. E Bohan, William H. Burtis, Russell Conroy, H. B. Fahn, Herbert Galaentzer, Clarence Hand, William L. Heath, Herman Klinsman, George M. Mead, H. Perry, Harry B. Smith, Walter Vail, Russel Vail, Ira Vail, Marshall Ward, F. M. Whiteley, W. T. Westphal, R. S. Lane, Willard M. Miner, F. B. Moffett, Wesley Messersmith, Edward Smith, Arthur Smith, S. O. Sutton, Henry Williams, George Westervelt, J. Harold Davis.

The members of the choir of Holy Trinity church are: Mrs. Theodore H. Bridgman, Miss E. Burrows, Miss Marion Cooper, Miss Madaline Denison, Miss Julia Guerry, Miss Grace Mercer, Mrs. Ella Sammis, Miss Marion Townsend, Mrs. B. E. Ulbricht, Miss Leah Gad, Miss Beatrice Miner, Miss Isabelle L. Pratt, Miss Lillian A. Underhill, E. Maxwell Honeyman, Herbert Schutt, Edward J. Sisley, Isaac Thomas, Stephen H. Barrett, F. W. Creighton, F. S. Cutter, H. T. Pratt.

Soloists of Holy Trinity: Mrs. E W. Buckhout, soprano; Mrs. Katherine Hanford, contralto; A. B. Pattou, tenor; Edwin H. Lockhart, basso. E. Maxwell Honeyman, of the choir of St. Ignatius church, New York, and Isaac Thomas, of Grace church choir, New York, sang with the choir of Holy Trinity church.

L. T. L. Meeting.

Miss Fee has won many successes in France and England. She will play the G minor concerto of Max Bruch, and the Souvenir de Haydn, by Leonard.

The opening of Grace George in "Under Southern Skies," Tuesday evening, at the Theatre Republic, New York, proved to be even a greater occasion for the congratulation than had been anticipated. Miss George in particular scored heavily, her unaffected girlishness, her sympathetic personality, her lack of mannerisms and her agreeable presence augmenting the host of friends she made while appearing at the Manhattan last season in "Her Majesty." "Under Southern Skies," which is the work of Lottie Blair Parker, author of "Way Down East," is a piece brimfull of the life and color and motion which add beyond measure to the interest of a presentation. Lelia Crofton, the heroine of the plot, is admirably impersonated by the star, Miss George, while her two rival suitors are embodied in Ralph Stuart and Cuyler Hastings. Others in the admirable supporting cast formed by William A. Brady are Burr McIntosh, Will H. Bray, Kingsley Benedict, Thomas Burns, George C. Staley, Eleanor Gist, Grace Henderson, Alice Leigh, Reza Durant and nearly a hundred others. The settings are exceptionally beautiful, and the costumes, which are of the period of 1875, are quaint and picturesque. The New York papers were enthusiastic in praising the production. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

Continued Loss of Life and Waste of Property Abroad.

SWEEPING GALES AND SNOW AT HOME

More Than One Hundred and Sixty Lives Lost In British Waters, and Reports of Shipping Disasters Are Still Being Received.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Lloyd's agent at Kingstown, Ireland, telegraphs that the revenue cutter Flora has been totally wrecked. The crew was saved.

At Yarmouth while the Caister lifeboat was returning to the beach yesterday she was struck by tremendous seas and overturned. Boatmen on shore dragged out three of the crew as the boat was lifted with successive waves. The other nine members of the crew were drowned.

The Caister lifeboat was manned to go to the assistance of a smack in distress. The heavy seas made it extremely difficult to launch the boat. At last when she had been got afloat her crew failed to put her about quick enough, and she was dashed violently ashore, capsizing in shallow water, where the crew were held prisoners under their own boat.

The Russian bark Mercur, Captain Karlsson, from Darien Oct. 2 for Fleetwood, has been towed into Holyhead with the loss of her sails.

The Norwegian bark Erratic of Christiansand has been wrecked in the vicinity of Saltburn, ten miles southeast of Hartlepool, and eight members of her crew have been drowned.

It is still impossible to estimate with any exactitude the total loss of life and property resulting from the protracted gale, and probably the full extent of the damage will never be known.

Tons of wreckage of unidentified vessels are still being thrown up. Altogether it is known that some fifty vessels have been wrecked along the British coasts. Thirty-four of these have been absolute wrecks, involving, it is believed, a loss of more than 180 drowned.

The Yarmouth lifeboat disaster alone leaves forty-four fatherless children.

A winter snap has succeeded the gale, which subsided yesterday, while a severe blizzard which is raging over Scandinavia is expected to strike the shores of Great Britain today.

Yesterday there was a heavy snowstorm in Scotland and a fall of snow generally throughout the United Kingdom, especially in the hilly districts, where several shepherds lost their lives.

WINTER APPEARS.

Heavy Snow and Sleighing In Central and Northern New York.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The snowstorm throughout central New York continues with unabated severity. Country roads are in many cases blocked, and huge drifts are piling along the fences. Streams are rising, and several places report threatened floods.

In Syracuse sleighs are running even in downtown streets. Trolley service is demoralized, but the steam railways are making their time. About ten inches of snow has fallen. The mercury is about the freezing point.

Rough on Lake Ontario.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Heavy weather is raging on Lake Ontario, and the government has ordered storm signals to be kept constantly flying. The river at Charlotte is crowded with many vessels of all kinds, which have been weather bound for several days. The wind is blowing fiercely from the northwest and has caused the highest seas ever known. No shipping is known to be out, and no vessel has been sighted.

Roads Blocked by Snow.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 15.—A severe snow and wind storm is raging here. Several inches of snow have fallen, and the wind is blowing thirty miles an hour from the northwest. A large fleet of Canadian vessels is windbound here. The country roads are blocked with snow.

First Snow of the Season.

SENECA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The first snowstorm of the season came yesterday. In two hours the ground was covered to a depth of three inches, and the snow continued falling during the night.

Large Collier Lost.

BELFAST, Nov. 15.—From wreckage seen in Belfast lough it is supposed that the fifty-nine ton collier White Abbey has been lost and her crew of nine drowned.

Snow In Virginia.

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 15.—The mercury took a big tumble here, and last night the first snow of the season began falling.

Woman Burned to Death.

MEDIA, Pa., Nov. 15.—Sitting alone in her home and unable to move from her chair, Mrs. Maggie Dougherty of Rockdale, near here, aged sixty years and a cripple, was burned to death yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Dougherty had been an invalid for twenty years, and it had been her custom to stay alone in her house during the day while her husband was at work.

Wilhelmina's Condition Serious.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The condition of Queen Wilhelmina, who was prematurely confined, is, according to a dispatch to The Standard from Brussels, worse than has been officially represented. Three physicians are in attendance upon her majesty, and the queen mother has been summoned. The royal patient will be obliged to keep her couch for six weeks.

TROOPS ARE NEEDED

Kentucky Mining Situation Is Considered Serious.

INJUNCTION ISSUED AGAINST CAMPERS

United Miners Surprised at Action of Operators, but Say It Will Not Injure Them In the Least.

EARLINGTON, Ky., Nov. 15.—Adjutant General David J. Murray, who has been in Madisonville for two days looking into the mining situation, has telephoned the governor recommending that troops again be sent to Hopkins county.

There is agitation among the union miners over news of the restraining order against officers and members of the United Mine Workers granted by Judge Evans in the United States court at Louisville to restrain the union men from camping on or "within gunshot" of the property of the mine owners.

The coal operators, nonunion employees and the business men generally are pleased with the news of the injunction and express the belief that general and permanent relief will come of it.

The action of the operators came as a surprise to the union miners and to everybody else. Most of the union officials are out of the city.

Organizer Reed, who is in charge of union headquarters, said:

"The injunction will not injure us in the least. As far as I can understand it is a design of the operators to place a wrong impression on the minds of the public as to the objects of our camps. The purpose of our camps is to maintain our men at less cost than under other conditions. Our camps have been fired into times too numerous to mention, and on account of this some of our men have armed themselves for their own protection. We are going right along and organizing the nonunion miners."

Everything is quiet throughout the strike region. Wednesday night several shots were fired near the Reinecke mines, but no shots were fired at the mines.

Injunction Granted Mine Owners.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 15.—On application of the Reinecke Mining and Coal company, a foreign corporation operating coal mines in Hopkins county, Judge Walter Evans of the United States district court has granted an order restraining twenty men named in the petition and all others from interfering with the business of the company or its employees or resorting to means of intimidation or violence or inducing its employees to quit work or to refuse to work. This order restrains all persons from destroying property of the company and from holding meetings within gunshot of the mines.

Single Statehood Favored.

MUSCOGEE, I. T., Nov. 15.—Nearly 300 delegates met here in convention and took the first active step to bring the question of single statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory before the coming national congress. The delegates were equally divided between the two territories. Great enthusiasm was displayed. The Oklahoma delegates arrived yesterday at noon on a special train and were much in evidence. Before the convention met the delegates held a caucus and divided the offices, apportioning the chairmen, temporary and permanent, to Indian Territory and the secretaryships to Oklahoma. W. L. Hutchins was decided upon for temporary chairman and E. N. Ratcliffe of Vinita for permanent chairman.

Long Litigation Settled.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 15.—The Union Pacific railway has settled by agreement with the city of Omaha a matter which has been in litigation for thirty years. By its terms both sides make substantial concessions, and the railroad will make local improvements involving the expenditure of $2,000,000. The litigation has been over the occupation of certain streets and other city property and the building of viaducts. The city has agreed to vacate the streets and several blocks, and the road will build its own viaducts, subject to conditions laid down by the city. The road will also erect new shops at an aggregate cost of $750,000 which will employ twice the number of men now at work.

Canal Treaty Ready.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The final draft of the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty in abrogation of the Bulwer-Clayton agreement and providing for American control of the proposed interoceanic canal has been completed by Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote and its text cabled to the foreign office in London. As the terms of the convention have already been approved by the British ministry, no objection to them, as set forth in the document prepared by the secretary of state and the British embassador, is expected.

A Folding Bed Fatality.

BUFFALO, Nov. 15.—Dr. James Irvington Marclay went to sleep in a folding bed Wednesday night. The following morning his dead body was in the morgue, and an autopsy is to be held to determine whether his neck was broken or if he was suffocated when the bed folded up with him inside. Dr. Marclay was president and secretary of the International Furnace company.

Miss Stone Located.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 15.—Miss Ellen M. Stone and Mme. Tsilka, the captives of the brigands, are now said to be occupying a hut in a village of southern Bulgaria, to which they are closely confined.

LABOR FEDERATION ATTACKED.

Knights of Labor In National Convention—Steel Strike Reviewed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 15.—At the national convention of the Knights of Labor General Master Workman Simon Burns submitted his annual report, which consisted largely of an attack on the American Federation of Labor. The general executive committee and Secretary-Treasurer Hayes also reported. Hayes recommended that the order secure the introduction in congress of laws to control the trusts. He said:

"Organized labor must prepare for the gigantic struggle that is fast approaching, when the very existence of their organizations will be at stake."

General Master Workman Burns in his annual message said:

"The first great struggle between organized labor and a great trust was between the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and the United States Steel corporation. It matters not what errors and mistakes are charged to the officers and members of the Amalgamated association, the facts are that the steel companies were victorious because of the treachery and failure of organized labor to do its duty. The Amalgamated association expected at least the friendship of the officers and members of the American Federation of Labor. They received nothing but deception and opposition."

General Hall Retired.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Brigadier General Robert H. Hall was placed on the retired list of the army today by operation of law on account of age. He was born in Michigan and appointed to the army from Illinois. Graduating from the Military academy in July, 1860, he served with distinction throughout the civil war. Because of exceptionally meritorious services in the Philippines he was made a brigadier general in the regular army last February. Returning from that country several months ago, he was granted leave of absence and is now at his home, near Fort Porter, N. Y. With the retirement of General Hall President Roosevelt will have an opportunity to promote two officers of the army to the grade of brigadier general. The other vacancy was occasioned by the retirement of Brigadier General Henry C. Merriam on the 13th inst.

A Notable Virginia Wedding.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 15.—One of the most notable nuptial events of recent years in Virginia was the marriage at Basic City yesterday of Miss Phyllis Langhorne, daughter of C. D. Langhorne of Albemarle and sister of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, to Mr. Reginald Brooks of New York. The ceremony, which was performed by Bishop Robert A. Gibson of this Episcopal diocese and the bride's pastor, took place in the Brandon hotel, a summer hostelry which had been engaged for the occasion and was most elaborately decorated. Many prominent guests from this city, New York and other places were present.

Virginia Hotel Burned.

WARRENTON, Va., Nov. 15.—The Fauquier White Sulphur Springs hotel has been totally destroyed by fire, together with some nearby buildings. The origin of the fire is a mystery. There was no loss of life. The building cost $75,000 some years ago. It was insured for $32,000, and there was $15,000 insurance on the furniture. The only thing saved was a card table. The owner of the building is J. W. Putts of Baltimore.

A Train's Narrow Escape.

RED WING, Minn., Nov. 15.—A Chicago Great Western passenger train on the Red Wing and Zumbrota line miraculously escaped being wrecked near Goodhue. As the train was passing over a bridge the structure fell to pieces behind the cars, while in front it swayed, but stood until the train was safely over and then collapsed.

HILL FOR PRESIDENT.

Great Northern Railway's Head Also Head of Big Securities Company.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Times says that James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, was yesterday elected president of the Northern Securities company, the new $400,000,000 corporation, through the medium of which the northwestern railroad tangle will be disposed of.

The board of directors of the new company also were elected. They are as follows: John S. Kennedy, D. Willis James, Samuel Thorne, James J. Hill, E. T. Nichols, George F. Baker, Robert Bacon, George W. Perkins, Daniel S. Lamont, E. H. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, James Stillman, W. P. Clough, George C. Clark and N. Terhune.

Of these men six may be considered as representatives of the Great Northern interests, three represent the interests of J. P. Morgan & Co., and three more stand for the Harriman interests. Two are distinctly representatives of the Northern Pacific railway, and the remaining director, Samuel Thorne, who was president of the Pennsylvania Coal company, which now belongs to the Pennsylvania railroad, is regarded as representing eastern interests.

CLOSE ELECTION PREDICTED.

General Maso Gaining Strength In Cuba—Delay In Postal Cases.

HAVANA, Nov. 15.—General Bartolome Maso, the candidate of the Democratic party for the presidency of Cuba, is apparently gaining strength throughout the island. His managers claim large majorities in the provinces of Santiago, Puerto Principe and Santa Clara. The National party in Havana, which had proclaimed Senor Tomas Estrada Palma its candidate for president, has split, and a large faction has come out for Maso. The supporters of Senor Palma are beginning to realize the possibility of a close election. It is said here that General Maximo Gomez will be asked to stump Cuba for Senor Palma. General Gomez is accredited with saying that Senor Palma will have to fight hard to win.

A commission representing the commercial, agricultural and industrial interests of Cuba will leave here tomorrow for Washington on a mission of reciprocity.

The defendants in the Havana postoffice fraud cases have been granted an extension of ten days in which to file their answers to the charges of the fiscal.

Supposed Train Wrecking Attempt.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 15.—Twenty-four sticks of dynamite, a piece of fuse and an explosion cap were found by a farmer's boy near the bridge of the Burlington road at Havelock, Neb., on Sunday. The matter was not reported to the railroad officials at once, however, and it is feared the would be criminals have escaped, but a force of detectives is at work on the case. An attempt at train wrecking and robbery is supposed to be the explanation of the explosives being placed at the bridge. The matter has been kept quiet with the hope of securing the culprits.

Erie County Justice Praised.

BUFFALO, Nov. 15.—District Attorney Penney has received from Governor Odell a letter accompanied by a communication from the secretary of war. A MINE IN FLAMES.

Five Dead and Many Missing at Pocahontas, Va.

TWENTY-FIVE ARE SEVERELY BURNED

Fire In the Baby Mine Supposed to Have Caught From Defective Electric Light Wire—Explosions Hinder Rescue Parties.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 15.—Five dead bodies have been taken from the Baby mine at Pocahontas, Va. Several other persons are unaccounted for, and twenty-five persons have been rescued more or less severely burned.

Early yesterday morning it was discovered that the Baby mine of the Pocahontas Colliery company was on fire. An alarm was sent in, and the fire company responded promptly. In a very short time after the fire fighters had reached the mouth of the mine and were attempting to extinguish the flames, some of the firemen and others having rushed inside of the mine to ascertain the extent of the trouble and to assist miners entombed therein, a terrific explosion occurred, and many miners and their friends were more or less injured.

It is supposed that the mine caught fire from a defective electric light wire. Five bodies have been recovered, and it is uncertain how many more are dead, though it is now known that there are several, perhaps eight or ten men, still in the mine unless they succeed in making their escape through the Tug river entrance.

Twenty-five persons have been rescued, all more or less burned, some seriously and perhaps fatally. The injured were carried to their homes in wagons, and all the physicians in Pocahontas have been attending the injured.

One or two other explosions have followed that of the early morning, and others are hourly expected. The mine is still burning, and clouds of smoke are constantly issuing from its mouth. The fan has now been stopped, and as soon as possible to do so the mine will be re-entered with hope of extinguishing the fire.

In 1884 Pocahontas experienced a like occurrence, in which over 100 lives were lost.

Utah Earthquake Severe.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 15.—Advices received from the more remote sections of southern and southwestern Utah show that the earthquake shock was very heavy in some localities, and considerable damage was done. The shock was apparently the heaviest at Beaver City, where the Mormon meeting house, the courthouse and the Beaver academy were badly damaged, especially the last mentioned building, whose walls show great cracks. Chimneys were toppled over and glass shattered. Hardly a house in the town escaped damage, many of them being badly cracked. No fatalities are reported. Another slight shock was felt at Beaver yesterday morning. At Cedar City, Kanab and Parowan the shock is reported as being very severe, plastering being shaken from walls and brick buildings cracked.

A Prosperous Republic.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—According to the latest reports from the republic of Salvador, that country is enjoying a period of peace and prosperity almost unparalleled in her history. Her crop of coffee, the principal product, promises to be unusually large, as does also her crop of indigo. The fact that she exports about one-third more than she imports is evidence of the productiveness of the country. The financial condition of the republic is most satisfactory. For the last two years Salvador has had no foreign debt. The excellent condition of her commerce has kept the rate of exchange normal. Her monetary standard is silver.

Favors Business Men's Rule.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Lord Rosebery, speaking last night in Edinburgh, said he did not intend again to try to secure a reform of the house of lords, as this was not a task for an individual, but one needing a national impulse. "I would like to see," he continued, "an experiment for a year of a government formed entirely of business men, such, for example, as Mr. Carnegie and Sir Thomas Lipton, instead of politicians."

Change In Civil Service Board.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—With the close of business yesterday Major John B. Harlow retired from the civil service commission and was succeeded today by Mr. William Dudley Foulke. Major Harlow has held his position as a member of the commission since May, 1895. He will return to his old home in St. Louis, where, on appointment by Postmaster General Smith, he will have the position of cashier in the postoffice.

Two Mistakes.

There are two acts of the Borough Council which have caused much adverse comment in that municipality. They been criticized, and properly so, as not being good policy. While there isn't any doubt that the rights and liberties of the people of North Plainfield are safeguarded as well as ever, Mayor Smalley and some of the members of the Council have made a mistake.

After a residence in the borough of less than two weeks, John H. Adelmann was appointed a special marshal. The reason he was not appointed a regular marshal was that the law would not permit it. Now we have nothing to say against Mr. Adelmann. We believe that he would make a good and good conscientious officer, That is not the objection. It is poor policy to select a man who comes into the community for that purpose rather than one of many who have long resided there and are well fitted for the place.

It was another and more serious mistake to attempt to keep those facts from the public. The newspapers are here to tell what happens and keep the public informed with what is done at the sessions of the Borough Council and other public bodies. They can not be controlled to allow the pet plans of any person or persons, no matter how prominent, to be rushed through without full publicity. Other people have discovered that fact. It is time some of the councilmen did.

This is but a little matter. Its settlement will make no great difference either way. In some cities it would not be criticized for other mistakes of far greater magnitude and would dwarf its importance to mere nothingness. North Plainfield, however, has been fortunate in having a very good local government. The present administration has done well. It is certainly a short-sighted policy for the present borough officials to take any such steps as these and begin to mar a record heretofore very satisfactory.

This question of consolidation is one which intimately interests every citizen of Plainfield and North Plainfield. It has long been considered a subject for great regret that two municipalities should exist in a community where the interests are all one. It seems as if it was only a question of time when the two should be united under one government. As to how that shall be done is a subject on which many differ radically. Before it can be settled, a majority, at least, of the people of city and borough must take the same view. Are a majority in favor of the shifting of the county line so that Plainfield shall become a part of Somerset county? That is a question which a bill introduced into the New Jersey Legislature this winter will try to answer.

There is no doubt that training in public speaking and parliamentary law, as is secured by active participation in the various literary and debating societies of the land, is of great use to the young men of today. Plainfield young men, who take advantage of the opportunities offered by the literary society connected with the Young Men's Christian Association, are likely to find much to their profit there. A number of Plainfield's clsverest legal speakers received their first training in similar organizations.

The advertiser who uses a magazine appeals to a particular part of the public—that which reads the magazines, comments the Philadelphia Record. It may be large, but certainly it does not include as great a variety of people as those who read the newspapers. For some articles the people who read the magazines are the people whom the advertiser wishes to reach. Through the newspaper, however, he can reach not only these, but the many who do not read the magazines.

The argument advanced by the New Jersey Central officials against painting the fence white which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station, is that it would not remain white long on account of the dust and dirt from passing trains. If white is not feasible, then let the fence be painted some lighter color so that it can be readily seen. Then, too, it would be well to see that the station platforms were better lighted at night.

City street improvements are practically at an end until spring comes again. As a general thing, no winter ever found the streets in a better condition than they are today. So much dry weather has, however, been responsible for much loose stone and dust.

Rumor has it that the Pennsylvania Railroad is proposing to locate a large coal depot at New Brunswick. This, it is reported, will enable the people of that city to get coal at a considerably lower rate. If only some railroad would establish a a coal depot here.

There are some State officials who are considerably worried for fear Governor Murphy's intention to be easily accessible at the State capital will be required of them as well.

TEA TABLE TALK

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

It is probable that the new governor of New Jersey will figure more prominently in a social way than his predecessor. Governor Griggs would have given more entertainments, but just about the time his new house in Paterson was finished, he was made attorney general and resigned. Governor Voorhees is a bachelor and of limited means, and all conditions were against his offering his friends many hospitalities. Governor Werts and his immediate predecessors were all under some personal embarrassment, and were content to perform the purely official.

Mr. Murphy has an excellent home in Newark and another in Elberon; he is accustomed to entertain liberally, and his domestic relations are of the happiest and best. He will undoubtedly take pleasure in meeting the people socially, and the occasions will be more elegant and refined than official affairs are usually.

She will lecture on "The Art of Happiness" at the Casino, Thursday night. The sale of reserved seat tickets begins at Armstrong's tomorrow.

The Children's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

MURDERED BY BULL.

Man Is Deliberately Killed by a Revengeful Beast.

Other Instances Which Prove Conclusively That Animals Frequently Cherish Enmities Toward Human Beings.

In almost every part of the world man-killing by animals is common enough, but cases where a man is murdered deliberately by an animal are quite rare. There have been cases, though, where animals have killed men in such a manner that, had they been bipeds instead of quadrupeds, they would have been tried for and convicted of murder in the first degree. Stories of several murders by animals come from England. A Lincolnshire bull suddenly evinced a hatred for its owner, and the farmer had need of the greatest agility to avoid the animal whenever he happened to be in the same field with it. With every one else on the farm the bull was as gentle as could be, and even would come to the farm hands to be petted in response to a peculiar call. One day a farm hand working in a field saw the bull, which was grazing in a meadow near by, walk to a gate leading to the yard of the house, lift the latch with his nose and pass through. In the yard was the farmer, asleep in a chair tilted against the side of the house. The bull seemed to know that the farmer was asleep, and stealthily approached him. The farm hand, realizing what the animal was about, ran with a pitchfork to try to prevent the impending murder, but he was too late. The bull paused within half a dozen paces of the sleeping farmer, lowered his head and made a furious rush, pinning the man against the side of the building and killing him instantly. Without waiting to gore his victim the bull turned and strolled out into the meadow again.

TRAGEDY ON A FARM.
(Revengeful Bull Makes Deadly Attack on Sleeping Farmer.)

A corporal in a native Indian regiment was murdered by a monkey. The monkey had been caught young, and had been kept as a pet by an officer of the regiment, who was fond of him on account of the unusual intelligence he showed. It was the duty of a certain corporal to feed the monkey, and one day he accidentally gave it some food which caused it great pain. The monkey never forgot or forgave the corporal, though another soldier was assigned to the duty of feeding the animal. One morning the officer awoke to find his pet, which slept in the same room, missing. He dressed hastily and went out. The first thing he heard was that the corporal had been found in his company room with his throat cut, the monkey sitting on his body toying with a razor. The razor subsequently was identified as one belonging to the officer, and had been left on the table in his room when he went to bed the preceding night. To commit the crime the monkey must have gone out, razor in hand, into the pitch-dark night, walked 200 yards to the men's quarters, slipped past the guard and made his way down a long corridor to the room where the corporal was sleeping. No one saw the monkey until after the murder had been committed.

A boy of 13 was murdered by a race horse, which had taken a violent dislike to him. It is believed that the boy at some time had teased or maltreated the horse, for it was gentleness itself with every one else. The boy was warned not to go near the horse, but one day he entered a loose box stall where his enemy was confined. The horse at once knocked the boy down, grabbed him by the back of his waistcoat with his teeth and beat his brains out by slamming him against the sides of the stall. The horse kept the would-be rescuers at bay while he was committing his murder by kicking violently. Having killed the boy, he allowed the stable hands to enter the stall without trying to do them harm. There have been several instances where elephants have watched an opportunity and murdered their keepers, against whom they had some grievance, perhaps of long standing.

Pussy's Salary Was Raised.

Some time ago the cat of the St. Paul post office made a record by slaying 125 rats and mice in one month. In recognition of her abilities the postmaster wrote to Washington, asking an increase in her salary, and she now receives $10.40 a year. Soon after she showed her gratitude by presenting the government with five kittens, each of which entered the United States service as soon as it was old enough to tackle a rat.

Luxuriant Seaweed.

Though seaweed is most often seen on rocky shores, it is found elsewhere in great quantities. There are, so to speak, vast meadows of it in the gulf stream, where it is called saragasso, covering a space of 3,000,000 square miles in green and yellow patches. A smaller mass occurs in the North Pacific. In Tierra del Fuego one weed reaches a length of 360 feet, being well named the giant kelp. Seaweeds having no roots, they cling to rocks by a kind of sucker. They get their food from the sea, and in turn supply food to countless multitudes of animals, one as big as the whale, the rest mostly so tiny the human eye cannot detect them.—Nature.

Prisoners Fare Better Than Guards.

Strange as the fact may seem, the daily ration of the Boer prisoners now at Bermuda is a little more than the British government allows its own soldiers. The fresh meat furnished is butchered daily, and the cattle for this supply are as good as can be purchased in the New Jersey and Chicago stock yards; the animals being shipped once a fortnight from New York. The bread, too, is baked and furnished daily from the best brand of Knickerbocker flour, and, like all the other provisions, the groceries are inspected by the officer of the day before being accepted or delivered to prisoners.—Pearson's Magazine.

A Literary Curiosity.

English as she is written, even in this twentieth century, sometimes appears a strange tongue. Outside the shop window of an old curio dealer in the West end this notice appears: "In consequence of absence of the Lady Shop Attendant on her 2 weeks holidays and obliged to attend business outside the Shop will be opened as follows (then comes the time-table) and respectfully I beg the favor of my customers to kindly favourise my establishment as always before." This is a literary curio not ostensibly for sale.—London Telegraph.

LIQUOR TAX FIGURES.

Working of the Raines Law In Greater New York.

ALBANY, Nov. 15.—Commissioner Cullinan has issued a statement showing the operation of the state liquor tax law in New York city during the last excise year. The statement of the commissioner is as follows:

"Excise statistics, showing the net excise receipts in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, Kings, Queens and Richmond, comprising Greater New York city, for the year commencing May 1, 1900, and ending April 30, 1901:

"Net amount received from the issue of certificates, transfers and fines, $7,962,555.25; state's one-third share, $2,654,185.09; Greater New York city's two-thirds share, $5,308,370.16.

"On the basis of the equalization table of 1900 prepared by the state board of assessors the city has benefited by reduction in state taxes due to the state excise revenue of $2,594,788.10, making a total benefit to Greater New York city's revenue of $7,903,158.26.

"The total number of certificates in force in Greater New York city April 30, 1901, was 12,571.

"Greater New York paid for excise taxes for the year expiring April 30, 1901, $7,962,555.25, and there is paid back to it or credited to its account by the special deputy commissioners for the various boroughs and by the state of New York the sum of $7,903,158.26."

EXPOSITION'S DEBT.

Pan-American Liabilities Largely In Excess of $3,000,000.

BUFFALO, Nov. 15.—The directors of the Pan-American Exposition company and a number of creditors conferred yesterday afternoon and listened to the reading of the financial report of the company as prepared by the auditor. The report shows the total liabilities of the company at the present time to be $3,326,114.69 net, assuming that the assets of $146,454.15 are collectable at face.

The company owes for operating expenses and on construction work $577,945.73, which item is of course embodied in the figure of total liabilities.

An interesting fact shown by the report is the total cost to the exposition company of the exposition. The cost, according to the report, was $8,860,757.20. The total receipts from admissions after May 1 were $2,467,066.58, and the receipts from concessions were $3,011,522.79.

The balance due to first mortgage bondholders is $174,979 and to second mortgage bondholders $50,000, both of which are included in the liabilities as given above.

National W. C. T. U. Convention.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 15.—Forty-five states were represented at the preliminary meetings of the national convention of the W. C. T. U. held here. This was after the arrival of the white ribbon special bringing delegates and representatives from New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan. The representatives now here complete the full quota called for by the convention roster. The preliminary meetings were three in number. The devotional meeting, which will be continued daily, began at 8:30 and was presided over by Miss Elizabeth W. Greenwood. The interest was marked throughout.

Rathbun Identified.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Nov. 15.—Newell C. Rathbun, suspected of killing Charles Goodman in a hotel here by poison, has been positively identified by an officer and an acquaintance of the prisoner from Little Rock, Ark., where he lived for a time. Later Rathbun was arraigned before Mayor Rader in the police station on a charge of murder. Rathbun pleaded not guilty, and Mayor Rader held him over to the circuit court without bond. The prisoner had no lawyer. The circuit court will convene in special term Monday, and a grand jury will be impaneled to consider Rathbun's case.

A Firebug Confesses.

BINGHAMTON, Nov. 15.—Allie Mosher, aged twenty years, of Harpersville, startled the attendants at a revival at the Free Methodist church at East Windsor Sunday night by confessing that he set fire to the Methodist church at Doraville June 27 last. He told the congregation that he had no motive in setting fire to the church and that the deed had so preyed upon his mind that he could remain silent no longer.

Opposed to Reciprocity With Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—W. O. Smith, J. R. Atherton, F. M. Swanzy and R. P. Rithet, citizens of Hawaii, called on the president to discuss with him the condition of industrial affairs in the Hawaiian Islands. They said to the president that Hawaiians generally were strongly opposed to a reciprocity arrangement between the United States and Cuba which would admit sugar from that island at a low customs rate.

Oldest Methodist Minister Dead.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 15.—The Rev. Henry Bowman, perhaps the oldest Methodist preacher who was active in the pulpit up to the time of his death, is dead here. He was ninety-five years old. He preached for seventy-seven years and became famous throughout the south for abolition utterances during the war. Since 1868 he had been a circuit rider through Illinois.

A Lumber Yard Fire.

STURGEON BAY, Wis., Nov. 15.—Fire last night cleaned out the Pankratz Lumber company's yard, which contained many thousand feet of lumber belonging to the Milwaukee Lumber company and a large quantity of shingles, the property of the Pankratz company. The loss is estimated at $40,000, covered by insurance.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
PARK AVE. AND RAILROAD

I have always enjoyed good health until about four years ago, when I began to be troubled with indigestion. Nothing I could get would give me permanent relief. I went from bad to worse. Night after night I would lie in bed tossing, rolling. My stomach being thus disordered, my blood became very impure, rheumatism took me in my feet and it was with great difficulty that I could walk. This was the state I was in about one year ago, when my attention was attracted by an advertisement of Ripans Tabules. The first Tabule gave me relief. When the entire package had been taken I found there was a marked improvement in my case. They have made a new man of me. I would not be without them. The lameness has left my feet, so that I can walk almost as well as ever, although I am 64 years old.

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They bent h pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

VISITING COSTUMES.

Velvet Rivals Silk and Crepe de Chine.

There are a great many women who do not look well in the severe tailor made, and these are blessing the return of the blouse jacket, which looks its best in rough goods—cheviot or zibeline—properly weighted and pouching ever so slightly back and front over a belt of glace silk with jeweled slides.

A black velvet costume is one of the most useful additions to a woman's wardrobe. It should, however, not be worn too often, as by constant wear it crushes and becomes ugly. Violet velvet promises also to be a favorite for visiting costumes and dressy occasions.

Crepe de chine and silk poplins will form the material of many of the more dressy afternoon gowns. Pale green and coffee color seem to be the favorite shades. The proper things seem to be to have the lace trimmings tinted to match these gowns.

A very elegant visiting costume is the subject of today's cut. It is of black flowered taffeta. The skirt is made after the new serpentine model. It flares at the bottom decidedly and is trimmed with curved applications of shirred velvet, opening over a panel of black chantilly lace ornamented with large jet dots. The waist opens over a blouse of white chiffon trimmed with a yoke of the black chantilly. There are a wide collar, sleeve puffs and a postilion back of this same chantilly. The sleeves and body of the waist are ornamented with scroll-like applications of the shirred velvet.

The hat is of black velvet trimmed with bands of the chantilly and a huge rosette of jeweled black chiffon.

WINTER MILLINERY.

Picture Hats and Flat Shapes Still Lead.

The picturesque hat is the one in favor this season. This is welcome news to the woman with irregular features who must wear hats different from those worn by any one else. Beaver is dividing the honors with panne velvet. Hats of white beaver are trimmed with black velvet and rich Persian ribbon of all shades. These ribbons are threaded through the hat in the most fantastic ways and are caught here and there by rich jeweled buckles. The effect of all trimmings is flat.

Flat fur hats, slightly pointed in front and upturned on either side, are much in evidence. These are trimmed with twists of colored panne, pheasants' breasts and, last but not least, ostrich plumes. Flowers are not seen in any numbers.

Many hats are entirely composed of the breast feathers of the partridge or the pheasant, a species of millinery which appears a trifle barbarous.

Stiff felts are entirely out of date, and the latest frieze felt can be twisted into any shape. For country wear it is quite unparalleled.

A smart French toque is of black panne, with a soft crown and brim, and it is trimmed very simply with a narrow band of jet and a single large ostrich feather. Such a hat as the one in the illustration could be easily made at home.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 17—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Missions: Preaching and hearing.—Rom. x, 13-17.

In this familiar passage we have Paul's argument for a worldwide extension of the gospel. He makes it in order to convince the Jews that the gospel should be sent to the gentiles. As is always the case with the apostle, his argument is wonderfully logical and conclusive. No one should be able to read these verses and not be convinced of the absolute necessity of sending the gospel to all men. His argument is, God desires that all men shall be saved, and "whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved," but an invocation implies faith—"How shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed?" and faith implies knowledge and knowledge instruction, for "how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard?" and instruction implies teachers, for "how shall they hear without a preacher?" and teachers imply a mission, for "how shall they preach except they be sent?" Every link in this chain is complete, and the argument leads us to the overwhelming conclusion that missions and missionaries are absolutely necessary for the salvation of the world.

The necessity of preaching to hearing is evident to all. "How shall they hear without a preacher?" They cannot. Preaching is absolutely necessary to hearing. Therefore if we would have all men saved we must send preachers, missionaries, to them. How can we as Christians neglect or refuse to perform the great duty of sending missionaries to all men as far as we are able? Men cannot hear without preachers, and preachers cannot preach unless they are sent. Necessity is therefore laid upon the church to send them, and we should cheerfully do our part.

Preaching is not only a necessity to hearing, but is also delightful and joyous. Paul suggests this fact by quoting the ancient prophet's words, which declare the joy which should mark the approach of the messengers of peace and good tidings, "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace and bring glad tidings of good things!" How joyous the day when the sound of the gospel shall be universally proclaimed! We should consider it a privilege and a pleasure to have a part in the ushering in of such a glad day.

Preaching as a necessity to hearing is not to be abandoned because all who hear do not believe. This has always been the case. It was so in Isaiah's day, for the prophet asked, "Who hath believed our report?" It was so in Christ's day, for Christ "came to His own, but His own received Him not." We are not to be disappointed, therefore, if all who hear do not believe, or argue missionary contraction from want of success. Failure on the part of some to believe is rather an argument in favor of missionary expansion. The more who hear the more will believe and be saved.

Preaching as a necessity to hearing is God's plan of extending the gospel. "Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word (command) of God." God commands us to preach that men may hear. "Go and preach" was Christ's commission to His disciples. It is still God's commission to the church. Hearing by preaching and preaching by sending is God's plan for making it possible for all men to believe in Him, and call upon Him that they may be saved. To shirk the responsibility of sending the preachers is, therefore, to go directly contrary to the will of God, which no one can afford to do.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a special address by the pastor on the topic.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. lii, 7; Nah. i, 15; Matt. v, 11, 12; xxviii, 18-20; Acts i, 6-14; viii, 26-40; xiii, 1-3; xv, 25, 26; Rom. i, 14-16; ix, 1-3; Rev. xxii, 17.

Compared With No One.

We sometimes compare one man with another, but Christ can be compared with no one. He cannot even be described. Our ideal of Him is deficient. He seems like some new flower that an angel has brought from the skies. Planted in the earth, it is more lovely and fragrant than all others, and, besides, it never withers and dies—blooms and smiles with as much beauty amid the snows of winter as amid the finest surroundings of summer. Yea, Christ is like some new star that has appeared in the heavens, and so clear is its light and so radiant its glory that it stands forth among the stellar hosts as the central object, and because of its exceeding beauty men have come to call it the morning star of God.—John Reid.

Essentials of Salvation.

The essentials of salvation are, first, the renunciation of every known sin; second, the consecration of the neutral things and the good things to God—one must be willing to put at the disposal of God his time, money, influence, ambitions, pleasures, friends, etc.; third, one must depend entirely upon Christ for the cleansing of his heart and his preservation in the path of life; fourth, one must be willing openly to confess Christ as his Master.—B. Fay Mills.

World's Weapons.

God can work by any means. He can never be short of instruments. For His battles He can find weapons on the hearth, weapons in the kneading trough, weapons in the poor man's basket.—Episcopal Recorder.

Procrastination.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 17, "Preaching and Hearing." Text, Rom. x, 13-17.

"How shall they hear without a preacher?"

One of the clearest duties of the Christian life is to tell to others the glad tidings of salvation. No surer test of one's spiritual condition can be had than the willingness or dislike to speak to others of Jesus and His personal presence. When we are living near to Him and in deep, loving sympathy for the salvation of the unsaved, the impulse to ask others to seek Him is almost irresistible, and diffidence disappears in the ardor of seeking to bring others to close acquaintance with the Redeemer.

Some may never have known what this deep desire to reach and persuade others means. If the religious life has never been very deep, perhaps no thought has been given this phase of it. But there are few earnest young Leaguers who are ignorant of the blessed experience of seeking to save the unconverted friend.

These autumn weeks are the opportune season for special effort in this regard. Each chapter should have a direct aim to deepen the interest of its members in revival work and to seek out those young people in the congregation and community who are still uncommitted to Christ and use all wise exertion to aid them in beginning the Christian life.

St. Paul is showing the difference between the spiritual condition of those who sought righteousness by strict observance and performance of all the ceremonies of the Mosaic law and those who trusted in Christ for pardon and peace. He, himself one of the strictest keepers of all the requirements of that code of laws, had come to know the peace of God and forgiveness of sins only as he believed in Christ and trusted in Him for salvation instead of thinking he could merit approval of God by the rigid strictness of forms of worship.

He quotes from Isaiah the beautifully poetic exclamation of delight with which the messenger of glad news of God's peace is hailed by the weary ones harassed by sin and spiritual enemies:

"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings that publisheth peace."

The prophet lived in times of great woes and terrible national suffering. His message to the people was hopefulness because Jehovah lives and will save his people and establish peace in Zion, though for a time the enemies of Israel may triumph over her.

The apostle applies the same lesson to his time and declares that while his mission is to preach to the nations outside Israel the gospel of Christ, his own people, the descendants of Abraham, shall eventually be turned to the same faith.

The message has clearest application to our lives also. It is not enough that we, who profess to be Christians, are consciously owned and kept of God. We have service to perform for the Master. If He does dwell in our hearts by faith and rule our lives by love, we must go out into the world and tell the message of peace to others. We must be bearers of the news. Our feet must be shod with the sandals of peace. We may not send others, merely; we must go ourselves and preach Christ. Will you do it—now?

Curing Sin.

There are two ways of curing sin—man's way and God's way. You cover your sins, and they will surely have a resurrection some time; let God cover them, and neither devil nor man can find them. There are four expressions in the Bible with regard to where God puts sin: He puts them "behind His back." If God has forgiven me, who shall bring a charge against me? "He has blotted them out as a thick cloud." You see a cloud tonight, and tomorrow there isn't a cloud to be seen. "He casts them into the depths of the sea." Some one has said: "Thank God, it

SPORTING.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The game between the elevens of the Roselle A. C. and the Alis A. C., which was to have been played tomorrow afternoon, has been cancelled.

The Plainfield A. F. C. will go to Newark tomorrow afternoon to play the strong Century A. A. team. Members of the local team are requested to meet at the Fourth Street station in time to leave on the 1:30 train. Plainfield will lineup as follows: Dodd, goal; full backs, Jameson and Aronshaw; half backs, Turner, D. McBride and McComb; forwards, McBride, Campbell, A. Jameson, Smith and Galbraith.

In Honor of Organist McClymont and Visiting Choir.

A dinner was given in honor of Wm. E. McClymont, O. G. A., and his choir of Holy Trinity church, New York, at 6 o'clock last evening, in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross. The visiting clergy and their wives, together with the choirs of the parish church and Holy Trinity church, New York, were tendered a reception in the parish house after evening service.

A Physician Testifies

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

Funeral of Mrs. King.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Mary W. King were held yesterday afternoon from her late residence on Putnam avenue. They were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. At the close of the service the remains were taken to Morristown, where interment was made in the family plot.

Given Six Months.

Charles Williams, of this city, was sentenced by Judge Vail at Elizabeth, yesterday, to six months in the county jail, after he had pleaded guilty to petty larceny. THREATENED GASTON'S LIFE.

THEN JOACHIM STAATS TRIED TO END HIS OWN EXISTENCE.

Staats Was Arrested For Assaulting Gaston and Did His stunts in Jail at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, November 15.—Joachim Staats, a retired merchant of this place, who is in the county jail on a charge of atrocious assault and battery preferred by Lawyer Hugh K. Gaston, attempted three times yesterday afternoon to commit suicide, but was prevented in each instance through the vigilance of Deputy Sheriff Anderson.

Staats' wife obtained a divorce from him and went to take possession of her personal property, in the company of Mr. Gaston, day before yesterday. Staats met them with a shotgun and placed the muzzle against the lawyer's breast, declaring he would kill if they did not leave the premises. Mr. Gaston was ejected and Mrs. Staats was compelled to stay. Justice Staats sent Staats to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Ever since then he has been doing all kinds of stunts. First he attempted to take his life after dinner yesterday by using the bed sheets for a rope. Later on he tried to hang himself with a large red bandanna handkerchief he wore around his neck. Finally he attempted to open a blood vessel with an old toothpick he found in his vest pocket. All last night the sheriff and deputies were kept on the lookout, and Staats will be watched very carefully while he has this suicidal mania.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 15.—Yesterday morning the barns and outbuildings on the large dairy farm of Geo. Apgar, near Raritan, were destroyed by fire. Seven cows, three horses and a colt perished in the flames and all the contents were destroyed. The origin of the blaze is a mystery. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Grand Pig Roast Tonight.

Not Anxious to See a Spook.

Harry Carpenter, of Yuma, took out his watch in Washington street one day lately and set it by the courthouse clock. In order to move the hands of the watch he had to unscrew the case. During this process a friend said: "Harry, why don't you carry a decent watch?"

"Well, I guess if you got this watch the way I did you'd carry it."

"How did you get it?"

"Man walks into my office one day in Yuma, pulls out this watch, puts it into my hand and says: 'Keep this for me until I come back.'

"He was a stranger to me, and I said: 'How long do you want me to keep it? Where are you going?'

"'That's all right,' he said. 'You keep this watch until I ask for it.'

"I took the watch and put it into my pocket. The man went down to the Southern Pacific railroad bridge, walked out to the middle and jumped into the Colorado river. He has never asked me for the watch, and that's the reason I carry it."—Arizona Graphic.

Whisky in the Highlands.

"Whisky is almost as good for sore heels as it is for bagpipes when the leather gets too hard," says an English sportsman, writing of the Scottish highlands. "The highlander who drank the whisky supplied to soften the leather, and explained that 'she likes it blawed in,' understood no better than the average gillie that internal application was a salve for outward wounds. Whisky is the medicine of the country, as well as the luxury, but it is rather a surprise to an Englishman going north for the first time to see how they take it. No highlander ever thinks of mixing water with his favorite drink, at least not until after he has drank the whisky. When this has been done he will walk over to a spring, if there is one, as there always should be at a well-selected lunch place, and lie down and have a good pull at the water, if the day is a hot one, but never first."—Chicago Daily News.

SKETCH OF CAREER OF DR. J. I. MARCLEY.

Was a Prominent Physician in Buffalo Where He Held Important Position.

WAS BORN IN PLAINFIELD.

WAS ONE TIME IN PARTNERSHIP WITH DR. MORROW OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

Only Son of M. F. Marcley Who Died in This City a Few Years Ago—Was Wedded in Elmira in 1873—Leaves Three Sons.

In the death of Dr. James Irving Marcley, which occurred Thursday at Buffalo, a well-known and physician of much prominence, has passed away. His death, as previously stated, was very sudden and was a shock to his family. Only three days before the family received a letter from him and there was no intimation of illness. Death was due to apoplexy.

Dr. Marcley was the only son of M. F. Marcley, of New street, who died a few years ago. He was born in this city July 17, in 1845. During his early life he lived in and about New York. He attended boarding schools both in New York and Connecticut and was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons as a doctor of medicine in 1878. Among the celebrated physicians who were classmates of his was Dr. Parks, of Buffalo, who assisted in the illness of the late President McKinley.

Dr. Marcley spent a considerable portion of his life in Buffalo, having a general practice there. In 1877, he was appointed district health physician at Buffalo, and in 1882, a special health physician in the same city. In October, 1885, President Cleveland appointed him United States health officer at the port of Buffalo. He held all of these posts with distinction and honor.

At one time he was an assistant at the Demilt Dispensary and the Free Dispensary for Sick Children in New York. He formed a partnership at one time with Dr. Clifford Morrow, of New Brunswick, at that time was visiting physician at St. Peter's Hospital in that place.

He moved to Buffalo in 1875 and for twelve years afterward followed a general practice. He made a specialty of hernia and made cures possible without an operation. His new discovery attracted world-wide attention and favorable comment. It was in 1887 that he made this discovery and for several years was the only practioner having any degree of success in the treatment of hernia.

Dr. Marcley was married in 1873 to Miss Florence Webb, of Elmira, N. Y. She and three sons, Irving W., Frank N. and Robert L. Marcley, survive him. The deceased was for some years secretary for the Erie County Medical Society, of Buffalo, and he was an active member of many of the leading medical societies of that city

WHAT A SPARK DID.

A spark from a match set fire to the window draping in the sewing room at the residence of F. W. Runyon, Madison avenue, at 5:30 o'clock last evening, and in a flash the whole side of the room was ablaze.

Wesley R. Brokaw, who was tuning the piano downstairs, heard Mrs Runyon's call for help, grabbed a rug and rushed upstairs. He quickly beat out the flames, but not until the carpet had been ruined, the window furnishing destroyed and the woodwork of the side of the room had been badly scorched.

AID OF FOREIGN MISSIONS.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH HELD FALL MEETING.

Upper Division of New Jersey Met at Grace P. E. Church—Reports and Addresses Given.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Episcopal church for the upper division of New Jersey, held its fall meeting in Grace Episcopal church Thursday. There was a large attendance of delegates and the sessions were both interesting and profitable.

Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. Lloyd, secretary and general agent of the Board of Foreign Missions, of New York, and Rev. Henry Forester, of Mexico. Mrs. S. A. Clark, of Elizabeth, who is president of the Woman's Auxiliary, of New Jersey, presided over the sessions, after Rev. E. M. Rodman opened the morning service.

The sessions were taken up considerably with reports from all the branches of both home and foreign missions. An interesting part was the report of Mrs. Monroe, who was a delegate to the recent Episcopal convention held in San Francisco. During the noon hour lunch was served in the parish house by women from Grace church.

A WORTHY OBJECT.

A Chance to Aid Excellent Charity And Also Hear One Clever And Interesting Speaker.

It is a noble thing to teach the ignorant savage, but the truthful maxim that "charity begins at home" is frequently lost sight of. It is the duty of every American citizen, first and foremost, to assist his own people. Nowhere is this more apparent than in the care of the American girls in Paris.

In a large city, without funds, no friends, and ignorant of language or customs, a helping hand at the right time means more than temporary relief. This burden has long been borne by the English, and to the credit of the Americans, they have now seen the error of their way and are making amends for the neglect shown the daughters on the other side of the water.

Funds are needed; and, to aid the movement, "Max O'Bell" will lecture upon "Peculiar People I Have Met," Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Casino. The opportunity offered is more than worth the price of admission and the charity is a necessary one. Tickets at Armstrong's pharmacy.

CALLED A CLIPPING SOCIAL.

NOVEL AFFAIR HELD BY EPWORTH LEAGUERS OF FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Clipped Packages Off Wire And Sold Them by Their Size—Guessed at Pupil's Height.

The literary committee of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church held a clipping social last evening in Vincent chapel, when a large number of members and friends joined in having a good time.

On wires were many packages offered for sale at five, ten and fifteen cents. Members of the committee attended to clipping the packages from the wires and selling them. Ones choice of a package was made from the form, it being thus determined whether they wanted to pay five cents or more. This afford lots of amusement and incidentally brought to the treasury several dollars.

Another attraction was a measuring machine which was in charge of Donald A. McGee. It be guessed within an inch of one's height that person had to pay five cents, otherwise no charge was made. Mr. McGee was successful in his guessing and nearly everyone was obliged to pay.

The rest of the evening was passed in a social way and refreshments were served by the committee, comprising Miss Persis Snodgrass, chairman; Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. Harry Gee, Miss Bessie Valiant and Louis Wilson. The proceeds of the affair will be put in the flower fund for the purpose of furnishing flowers for the church pulpit Sundays.

TWO RECOUNTS.

Union County Election Board Will Examine Ballots in Two Districts of the County.

The Union County Board of Elections has received two applications for recounts. Victor Marviag, the defeated Republican candidate for Council in the Ninth ward of Elizabeth, contests the count, which gave his opponent, Francis Engle, one majority out of some 900 votes cast.

Charles A. Grove, the Republican candidate for Council in the Fifth ward of Rahway, questions the accuracy of the count which declares his opponent, John Bernhard, a winner by two votes, out of a total of 350 cast. The recount will be made by the board Friday, November 29

FROM RICHMOND.

What Was Said About Mme. Sarah Grand While There.

Mme. Sarah Grand, who is to lecture at the Casino, Thursday night, was in Richmond, Va., a few days ago, and The News, of that city, said:

"The lecture of Mme. Grand on the Art of Happiness, in the Academy, last night, will long be remembered by those who heard it as a rare intellectual treat. Mme. Grand, who is making her first tour of this country, made her entree in Richmond under the auspices of the Woman's Club. She was accorded a very hearty reception, and emphasized the verdict that has already been formed of the distinctive ability and genius of the novelist through her popular works.

"Mme. Grand is a very engaging lecturer. Her style is colloquial. She makes a few gestures, and speaks in an easy, fluent manner, her choice of words and her manner of expression being particularly happy. Her lecture last night bristled with epigram, but it was also remarkable for its wealth of apt illustration which betokened wide observation, and well-balanced judgment, formed from a point of view that is neither narrow nor sordid."

Growing Worse.

P. J. McAndrews, of the Hotel Imperial, who was recently stricken with paralysis, has been steadily growing worse and it is feared the attack will result fatally. His relatives at White Haven, Pa., have been summoned to his bedside.

Recovered Judgment.

In the district court of Elizabeth, Thursday, Hetfield & Hetfield, counsel for Charles Bach, of East Second street, received judgment against Charles Furey, of Elizabeth, for rent due on a Somerset store leased by the defendant.

LADIES' NIGHT MARKED BY "CALANTHE'S" VISIT

Guests of Perseverance Lodge Were Permitted to See the Famous Goat.

WERE WELL ENTERTAINED.

PLEASANT PROGRAMME WAS GIVEN DURING THE EVENING.

Successful Affair Held at Washington Hall and Largely Attended—Those Who Took Part in Entertainment.

For once in the history of a secret organization, the portals of a local lodge were thrown wide open last evening, and the uninitiated and incredulous were permitted to gaze upon the hitherto regarded sacred goat, dear to every lodge member as the animal on which he first essayed to demonstrate his rough riding abilities. All doubts that the much talked of quadruped was really in existence were set aside when the feminine friends of Perseverance Lodge were allowed to pet the far famed Pythian goat, "Miss Calanthe" at the "Ladies" night reception in Washington Hall.

While the members had been preparing for the reception for some time past, the opportune arrival of Her Ladyship assisted them in fulfilling their promise that this year's "Ladies" night would eclipse all previous efforts. The affair proved a great success, an audience which completely filled the large hall being in attendance. The programme, rendered under the direction of City Judge William N. Runyon, was one of exceptional merit and deserved the liberal apolause given at the close of each number.

It was opened with a selection from Carpenter's orchestra, entitled "Miss Calentha Waltzes," after which her popular young goatship and her costly regalia were introduced by the master of ceremonies. In words which betrayed his pride in being afforded the honor, he glowingly related her history from the time she left her home in Maine until she made her debut in Plainfield.

"Miss Calanthe," he said, was no ordinary goat and it afforded him pleasure to present her to the public, the women in particular, thereby dispelling the belief that when the belated lodge member informed his better half he had been riding the goat, that he was telling something that wasn't true. No longer, he continued, would the lodge goat be regarded as a myth.

At the conclusion of Judge Runyon's introduction "Miss Calanthe" was taken in charge by her guardian, Samuel Robinson, who led her about the audience and allowed all to stroke her silky coat.

The programme continued with a piano selection by Miss Florence Moorehouse, which called for an encore, a violin selection by Miss Alice Barbour, accompanied by Andrew Carpenter, and two excellent solos by Miss Edith Robinson who sang very acceptably.

The ever welcome John Carney was called upon and after whetting the appetite of the audience with a number of original German witticisms he related the arrest of "Miss Calanthe's" keeper in a manner which evoked a storm of applause. In closing he proved beyond a doubt that Her Ladyship was a goat and not an ibex, as has been suggested, by producing one of the latter animals and showing the difference.

After several piccolo-banjo selections by Joseph Loughead, Miss Anna Warnock made a distinct hit by singing "In the House of Too Much Trouble." Although the smallest contributor to the evening's enjoyment she conducted herself remarkably well. Another violin selection by Miss Barbour followed and the programme was concluded by Judge Runyon singing a number of his favorite vocal selections, the audience insisting on his responding to encores.

After the entertainment the room was cleared and dancing became the feature, lasting until an early hour this morning. The larger part of the audience remained until the last, all seeming loath to cut short the most enjoyable evening provided by the Pythians in a long time.

The committee which arranged the affair and deserve credit for the manner in which it was carried out, consisted of Wm. N. Runyon, chairman, assisted by Samuel Clouston, Samuel Robinson and Joseph Blimm.

SCHOOL LAW DECLARED VOID.

BUT PLAINFIELD WILL NOT BE AT ALL AFFECTED.

On Advice From Corporation Counsel Marsh, the School Board Assessed Taxes Under Both Laws.

Thanks to the intelligence of the men composing the Plainfield Board of Education, the schools in this city are not in the least degree crippled or embarrassed by the opinion of the Court of Errors and Appeals handed down yesterday, deciding that the school law revision of 1900 is unconstitutional and void.

Craig A. Marsh was consulted by the board, and under his guidance the school taxes for 1900 and 1901 were assessed by a double method, so that if, as it was feared would be the case, the new law should be declared unconstitutional, the taxes would be valid by reason of the assessment under the old law.

The wisdom of this course is now strikingly manifest, in view of the fact that so far as known, Plainfield is the only city in the State which adopted such a plan. All the other cities except Jersey City relied on the new law, and Jersey City relied on the old law alone.

LIBRARY EXHIBIT.

Will Show Works on Electrical Engineering and Kindred Subjects.

This afternoon and evening and tomorrow afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock the Public Library will give an electrical engineering exhibit. This is the second in the library's course of industrial exhibits to be given on the third Saturday and following Sunday of each month.

A few books will be shown on theoretical electricity, though the exhibit will confine itself mainly to books on the applications of electricity. Blue prints of dynamos, etc., lent by the Plainfield Electric Light Company, and electrical apparatus lent by A. B. Laing, will lend interest to the exhibit. All interested are cordially invited.

CONFLAGRATION AVERTED.

Presence of Mind of Miss Bertha Thorn Was All That Prevented One.

Through the presence of mind of Miss Bertha Thorn, a conflagration was averted at the residence of her father, Alexander Thorn, of Craig place, last evening. Mrs. Edward Smith, who resides on Somerset street, noticed from a back window of her home that there was fire in a parlor window of the Thorn home.

Mrs. Smith ran to the scene of the fire, and Miss Thorn tore the curtain from the window and buried the burning lace fabric into the street. The damage was slight, nothing being lost except the curtain. No alarm was turned in.

Auxiliary to Warren Engine Company Ends Its Career, Its Object Having Been Accomplished.

After a short existence Relief Hose Company, No. 3, of the borough, has been disbanded. It was organized for the purpose of acting as an auxiliary to Warren Engine Company, No. 1, in the recent parade of the North Plainfield fire department.

It appeared to be the concensus of opinion among the members of the Warren Company that there was no reason for its continued existence and that the best interests of the company would be served by the disbandment of the auxiliary. To this end steps were taken at an adjourned meeting of Warren Company Tuesday evening, and now Foreman Louis McGann announces that his organization will be discontinued.

It was decided at the meeting to send a number of dolls to Miss Sarah Curry and Mrs. Dossori, both of New York, for distribution among the children of their missions. Dr. Cornelius Brett has been secured for the thirteenth anniversary of the Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church to be held November 29, and he will be asked to conduct an open parliament.

Murphy Was Aggressor.

After a week's deliberation, City Judge Runyon decided that Stephen Murphy had been the aggressor in the fight near Washington Hall three weeks ago which resulted in the arrest of himself and John Kennedy, and imposed upon him in the City Court this morning a fine of $8 or thirty days. Kennedy's testimony in regard to the matter was straightforward and was corroborated by a reputable witness. In his case sentence was suspended.

Receptron Given to M Seymour Purdy Who is Now In Charge at Chapel.

WAS HELD LAST EVENING.

INFORMAL PROGRAMME WAS GIVEN DURING THE EVENING.

Addresses of Welcome by Rev. Dr. Schenck of Trinity, The Mother Church—Mr. Purdy Responded—Those in Charge.

A pleasant reception was tendered to M Seymour Purdy, at Marconnier chapel, last evening, by the members of the congregation, whose spiritual welfare he will look after in the future. There was a large attendance and a delightful programme was carried out.

The first number was a duet given by Miss Quinn and Miss Lottie Campbell. A recitation, entitled "How Betsy Cut the Sugar," was rendered by Miss Nettie Stover. AT THE THEATRES.

"'Way Down East," with its real people, its real story and its almost real snowstorm, is announced to begin its third run in New York November 18 at the Academy of Music. The play is an excellent "repeater," as has been shown by even more frequent returns to Boston and Chicago, so that many persons familiar with the old favorite may prefer seeing it again to venturing on a performence of which they know nothing beyond the fact that its press agent is hard working. The company which Wm. A. Brady introduces in "'Way Down East" is of unsurpassed worth. Each member of the cast is especially qualified for his or her task. The organization includes Phoebe Davies, Ulric B Collins, Will T. Ellwanger, Robert Fischer, Frank Bell, Felix Haney, Frank Currier, John Hickey, Ella Hugh Wood, Sara Stevens, Marion Louise Shirley, Caro Gordon Leigh, Jane Millard and others. Settings and accessories, among these latter horses and stock, add greatly to the realism of the performance, while the famous snowstorm continues in unabated mechanical fury. Matinees at the Academy Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Ten-Ichi, the wonderful magician who will be seen at the Casino, Tuesday night, is accompanied by nine Japanese attendants: each and every one a past master in the art. The entire entertainment given by this troupe is marked with novelty and is most refreshing to the jaded audiences who for years have viewed the time honored tricks of so called prestidigitators who reply on mechanical contrivances to produce results. Ten-Ichi, who heads the organization, presents a number of illusions which will be seen for the first time in America and his "peice du resistance," "The Enchanted Fountains," is said to be the very acme of beauty and sensational mystery. The performance is most unique and the assistance of four beautiful Geisha girls add a pretty picture to the entertainment. At the private rehearsal of this company recently given in New York for the members of the press of that city, the greatest astonishment was caused by this really remarkable exhibition.

REFORM HALL MEETING.

Many Interesting Features at the Meeting Held Thursday Night.

In addition to the regular temperance meeting at Reform Hall, Thursday evening, there was a song service and devotional exercises conducted by B. W. Hand. Mr. Hand also gave an excellent address later on the liquor question. The entertainment features were furnished by Miss Lavinia Seader, who sang a solo, "The Drunkard's Child," and Miss Jennie Smith, who furnished instrumental music. Next Thursday, Jesse Oakley, of Elizabeth, will speak and a chorus of young women will render selections.

MORE SHIPS AND MEN

Keynote of Secretary Gage's Report Is "Increase."

NATIONAL EXPANSION DEMANDS IT.

Three Battleships, Two Cruisers, Six Gunboats and Many Smaller Vessels Recommended—Also Three Thousand Additional Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The keynote of the annual report of Secretary Long for 1901 is "increase"—an increase in both the number of ships and the number of officers and sailors for the navy.

"The navy today," he says, "is a far greater factor in our relations with the world than it was before the recent national expansion which now includes Porto Rico, the Hawaiian Islands, the vast area of land and sea in the Philippines and our obligations to Cuba. If we are to have a navy at all, it must be commensurate with these great extensions—greater in international even than territorial importance." The secretary's recommendation for new construction, based on the report of the general board, headed by Admiral Dewey, and that of the board of construction, is as follows:

Three first class battleships, two first class armored cruisers, three gunboats, each of about 1,000 tons trial displacement; three gunboats, each of about 200 tons trial displacement, for insular service; three picket boats, each of about 650 tons trial displacement; three steel sailing training ships, each of about 2,000 tons trial displacement; one collier of about 15,000 tons trial displacement and four tugboats.

All the vessels recommended in these two reports, says Secretary Long, are desirable in the prospective and harmonious development of our naval force, and a larger increase this year than usual is desirable because none was made last year. He, however, found that some of the vessels recommended could better be omitted from his list than others and await appropriation hereafter.

The secretary places emphasis upon the necessity for more line officers and more enlisted men. He recommends that the number of lieutenants be increased from 300 to 350 and that the limit of the number of junior lieutenants and ensigns be placed at 600. As to the enlisted men he recommends that that force be increased by 3,000 men. Tables are submitted showing that in the number of commissioned officers of the executive branch and in the total strength of all ranks and ratings the United States navy is in the rear of that of England, France, Germany, Russia, Japan and Italy and that the proportionate increase in our navy's personnel has for six years been away behind the pace set by the nations mentioned. Secretary Long directs attention to Germany's law which increases her personnel along with her shipbuilding and which by an average annual increase of 1,802 officers and men will give the Germany navy in 1920 a total personnel of 59,408.

Another pressing need set out in the secretary's report is that for a national naval reserve, which was so strongly advocated by President Roosevelt when he was assistant secretary of the navy.

In connection with the subject of naval personnel Secretary Long makes a number of important recommendations as follows: The revival of the grade of vice admiral, an increase of 50 per cent in the number of cadets at the Naval academy, an increase of the marine corps by 750 men, an increase in the corps of naval constructors and of civil engineers and no further appointments to the office of professor of mathematics.

One of the most important recommendations in this respect is that officers of the navy be retired with the rank and three-fourths the sea pay of the grade held at the time of retirement instead of the next higher grade, as at present. The secretary points out that much needed officers are now offered a premium to go on the retired list. He also strongly advocates that the law providing for the advancement of officers "for service rendered during the war with Spain" be given a general application, so as to include service in China, the Philippines and elsewhere. He says that some provision should be made by which retired officers when ordered into active service shall have such service reckoned in their favor as to rank and pay when they are put back on the retired list. Recommendation is also made that all honorable service in the navy, the marine corps and the army be embraced in the law authorizing the retirement of petty officers and enlisted men who have served thirty years in the navy.

The Grant Off For Manila.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—The transport Grant has sailed for Manila with two battalions of the Twenty-eighth infantry, about 100 recruits and a number of civilian passengers. Colonel Mott Hooten is in command of the battalions, which were recruited at Vancouver barracks. In the detachment are twenty-two officers and 749 men.

Retrenchment Voted Down.

MADRID, Nov. 16.—The chamber of deputies by a vote of 148 to 28 rejected an amendment presented by members of the National Union of Chambers of Commerce in favor of a considerable retrenchment in budget expenditure, chiefly affecting the army and navy. Senor Sagasta, according to the latest reports, is feeling much stronger.

Dady Awarded Contract.

HAVANA, Nov. 16.—The municipal council unanimously voted last night to award Michael J. Dady the contract to pave and sewer Havana at his reduced bid of $10,913,858.

THE WAR'S PROGRESS

A British Patrol Surrounded Rear Guard Attack.

LORD KITCHENER'S MONTHLY REPORT

He Admits Some Disappointing Results, but Believes There Is Little Doubt as to the Ultimate End In South Africa.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria, says that a strong patrol of yeomanry while reconnoitering Nov. 13 at Brakspruit, near Zeerust, in the Transvaal Colony, about 140 miles west of Pretoria, was surrounded by 300 Boers and lost six men killed and sixteen wounded. Some of the troopers were captured, but were subsequently released.

The rear guard of Colonel Byng's column was attacked near Heilbron, Orange River Colony, Nov. 14, by 400 Boers, said to be under the command of General De Wet. After two hours' fighting the Boers retired, leaving eight dead on the field. Of Colonel Byng's column Lieutenant Hughes and one man were killed, while three officers and nine men were wounded.

A dispatch from Middelburg says that 180 district mounted troops, composed largely of Dutchmen, with their arms and horses, have surrendered to Smuts' commando. The district troops fired most of their ammunition at long range and then refused to fight further. Captain Thornton, their commander, believes their surrender to have been prearranged.

Two of Lord Kitchener's monthly reviews, dated Aug. 8 and Sept. 8, were published in The Gazette last evening. They are chiefly summaries of wide, sweeping movements through all parts of the disputed territories, with the results, casualties and prisoners captured, as previously reported. An astonishing number of horses were captured, those in August alone numbering 13,570. About 20 per cent of these are fit for remounts, and others are brood mares and foals.

Though admitting the disappointing results of some of the operations, Lord Kitchener comments on them as follows:

"So long as this rate of progress can be maintained there can be little doubt of its ultimate effect, even on an enemy to whom no other form of agreement seems to appeal."

The war office has issued a 400 page blue book of the official reports from medical and other officers on the conditions of the concentration camps in South Africa. The general drift of the report attributes the high mortality in these camps to the dirty habits of the Boers, their ignorance and prejudices, their recourse to quackery and their suspicious avoidance of the British hospitals and doctors.

Accepts the Philippine Bishopric.

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—Rev. Charles H. Brent of St. Stephen's Episcopal church will accept the Episcopal bishopric of the Philippine Islands, where a diocese was created by the triennial convention at San Francisco. Father Brent has notified Right Rev. Thomas Clarke of Rhode Island, senior bishop of the church, that he had accepted the appointment. It is thought that Father Brent will be consecrated in this city early in the new year. He was born in New Castle, Ont., in 1862, and he is the son of Rev. Canon Brent of St. James' cathedral, Toronto. He was graduated at the University of Trinity college in 1884.

Chinese Court's Progress.

PEKING, Nov. 16.—The Chinese court has arrived at Kaifongfu, capital of Honan, having left the people along its route of march half ruined by the contributions levied for entertainment, repairing of roads and decorations. The ministers of the foreign powers are considering a suggestion from the Chinese officials to the effect that the ministers meet and formally welcome the emperor when he arrives at Peking.

Bank Robbed by Employees.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—It has become known that the Williamsburg Savings bank has been robbed of $60,000 by two trusted employees. The larceny was discovered on Nov. 9. General Meserole, the president of the bank, said that one of the employees had confessed to the cashier that he and his companion had taken funds of the bank. One of the accused men died a short time ago. The bank is partly secured against the loss.

New Jersey Bank Robbed.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 16.—The First National bank at Spring Lake has been robbed. Burglars blew open the safe with nitroglycerin and got away with over $5,000 in money. The robbery is believed to have been the work of professional crooks. The bank safe was emptied of its contents, and it was necessary to borrow money from the Manasquan bank in order to resume business at the usual hour.

Word From the Captives.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—The Lokal Anzeiger publishes a dispatch from Sofia to the effect that the husband of Mme. Tsilka has received a letter from his wife in which she says Miss Stone and herself are still alive, but suffering great hardships. Mme. Tsilka expresses a belief that they both will be released shortly at or in the vicinity of Salonika. The letter is undated.

General Wood In Jamaica.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 16.—The United States government yacht Kanawha, with Governor General Wood and his party on board, has arrived here from Santiago. He was received by the general commanding the British troops here. General Wood will return in a day or two to Santiago.

NO BRIGADIERS NOW.

Aspirants For Promotion Should Not Annoy the President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—It is announced at the war department that the names of the officers to fill the vacancies in the grade of brigadier general will not be announced until congress meets, as it is not deemed desirable to make ad interim appointments. In addition to this statement and in view of the great pressure that has been brought to bear it has been deemed proper to make the following official declaration:

"The secretary of war and the president have had informal discussions on army matters on several occasions, and it is understood that the president has expressed himself most positively on the use of political and social influence of officers for the purpose of obtaining changes of stations, leaves of absence, modifications of orders, etc. Of course it is understood that officers often deem it necessary to have attention called to their cases by political friends for appointments and especially cases of the young volunteer officers who recently have been appointed.

"It is safe to say, however, that at no period in the history of our government has the matter of record been used to such good purpose as during the present reorganization of the army, when the greatest possible care has been taken in the selection of persons for appointment in the reorganized army.

"The president has not hesitated to inform senators and others who have applied to him that no officer will improve his chances by sending his friends to annoy the president in his behalf. On the contrary, the effect which will be produced probably will be directly opposite to that which the candidate hopes for."

RUHLIN GAVE UP.

Jeffries Wins In the Fifth Round In San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Before an assemblage of 10,000 people at the Mechanics pavilion, which has been the scene of many a bitter and important struggle in the past, James J. Jeffries of Los Angeles, Cal., met and conquered Gus Ruhlin, the Akron giant, last night.

Early in the afternoon a long line of anxious men assembled on the Lark side of the pavilion and held the weary vigil in a drizzling rain until nightfall, when the sale of gallery seats was opened. Never in the history of San Francisco has there been such a crush of humanity at a pugilistic event.

Jeffries entered the ring at 9:28, Ruhlin at 9:30. Ruhlin won the toss, taking the southwest corner of the ring. Time was called at 9:37. The first round closed with the champion having a slight advantage in an exchange of lefts. In the second Ruhlin got in several body and face blows and was not hit once; round ended in a clinch. In the third Jeffries got in a hot left and a two handed swing. Round 4—Ruhlin landed on face. Jeff landed left, blacking Ruhlin's eye, and hammered him around the ring. Ruhlin went down and took the count. The gong saved him. Round 5—Ruhlin threw up the sponge.

Starving In Texas.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 16.—Governor Sayres has received a letter from Hon. F. W. Seabury, a member of the legislature, in whose district Zapata county is situated, saying the people in that county are starving and that unless immediate relief reaches them nearly the entire population will die. There is no chance to raise any kind of crops there earlier than next April or May. Mr. Seabury says there is scarcely a bit of food on hand and appeals for outside aid at once. Governor Sayres immediately sent $500 to Mr. Seabury, and relief supplies will be got into Zapata county at the earliest possible moment.

A Thousand Meteors Seen.

NORTHFIELD, Minn., Nov. 16.—Professors and students of Carleton college recorded and charted more than 1,000 meteors. The shower began about 11:30 o'clock and continued until sunrise. All meteors of any importance were charted upon specially prepared charts. The climax was reached at 5:18:02, when a brilliant meteor of magnitude minus 2 was seen to enter the constellation of Hydra. By accurate determination the trail persisted for twenty-two minutes. Several thousand large leonids were seen at Goodsell.

Low a Guest of Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Mayor Elect Seth Low of New York was the guest of President Roosevelt last night. Accompanied by Philip Roosevelt, a cousin of the president, Mr. Low arrived here shortly after 6 o'clock last evening. He was met at the Pennsylvania depot by Secretary Cortelyou and went immediately to the White House, where he took dinner and remained over night. He spent the evening in conference with the president on the municipal affairs of Greater New York.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; fresh westerly winds, diminishing.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The further growth of top cotton in Texas is said to have been stopped by frost.

The state department has finally succeeded in communicating with Miss Stone.

A heavy snowstorm, with the mercury down to zero, is reported in northern Michigan.

Frost and snow of unprecedented severity for this season have swept over England.

The only two Populists remaining in the senate have announced that they would hereafter be classed with the Democrats.

FOR PORT COLLECTOR.

President Names Stranahan to Succeed Bidwell at New York.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 16.—State Senator Nevada N. Stranahan has received a letter from President Roosevelt offering him the appointment as collector of the port of New York, to take effect on April 1, 1902. Senator Stranahan and State Committeeman John T. Mott left for Washington last night. Senator Stranahan will accept the post.

It has been understood that Secretary of the Treasury Gage and Senator Platt favored the retention of Bidwell as collector.

Collector Bidwell has been in business in New York for twenty years, having come originally from Buffalo. He has been actively engaged in politics and now is the Republican leader of the Nineteenth assembly district. He was vice president of the Republican county committee.

President McKinley appointed Bidwell for the next four years, signing his commission on April 29 last. Of course the appointment could not be ratified until the senate met.

Nevada N. Stranahan has served continuously in the state senate since 1896. He served three terms in the assembly, from 1890 to 1892.

Senator Stranahan is a lawyer. He represents the Thirty-seventh senatorial district, comprising Oswego county, and his home is in the village of Fulton.

Senator Stranahan was born at Granby, N. Y., on Feb. 27, 1861. He grew up on a farm and received his early education in the common schools of Oswego county. Later he attended Falley seminary and the Columbia College Law school. He was admitted to the bar in 1884, when twenty-three years old, and began practice at Fulton.

ONLY GOLD MEDAL.

Lieutenant Newcomb Rewarded For Bravery In Spanish War.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The only gold medal authorized by congress for heroic conduct during the war with Spain has just been forwarded to Lieutenant Frank H. Newcomb, now located at Patchogue, N. Y., by Assistant Secretary Taylor of the treasury.

During the Spanish war Lieutenant Newcomb commanded the revenue cutter Hudson and rescued the officers and crew of the torpedo boat Winslow from a very perilous position off Cardenas, Cuba, while the action of May 11, 1898, was in progress. Each of the officers under Lieutenant Newcomb was awarded a silver medal and each member of his crew a bronze medal.

The medal sent Lieutenant Newcomb contains about $750 worth of gold and is ornamented on one side by an engraving of Minerva, the goddess of war, looking down upon the scene of rescue, and on the other side by a representation of Fame writing the story of the deeds of Lieutenant Newcomb and his crew. In forwarding the medal to him Secretary Taylor said:

"Yours is the proud distinction of being the only commissioned officer of any service to whom congress awarded a gold medal for heroism in battle during the war with Spain. I take pleasure in presenting to you the medal awarded and in congratulating you upon the recognition thus bestowed by the national legislature."

Mayor Elect Low's First Act.

He will be the first appointive officer of the new administration to be sworn in. Mr. Rives is an independent Democrat. The salary of the office is $15,000 a year, and the term is two years. Mr. Rives was regarded as a probable candidate for the nomination of mayor by the fusion forces. He is thoroughly versed in municipal law and took a very prominent part in the work of revising the present charter. He is regarded as being exceptionally equipped for the office of corporation counsel.

Earthquake Shock In Colorado.

BUENA VISTA, Colo., Nov. 16.—This town and surrounding country experienced an earthquake shock early yesterday which lasted several seconds. Many people rushed from their residences, fearing their homes would be demolished. Plate glass windows were cracked. It is reported that the waters of Cottonwood lake rose considerably. Many huge bowlders on Mount Princeton and Mount Harvard were dislodged and rolled down the sides of the mountain. The trembling seemed to travel from the southwest to the northeast and lasted about six seconds. This is the first earthquake ever felt at Buena Vista.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Enormous Railway Earnings and Great Scarcity of Cars.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

A few months ago injury to the corn crop aroused fears that the railroads would be seriously handicapped by the loss of tonnage, yet the season of grain traffic has not only failed to produce decreased earnings, but there is such a scarcity of rolling stock and motive power that numerous industries are badly demoralized. In so far as these interests are concerned the reduction in corn freight proves a blessing. Railway earnings in October were 11.3 per cent greater than last year and 21.2 per cent over 1899, while those roads reporting for the first week of November show an average gain of 9.8 per cent.

A healthy demand is reported throughout the country in all leading lines of merchandise, while sales of winter goods have attained normal proportions, and holiday business promises to surpass all records. In manufacturing there was never before such well sustained activity, with contracts running past the middle of next year. This is especially true in the case of steel rails and many other products of iron, while in building felt, footwear and most textile branches there is little prospect of idleness.

An official report of the lowest average yield of corn per acre was calculated to strengthen prices, but the phenomenal quotations already prevailing would seem to fully discount government figures. Foreign buyers have been driven out of these markets, the week's exports from the Atlantic coast amounting to only 585,944 bushels against 3,726,066 a year ago and 3,750,711 in 1899. Wheat rose to the best prices of the crop year, partly in sympathy with corn, for which it is still freely substituted.

Failures for the week numbered 215 in the United States against 217 last year and 27 in Canada against 33 last year.

German Canal a Success.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The state department has received from Mr. Jackson, secretary of the United States embassy at Berlin, a report upon the traffic through the Kaiser Wilhelm canal during 1900. The total traffic of the canal during that year was 29,571 ships, exclusive of German war vessels. The through traffic for the last five years, it is stated, has more than doubled as regards number of vessels and more than trebled as to tonnage. This canal, Mr. Jackson says, has given repeated proofs of its capabilities in regard to the number of ships passing in one day and its navigability for very large vessels.

American Trail to the Yukon.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 16.—Correspondence from Valdes, Alaska, says: "Work on the all American trail from this place to the Yukon has ceased for the winter, and there is some fear here that this work is likely to be suspended or abandoned if congress shall not make an appropriation to complete it. In the work already projected and partly completed under the supervision of Major W. R. Abercrombie about $193,000 has been expended. The citizens have held a meeting and will probably send a committee to Washington in the interest of the work."

Escaped Convict Captured.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 16.—Henry Norton, the convict who escaped from Sing Sing prison last Wednesday evening, was captured at Bedford, in this county, a few miles from the prison. Norton was serving a term in the prison for burglary. He was looked upon as an exemplary prisoner and treated as a trusty. Taking advantage of this, he stole jewelry from the rooms of the prison officials and finally a suit of clothes belonging to the warden. Dressed in these clothes he managed to pass the guards and escaped, only to be recaptured.

Oklahoma and Indian Territory a Unit For Statehood.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION HELD

Congress Urged to Pass at Once an Enabling Act Uniting the Two Territories Into One State.

MUSCOGEE, I. T., Nov. 16.—With a dash and enthusiasm which surpassed even the most sanguine expectations of its most ardent supporters the single statehood convention was held here. Everything was harmonious, and not one person on the floor of the convention spoke one word against the movement. The federal officeholders and the Dawes commission came in for severe censure. The following memorial to congress was adopted:

"It has become self evident that the union of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory into one state is inevitable, the two territories have a population of over 800,000 and an assessed value of real and personal property of over $100,000,000 and an actual value of more than $300,000,000. The people of the Indian Territory exist under intolerable conditions, and they feel that congress should at once heed their voice. All the citizens of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory are capable of self government. United, the two territories would make a magnificent commonwealth."

The memorial concludes: "Both territories, by their representatives in convention assembled, urge upon congress the immediate passage of an enabling act providing for the formation of one state by the people of the two territories."

Resolutions then followed demanding admission as a single state and that the Indian lands be allotted at once to the Indians.

Gathmann Gun Failed.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., Nov. 16.—The failure of Inventor Gathmann's theory of his invention in the test made here yesterday is ascribed by him to an imperfect detonation of the fuse in the interior of the shell. The army officers, however, claim that they have found convincing proof to the contrary and say that everything in connection with the test was as perfect as it was possible to make it in accordance with the inventor's ideas. The board has decided to give a second trial, to which the inventor is entitled, today. The second Gathmann shell for today's test will be overhauled in the presence of Mr. Gathmann for the purpose of guarding against imperfections. On the other hand, the test made later in the day with the regulation gun on the duplicate target was a complete success.

Aged Jurist Retires.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 16.—Chief Justice David A. Depue, after thirty-five years' service on the supreme court bench of New Jersey, has retired. The chief justice is feeble in body, but still vigorous in mind. His opinions are said to be more liberally quoted in legal textbooks than those of any other judge. There was no ceremony whatever connected with the retirement of the eminent jurist. He simply shook hands with the members of the court of errors, over which he presided as chief justice, and departed for his home in Newark.

Owner of Waverley Magazine Dead.

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—The death of Mrs. Elizabeth T. Dow, one of the oldest and wealthiest residents of Brookline, is announced. About a week ago, while driving, she was thrown out of a carriage and sustained injuries which brought on a complication of diseases. She was ninety years old and owned the Waverley, an apartment house in Charleston, and The Waverley Magazine. She was reputed to be worth $3,000,000. Early in life she married Moses A. Dow, who was then the sole owner of The Waverley Magazine. He died in 1886.

He Saw Leonids.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 16.—Charles P. Olivier of the Leander McCormick observatory of the University of Virginia while watching for the expected shower of leonid meteors observed eighty-four between 4:50 and full daybreak yesterday morning. Until daybreak an average of one per minute was seen, in spite of adverse atmospheric conditions. This shower was very much greater than that of either of the two preceding years and, it is said, may indicate that the great shower will yet come.

Bell, military aid to the governor, has arrived in this city. They left Ottawa on Thursday, but were delayed several hours by the heavy snow in the upper part of the state. Lord Minto's visit is unofficial, and he will attend no receptions or ceremonies during his stay in the city.

Chance For a Change.

Thanks to the frailties of mankind, there has never yet come the day when the service furnished by any corporation of a public character has not been more or less criticised. It has never yet been possible to direct a railroad or a local traction company, an electric light or power concern or a water supply company to suit all. There are, however, certain general requirements which are expected of every firm or corporation which makes any pretence of catering to the wants of the public.

Any corporation, which secures franchises from a city to run a line of street cars through its main thoroughfares, is expected to supply an equipment which will not be a disgrace to itself and the community. When old ram-shackle cars sadly in need of paint and proper cleaning are to be seen wandering mournfully over the tracks in the streets of a city, it is not suprising that the people of that city raise a loud and persistent howl. The general criticism by the Plainfield public of the present service of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company is therefore not surprising and is, in fact, eminently proper.

There is not any doubt but Plainfield is at present supplied with as poor a collection of trolley cars as could be found after a long search through the State of New Jersey. It is true that there are some really respectable cars, particularly the big double truck ones, used chiefly on the through line to Elizabeth. But some of the others are positively a disgrace to any self respecting community. Some have been in service since the trolley road was first built here. Others are included in a second-hand lot purchased in Brooklyn by the old Elizabeth and Westfield Company for use until their new cars arrived.

There seems to be some question in the minds of many people as to the duty a corporation owes to the city in which it operates. Any one possessed with even a moderate amount of common sense must realize that the local trolley company owes it to the people of Plainfield to provide decent and respectable cars. There is an excellent business for a trolley company in this city. A certain amount is assured, but it may be greatly increased if there is any attempt made to cater to the wants of the patrons. If the local traffic is well cared for, any future requests of the trolley company are likely to be regarded far more favorably than under present conditions.

If the officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company know what it is for the best interests of their company, they will lose no time in remedying the present trouble. The service, at present, is not good. The people know it and are commenting on the fact and the company should not be blind to it. Immediate action will be appreciated.

Chicago people believe, with apparent reason, according to the Philadelphia Record, that the surprising growth of their city is largely due to their confirmed habit of advertising its advantages. At a recent meeting of enterprising business men it was decided that an effort should be made to bring to Chicago some of the manufacturing establishments which are no longer prosperous in Europe, and some of the European capital which is seeking industrial investment. After considering the means of publicity the promoters of the project resolved to advertise Chicago in the leading newspapers of the principal cities of Europe.

It is generally conceded that the formation of a new county with Greater Plainfield as the county seat could never be brought about. It would disturb the balance of power between north and south Jersey and raise heavy opposition from the three counties which would be affected. Then the cost of the necessary county buildings would be very great. There remains but one other way to accomplish the union of the city and borough and that is to alter the county line. Which shall it be. Plainfield in Somerset county or North Plainfield in Union?

In an editorial, which is very much to the point, the announcement is made in today's issue of the North Plainfield Review, that in the future the policy of the newspaper will be independent. The editor very wisely says: "A strictly party paper cannot have an opinion of its own. Such a newspaper speaks for its party, and must of necessity be one sided." We are glad to note that the Review sees the wisdom of the policy adhered to by The Daily Press, and predict for it a brighter future if it "speaks its own mind."

Strange things are happening over in Hudson county. Jersey City elected a Republican mayor and now Bayonne is preparing to legally regulate the length of women's skirts.

THAT FAMOUS FIGHT.

James Smith and John Marra Fined For Their Participation in it.

City Judge Runyon, this morning, rendered his decision in the case against James Smith and John Marra, the participants in the now famous fight which will go down in history in the annals of West End pugilism.

Smith admitted striking the first blow and, in fact, several of them but he strenuously objected to the assertion that he had kicked his opponent. The evidence, the court said, seemed to bear him out and it also proved that both men were equally to blame in provoking the encounter. For that reason a fine of $6 or twenty days was imposed in each case.

John Porter who was originally made a defendant, had sentenced suspended because the testimony did not make him culpable, beyond a case of intoxication.

You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation The worst cases quickly cured. CONCERT OF POWERS

It Should Be Invoked to Secure Miss Stone's Release.

Bulgarian Boxers and Government Not Entitled to More Consideration Than the Mob Leaders Who Killed Ketteler.

The brigands who hold Miss Ellen M. Stone, American missionary, in captivity refuse to be influenced by the government of Bulgaria, Turkey or the United States. Presumably they know what action has been taken by the several governments, and their answer to all appeals, to all orders, is that Miss Stone will be killed unless a ransom of $110,000 is paid.

If Miss Stone is held a prisoner through the connivance of the Macedonian committee or the Bulgarian government, it is fair to assume that she will not be killed. If a political purpose was served by her capture, the responsibility for her murder would rest with all associated with the intrigue. In such case the brigands are simply the instruments, and the responsible parties for the retention of the missionary in captivity are government officials.

Whether or not ransom is paid, all such officials must be brought to punishment, if not by the Bulgarian and Turkish governments, then by the United States. If Bulgaria, under the present administration, is helpless before such a situation, why should the state not be treated by civilization just as China was treated when war was made on the legations in Peking and when missionaries were slaughtered by connivance of the imperial government?

On the other hand, if the brigands are acting independent of any political intrigue, in defiance of their own government and in defiance of the authority of Turkey, and in contempt of the United States, then they are no better than the Boxers of China who shot down the German minister, Ketteler, at Peking. In that case Germany held the Chinese government responsible, and exacted not only the severest penalties for those participating in the murder, but the most abject apology from the Chinese authorities. In this course Germany was sustained by all the civilized powers of the world.

MISS ELLEN M. STONE.
(American Missionary Captured by Bulgarian Bandits.)

When it became clear that the Chinese government at Peking could not or would not protect Americans and Europeans against the Boxer mobs, the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Russia and other powers interfered and compelled the suppression of the outlaws. If Bulgaria or Turkey cannot suppress brigands as contemptuous as the Boxers in defiance of the laws of civilization, there is as good reason for the interference of other powers in the case of Bulgaria as in the case of China.

If ransom is paid at all, it should be paid by Bulgaria or Turkey. If ransom is paid by individuals in America, the money should be refunded by the governments responsible for the operations of the brigands. But above and beyond this is a larger question. Miss Stone is an American, located in an empire that guarantees the protection of Americans, is held as a prisoner in a state that has accepted the obligations imposed on other states, and the United States has made a demand for her release. If this demand is not complied with, then punishment must follow.

The Bulgarian government in the last year has been involved in low intrigues leading to assassination, has been intimidated by conspirators against the peace of the country, has failed to perform the functions of government. Only the jealousies of the European powers as to influence in the Balkan peninsula have prevented action that would bring Bulgaria to terms. No such complications stand in the way of the United States.

If Turkey cannot compel Bulgaria to act in this case, or in similar cases, then the United States must. A government that can keep open communication with brigands to enable them to make demands for ransom and to telegraph threats to the friends of prisoners that they will be killed, should be able to release the prisoners. That it does not, argues the Chicago Inter Ocean, is a virtual confession of abdication, and other powers should act accordingly.

R·I·P·A·N·S
DIZZINESS.
A plain, straightforward statement regarding Ripans Tabules is herewith made by a middle-aged lady living in Memphis, Tenn. I have been a great sufferer for years. About twelve months since I became a victim to dizziness or vertigo. So badly was I affected as to fall and become insensible. I consulted several prominent physicians, but their prescriptions did no good whatever. All my life I have been bitterly opposed to patent medicine. Am the widow of a surgeon and physician. I chanced to read your advertisement and sent for fifty cents' worth of Ripans Tabules. I took one Tabule three times daily, and when all were gone found myself free from that horrible affliction, although I had been afflicted for months. Hoping there are other sufferers who may learn the virtues to be found in your pleasant remedy, I am yours gratefully.
WANTED—A case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R·I·P·A·N·S on the package and accept no substitute. R·I·P·A·N·S, five cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

LONG LINES.

Many Two Piece Dresses Show Princess Effects.

A princess effect is aimed at in fashionable gowns. The trimming of the waist is made to form long, continuous lines with that of the skirt. No matter how intricate the trimming may be, there is a strong effort to preserve the outlines of the figure and to give that sheathlike effect down to the knees which fashion requires. Almost all the stripes and insertions run perpendicularly or they are laid in V shaped points back and front. This "herringbone" effect, as it is called, is excessively popular in tucked skirts. The tucks are at first very narrow near the waist line, but they increase in width toward the bottom of the skirt. The spaces between are filled in by embroidery or hemstitching.

LACE DINNER GOWN.

Separate black velvet skirts are worn with dressy light colored bodices. The skirts are made with a deep flounce strapped with satin or taffeta. Separate jackets are also made of velvet with wide collars of embroidery. They are worn with black broadcloth skirts.

A very smart evening gown is here shown. It is made of coffee colored lace over pink taffeta. The lace is further enriched with black embroidery. The V shaped neck of the bodice is outlined with a narrow band of sable, and the short puffed sleeves are also finished with a band of the same fur and a deep fall of lace. The waist is pouched both back and front and is belted in by means of three narrow black velvet ribbons. A pink rose worn in the low coiffure gives the finishing touch of color to this charming costume.

HISTORIC STYLES.

Fashions of Bygone Days Which Are Being Revived.

The styles this year are all borrowed from different periods, and it is no unusual thing to see in one gown the traces of three entirely different historical costumes. From Louis XIII. we obtain the wide lace collars and cuffs, the short boleros and puffy underblouses and sleeves. From Louis XIV. we get the long coats, the skirts opening over panels, the redingotes and the slashings, the fancy knots and aiguillettes. Louis XV. gives us the puffed skirts, the straight front corsets, the long pointed bodices. From Louis XVI. we have the shepherdess hats, the charming Watteau effects and the fichus so beloved by Marie Antoinette. The empire styles provide us with the sacklike automobile coats and the stole shaped furs, with their accompanying enormous muffs.

HOUSE GOWN.

At present there is also a strong attempt to revive the Eugenie costumes, with their berthas reaching almost to the waist line and their low decolletage uncovering the shoulders.

The very handsome house gown in the illustration is of pale yellow and white striped glace silk. The skirt is simply made with three narrow gathered flounces. The waist has a jacket of lace, with elbow sleeves made partly of the silk and partly of the lace. There is a wide girdle of black panne trimmed with four rhinestone buttons. The deep postilion back is of plaited silk edged at the side with narrow lace beading run through with narrow velvet ribbon. These narrow velvet ribbons also appear on the collar.

Good Medicine.

Always set your face firmly toward health. Say that you are better when people inquire. The very declaration will assist in making you feel so. Persistent good cheer and hopefulness are remedial agents very hard to defeat in the conflict between illness and health. —Ladies' Home Journal.

A BONNET TRAGEDY.

It Made Everybody Laugh Except the Two Women Most Deeply Interested in the Play.

The Chicago Tribune, which is authority for this story, says that at the Oak Park avenue station of the Lake Street Elevated road an elderly woman came into the rear coach and sat down in a cross seat. At Prairie avenue, in Austin, another elderly woman entered the car, caught the eye of the Oak Park woman, smiled, and advanced to an effusive greeting in which both played star parts. In three minutes they were deep in a conversation that lasted all the way into town—but with one hitch in it.

On one woman's bonnet was a cluster of spangled grasses, with seeds done in small glass beads, shaping at the top. On the other bonnet was an obtrusive jet ornament that twinkled, and flashed, and shook under the earnest motions of the woman's head and hands.

And at Ashland avenue, when the voices were lowered and the earnestness on both sides deepened, the grasses on one bonnet clinched the jet on the other with a death grip. The women grew red and reached for their top hair, but it was no use.

A woman across the aisle tittered. A man looked up from his paper and smiled. Soon one end of the car was giggling and watching the efforts of the women to release themselves. A boy on the platform saw it.

"Break away!" he jeered, rudely.

The whole car was laughing.

And the women were redder than ever.

A woman across the aisle finally released them. But it broke the conversation half in two, and it was not resumed for full five minutes.

HE DRINKS HIS BEER.

St. Louis Has a Rooster Who Is Fond of Liquor and Clucks Like an Old Politician.

One of the most prominent politicians of St. Louis is a rooster, "Clucking Dick" by name, which for nearly a year has inhabited a Carr street grocery and barroom. "Clucking Dick" came to the grocery store inside of an egg which was marked "strictly fresh" by an ingenuous Illinois farmer. He hatched himself out the day of his arrival and has ever since been the presiding genius of the place. He drinks his glass of beer twice a day and in the evening sips his three fingers of whisky with all the pleasure of an old toper. The men who frequent the barroom have taught "Dick" to be a politician and a baseball "fan." When the St. Louis club wins "Dick" flies to the top of the ice box and crows lustily. When John Sweeney, delegate from the ward, whom "Dick" ardently supports, is reelected "Dick" shows his pleasure in the same way. In the days of his youth and innocence "Dick" used to drink milk, but he has long given up that mild beverage and now sticks to beer as a regular tipple. Incidentally he has succeeeded in whipping every rooster in the vicinity.

Trouble at Church Fair.

At a church entertainment in Toledo, O., there was one booth before which a sign stated that kisses could be had for five cents each. The young men rushed in, invested their nickels, and were disgusted when they received only a molasses candy kiss. Then another sign was put up reading: "The real thing—one dollar." The young men refused to buy kisses at this price, and the girls say they are stingy and ungallant.

What Is a Runaway Horse?

They have nice horses and cattle out west, but they have little ways of their own. For instance, a broken horse out west has points of difference from a broken horse in the east. Some of the saddle horses caused me most unaffected misery when I had to ride—and it was the same thing with the driving horses. I used to spend my winters in the east, and when I went back to the ranch I would of course want to hear the latest news about my neighbors—who'd been hanged and the rest. My foreman had a grievance against a professor from Ann Arbor, who wanted to see the Bad Lands and had hired a team, which ran away, smashing things up and breaking the professor's arm. He said that the professor had made a remark which made him hot. He didn't mind his saying that he had fallen into a den of sharks—because he knew sharks didn't have dens, and, besides, he didn't charge the professor for the use of the team; what made him hot was the remark that he had foisted on the professor a team of runaway horses. "He had no right to call them that," said the foreman. "One horse had only been driven twice, and could hardly be called a confirmed runaway, and the other—well, there were lots of times when he hadn't run away."—Forest and Stream.

Distinctive "Readin'."

An aged colored man, who is well known to some of the attaches of the city hall, for whom he frequently does odd jobs at their homes, is familiarly called by the sobriquet of "Tute." One day "Tute" asked one of his many employers if he would kindly read a note for him. he request was complied with, and it proved to be a call upon "Tute's" services as a whitewasher and cleaner of cellars. "Why, 'Tute," said the man, "this is very plainly written, and you surely ought to be able to read this yourself, for I have frequently seen you reading the papers." "Well, that's just it," replied "Tute." "Ye see, I can't read writin' readin', but I kin read readin' readin'." This peculiar explanation revealed that "Tute" could manage to read print, but was unable to read writing.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dust from the Clouds.

Baron Nordenskjold, upon finding on the snows of Greenland dust composed of the elements invariably associated with meteorites, and of uncommon occurrence in terrestrial matter, concluded that cosmic dust is falling imperceptibly but continually upon the earth. Recent spectroscopic examination of many varieties of dust collected in England and elsewhere has an interesting bearing on Nordenskjold's conclusions. Among the constituents of dust floating in the air are lead, silver, copper, rubidium, gallium, indium, thallium, nickel, manganese, and so forth. Many of these can be traced to their sources in factory chimneys and flues. Volcanic dust has characteristic features, and dust from clouds, collected either by itself or in hail, snow, sleet or rain, exhibits a regularity of composition not seen in other varieties of dust. Iron, nickel, calcium, copper, potassium and sodium always appear in it in about the same proportions. Some dust that fell near Dublin in 1897 resembles meteorites in its composition, is attracted by a magnet, and seems to be of cosmic origin.—Science.

BULLET PROOF CLOTH

Genuine Life Protectors for Rulers and Public Men.

Had President McKinley Worn One of Szczepanik's Undershirts No Anarchist Could Have Killed Him.

"An undergarment of this material," said Dr. Szczepanik, of Vienna, "would have rendered the bullet of that Buffalo anarchist entirely harmless. A month from now all rulers and a great many public men the world over will be wearing them, that is, if we can supply the demand."

The Austrian Edison pointed to a woven fabric cut in the shape of a high waistcoat, and, drawn over a lay figure, possessing just as much elasticity and power of resistance as a live human body.

"Have you got your revolver with you?"

The correspondent protested that he never carried such a thing.

"Pardon me," cried the inventor, "I thought every American did."

He opened a drawer containing an assortment of six-shooters of all calibers and makes. The correspondent selected a well-known pattern registered "seven millimeters caliber," loaded it carefully, and took a position near the door.

"No, no," said Szczepanik, "nowadays assassins come up quite closely to their intended victims."

"What is the proper distance?"

"Suit yourself. Stand six feet, or twelve, or fifteen, or two, or four. It's all the same."

The bullet, which was of considerable size, rebounded the instant it struck, and fell upon the floor. Three more shots fired in quick succession, and well aimed, had the same negative result. The correspondent was given full liberty to investigate. He sounded the lay figure, handled and punched it. Szczepanik does not care at present to reveal the nature of its material. However, the writer feels certain that it has no metallic substance. It is pliable and as little resisting to the touch of one's finger as the swelling of a woman's arm.

SHOOTING AT A DUMMY.
(Testing Mr. Szczepanik's Bullet-Proof Underclothes.)

On the covering there were four dark spots, the impressions of the bullets fired on to it, not into it. The material is white silk-like and about four millimeters thick. "One could make a nice winter coat out of this," said the inventor, "if it was not so expensive, but a shield of this stuff worn under the shirt will suffice for the purposes for which it is intended—the protection of rulers and public men in general. The shield should cover all vital parts. The head could be protected by a skull cap, and the face, if necessary, by a fan or an umbrella of this material.

"And if you want to go still further, the cover of the carriages used by the executive, as well as the curtains and hangings of his box at the theater might be manufactured of this bullet and dagger proof material."

So sure is Szczepanik of the invulnerability of the cloth that he offered himself as a target to the correspondent, who declined. "There are more than a dozen men in the factory who feel as strongly as I on the subject," he said.

"President Carnot and the unhappy empress of Austria died by the assassin's knife," continued the inventor. "Indeed, at one time the European secret police gathered information to the effect that anarchists had decided to abandon altogether revolver, shotgun and infernal machines for the dagger. Hence, a life protector of this kind would not be perfect unless responding to all possible emergencies. There," pointing to a drawer, "you will find an assortment of stilettos, bowies, butchers' knives, and several other sorts of knives. Select any weapon you please and perforate my cuirass if you can."

A brigand's knife was used first, then a bowie was used, bread knife, and a shoemaker's knife afterwards, but the point of neither penetrated the silk material by one hundredth part of a millimeter, even though the newspaper man did the stabbing with all the force and strength at his command.

As to the why and wherefore, Szczepanik would only say this: "It's all in the weaving. The method of weaving adopted paralyzes concussion by distributing the shock over the entire area of the garment. Of course the material is especially selected for the purpose."

Szczepanik is sure that his invention will at last furnish rulers and public men with the necessary life protector necessary as long as there are anarchists and other lunatics in the world. As intimated, the price of the cloth is great, for the present at least, but that cuts no figure. Eventually the dagger and bullet proof material may become cheap enough to revolutionize warfare, but that is a long ways off.

WAS WEDDED AT HIGH NOON.

PRETTY CEREMONY AT A WEST SEVENTH STREET HOME.

Miss Grace Vaughan Edson Married to Thomas Lomax McGowen, of Jacksonville, Fla.

At high noon today, Miss Grace Vaughan Edson, one of Plainfield's most charming young women, was united in marriage to Thomas Lomax McGowen, of Jacksonville, Fla. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home on West Seventh street, only the immediate family and a few friends being in attendance. Rev. S. P. Simpson, of New York, was the officiating clergyman.

Mr. McGowen was accompanied by his intimate friends, C. A. Montjoy and Colonel Heacock, of New York, and James B. Bouck, Jr., of Long Island City. The bride was unattended. Following the ceremony a collation was served and congratulations were extended.

The young couple will shortly go south by way of Norfolk, Va., the bride's birthplace, where they will visit her uncle, Col. Vaughan, general superintendent of the Southern Railway Company. They will reside at Jacksonville.

The bride is well known in this city and is very popular, while the groom enjoys the highest social and business standing in the south. He is vice-president and general manager of the Florida Paint Manufacturing Company, at Jacksonville, president of the Carolina Paint and Builders' Supply Company, of Charleston, S. C., and the proposed vice-president of the Home Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Depth of the Earth's Atmosphere.

The Belgian royal meteorological observatory has published the estimates made by various mathematicians and physicists regarding the depth of the atmosphere surrounding the earth, says the Scientific American. The calculations of the various savants upon this subject are widely divergent. Biot estimated that the depth was only about 40 miles; Bravias, 70 miles; Schiaparelli, 125 miles; Marie Davy, 187; while Ritter stated that it reached to a height of 216 miles. In Great Britain, during the early part of the last century, the depth of the atmosphere was generally accepted as being 40 miles, but the fact that meteors became incandescent at a much greater altitude incontrovertibly proved that this calculation was fallacious. Sir Robert Ball states that meteors have been observed at a celsiture of more than 200 miles, and, since they only become incandescent when they come into contact with the air, the calculation of Ritter appears to be the most correct.

Generals of the Revolution.

Of the generals of the revolution it may be fairly said that their military ability was, at least, superior to that of their opponents. They never lost an army, while Burgoyne lost his at Saratoga, and Cornwalis his at Yorktown. Howe gained victories at Long Island, the Brandywine and Germantown, but they were not due to his skill, but to the fact that he commanded regular, trained troops and was opposed by undisciplined levies; he escaped defeat at Monmouth, but this was due to Lee's treachery and cowardice. Similarly, Cornwallis gained victories at Guilford and Eutaw Springs, and for the same reasons. But neither Howe nor Cornwallis was ever able to destroy or capture the army opposed to him; and Clinton did not think it prudent to attempt any decisive operations. On the other hand, Washington constantly showed military ability of the very highest order. There is no greater mistake than to call him a good man, but a second-rate soldier. —Scribner's.

Small Horseshoes.

The smallest horse, probably, that was ever fitted with a set of shoes by any horseshoer in California occupied a place in the shop of a Petaluma blacksmith not long ago. It was a six-months-old Shetland pony, one of a herd a Los Angeles man was bringing down from Mendocino county, where they had been pastured during the summer. The rough roads had worn its bare feet and necessitated shoeing. The shoes, fashioned out of a steel bar, when fitted to the pony's feet were a trifle larger than a silver dollar piece and the full set weighed just four ounces, an ounce for each shoe.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Revengeful Pigeons.

A remarkable story of the vengeance wrought by pigeons is told by a paper at Zurich, writes our correspondent. Two pigeons built a nest in a tree situated in a well-stocked garden of flowers and vegetables, and there raised a brood, of which they were very proud. The other day the old birds left the nest, and in their absence some one captured the young ones. On their return the hen was much upset at her loss. The cock, however, went and fetched about 50 other pigeons, which actually devastated the garden, the vegetables and flowers being destroyed in wholesale quantities.—London Mail.

British Tar's Rations.

Occasionally an American blue jacket complains of his rations, but nothing that he has experienced equals what an English inspector reports of the rations on a British warship. Commissioner Arnold White, who has made a personal examination of the Mediterranean fleet, says a bowl of tea and chunk of hard bread is the only food a blue jacket receives between 12:30 o'clock in the day and 6:30 o'clock the next morning.—N. Y. Sun.

Nothing Much.

"Bridget, there's a policeman at the door come for you."

"Sure, is ther, mum?"

"Yes, Bridget; I hope to goodness you haven't been doing anything wrong!"

"I hope not, mum."

"What have you been doing, Bridget, that he should come after you?"

"Only fallin' in love, mum."—Yonkers Statesman.

DEBATED ON QUESTION OF IMMIGRATION LAWS.

Argument Decided In Favor of Existing Laws Governing the Subject.

SUBJECT WELL PRESENTED.

AT MEETING OF THE PLAINFIELD LITERARY SOCIETY SATURDAY.

Held at Y. M. C. A.—H. R. Linbarger and E. K. Hartley Argued For Present Conditions—Douglass Drake and J. E. Jeffrey Against Them.

A spirited debate on the immigration question enlivened the meeting of the Plainfield Literary Society, which held a session in the parlor of the Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening. Music preparation had been made by those chosen to participate in the discussion and many facts of an instructive nature were brought out, after which a decision was made by the judges that the present laws are adequate.

The subject was: "Resolved, that the existing immigration laws should not be revised." H. R. Linbarger and E. K. Hartley presented the favorable side of the resolution. They declared that the present laws are sufficiently strict. The Irish, Scandinavians and Germans make good hard working, thrifty citizens, Mr. Linbarger claimed. He pointed out that the present laws provide that only the better class of foreigners are admitted to the country. His colleague declared that there is much unoccupied land in the west which industrious foreigners might develope. Mr. Hartley's talk contained many good points.

Douglass Drake and J. E. Jeffrey put up a hard fight to rebut these contentions. "America for Americans" was Mr. Drake's argument. He declared that the foreign-born citizen, to a large extent, cannot be assimilated. Mr. Jeffrey claimed that the majority of foreigners who enter are of a degraded class, and seldom rise from that condition. Politics and the liquor ambition is their ambition mostly when they become citizens, said he.

J. Henry Crane and C. E. Drange acted as judges, and decided that the arguments made by Messrs. Harley and Linbarger entitled them to the decision. C. M. Dolliver, the vice-president of the society, presided at the meeting. At the close of the debate an informal discussion of the subject followed.

SECOND INDUSTRIAL EXHIBIT.

WORKS ON ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING AT PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Displayed to Advantage—Exhibit Was Held at Public Library Saturday and Sunday.

In order to more fully carry out the idea entertained by the late George H. Babcock when he endowed the scientific library which bears his name, the officials of the Public Library have inaugurated a series of exhibits treating on industrial and mechanical subjects. The second of these was conducted Saturday afternoon and evening and yesterday afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock.

Electrical engineering formed the exhibit and that much interest is taken in this subject by Plainfielders was evidenced by the fact that a very large number availed themselves of the opportunity to further their knowledge in this direction.

Miss Adams and her corps of assistants were in attendance and explained the works displayed. They consisted for the most part of the library's valuable collection of books dealing with everything in the study of electricity from the minute explanation of bell wiring to the installation of huge power plants and the more modern industry of electric vehicle building.

There were also books on dynamos, electric light and wiring, street railways, measurement of electricity, voltaic accumulators and batteries. Theoretical electricity was touched upon lightly.

Through the kindness of the Plainfield Electric Light Company and Allen B. Laing, the officials were enabled to enhance the value of the exhibit through the display of electric apparatus and a number of excellent blue prints from drawings made for the Westinghouse Electrical Company and used by it in erecting plans.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN CENTRAL TIME TABLE.

New Schedule Went Into Effect on the Jersey Central Yesterday Morning.

WHAT THE CHANGES ARE.

RUNNING TIME ON EXPRESS TRAINS SLIGHTLY INCREASED.

Several Trains Taken Off and Others Added—The "Owl" Train Will Run No More—Changes in Commuters' Trains.

A new time table on the New Jersey Central went into effect yesterday. Many changes have been made in the time of arrival of trains in this city, and in some instances trains have been abolished. The most notable change on the time table is the discontinuance of the Saturday specials.

There are a number of important changes in the west bound passenger service. Train No. 25, which left New York at 1 o'clock in the morning and arrived here at 2:08, has been taken off entirely, and there is no train to Plainfield until that which leaves the city at 4 o'clock and arrives at Plainfield at 5:25. Another train, No. 11, has been added to the mid-day traffic. It leaves New York at 12:45 o'clock and is due here at 1:40. This is an express to Roselle, making no stop at Elizabeth.

For the afternoon service there has been added another train, No. 73. It leaves the city at 2:30 o'clock, making no stop at Elizabeth, and getting here at 3:26. Train No. 47, which leaves New York at 5:30 o'clock, is due here at 6:19 instead of 6:15, and train No 65, which formerly left New York at 11:45, now starts at 11:50 and gets here at 12:49, instead of 12:44. On Sundays there is no 1 o'clock in the morning train, as is also the case on weekdays. The Philadelphia and Washington train, No. 507, which leaves New York at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, now makes no stop in this city.

There are just as many changes in the east bound service. Train No. 26, which formerly left Dunellen at 3:30 o'clock, in the morning, and reached here at 3:37, has been taken off the schedule. The Philadelphia and Washington train, No. 512, which formerly left off passengers here at 7:19, does not arrive until 7:41. The Somerville train, No. 34, which left this place at 7:26, now gets here at 7:25. The Easton express train No. 4, which was due here at 8:37, now arrives at 8:34.

The local No. 46, heretofore arriving at 7:29 o'clock, in the morning, is now due at 7:28, and the great commuters' train No. 38, which was due at 7:59, arrives at 7:55. There is one minute's difference in train No. 24, which now comes to Plainfield at 7:47 instead of 7:48. An important change has been made in train No. 6. It is due here at 9:59, instead of 10:10, and gets to New York at 10:45 instead of 10:55.

The Philadelphia train, No. 508, which stopped to let off passengers here at 4:49 o'clock in the afternoon, now stops for the same purpose at 5:09 and is due in New York at 5:55, instead of 5:35. Train No. 58, which arrived at 4:55, now gets here at 4:47. It now gets to New York at 5:55 o'clock in the afternoon, instead of 6. Another Philadelphia train which has been taken off the local timetable is No. 502. It formerly stopped to let off passengers at 6:15 o'clock in the evening. Train No. 16 arrives at 9:40 o'clock in the evening, instead of 9:46, and it is due in New York at 10:40 instead of 10:45.

Sunday trains on the east bound service include a number of changes. Train No. 26, which was a local from Dunellen, getting here at 3:37 o'clock in the morning, has been taken off the schedule. The 7:19 o'clock train, No. 512, gets here at 7:41, and it arrives in New York at 8:30 instead of 8:07. In the afternoons, Train No. 508, gets here at 5:09 o'clock, instead of at 4:49, and it arrives in New York at 5:55, instead of at 5:35. The Philadelphia train, No. 502, which let off passengers here at 6:15 o'clock in the evenings, has been taken off. A train now arrives from Philadelphia at 6:45 o'clock, for the purpose of letting off passengers only, and it gets to New York at 7:30 o'clock.

Distinguished Writer a Neighbor.

Miss Mary Wilkins, the distinguished New England writer, has taken up her residence in the neighboring town of Metuchen, having been quietly married to Dr. Charles M. Freeman, of that place, and coming their last week. She will continue her literary work in her new home.

MME. SARAH GRAND.

What Philadelphia Papers Said of Notable Woman Who Lectures Here Thursday.

The noted authoress and lecturer, Mme. Sarah Grand, who is announced at the Casino Thursday night, met with great success in Philadelphia lately and here is what the Ledger and the North American, representative newspapers, said of her lecture on "The Art of Happiness."

"Madame Grand, though speaking for nearly an hour and a half, held the attention of her hearers without an instant's lapse. Her ability to turn without warning from grave to gay kept the ripple of laughter constantly playing across the house, and at her close the applause was long continued."

"Her address was the expression of the cultured and clever gentlewoman on happiness and the reasons for being happy. She touched her theme lightly, with no hint of the world's cynicism in speech or thought. At times she was epigrammatic, to the keen delight of her audience. The hall was filled with sympathetic and appreciative listeners."

Here are a few of Madame Grand's epigrammatic sayings:

"The kindness of men is oftener the expression of their own satisfaction than the desire to please."

"Man makes his own misery. So does woman."

"Men understand much better the art of happiness than women."

"Happiness depends upon the attitude of mind."

Reserved seat tickets—50 cents and 75 cents—are on sale at Armstrong's.

ONLY FIVE PLAYERS THERE.

SO THE PLAINFIELD ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL TEAM DIDN'T PLAY.

Century A. A., of Newark, Defeated the Five and Six Outsiders by Score of 1 to 0.

Owing to an unavoidable error, only five members of the Plainfield Association Football team showed up for Saturday's game with the Century A. A., of Newark. The remainder of the team was made up of men picked from the spectators. The Century team was victorious by a score of 1 to 0.

In the first half both teams played very well and matters were lively for some time, although neither side was able to score. The second half opened with several good plays and for a while it looked as if the game would close without a goal being made. Shortly before the whistle blew Tydsley, by clever playing, managed to kick a goal for the Century team.

The line up was as follows:

Century.		Plainfield

Murphy	FB	Donald
Brown	HB	McCann
Blucher	HB	Gorman
Long	HB	Perry

SHORTER HOURS NEEDED DECLARED DR. YERKES.

Preached to Retail Clerks on Early Closing Movement Last Evening.

AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

URGED CLERKS TO BE TRUE AND RATIONAL TO EMPLOYERS.

Thought Twelve and Thirteen Hours Too Long for Anyone to Work, and Appealed to Merchants and Their Customers.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached a sermon, last evening, regarding the early closing movement in this city. Before referring to the subject he gave a short discourse from the subject "Buy the Truth and Sell It Not." He lain great stress on securing the truth and following its precepts at all cost, and, after getting it, not selling it at any price.

Then, speaking about the plea of the Retail Clerks' Association for early closing, Dr. Yerkes urged the clerks to hold fast to truth, to be firm, honest and just. He thought there was a right way to settle differences, that are bound to exist, that is according to the Golden Rule. He did not believe the clerks would want to work an injustice on any one, and he urged them to be true and rational to the interest of the employer. He cited the fact that many merchants do close early, but as they are in business to make money and, as many find it difficult to make both ends meet in supporting their families, the clerks should be reasonable in their requests.

However, Dr. Yerkes was emphatic in his belief that the clerks should have shorter hours so that they can improve their time intellectually and religiously. He said that drug stores are obliged to keep only nearly all the time. He thought there was great reasonableness in the clerks' request. Twelve and thirteen hours he considered too long for any one to work. It is all wrong, said the speaker, and the times demand shorter hours. He referred to the fact that machinists work eight hours, while young women are asked to work twelve and thirteen hours.

Dr. Yerkes then appealed to the merchants and the customers to right this wrong. He believed everyone could do their shopping between 8 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock in the evening and he urged them to do it, to adapt themselves to the movement.

In conclusion Dr. Yerkes read a statement furnished by the Retail Clerks' Association, and made a plea for earnest consideration of it by the public.

CAME TO MARRY BUT FOUND BRIDE WEDDED

Sorrowful Tale of Albert Soper Who Came Here From Byesville, O.

STRANDED IN THIS CITY.

ANSWERED A MATRIMONIAL AD; WAS TO MEET HIS FUTURE WIFE.

They Had Already Met And Fixed The Preliminary Details—Reached Here to Find Her Already Wedded to Another Ohio Man.

A woeful tale of a woman's duplicity and fickleness and the betrayal of a man's confidence was revealed to the police, Saturday, through the temporary detainment at headquarters of Albert Soper who has been wandering about the streets for several days past. It required considerable tact on the part of Chief Kiely to draw the facts from him but success eventually crowned his efforts and Soper poured his story of blighted love into sympathizing ears.

A few months ago, he said, while at his home in Byesville, O., he noticed in a Chicago matrimonial paper, the advertisement of a Plainfield woman, seeking a husband. The ad was couched in the usual glowing terms depicting the accomplishments of the beautiful young woman in question, her fortune and prospects and amiable disposition. In return all that was asked was a good looking young man man not over thirty years of age and bearing an excellent reputation.

After due deliberation, Soper, who enjoys single blessedness, concluded that he filled every requirement and straightway wrote to the young woman, who at that time lived on Terrill road. He received an answer and in a very short time a correspondence sprang up in the course of which the Ohio man proposed and was accepted. A meeting was arranged to take place at McVeystown, Pa., where a few weeks ago, the young people saw each other in person for the first time.

The favorable impression gained from the letters was seemingly increased on the part of both and after discussing prospects for the future, they separated. Soper returned to Byesville and the young woman to Plainfield with the understanding that the former was to receive word to come to this city as soon as the bride-elect could arrange matters for the ceremony and prepare her trousseau.

The word was sent two weeks ago and Soper threw up his job as cabinet maker to hurry to Plainfield. He reached this city early last week and proceeded to his prospective bride's home only to receive the startling intelligence that she was already married, happy and contented.

The ceremony, he was told, took place in the rectory of St. Mary's church, Saturday, Nov. 10, with Rev. Father Smyth officiating. By a strange coincidence the groom was also from Ohio, coming from a place near Byesville, called Cambridge.

There was nothing else for Soper to do but relinquish all claims on the young woman, as it was a clear case of jilt. He was without friends or money, and has since been wandering aimlessly about the streets, waiting for a chance to earn enough to take him home. He came under the notice of the police last week, with the result that they determined to question him. This was done Saturday, and it was then for the first time that he told his story.

The fickle young woman and her husband are residing on Terrill's road, utterly oblivious of the plight of the deceived Soper.

FORGOT HIS PLEDGE.

But City Judge Runyon Did Not Forget to Give a Heavy Sentence.

In the city court this morning John Dorgan had reason to regret his promise to City Judge Runyon last week to the effect that he would take the pledge for one year and refrain absolutely from drinking intoxicants, That was on Friday and he was released on that condition.

This morning at 2 o'clock he was found on North avenue by Patrolman Totten, helplessly drunk. The court remembered the promise made and sentenced Dorgan to $10 or forty days. He took the latter.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unnecessary to cure piles. Indian Coins.

The Indian famines have afforded coin collectors many opportunities to acquire rare and old coins, which have lain buried for a great number of years. The native has always shown a very grave suspicion of banks, and has usually preferred to bury coins in what was considered a safe spot. Those hiding places are revealed by father to son, and the accumulations sometimes go on for generations. In dire extremity the hoard has to be trespassed on; coins which have long since become exceedingly rare are thus brought to light, and are eagerly snapped up by collectors. Many of them are being sold in London at the present time. —London Chronicle.

A Juvenile Bunko Man.

Tommy had been quiet for fully five minutes. He seemed to be engaged with some deep problem.

"Papa," he said.

"Well?"

"'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you'—that's the golden rule, isn't it, papa?"

"Yes, my son."

"And it's puffickly right to follow the golden rule, isn't it, papa?"

"Yes, indeed."

Tommy rose, went to the cupboard and returned with a knife and a large apple pie. The latter he placed before his astonished sire with great solemnity.

"Eat it, papa!" he said.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Song of the Turk.

Turks are very fond of singing, and boys or men with good voices are eagerly sought after to make up water parties. Their songs, however, are not pleasing to European ears. The singer leans his jaw on his hand, as if he had a toothache, and then emits a series of yells which are impossible to convert into words, but which are supposed to form songs, nearly every word being followed by the word "Aman." Sometimes the whole song consists of long drawn out "Amans."—London Telegraph.

COMPLETING THE CENSUS.

Director Merriam Says Work Will Be Done Within Specified Time.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The annual report of Hon. W. R. Merriam, director the census, is made public by the secretary of the interior, to whom it is addressed. Speaking of the prospect of meeting the legal requirement for the completion of the four principal reports by July 1, 1902, Mr. Merriam says:

"The work of tabulating the returns and results of the field work of the enumerators and special agents of the twelfth census has progressed with reasonable celerity. The law provides that the four principal reports shall be placed in the hands of the public by the 1st of July, 1902, and this requirement has rendered it absolutely necessary to maintain a clerical force adequate to complete the work within the prescribed period. The statisticians made estimates of the time needed to finish the particular branch assigned to each of them. The plans so submitted have been greatly interfered with by the absence of clerks from duty owing to sickness or annual leave. The officials of the office believe that their allotted task will be completed in ample time."

The director gives a list of prosecutions for violation of the law in connection with the census work, saying of them:

"It is hardly to be expected out of the large number of agents employed in the field work—about 55,000 in all—that there would not be some who would prove incompetent and unfaithful to duty. The director has endeavored to enforce the census act to the letter and through the assistance of the attorney general has proceeded against all offenders."

Mississippi Officers Cremated.

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 18.—John R. Montgomery, deputy United States marshal pro tem., a respected citizen of Oxford, and Deputy United States Marshal Hugh Montgomery of Pontotoc left here Saturday for the purpose of arresting Will Mathis, an alleged counterfeiter and moonshiner, who lives twelve miles east of this place. Early Sunday morning Montgomery's horse was found standing at the gate of Curdy Hall, a neighbor of Mathis', and Mathis' house burned to the ground. Upon further investigation two partially burned bodies were found in the ashes of the burned building, which have been identified as the remains of the deputy marshals. John A. Montgomery's horse has not yet been found, and it is supposed that Mathis made his escape on him after the men had been killed and the house set on fire.

Proposed McKinley Memorial.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 18.—If the proposition made by a committee of 100 citizens to the finance committee of the recent national Grand Army encampment is carried out; a surplus of $8,000 collected for that occasion will be used to erect a bronze statue of heroic size to the late President McKinley in the public square, the center of the business portion of the city. Thus far the matter has received the indorsement of most of the men connected with the Grand Army encampment, and there is little doubt of the memorial soon becoming a reality.

British Bark Wrecked.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 18.—The barkentine Titania, Liverpool for St. John's, was wrecked in a dense fog near Cape Race. Fireman Williams lost his life in trying to reach the shore. The captain and the rest of the crew, all of whom were badly injured, had a terrible experience. They were on the wreck for thirty-six hours, lashed to the rigging. So thick was the fog that the coast folk were not aware that a wreck had occurred, the crew being unable to make any signals that would attract attention.

Americans Enter For Auto Race.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Foxhall Keene have cabled their entrances as competitors in the Paris-Vienna race, starting from the French capital June 15 next. The race will cover a distance of 900 miles, and competitors from all over the world will participate. Mr. Keene has just ordered an American machine with which to compete in the race. This will be the first time an American automobile is used for racing purposes in Europe.

Lord Kitchener's Latest Report.

FIGHTING IN SAMAR.

Fifty Bolomen Make Desperate Attack, but Are Routed.

LUZON INSURGENTS BADLY WHIPPED

A Party of Four Hundred In Batangas Province Driven From Intrenched Position by American Cavalry. Plan to Enlarge Manila.

MANILA, Nov. 18.—Company E of the Ninth infantry, Captain F. M. Shoeffel, was attacked by fifty bolomen and several insurgents armed with rifles at a point six miles from Tarangnan, in the island of Samar. The insurgents tried to rush the Americans; but, failing to accomplish their purpose, they quickly broke and scattered. The men of the Ninth had a corporal and a scout killed and one private wounded. Sixteen of the bolomen were killed, while the riflemen escaped. Ten Hotchkiss rapid fire guns will be sent to the southern islands for operations in the mountains.

Captain Herman Hall of the Twenty-first infantry has been scouting for several days in Batangas province. He had four separate engagements with the insurgents there. Judging from the firing on these occasions, Captain Hall estimates the force of each band of the rebels at from thirty to fifty. They made no attempt to charge Captain Hall's party. Captain Hall's scout resulted in the capture of one insurgent officer and 50,000 pounds of rice.

General Sumner, commander of the district of southern Luzon, highly praises Captain Hartman and his troop of the First cavalry, who last Wednesday morning attacked 400 insurgents intrenched in rifle pits at Buan, Batangas province, and routed them. General Sumner says the blow then administered by Captain Hartman was the most severe the insurgents have suffered since he (General Sumner) assumed command of the district.

Owing to the fact that the United States transports Sheridan, Waldron and Hancock all met with accidents in the inland sea of Japan the returning party of visiting congressmen is consequently delayed in the latter country, and the transport Thomas, which arrived at Manila Nov. 12, will be immediately dispatched to Japan. General Chaffee deprecates that United States transports should in future pass through the inland sea.

The Filipino priest Deposoy has been sentenced by court martial to death for the murder of certain of his countrymen who favored the Americans. Out of respect, however, to the condemned man's calling and the great religious body to which he belonged and most unworthily represented General Chaffee has commuted his sentence to twenty years' imprisonment. General Chaffee desires it to be understood that the leniency exercised in this case cannot be taken as a precedent and that no person in the islands can be permitted to plead his office, however sacred and exalted this may be, as protection against crimes committed.

The municipal authorities have decided to enlarge the city of Manila and to incorporate within its limits the suburb of Santa Ana.

Needs of the Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Charles A. Conant, special commissioner of the war department on coinage and banking in the Philippines, and D. R. Williams, secretary of the Philippines commission, have left for Washington. They are carrying with them the annual report of the Philippine commission. While its contents will not be made public until after it has been delivered to the president, Commissioner Conant intimated that the commission has renewed the recommendation made a year ago upon the subject of coinage. In discussing legislation by congress that is needed to promote the prosperity of the islands Mr. Conant said: "There are a number of very important measures which would promote American trade and the development of the resources of the islands besides political measures which relate to the form of government. There is a very strong desire to have congress authorize American banks to establish branches with power to aid business and American investment enterprises in the most liberal manner. A definite mining law is being awaited with great eagerness by American capitalists who have already found the islands are rich in gold, copper and iron. A land law and a forest law are also needed."

Re-enforcements Reach Colon.

COLON, Colombia, Nov. 18.—The Colombian gunboat General Pinzon has arrived here from Savanilla with 300 troops. In view of the unchanged conditions on the isthmus this evidence of the government's policy to increase its forces here gives credence to the presumption that General Carlos Alban, military commander of this district, has finally resolved to lead a strong attacking force against the insurgents within his jurisdiction and attempt to terminate the present wearisome deadlock between the Colombian rebels and their government.

Fog Troubles Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—During the greater part of yesterday Paris and its suburbs were shrouded in a dense fog, which seriously interfered with railway transportation and vehicular traffic and caused a number of minor accidents. The fog was so thick along the Seine that the steamboats were compelled to suspend service. Snow has fallen at various points in the provinces.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—Said Pasha, former grand vizier, has been appointed grand vizier in succession to the late Halil Rifat Pasha.

CONSPIRACY RUMORS

Plot to Set Up a Republic In the Northwest.

LED BY AMERICANS AT SKAGUAY.

Five Thousand Miners Said to Be Awaiting Orders to Fight For Independence of Dominion Goldfields.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—An unconfirmed story from Skaguay, Alaska, tells of the discovery of what is alleged to be a huge conspiracy existing in Dawson and ramifying to Skaguay, Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle for the overthrow of the local government of the Northwest Territories and the establishing of a republic, with Dawson as its capital.

According to the details of the story, arms, ammunition and provisions have been taken in over the railroad and cached at strategic points. Prominent American residents at Skaguay are said to be leaders in the conspiracy. Miners to the number of 5,000 are said to await the summons to arms, ready to fight for the independence from Dominion rule of the goldfields, camps and towns. The plan is to overpower the mounted police, arrest the civil authorities and take the government into their own hands. The rigors of the arctic winters would give the insurgents six months immunity from attack by Canadian or British troops, and the adventurous arch conspirators hope for intervention or outside assistance by the time the melting of ice and snow will permit the invasion of their isolated republic.

It is further related that a hurried conference, lasting until midnight, was held at Skaguay Nov. 5, at which were present Captain Corrigan of the Northwest mounted police, who had arrived from across the Canadian border late that evening; Judge Brown of the United States district court, United States Marshal Shoup, United States Attorney Frederich and Major Hovey, commanding the United States troops at Skaguay. This was the last of several hasty consultations between the civil and military representatives of the two powers in relation to the mysterious transportation of supplies into the interior and rumors of a conspiracy to lead the miners in a revolt against the Canadian government in the Northwest Territories. Those present maintained subsequently the strictest silence concerning the new evidence laid before them, and their evident anxiety helped to confirm the rumors of conspiracy.

Captain Corrigan took a train back across the border the next morning, while United States Marshal Shoup embarked on the first steamer for Seattle, which port he reached several days ago. The object of his visit was presumably to confer by telegraph with the authorities at Washington. He sailed Saturday afternoon on the Dolphin on his way back to Skaguay.

A Pro-Boer Demonstration.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—An extraordinary demonstration of pro-Boerism is reported by a Brussels newspaper. A Dutch fishing boat belonging to Ymuiden while off Nielingen lightship, in the North sea, pretended to be in distress and approached a British smack. Thirteen fishermen from the Dutch boat boarded the British craft and attacked the crew of the latter, shouting "Long live the Boers!" Several of the Britishers were wounded. It is alleged that before making the attack the Dutchmen locked their captain in his cabin. The British smack succeeded in escaping and arrived at Ostend, where the captain lodged a complaint with the British consul.

The Baltimore and Ohio's Big Order.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18.—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad will place orders for the following equipment for delivery in 1902: Thirty-eight consolidation locomotives, 10 six wheel shifters, 2 four wheel shifters, 25 passenger coaches, 11 baggage cars, a combined baggage and coach, a combined mail and baggage car, 1,300 eighty thousand pound capacity box cars, 4,000 one hundred thousand pound capacity steel hoppers and 700 flat cars, a total of 50 locomotives, 38 passenger equipment cars and 6,000 freight equipment cars. The cost will approximate $7,000,000. The rail order for 1902 approximates 55,000 tons.

Coal Supply Unequal to Demand.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—The Ledger in its coal article says: "The anthracite coal trade is entering the winter season with evident inability on the part of the companies to fill the demand. This was to have been expected to an extent under ordinary circumstances, but it is increased in a large degree by the lack of transportation facilities. Some of the mines are reduced to a two-thirds output by the inability to get cars to move the coal, and do what they may the companies are practically unable to relieve the situation because all branches of traffic are congested.

Fatal Explosion.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 18.—Two men were killed and four injured as a result of the premature explosion of a blast at the Caparis stone quarry, northwest of Columbus. The two men killed were working under a ledge and were buried under tons of rock. Thorne, the foreman, was hurled thirty-five feet in the air, but his injuries are not serious. A third man will probably die.

Severe Earthquake In New Zealand.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 18.—An earthquake in Canterbury district has devastated the township of Cheviot. Many people have been injured.

QUEEN LIL ARRIVES.

Hawaii's Former Ruler Lands In San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Former Queen Liliuokalani of Hawii, who has just arrived here, is combining business and pleasure. Beside seeking the recovery of her health she has come to consult with the federal authorities relative to the crown lands in Hawaii. These were sequestered by the revolutionary government at the time the monarchy was overthrown, and no attempt has since been made to reimburse her for the loss of the crown revenues, amounting to about $100,000 a year.

The territorial legislature passed a bill appropriating $250,000 for the crown lands, but President Dole vetoed the bill on the ground that there was not sufficient money in the treasury to pay it. Subsequently the legislature offered her a pension of $25,000 a year, but she refused to accept the money for the reason that it would place her on the list of charitables, a step that was exceedingly repugnant to her.

Before the annexation of the islands she was advised by competent attorneys to submit her claims to England for arbitration.

The crown lands are more than a million acres in extent and are worth about $15,000,000.

BRIGANDS STILL PARLEY.

No Reply Received to Latest Proposition For Ransom of Miss Stone.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 18.—The brigands who abducted Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, and Mme. Tsilka, her companion, have not yet replied to the latest proposals of Mr. Dickinson, diplomatic agent of the United States in Sofia. This is believed to be due to the fact that the band has many leaders and that the latter are unable to agree among themselves.

There is a general impression here that time is being frittered away while waiting for the brigands to reduce their demands. It is felt that the only means by which matters can be brought to a head is to inform them as to the sum available for ransom and to declare that this cannot be increased for any consideration whatever. Such an ultimatum might endanger the life of Miss Stone, but it is more probable that the brigands will accept this condition.

Besides, every day's delay imperils her life, not so much on the score of the brigands themselves, but by reason of the exposure and strain she is undergoing.

Safe Crackers Driven Away.

WELLINGTON, Kan., Nov. 18.—Safe blowers raided Milan, a small town sixteen miles west of here, and after entering every prominent store, among them one in which the postoffice is located, wrecked the safe and fixtures of the Milan state bank with dynamite. The two doors were blown off the safe, but the third, on which was the time lock, resisted the force of the explosives, and citizens, who had been aroused by the noise, rushed into the streets with shotguns and drove the robbers away before they had secured any plunder. Believing the robbers were concealed in the bank, a posse kept watch until daylight, when it was discovered they had escaped. Secreted in a vault in the bank was $4,000, which was not taken, and the robbers secured but a few dollars. Bloodhounds from Wichita were taken to Milan, but they refused to take the scent, and the pursuit was abandoned.

Street to Have a Hearing.

PHENIX, Ariz., Nov. 18.—Webster Street, chief justice of the territorial court, has gone to Washington to appear before the department of justice to answer charges of bribery brought against him last summer in connection with a decision affecting the King of Arizona Mining company. It is alleged in the complaint that Street accepted a bribe of from $5,000 to $7,000. Street was in Washington some time ago and requested an investigation, which Attorney General Knox promised him. Street has just received notice that the charges will be considered Nov. 21.

Probable Incendiary Attempt.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 18.—Fire broke out yesterday afternoon in three places in the large wire mills of the John A. Roebling's Sons company. Very little damage was done, but all indications point to the fact that the fires resulted from an effort of some one to destroy the plant. The fires broke out in buildings situated near each other, and in one of them cotton waste was found. The police department is investigating the matter, but as yet no arrests have been made.

Hunting For Dynamiters.

YORK, Pa., Nov. 18.—The detectives are making a vigorous search for the persons who attempted to blow up with dynamite Friday night the western express train on the Northern Central railroad near this city. As yet no arrests have been made, but it is hinted that developments can be expected in a very few days.

Methodist Church Burned.

CARBONDALE, Pa., Nov. 18.—Gas exploded in the furnace of the First Methodist Episcopal church here yesterday, bursting the furnace and scattering burning coal, which set fire to the woodwork. The flames could not be controlled, and the building was totally destroyed. The loss is about $30,000; insurance, $20,000.

WILL FIGHT COMBINE.

Minnesota's Governor Opposed to the Great Northern Company.

WINONA, Minn., Nov. 18.—Governor Van Sant has arrived from St. Paul. When asked regarding the incorporation of the Northern Securities company in New Jersey, he made the following statement:

"The great railway deal in New York, having for its object the uniting of two great competing and parallel lines, the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, is a matter of great public interest. There is justly a widespread opposition to it in our state. I do not know whether it can be prevented, but it is my intention to ask Attorney General Douglas upon his return to bring suit in the name of the state to prevent if possible the consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railway companies.

"It is clearly in open violation of the plain intent and purpose of the law. If under existing laws the consolidation cannot be prevented, I feel that I would be justified in calling an extra session of the legislature to take the necessary steps to successfully resist the move. Believing it to be my plain duty, I shall leave no stone unturned to prevent this contemplated consolidation. Owing to the great interest of our state and people at stake, it should and will be a fight to a finish. If the will of the people of Minnesota can be trampled upon in this manner, the sooner this fact is ascertained and understood the better."

MINE FIRE QUENCHED.

Eight Bodies Unaccounted For at Pocahontas.

POCAHONTAS, Va., Nov. 18.—Excursion trains carried more than 2,000 people from the coalfields of Pocahontas, Flat Top and Elkhorn to the scene of the Baby mine disaster yesterday, and all day long the grounds about the entrance to the mine's shaft was a mass of humanity. The fire in the mine has been extinguished, and the three lines of hose were withdrawn soon after noon. In some of the lower places in the mine the water stands two feet deep.

No bodies have been recovered since Saturday, but the work will continue as long as there is hope of recovering any of the unfortunates. Many of the miners familiar with those employed there still assert that at least eight bodies are yet within the mine. The fallen slate with various intervals throughout the long shaft is being removed, but the work is necessarily slow. The three bodies taken out Saturday were badly burned. They were supposed to be Hungarians and were interred yesterday afternoon.

Money for relief is being raised by popular subscription. The state mine inspector is on the scene, but as yet has given out no statement regarding the supposed cause of the disaster.

The Charleston Exposition.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 18.—Next Sunday week the exposition will open here with a religious service, in which all denominations will take part. An elaborate musical programme will be rendered under the direction of Mme. Barbol, opening with an ode especially written for the occasion by George Herbert Sass and set to music by Professor Theodore Saul. The formal opening of the exposition will take place on Monday, Dec. 2. Chauncey M. Depew of New York will deliver the principal oration, and President Roosevelt will start the wheels moving by wire from the White House. The president has accepted an invitation to visit the exposition with his cabinet on Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday, and it is hoped he will be able to remain here several days, a number of entertainments having been projected in his honor, among them being a deer hunt on the private grounds of President Wagener of the exposition company.

Cullom to Succeed Davis.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Senator Cullom of Illinois will be chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate to succeed the late Senator Davis. "Ever since Senator Frye announced that he would not take the chairmanship of that committee," said Senator Cullom, "I have expected to take it, being the senior member of the committee after Mr. Frye. That is still my intention. It is so understood by my friends and by other senators. I cannot understand why rumors to the effect that I was undecided whether or not to take this chairmanship should be put into circulation. I have had no other intention since Mr. Frye declined the honor."

Murdered and Robbed.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 18.—The body of S. T. Baker, white, a Confederate veteran from Beaufort, S. C., was found in Colonial park yesterday. The man had been murdered, probably about midnight. Mr. Baker was a collector for a leading grocery house and Saturday collected $800. This, however, he had turned over to his employers. It is the theory of the police that some one knew of his collections and hoped to find the money on his person. The body was robbed of a watch, chain and other valuables, and the pockets were turned wrong side out.

Governor Hunt Arrives.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Governor William Hunt of Porto Rico and Dr. M. B. Brumbaugh, commissioner of education, arrived last night from Porto Rico on the steamer Ponce. They are on a vacation, but will consult with President Roosevelt regarding Porto Rican matters before returning to Porto Rico. Dr. Brumbaugh is accompanied by his family.

MINERS IN A BATTLE

Kentucky Strikers Fiercely Attack—One Man Killed.

REPULSED AFTER LONG STRUGGLE.

Trouble Occurred at Mines of the Providence Coal Company Near Madisonville—Coroner Exonerates the Guards.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Nov. 18.—Mining troubles in this district have brought more bloodshed. James H. Smith, a negro striker, is dead; George Crouch another striker, is fatally wounded, while John West, Hut Dawson and Nathan Bush, all guards, are wounded, but none of them dangerously.

The trouble occurred at the mines of the Providence Coal company, seventeen miles from here, where an attack began at an early hour yesterday. The attacking party, some seventy-five or eighty strong, first fired on the engine house, and in a few minutes the company's stables were surrounded. Several animals were killed or disabled. By this time the guards were becoming active, and the attackers formed in a semicircle over the brow of the hill. From this point they poured a well directed fire upon the houses occupied by the nonunion employees and their families.

Men, aroused by the crash of bullets, rushed to small timber piles arranged for use in such an emergency and from behind these returned the fire. The attacking party, sending volley after volley into this quarter, kept up a steady fire on the tipple, engine room, stable and other buildings of the company, while the guards were doing effective work.

The battle raged for almost an hour and a half, when the assailants withdrew, leaving Smith dead and Crouch shot through on the field. How many wounded they took with them is not known, but the leader was seen to fall, and it is believed some of the party who went to the rescue were hit.

County Judge Hall at Providence started an investigation. An inquest was held, the coroner's verdict being that the negro came to his death at the hands of the guards while defending life and property, and they were therefore justified. The news of the shooting spread like wildfire. It was not long before the news reached Adjutant General Murray, who at once commenced an investigation, opening communication with the governor.

Earl Li's Memory Honored.

PEKING, Nov. 18.—The empress dowager has issued another edict eulogizing the late Li Hung Chang and ordering the erection of a memorial arch near his birthplace. The edict also directs that the rank of marquis, conferred upon the eldest son of the late Chinese statesman in his own right, shall descend through twenty-three generations. It confers high rank upon the other sons of Earl Li, upon whom the posthumous rank of a marquis has been bestowed, and confers dignities upon his grandsons, together with lucrative offices.

Fatal Gunning Accident.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Lester Hoyt, George Mills, F. Welsh and Charles Walrath composed a hunting party from this city who were hunting at Lost creek. While waiting for a train to come home Hoyt was trying to shoot some sparrows. Walrath endeavored to stop him, and in fooling Walrath got in front of the gun, which was discharged. The shot shattered the right arm and pierced the body, penetrating the lung. Walrath was brought to the hospital in this city, and the doctors say he will die.

General Wood's Trip.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Nov. 18.—Governor General Wood and his party have returned from Jamaica on the government yacht Kanawha. While at Kingston the governor general was received with much honor by the governor of Jamaica, Sir Augustus Hemming, and the military officers, and he remained a day longer than he had originally intended in consequence of the brilliant social functions. Tonight General Wood will probably go to Guantanamo to inspect the troops.

Power Plant Destroyed.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 18.—A fire at the plant of the Hydraulic Power Manufacturing company's plant destroyed the tower in which the wires are carried from the gorge to the top of the cliff. The Gorge railway is without power, and many of the hotels are using lamps. Several large industries operated by power from the hydraulic plant will be interrupted in their business for a week. The property loss is about $5,000.

Telephone Wire Stolen.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Thieves on Friday night cut and stole a mile of copper wire from the Bell company's long distance service between this city and Great Bend, Pa. The work was done by experts, who climbed every pole in the mile and unfastened the tie wires at the insulators. It is supposed that the wire was stolen to sell to junk dealers. A mile of this wire is worth about $100.

Two Children Burned to Death.

WATERTOWN, Mass., Nov. 18.—Alfred F. and Jennie C. Kendall, aged two and five years respectively, children of Albert Kendall, were burned to death in a fire at their home late yesterday afternoon while they had been left alone for a few minutes by their mother, who had gone to a neighbor's. It is supposed one of the children upset a lighted lamp and an explosion followed.

The City Vote.

Now that the Union county Board of Elections has compiled and announced the official vote for municipal candidates in Plainfield at the last election, it is interesting to note that the figures furnished to the people of Plainfield by The Daily Press on the day after election were remarkably exact. Out of the vote for all the local offices, only four errors were found, two amounting to the change of but one vote, one for a change of two and the other for an alteration of ten. These were the figures which were announced from The Daily Press bulletin board early the morning after election and in the edition which was published that afternoon.

Three of the errors were found in the vote for councilman-at-large. In the First ward, First district, there were 326 ballots cast for E. E. Pray, instead of 315 as previously announced. In that same district, J. F. Buckle received 313 and C. L. Murphy 319. Another change was in the same district, J. P. Homan, a Democratic nominee, receiving 161 instead of 160 The other change in the councilmanic vote was for Clarence L. Murphy who received 313 votes in the First district of the Third ward, one less than orig inally credited to him. The corrected totals for the councilmen-at-large are J. F. Buckle, 1,958; C. L Murphy, 1,913; E. E. Pray, 1,868 J. P. Homan received, 1,185 instead of 1,184.

The only other error was in the number of ballots credited Constable Gjettiesen, in the First district of the First ward. He should have been given 329 instead of 327, making his total vote 435, a majority of 224.

When the hurry and excitement in which those tables were prepared is considered, it is remarkable that so few errors were made. The Daily Press has always made a special effort to give its readers the returns of local elections as correctly and as fully as possible. The results this year so that the attempt was signally successful.

Plainfield is to be congratulated in possessing a corporation counsel of so much foresight as Mr. Marsh. His advice to the Plainfield Board of Education has saved Plainfield from a decidedly unpleasant predicament in which many cities of New Jersey now find themselves. They provided for the raising of the school tax under the Stokes School law, which has just been declared void by the Court of Errors and Appeals. At Mr. Marsh's advice, Plainfield went about its assessment, complying with both old and new laws. It was considerable trouble, but the wisdom of such a course is now made manifest.

Do not let the officials of the Plainfield Water Supply Company discourage you when they tell you that they will never install water meters. Remember the city's experience with the trolley company and the franchise for the East Second street line. The officials of that company said they would never touch the franchise with a "hundred foot pole" when the demands of the city were heard. And yet ultimately the company was forced to grant even greater concessions than were demanded at that time. Just keep at it and water meters will surely be installed.

The disbandment of the auxiliary of Warren Engine Company, of the borough fire department, was prompted by the best interests of the boys who formed it. It was organized for the borough parade so to give the lads a chance to participate. There was really no other use for such an auxiliary company and, the parade being over, it was disbanded.

The second of the industrial exhibits at the Public Library was held Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Electrical engineering was the specific subject this time. The exhibit served to show some of the valuable volumes which are now to be found in the collection at the Babcock Scientific Library.

The custom of the Local Endeavor Union to conduct a special Thanksgiving service, previous to the regular union church service, will be followed this year. The Endeavorers realize that they have much to be thankful for and they want the opportunity to say so.

There will be two recounts of last election's vote in Union county, one in Elizabeth and one in Rahway. Plainfield's vote was so one-sided that any number of recounts could not possibly make any change in the result.

If white paint is not serviceable, then let the fence, which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station, be painted some color which will make it easy to see even at night.

All over the state, there is a strong call for voting machines. Will it amount to anything this time?

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

"Every person familiar with practical election work believes that the votes cast today will not be counted before tomorrow morning. Inasmuch as thousands are interested in ascertaining the result, the impatience over the delay is expected to make many converts to the machine-voting system," the Jersey City Journal says.

The voting machine eliminates ballots and does away with the tedious process of counting, numbering and stringing ballots. The record is made mechanically and automatically by the voters, and the result is known at each polling place immediately after the polls close.

If voting machines had been in use in this State the result of the elections in the cities would have been known by 7 o'clock election night.

The first cost of the machine is considerable, but in cities the annual saving would soon more than offset the initial cost, and the absence of fraud in reading and counting the ballots and the irregularities due to the use of ballots would cease. There would be no rejected ballots, and this would save nearly 3,000 votes annually in New Jersey.

The simplest plan by which voting machines can be procured is by the creation of a State Commission, with power to grant to municipalities the right to use machines and to hold elections without ballots.

The legislature at its coming session should pass such a bill as will provide elections by machine.—Passaic News.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, Nov. 18.—The Dunellen Literary Circle met Saturday evening, at the home of Miss Ella Dunham, of Dunellen avenue. A large number of members was present and enjoyed the excellent programme presented. Miss Imogene Smith made the hit of the evening with a paper on "Wagner and His Works." Mrs. John Herbert afforded much amusement by a ghost story. O. A. Douglass, Misses Louisa Doolittle, Emma Marlow and Flora Willgus all read excellent papers, dealing principally with German literature.

Loren Sorenson, a resident of Green Brook road, had a rather exciting experience on Front street Saturday afternoon but he luckily escaped unharmed. He had been in the post-office and was about to step into his wagon when the horse became frightened and starting, threw him underneath the wheels. Both wheels of the wagon passed directly over his body but did not injure him to any extent. His horse was caught by a bystander. When he had at last succeeded in getting safely into the wagon the animal attempted to run away. After a dash of several blocks Mr. Sorenson managed to get him under control.

A missionary rally was held in the Presbyterian church last evening and a large sum was raised to send to foreign lands. The various classes of the Sunday-school presented their reports and handed in the sums they had collected during the past year to the secretary, J. Newton Apgar. The sum of $102 83 was raised, the young men's class presenting the greatest amount. In view of the fact that the sum was the largest ever received for missionary purposes, the evening collection, which has heretofore been put in the missionary fund, was given to the trustees of the church.

It was expected some time ago that an order would be issued to the effect that employes in the Central Railroad offices living beyond Elizabeth would be compelled to pay for their transportation contrary to the existing custom. As a large number of residents here would have been affected by the order considerable anxiety was felt but it is now thought that matters will go on as before.

The football team did not play at Somerville Saturday as scheduled as the Somerville manager telephoned at the last minute he would be unable to get a team together for the game.

The Cranford delegation was headed by their pastor, Rev. Mr. Nelson, who was a classmate of Rev. Mr. Beacoms at Drew Seminary.

The members of the Methodist church enjoyed a short praise service in their church last evening, instead of the usual preaching service. Special music was rendered and the evening programme was enjoyed by all.

The members of the Baptist Young People's Society enjoyed a forty-five minutes' praise service instead of the usual topic at their meeting in the parlors of the church, last evening.

PUMPING OUT A SCOW.

It Is the Easiest Problem the River Man Has—Just Pull the Plug Out and Haul.

"Nobody who knows anything about boats worries over a few feet of water in a scow if the water isn't too deep," said a river man to a New York Sun reporter. "Getting it out is the easiest job in the world.

"Scows, as everybody knows, are flat bottomed, and up forward in the bottom of every one is a plug as big around as a man's two fists. Dozens of empty scows fill up with water and lie at the piers with only the deck afloat every year. It doesn't hurt them. The owner just lets them lie so till they're wanted. Then he sends a tugboat alongside and she hitches on. A man goes aboard the scow and pulls out the plug.

"Does the scow sink? Nary a foot. As the tug starts her up you see she lifts the old scow up some, and the result is that the water in the scow pours out through the plug hole. It's hard pulling at first, but the faster the tug hauls the higher goes the scow bow and the quicker the water goes out, till the scow's almost dry. After a spin of a mile or so the plug can be replaced and the little water that remains in her pumped out by hand.

"Simple? I should think so. Easiest thing in the world. That's why scows are so useful. You needn't be so extra particular about calking 'em so long as your cargo won't be hurt by water; and age and submersion seem to improve them."

A REFUGE FOR ROGUES.

Perfect Paradise for Men Who Have Committed Crimes of Every Description.

There is one corner of Central America that is at present a perfect paradise for men who have committed any crime. It is a place where the outcasts of the world's society rule the land of their adoption, and where the officials of the government protect all thieves that come to them and make it dangerous for any detective to molest them, says the London Express.

This is the republic of Honduras, one of the least advanced of the states of South or Central America. Honduras indeed is a curious mixture of jungle and gigantic forest, of cocoa and of rubber trees, of bugs, vampires, snakes and crocodiles—of all manner of things that creep and crawl and sting and bite; a region where life in the daytime is a mockery and at night one feels as though sleeping in red pepper.

Here, in every hamlet and city, are to be found men from different lands, mostly outlaws from their own country. Chicago, Boston, New York and Philadelphia all furnish their quota. England, France, Italy and even far-away Russia have their share. They make no attempt at concealment, bear the names they were born to bear and go along about their own business as if the laws of their own country had not made them outcasts.

THE IRELAND OF TO-DAY.

More Prosperous Than Formerly, But Its Main Lack Is in the Manufacturing Line.

Rt. Hon. James Bryce, a careful observer, and Mr. Seumas MacManus, the Irish writer, agree that Ireland to-day is enjoying comparative prosperity. The people are living better, their food is of a higher grade, the bank deposits have decreased, the farm rents are lower, and the returns from work are larger. The main reason why it does not take its place as one of the rich countries of the world is its lack of manufacturing. It exists mainly on its agriculture and its fisheries, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Ireland contains 32,337 square miles, not including the 196 little islands which add 246 square miles to the total. It is not quite so large as Indiana, and is a little larger than South Carolina. The Philippine islands are four times the size of all Ireland. Less than five years ago a commission appointed by parliament reported that there had been placed upon Ireland a taxation burden which it was unable to bear, and that something should be done. Thus came the new land act, which was a mitigation, but not a reform, of the evils.

Study of Soils.

The investigations on agricultural soils which are being conducted in this country are probably unsurpassed in quality and extent by those of any country, unless it be Russia, where a very systematic and extensive line of investigations, including a survey and classification of the soils of the whole country, has been in progress for a number of years, says the Popular Science Monthly. The work in this country has been carried on mainly by a number of the agricultural experiment stations and the divisions of soils of the national department of agriculture. The report of the field operations of the division of soils for 1899, by Prof. Milton Whitney and a number of his assistants, lately issued, is a report of progress in surveying the soils of the United States. During the year areas aggregating about 720,000 acres were studied in the field and mapped.

Granite Block Weighing 1,400 Tons.

The largest block of granite ever quarried is being used in the construction of the Beachy Head lighthouse, England. It comes from Cornwall, weighs 1,400 tons and is 68 feet long, 20 feet wide and 14 feet deep.

France's Horseless Wheels.

About a million bicycles and 6,000 motor cars are in use in France. The latter number represents an increase of 41 per cent. in a year.

Beans and Fishballs in Boston.

Beans were baked in a brick oven over night, with corn-fed pork, and served hot. Now they are baked with any kind of pork in a stove, and served in that neither-hot-nor-cold condition so common to modern cookery. Fishballs were made of codfish and cold boiled potatoes; both were chopped comparatively coarse and fried in almost boiling fat to a beautiful brown, the fine fibers of the fish sticking out "like quills upon the fretful porcupine." Now the fish is chopped very fine, the potatoes mashed, and the mixture fried in fat always too cool; or, if the fat is hot at first, it is chilled by the dumping of too many cold balls at one time.—Boston Transcript.

The Solution.

Here's a state of things! Mrs. Greene calls upon Mrs. Gray, and before they have a chance to say anything, in comes Mrs. Brown. The problem is as to the separation of the ladies. If Mrs. Greene goes, she will leave Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Gray together to talk about her. If Mrs. Brown goes, she will be the subject of Mrs. Gray's and Mrs. Green's conversation. If her two visitors go away together, then Mrs. Gray will be the subject of conversation between those ladies. There is only one solution: Mrs. Gray puts on her things and goes out with her visitors, just for a walk.—Boston Transcript.

Curious Prussian Custom.

A curious custom exists in the Prussian royal family of selecting every July a half-dozen deserving young couples too poor to marry and having them wedded in the garrison church at Potsdam on the anniversary of the death of Queen Louise of Prussia. After the ceremony each bride receives a gift of a sum equivalent to about $115 and a handsome family Bible. The function took place as usual a short time ago in the presence of Princess Margarethe, the eldest unmarried daughter of the Prussian royal family. —Chicago Daily News.

A Story of Nova Scotia.

A woman who spent the summer in Nova Scotia has just come down from Halifax with some interesting stories of her experiences among the Bluenoses. One of them has to do with a hunt for a hairdresser. When she arrived in Halifax she inquired at her hotel for a hairdressing parlor.

"Go right down to the corner shop," said the clerk, politely, "and you'll find what you want."

Down to the corner the woman went, and in the shop was a sign reading: "Fur Store."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Power of Niagara.

If all the able-bodied men in Greater New York were working together turning a crank they would not equal the power to be developed in the two stations of the Niagara Falls Power company; and they could work only eight hours a day, while the great current there flows forever.—World's Work.

"Ah!" exclaimed Hevviman, much pleased, "so sparkling as that?"

"No, but it's extra dry."—Philadelphia Press.

"Are your mother's slippers felt?" asked the visitor.

"Are they felt?" echoed the youngster who had just returned from the woodshed, "well, I should think they were."—Philadelphia Record.

THE GALLANTRY OF MAN.

It Is Always the Beautiful Woman Who Figures in the Leading Part.

"Nothing ever happens to the ugly woman," said a cynical gentleman, who had just glanced at the newspaper notice of a social function to a New Orleans Times-Democrat man. "She must live the most prosaic life imaginable. The hostess is always a beautiful woman. The heroine is always a beautiful woman, and even in the sublimated conceptions of poesy, where facial and physical beauty generally is subordinated, the woman is always a beautiful woman. Evangeline was beautiful. Lucille was beautiful. Lucrece was beautiful—in fact, all down the line from Eve's day to this good hour, whenever a woman staggers to the center of the stage in any way, she is a beautiful woman. I have often wondered what part the ugly woman plays in life. She does not give any of the big functions. She is never the president, the secretary, or anything else in any of the women organizations of the day. She is not my sweetheart, nor yours, nor the wife of the other fellow. These are all beautiful women. Even in the more violent walks of life the ugly woman plays no part. She is never the subject of the designing villain, and the measliest pickpocket in the world would not honor her by snatching a purse from her. The fiendish fellow who delights in the mutilation of human forms would never think of picking out an ugly woman for a subject. He would rather dash vitriol or something equally destructive into the face of a really beautiful woman. He would want a victim who was bewilderingly beautiful, stupendously stunning and all that sort of thing. These reflections have convinced me that nothing ever happens to the ugly woman, and she must indeed live a very dull and uninteresting life. But really I have another solution of the matter. I do not know the ugly lady, and while I have made no special effort to peer into her place of hiding and cannot say for certain whether she is there or not, yet I am inclined to believe that there are no ugly women. They are all beautiful, and I guess this is why nothing is ever put down as happening to the ugly woman."

NO REST IN AMERICA.

Machinery in the United States Is Not Permitted to Last Until Out of Date.

An experienced railroad man has the following to say regarding English railway methods, says Victor Smith, in the New York Press: "It is singular, to say the least, that the English railway managers have just discovered that American locomotives consume more coal, use more oil and require more repairs than those of their home make. If this is a fact, it could have been demonstrated in a trial lasting a month. Over here we wouldn't accept an English locomotive as a gift. It would be regarded as an antiquated monstrosity. I fear that the British are beginning to feel a trifle sore over America's commercial invasion of all the markets of the world, and the Midland railway people are trying to knock us on our locomotives."

Continuing, the official said: "The chairman of the Midland made one impressive statement, namely: 'We tend our engines carefully, rest them, clean them and do everything to make them last.' In this country we rest nothing, not even ourselves. Bishop Cumberland's familiar saying: 'It is better to wear out than to rust out,' has taken hold of us, body, soul and breeches. The Englishman rests his hats, shoes, trousers, coats, horses, carriages and whatever else he may own, animate or inanimate. A few advanced Americans have recently adopted the practice of 'treeing' their shoes for a rest, and the result is longer wear without losing shape. Some of our locomotives are never allowed to cool from one year's end to another. Little wonder they do not live to be classed among the antiques."

YOUR BODY NOT YOUR OWN.

If You Are So Disposed You Cannot Bequeath Your Corpse to the Doctors.

The supreme court of California has decided in a contest between next of kin on the one hand and claimants under a will on the other for the possession of a corpse, that a man cannot by will dispose of that which after his death will be his corpse, says the Chicago Chronicle. The custody of the corpse belongs to the next of kin in preference to the administrator. This view is based on the fact that the general English and American legal authorities establish the rule that, in the absence of statutory provisions, there is no property in a dead body.

If this rule is correct, the sooner statutory provisions are obtained enabling a man who feels that a great benefit to humanity will accrue through increase of medical knowledge, by the continuance post mortem of an investigation into his case, or that new light may be shed upon other scientific problems, to authorize by will such use of his corpse, the better.

My first symptoms were pains in or over my kidneys and next my feet began to feel kind of pricking and I was very thirsty. I drank over three quarts of water or lemonade in one night. I got very weak in my back and legs and dark spots came under my eyes and very severe pains from the base of my brain clear down my spine, and, oh, such darting pains down my legs. At last I got so low that I was as helpless as a child. Some of the doctors called it Bright's disease. This began in January. Being a soldier, I went to the Soldiers' Home at Waupaca, Wis. In the hospital there I was doctored for eleven months. All this time I kept getting worse. As soon as I got the Ripans Tabules I began to gain, and am getting along fine and am gaining in flesh. Successful Co-operative Housekeeping

Whenever in this country one of the newfangled ideas of progress in social economics is even partially realized such success has been generally achieved in the west. Perhaps you have observed that. Attempts at co-operative housekeeping have been made among other places in Boston and in Chicago, but it remained for the hardworking and houseworking women of a little, far-away western town to show eastern ladies how women can co-operate in the matter of domestic labor and, what is worth far more, can keep it up. The housekeepers who have given us this valuable lesson are a few ladies living at Provo, in the Mormon state of Utah. In truth, it was from the example of the Mormon hierarchy that the Provo women learned co-operation, says Mrs. Susa Young Gates, who tells in the American Kitchen Magazine the story of the united domestic enterprise.

Let us note, to begin, that each woman did her own housework with her own hands, performed the wearying round of bread kneading and general cooking, of clothes washing and ironing, of scrubbing and sweeping. They were all of them excellent cooks, says Susa, which we can well believe, seeing how much practice they had. One of them had sixteen of a family, none of them less than six. There is something in the position of these women and their brave co-operative experiment which touches peculiarly the heart and sympathies. They did not become tired of the enterprise and throw it over, because, one and all, they had their noses to the grindstone so many years that they knew nothing else than to go on day by day.

First they thought if they could get rid of the heavy bread and pastry baking it would be a great gain. They resolved to start a bakery. How poor they were is shown by the fact that they calculated to the half and quarter cent how much bread would cost per pound. Susa tells us that not one of them had over $50 a month for all expenses and some of them not more than $30. The next step they took after deciding on the bakery shows how shrewd they were. They prepared a fine supper and invited all the men in the village to partake of it, the men being the individuals who would have to furnish the money. They knew how to reach men, those women.

HOW THEY REACHED THE MEN.

After several of these appetizing co-operative suppers what wonder money enough was in hand to found the bakery! It cost $115 all told and has been satisfactory, the bread being "better a good deal than American baker's bread." It is sold for 2½ cents a pound. Besides bread the bakery furnishes excellent buns, and here again crops out the American of it, "pie and doughnuts." Good old pie and doughnuts, delicious, inviting, likewise healthful, nothing more so when you are made right! Long may you wave, old friends, as long as this republic, and may that be forever! When the American people reject you and place in your stead foreign cookery, they will be willing to accept also a king or an emperor.

Well, then, the Provo women had got rid of the baking at home. Susa says the men cheerfully helped them with the figuring of calculating cost, per cent, etc., and otherwise gave backing to their enterprise. No wonder after those suppers! These were promise of good things to come. Next the aching, tiring, back breaking laundry work was to be put out of each home. This was a harder problem to handle, but the women who knew only to keep at work all the time solved it. A neighbor who had a cane crushing mill operated by water power gladly agreed to conduct the machine laundry. The ladies held more meetings, subscribed for stock in shares of $5 and $10, and this task was undertaken. Now all the families of the brave co-operators have the washing and ironing done perfectly at the molasses man's mill for 5 cents a pound.

One of the experiments that failed was a co-operative dining room, meals 15 cents. American folk—outside of New York, that is—do not like to eat away from home. But these women through intelligent sisterly uniting have succeeded in getting the drudgery of baking and washing and ironing out of their homes. I call that a noble achievement. JANE STORY.

A DOLLAR FOR FOOD.

How the Chinese Live on That Amount for a Month.

Vegetables of the Coarsest Kind, Sauce and Salt Give Variety to a Diet of Rice and Sweet Potatoes.

[Special Hinghua (China) Letter.]

LIKE the Israelites of old, the Chinese are fond of "the leeks, the onions and the garlic." These make the standard flavors for many dishes.

Their onions are small and inferior. Large onions are imported for the foreign community, but for some reason the gardeners of Foochow have not yet succeeded in producing a first-class article.

Garlic is eaten in quantities. You do not have to be told this if you pass along a residence street during the hour supper is being prepared. Unless the law is laid down very plain and as inexorable as that of the Medes and Persians, your house will often be filled with its odor from your own kitchen. The cook is preparing a bowl of refreshment at your fire. You are fortunate if he is not using your stewpan as well. If he is you will know it when he brings on the next meal. Radishes are grown by the field. Not the tender little roots we have in America, but a foot or more long, coarse and fibrous, white, and growing three or four inches out of the ground. The trouble with the foreign radish, for the Chinese taste, is it is not "filling." Quantity is the main thing with the Mongolian. And he has it in his radishes. They are salted and kept the year round.

The cabbage of South China would not be marketable in America. It is soft and green. The gardeners sometimes tie a string around it to make it head. But even that does not make it solid. They eat every part of it. We are trying to raise foreign cabbage in our garden with fair success, and the way the natives eagerly accept the leaves or any part of it indicates that the foreign variety in time will be substituted for the native, if it can be kept from deteriorating in this climate.

With the radish tops, and leaves of all this class of vegetables the Chinese make a kind of sauer kraut. They make it after the manner of the peasantry of the Fatherland, according to our nursery lore; they "Tramp it with their feet, To make it nice and sweet."

SALT WORKS ON COAST OF SOUTH CHINA.

The only people who bruise the vegetables in any other way are the bound-footed women. They use their hands. The mass of leaves or tops is spread out upon a brick or stone pavement, and the tramper is far more careful to wash his feet after the process than before it.

I have asked several, and invariably the reply is:

"We always wash the salt vegetables before eating, so it makes no difference if they are tramped upon the dirty pavement with dirty feet."

This comforting view of it is thoroughly oriental, and distinctively Chinese.

The Chinese compass sea and land to obtain food for their teeming millions. Even seaweed is a delicacy. It brings as high a price per pound as pork. It is highly prized by vegetarians. The reason it is so expensive even upon the sea coast is that it is found in quantities only in one locality, where the sea is shallow enough for the people to gather it. They have no diving suits.

A peculiar kind of vegetable is grown without soil, of green peas put in large open jars, and sprouted. The sprouts look a little like potato sprouts grown in a cellar. They are cheap and quite palatable.

Bamboo grows upon the mountains in limitless quantity. At the base of the cane is a sprout like a sucker, cone-shaped and solid, the inside white like a cabbage center. These are a standard vegetable and make a very good ingredient for soup.

Their celery is in the last stage of degeneration, green from top to root. It is not cultivated by hilling, as in America, and no attempt is made to bleach it. This degeneration is due in part, no doubt, to the semitropical climate, but more to the lack of intelligent cultivation.

Vegetable oils are used largely in cooking. Lard is used to a limited extent; it is more expensive. Peanut oil is the favorite. Peanuts are grown in great quantities; the oil pressed out for light and food and the pulp used for fertilizer. Beans are utilized in the same way in north China where peanuts are not raised. But the oil is much inferior. However, there is an oil made from beans by a process of salting them that is unique and agreeable to the taste, used as a sauce. It is called "soi" (pronounced sawy). It looks like worcestershire sauce, and for some purposes is better than that supreme and only sauce used in England.

There is a Chinese cook in Foochow who has a way of broiling beefsteak, using soi for flavor, that one who once tastes it will not soon forget. If this man were at Delmonico's, "beefsteak a la soi" would soon become a popular item of their menu.

Soi costs here only about five cents a pint, and could be made a profitable article of commerce, no doubt, if it were properly introduced into the American market. We have it upon our table in preference to any foreign sauce, and many families out here do the same.

Salt is a great government monopoly. It is produced from sea water by evaporation in pans of sand and mud. These salt flats are very extensive on this Hinghua coast. Much of the salt is very dirty, of a dull gray color, because of the sand and mud in it. But when one watches them scrape up the salt from this wet mud he wonders how it is kept so clean. Some of it is white. It depends a good deal upon the locality or the character of the soil.

But, clean or dirty, it is invariably in large coarse crystals. It is salty, at least; and the Chinese do not mind the coarseness, as it is only used in pickling, preserving and cooking, and it is all dissolved anyway. We get our table salt from America; the natives use none. They have soi upon the table instead.

The price varies from five cents per man load of 133 pounds at the salt works to five dollars per load, depending upon the distance it has to be carried overland upon men's shoulders and the number of Peking officials who have had their "squeeze" off of it. One of the reasons that population is sparse in the interior, say, 100 miles from water communication, is the enormous price of this necessity of life.

The Chinese say that such a place is not populated "because the salt cannot get in."

Of course everybody knows about the bird's-nest soup that the rich Celestial serves to his delighted guests, and the shark's fins, that cost such fabulous sums. I do not go into details about these articles because my purpose is to give a description of the everyday life of the common people, and these luxuries do not enter into our subject.

The great mass of Chinese are poor, very poor, and have to live upon a diet that costs less than two silver dollars a month, or one gold dollar, and more live on half that than there are who spend more than one American dollar per month for food. It is plain that to live so cheaply requires a largely vegetable diet, and that, too, of vegetables of the cheapest kind, as a supplement to rice or sweet potatoes.

WILLIAM N. BREWSTER.

Befriended by an Emperor.

While Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria was residing at Budapest not long ago, his attention was attracted to a small boy who always awaited the imperial carriage at a particular spot in the Albrecht road, and enthusiastically waved his cap as the vehicle passed by. The aged emperor became so accustomed to the fervent loyalty of his little subject that he always looked for him at the same point. It happened one day that the police formed a cordon down this street and the boy was backed into the crowd. The emperor noticed his absence, and even looked up to the windows of the house above, in the vain hope of seeing the little fellow. The next day a handsome equipage stopped at this house and an official sent by the emperor inquired concerning the child's whereabouts. It was learned that the boy's mother was the pensioned widow of an officer, and that no evil had befallen the youngster. The boy is now a pupil in the government military academy at Vienna.

This Way to the Honey.

One of the African birds does a very pleasant duty, as its name of honey guide shows. They lead the natives to the bees' nests in the woods and elsewhere, in the hope that they may be allowed not only a share of the honey, but also full freedom to feed on the larvae, or grubs, and eggs in the nests. Some folks have accused them of being wicked enough to guide men not to the honey, but to the dens of savage beasts. This is, however, totally untrue; although the birds have, like the cuckoo, the bad habit of laying their eggs in other nests than their own, giving the strangers the trouble of hatching them and rearing the chicks.

HORSE ORIGINATED HERE.

What Scientific Investigation in Bristol County, Texas, Has Developed.

The Texas fossil expedition recently sent out by the American Museum of Natural History has made a valuable and startling find by unearthing the remains of a prehistoric horse. This fossil animal is a remarkable discovery, as it proves the origin of the horse to have been in America, says the New York Herald.

It was generally believed that the horse originated in Europe, especially as the aboriginal Indian tribes first encountered by the white men on this continent had no horses.

The fossil horse now discovered has been mounted and placed on exhibition in the tertiary mammal hall of the museum. The skeleton was found by Mr. J. W. Gidley in a bed of sand, about 100 feet in thickness, in Bristol county, Tex.

It is an entirely new species of pleistocene horse, and the only one so far found. A new name was necessary to designate it from other types, so the term Equus Scotti was selected, in honor of Prof. W. D. Scott, of Princeton, a well known paleontologist. Science can hardly calculate the exact time when this fossil horse roamed the marshes of primeval earth and was smothered up and embedded by the first great dust shower.

Comparing the skeleton of the fossil horse with that of an ordinary horse of the present day, there are some striking differences. Thus the skeleton of the fossil horse represents an animal with a head about the size of that of a large draught horse, but with a height of body and length of limb of an ordinary western pony, and with a length of body very similar to that of the zebra.

TRAVELERS' THERMOMETERS.

A Variety of Them Are Made—Summer the Time of the Greatest Demand.

"There is no end to the variety of thermometers," said a dealer in such things to a New York Sun reporter. "They include, for instance, thermometers for travelers' use. The oldest style has a nickel-plated metal case within which the glass mercury tube is held when not in use. With the glass inside the metal case and screwed down it is securely and safely carried. Another sort of travelers' thermometer has the tube upon one side of the lid of a slender little rosewood box.

"The newest style of travelers' thermometer has the tube secured to the inner side of two narrow, handsomely finished pieces of rosewood that are held together at one end by a hinge. Closed, these two pieces of rosewood shut up together with the glass tube between them and are secured by a little clasp like a pocketbook clasp. In use this holder is opened widely, the hinge being so made as to permit of moving one part through three-quarters of a circle, one part being then placed flat on the shelf or dressing case, or wherever the thermometer may be put, the part with the tube attached standing up, then inclined a little from the upright back from the hinge. These two last-named kinds sell each at two dollars.

"As we sell more outdoor thermometers in winter, so we sell more travelers' thermometers in summer. At this season they are articles of daily sale."

NEW FUEL PUZZLES FINDER.

Product Recently Discovered Looks Like Wood and Is Found in Vein Like Coal.

Out in Washington they have discovered a new fuel which is believed to be commercially valuable and which cannot as yet be classified by the scientists. This peculiar deposit has been discovered near Asotin and Lewiston. The product has a woody fiber and burns with a bright flame like dry wood. There is on occasions a sputtering as if there were oil in the substance, but there is no book on bitumens that treats of it in any manner. Assayer Fassett says that he has never seen or heard of a similar substance. He says that it appears to him like dried fungus, but that if the reports sent him are correct his theory must be wrong. In a letter sent from Asotin the writer states that he has a four-foot ledge uncovered and has sunk on it a distance of six feet, the ledge lying between rock walls. There was a decayed worm found in a piece of the product sent to the assay office, and that is taken to show a vegetable formation. The samples can be split into sections with a knife without encountering any grit. If there is a ledge as described and it is within well-defined walls the substance will be of great commercial value.

Keeley's Old Motor.

A great ball, probably six feet in diameter, that though of ordinary cast-iron represents many thousands of dollars, is located outside an industrial establishment in Twentieth street in Philadelphia. It is painted a homely yellow and bears in streaky letters the advertisement of a manufacturing firm. Formerly this globular piece of iron did duty as a portion of the famous Keeley motor. It weighs probably a ton, and its present value is represented by the market rate of scrap-iron.

SPORTING.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

A bowling team representing the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel will journey to New Brunswick Thursday evening and play the Stephen's Academy team of that place. The latter is composed entirely of Plainfield young men who are employed at New Brunswick.

A series of practice games were rolled on the alleys of the Roselle Casino, Roselle, Friday evening, between bowlers from that club and the Westfield Club. Both clubs are members of The Daily Press Bowling League. There was first a game between ten-men teams in which the Roselles were victorious by a score of 1531 to 1281, winning out by 250 pins. Howe, of Roselle, was high man with 192. After the ten-men team match, teams of five men were chosen and Roselle was again victorious this time by a score of 806 to 754. Foster, of Westfield, made the best individual score rolling 186.

There is every prospect of much interest being taken in bowling at the Park Club this winter. The fact that there will be a team in The Daily Press Bowling League has encouraged a number of the younger bowlers to practice regularly. Arthur Peck and Langdon Howard have developed in strong bowlers at practice. They will probably be given a chance to see how they can roll in tournament games. Alias B. Laing is chairman of the bowling committee and he has appointed William R. Faber as captain of the team. Faber is rolling a steady game this fall and it is expected to make a good man to keep the team together.

BASKET BALL.

A practice game of basket ball was played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Friday afternoon between the Plainfield High School team and the Leal's School five, the former team winning by a score of 19 to 1. Leal's only score was on a foul. The High School team was composed of Monyhan and Denton, forwards, Thompson and Conant, guards and Cahoone, centre. Leal's team was made up of Corwin and Hall, forwards, Ralph and William Schoonmaker, guards, and Abbott centre. Denton and Cahoone, of the High School team, are members of the big five of the Y. M. C. A.

A Physician Testifies

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." It the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

Fire in Brush Heap.

THEATRICAL.

One of the astounding tricks which will be performed by Ten-Ichi at the Casino tomorrow night is called "The Bowl and Lantern Trick." In this experiment the great magician takes a small agate-ware bowl which is perfectly solid and empty and from it produces twenty magnificent Japanese lanters, all lighted, and finishes up by pouring two quarts of water out of the bowl. He follows that up with another trick with a Bamboo pole. In this trick his hands and thumbs are tightly tied and a solid Bamboo pole is held top and bottom, and in full view of the audience and with one rapid mysterious pass he places the pole inside of his arms and all this without disturbing the strings which tie his hands together or the hands of those who hold the pole on both ends. Another pass and he is free from the pole in quite as mysterious a manner. In "The Enchanted Fountains," there are ten gallons of real water used in the short space of five minutes the trick is on exhibition, and at the finish of this trick eleven seperate streams are playing about the stage. Prices for this performance are 50, 75 cents and $1. All seats reserved. On sale at Armstrong's.

TROUBLES CROWDING MURPHY.

Some of the Things That Have Happened to Him Lately.

Troubles continue to crowd upon Stephen Murphy. Saturday he was fined $8 in the city court for assaulting John Kennedy. This morning on complaint of the latter Justice Hand placed under $100 bonds to keep the peace.

When a constable went to Murphy's house with summons for him to appear in court, he could not be found. Neighbors said his wife was ill and that Saturday he had been discharged from his position in the safe works. He will be apprehended as soon as his whereabouts are learned.

A SMOKY CHIMNEY.

Gets Moses Calmer Into a Series of Harrowing Difficulties.

While Investigating He Falls Head First Into Offending Chimney, Kicks It to Pieces and Is Arrested by Irate Landlord.

Arrest, after having become fastened head down in a chimney, being almost choked with smoke, having the chimney fall apart, rolling down the roof of his house, and finally being saved from a fall to the ground by his coat catching on the gutter, allowing him to dangle over the edge, was too much for Moses Calmer, of 294 Maxwell street and he grew eloquent in his own defense in Justice Dooley's court at Chicago, the other day. His pleas failed to move the justice, however, and his case was continued to give him time to replace the chimney or suffer the consequences.

Calmer told Justice Dooley that the chimney smoked so badly it not only ruined his furniture, but actually changed the color of his whiskers. He then went on to tell how a fire was started in the kitchen stove at his home and the house became so full of smoke shortly afterward that he was obliged to let it out through the windows.

Becoming exasperated, he finally got a ladder, and, climbing to the roof of the house, tried to find why the smoke did not come out in the regular way. There was very little smoke coming out when he started to make an examination and he put his head inside to see if any obstruction had been placed there. As he did so he slipped and in a moment his body was wedged between the four brick sides.

His son Isaac, whom he had left to attend to the fire, had added considerable fuel to the blaze and a short while after Calmer got his head inside the chimney the smoke commenced to come up in volumes. Almost blinded and suffocated, Calmer struggled to free himself when the chimney fell apart, allowing him to roll down the side of the house.

HIS COAT CAUGHT.

Fortune smiled on Calmer for a moment, for as he struck the iron gutter his coat caught on a projection and he hung suspended in the air. By twisting himself around he managed to get hold of the gutter with his hands and then it took him but a few moments to reach a ladder.

With his eyes smarting and his face begrimed with the smoke Calmer slowly descended to the ground, where the remains of the chimney lay scattered about. He went into the house, determined that Mrs. P. H. Joyce, of Brighton Park, the owner of the building, would have to replace the chimney with one that would work properly. When the latter was notified, however, she declined to agree to any such proposition and declared that Calmer would have to pay for his rather costly experiment. The latter refused and legal proceedings were commenced against him.

HIS CHRISTIAN HUMILITY.

Kept Track of His Failings by Touching Up His Wife with His Shillalah.

The following story from the Emerald isle is a good instance of the delightful inconsequence in an Irishman's ideas: A certain priest was a good deal astonished to find that a man who used to come and confess to him regularly once every year always began his list of offenses "I have beaten my wife." After giving him absolution several times for this misconduct, he thought at last he ought to inquire the cause of this cruelty.

"Ah! but, your riverence," explained the distressed Irishman, "it's not croolty that it is at all, at all. It's just this way. Ye see, I'm cursed with a most ontenacious mimory, an' whin it comes to the ind of the year sorra a one ov all my sins can I remimber."

"Well," said the priest, "and what has that to do with it?"

"Why, thin, ye see, your riverence, I just take me shillalah and give my wife the least taste in life of it across her back, and she reels out all the bad things iver I've done for the last 12 months. 'Tis not croolty, your riverence, that makes me bate my wife, but 'tis just pure Christian humility."

MANY LAUGHED WHEN MAX O'RELL LECTURED

Famous French Humorist And Writer Was as Funny as Ever at The Casino.

LECTURED LAST NIGHT.

RELATED SOME OF HIS EXPERIENCES WHILE ON LECTURE PLATFORM.

"Peculiar People I Have Met" Was The Title of His Lecture—Given For Benefit Local Auxiliary to American Girls' Home in Paris.

Laughter predominated at the Casino last evening. One merrymaker, the famous Max O'Bell, was responsible for it all with his lecture on "Peculiar People I Have Met."

O'Bell was introduced by Rev. E. M. Rodman, previous to that time being seated on the platform scrutinizing the assemblage before him, some feared for the purpose of telling what he thought of it afterward. Their fears were groundless, however, as the lecturer dwelt on the people he came in contact with and not those who gathered to hear him. For the most part, the individuals he referred to as being peculiar were the luckless innocents who had the temerity to act as chairmen at his lectures and introduce him. There was many of them and their whims were as varied as they were numerous.

The speaker also related his experiences with the inevitable newspaper correspondent and the American-made mince pie, two things which the traveler never escapes in the United States. O'Bell's acquaintance with both were unlimited and his audience profited by the introductions in several places.

Previous to the lecture, Rev. E. M. Rodman read a few facts pertaining to the work of the American Girls Home in Paris, which he stated had been conducted successfully for the past fifteen years. The English people contribute to this work annually $600,000 while the Americans donate but $40 000. The proceeds of last evening's affair will be devoted to that purpose.

SOMETHING ABOUT HER.

Mme. Sarah Grand Who Lectures at the Casino Thursday Evening.

Mme. Sarah Grand, who is to lecture at the Casino Thursday night, is a woman of fine appearance, with exquisite taste in matter of dress. She appears on the stage handsomely costumed in black and white, presenting a charming appearance. To use her own words as applied to certain phases of society, she is "extremely smart." She speaks in pleasing, pure English—not with the exaggerated English accent affected by anglo-maniacs.

In Philadelphia her success was as great as in New York. Her hearers were composed of an audience of fully 2,000. Her wit was as unexpected as it was sparkling. In her Philadelphia address were scores of things worth repeating. Of happiness and the art of obtaining it she said:

"We hold the art of being happy in the cradle of infancy, by taking such infinite pains to be miserable."

"The man indifferent to the happiness of others can no more be happy himself than the man indifferent of others' feelings can be polite."

"In the matter of happiness almost every woman is penny wise and had better go to husbands for lessons."

"There is nothing the average English woman knows so little about as how to make life worth living."

Reserved seat tickets for this lecture—50 and 75 cents—are on sale at Armstrong's.

Workmen to Entertain.

Later on, other affairs will be arranged for by the entertainment committee.

STOREHOUSE DAMAGED.

Threatening Blaze in Somerville was Checked in Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 19—Yesterday, at about noon, a furniture storehouse, in the rear of Maxwell Brothers' big warerooms, was badly damaged by fire.

It is thought the blaze originated from a bonfire a boy had started near the building. The firemen responded promptly and soon had the flames in check. The chemical engine of the Lincoln Company did admirable work. The damage was entirely covered by insurance.

Change of Date of Recital.

The recital announced to take place at the Casino Tuesday afternoon, December 10, by Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis, soprano, and Miss Saidee Mae Howell, pianist, will be given Monday evening, December 9 in compliance with numerous requests by many of the young women's friends. They will be assisted by Miss Mae Colt, reader, of New Haven, Conn., and Hobart Smock, tenor of All Angels' Episcopal church, New York.

Couldn't Get Witnesses.

On motion of Counsellor George Ball, for the State, the case of Margaret Bergen against Mary Kliner, for assault, was discontinued in Justice Hand's court Saturday afternoon. HOW DISPOSAL PLANT HAS BEEN CHANGED

Detailed Description as Published in Current Number of the Engineering Record.

BY ANDREW J. GAVETT.

CONTAINS INTERESTING SKETCH OF SEPTIC TANK AND CONTACT BEDS.

Tells How the Plan Will Work and How the Effluent is Purified—Will Cost the City $40,000—Two Men Will be in Charge.

The current number of The Engineering Record contains an article of much interest to Plainfield. "Septic Tanks and Contact Beds at Plainfield, N. J.," is the title. It is written by Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, under whose supervision the work is being done. The article is reproduced in full as follows:

The city of Plainfield, with a population of about 16,900, is situated on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, twenty-four miles from New York city. A water supply system was introduced by a private company in 1891, and a sewerage system was constructed by the city in 1895. Separate sewers are used for storm water and sewage, and the sanitary sewers, from eight to twenty-four inches in diameter, discharge onto intermittent filtration beds.

The disposal system has been very bitterly opposed from the first by residents in the vicinity of the filter beds, and this opposition has continued to the present time. It is claimed by the objectors that the beds are located too near their residences, and that this proximity is depreciating the value of all land in the vicinity. They also claim that the sand in the beds contains too much fine material to filter properly, so that the water remains too long upon the surface. A suit for $10,000 damages was brought against the city by the proprietor of a near-by summer boarding house, but a decision favorable to the city was rendered by the Superior court on the law points involved in the case.

When it became necessary, in 1900, to consider means for enlarging the capacity of the disposal plant, the feeling against adding more sand filtration beds was very pronounced. Mr. Joseph O. Osgood, of New York city, was engaged as consulting engineer, and after a very thorough consideration of the experiences and investigations of other cities in this country and abroad, he recommended, and the committee on streets and sewers adopted, the plan of disposal which is now nearing completion. This comprises two septic tanks, side by side under one roof, and a double set of bacterial contact beds, eight in all, so located that the works are 200 feet from the nearest streets, and operated in such a manner that the sewage does not appear on the surface until discharged into Greenbrook.

The present number of house connections in Plainfield is about 1,500, and the flow of sewage in ordinary weather is about half a million gallons daily, of which nearly two-thirds occurs in the twelve hours between 8:30 in the morning and 8:30 in the evening. The above amount is considerably increased in long continued or very severe rains (ordinary rains have no effect whatever upon the flow,) but it is considered one of the advantages of this system of disposal that the addition of large quantities of clear water to the sewage flow, if the changes in rate of flow are not too rapid, does not much affect the efficiency of the works.

The septic tanks are about 50x100 feet each, and seven feet deep, the water rising only ix feet above the bottom.

The sewage is taken from one of the old gate chambers, and flows continuously through a fifteen-inch pipe to the small influent chamber, where it may be diverted to either tank by a wooden gate. The sewage flows downward, then out into the tank about two feet above the floor and and close to the partition wall between the two tanks. In front of the outlets are baffle walls to deflect the flow and cause the sewage to move slowly and evenly across the whole width of the tank to the outlet openings, of which there are twelve in each tank, at such a height as to take out the clearest water, leaving the sediment below and the thick scum above.

In this slow passage through the length of the tank "a considerable part of the organic matter in suspension is either liquefied or passes off as gas, the coarser particle remaining in the sludge with the inorganic sediment, to be further acted upon by the bacteria."

In leaving the tank the water passes upward behind a weir and over it into a channel, thence to the first set of contact beds.

In the septic tank the air and light are excluded as much as possible, but after leaving the tank the effluent is aerated by passing over the weir in a thin sheet, and by falling into the channel, the weir and channel extending the full length of each tank, 100 feet in all. They are covered by flag stones, alternating with wooden removable covers.

At one end of each tank a one and one-half inch gas pipe extends through the roof, the pipes having funnel-shaped tops capped with fine brass netting. It is expected that the inflammable gas resulting from the breaking up of the organic matter in the sewage will be burned at these vents.

The gate houses and the roof over the septic tanks are of wood, with tar and gravel covering; the gate chambers, manholes and part of weir wall are of brick and blue stone, but all the remaining construction is of Portland cement concrete, composed of one part Dragon Portland cement, three parts sharp yellow sand from Amboy, N. J., and five parts crushed trap rock.

The contact beds are in two sets of four each, the first set 5 42 feet higher than the second, each bed being 92x 106 feet in plan and five feet deep. The floor is five inches thick and all walls, except the center walls containing pipes, are one foot in thickness. This light construction was made possible by the fact that the walls are supported on one side by the stone or slag of the beds and on the other by the earth embankment.

On the concrete floor of each bed, fourteen lines of four-inch horseshoe tiles are laid, radiating from the gate chambers, and coarse stone is spread between and over them to a depth of six inches; above this is placed the working material, three and one-half feet in depth, and finally a foot of coarse stone to serve as a roof.

In the upper set of beds the working material is trap rock varying in size from one quarter to one and one-half inches, and in the lower set slag is used in some beds and cinders in others, somewhat smaller in size than the stone in the upper beds. The contractor was allowed to use either of these materials, and it was found necessary to use all of them in order to insure the completion of the work within a reasonable time. In the top foot of filling material distributing pipes are laid from the gate chambers, consisting of vitrified sewer pipes, from twelve to three inches in diameter, laid with open joints except the twelve-inch pipes, which are cemented.

The partially purified sewage passes continuously from the septic tank through a twelve-inch pipe built into the top of the middle wall to the gate chamber at the intersection of the division walls; here it is diverted by wooden gates to each of the four beds in succession. After one bed is filled to within one foot of the top (that is, to the top of the working material) the flow is turned to the next bed, each of the four receiving the flow in turn. The height of water in the beds is indicated by tell-tale balls above the roofs of gate chambers.

The sewage in the first bed, after being retained an hour or more, as may be found most efficient, is drawn off by opening a slice gate (operated by wheel in the gate house) and passes through a pipe to gate chamber of the second set of contact beds, where the same process is repeated. After the period of rest in the second set of beds, the effluent is turned into the brook.

Each bed receives a rest of an hour or more before each filling, and the material in the beds is sufficiently coarse to allow the air to be drawn down to the botton of the bed each time.

It is not known yet at what rate sludge will accumulate in the septic tank, but provision it made for its removal, when necessary, through an eight inch pipe connected with each tank by a gate valve and emptying it into the adjoining sand beds. As the sludge need be drawn off only at favorable times, the bed can be suitably prepared by drying, plowing and ditching.

At the outlet end of the septic tanks additional eight-inch valves are placed at the proper height to draw off the clearest water, so that when the sludge is to be emptied on one bed, this comparatively clear water may be turned on to another. These valves empty into a twelve-inch pipe in the weir wall, which pipe may discharge on to any of the lower sand beds. The water in the channel may also be turned into this pipe without passing through the contact beds, in case it is

GUESTS AND MERRIMENT ROWDED THE HALL.

Opening Of Inproved Saengerbund Hall Marked By Many Joyous Features.

THERE WAS LOTS OF MUSIC.

THREE SOCIETIES FROM ELIZABETH AND NEWARK WERE THERE.

Henry Laurand Told The Story Of The Hall—The Rest Of The Program Those In Charge Of The Entertainment.

Saengerbund Hall was filled to the doors, last evening, with a crowd that overflowed with merriment. The occasion which drew them to the place was the opening of the building after extensive improvements had been made.

The programme called for a concert and a ball and both were given in a way that was enjoyable to the throng of guests of the Gesang and Turn Verein. Three German societies attended the affair. They were the Liberty, of Elizabeth, which was represented by sixty men, the Mannerchor, of Elizabeth, represented by forty men and the Arion, of Newark, the delegation from which consisted of fifty men. These organizations, together with the Gesang and Turn Verein, principally furnished the entertainment.

Louis Schnepel's orchestra furnished the instrumental music and after it had played an overture, the local society sang a song entitled "Spring." "Love As Long as Thou Canst" was sung by the Liberty society. Professor Schenpel rendered two baritone solos.

This was the introductory part of the musical programme and it was continued by the several societies singing separately and collectively a number of songs dear to the German-American's heart.

John Hoffman and Charles Dresselt sang a duet entitled "The Departing Ship." A trio by Arthur Luthman, Oscar Dumbowsky and Chas. Dresselt "The Triplets" was also among the features. Herman Eichhorn was the musical director of the Liberty Society and Otto Wimmer of the Mannerchor, whilst Julius Lorenz acted in that capacity for the Arion organization. Mr. Eichhorn also acted as musical conductor for the Gesang and Turn Verein.

During the course of the musical programme, Henry Haurand delivered an address of welcome. He has been a conspicuous figure in the society and it therefore devolved upon him to tell of the history of Saengerbund Hall, which he did in a neat way. The committee, which has had charge of the improvements, consists of Mr. Haurand, chairman; William Belter, Oscar Dumbowsky, Henry Rummel.

At the conclusion of the programme, the guests waited until the small hours of this morning. A supper was served by the Ladies' Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein in the banquet hall, the out-of-town guests being served immediately upon the conclusion of the singing.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Matthias Menzenbach, chairman; Henry Bergen, secretary; John Wirth, treasurer; Chas. Meyer, Sr., floor manager, and Jacob Betzel, assistant floor manager. William Schorb acted as stage director and Jacob Gaub was stationed at the door. Henry Haurand was master of ceremonies both for the concert and for the ball.

City Finances.

The Councilmanic finance committee held a meeting, last evening, to consider and discuss the city's finances. There are several matters needing attention this year which call for the expenditure of money, and it was for the purpose of determing how to meet these expenditures, etc., that the members came together. Nothing else was done at the meeting.

Benefit Dance.

A committee, consisting of John Moran, David White, M. J. Higgins and J. J. Sullivan, have made arrangements to give a benefit dance to defray the funeral and other expenses of the late Frank Oliver, who was employed for a long time at the Hotel Imperial. It will be given in T. A. B. Hall, this evening. Professor O'Reilly will furnish the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Miller, of Estes Park, Col., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brooks, of Myrtle avenue.

Edward Martin and wife, of Rahway, are visiting at the home of Borough Councilman Robert Clark, 59 Jackson avenue. Mr. Martin is a brother of Mrs. Clark.

RUSH TO PAY TAXES

Tomorrow Will Be Last Chance Before They Become Delinquent.

All taxes not paid before tomorrow night will be delinquent. Since yesterday Collector F. H. Smith has been kept unusually busy receiving taxes. Yesterday the rush began. Last evening, when the cash was counted, it showed that $16 200 had been paid. Today and tomorrow will be equally as busy.

Collector Smith is well satisfied with the result. Delinquent taxpayers will have their names forwarded to the City Judge after which they will be placed on the court records.

OF EMERSON AND CARLYLE.

TWO WRITERS DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

Interesting Paper Read by Miss Henry Humphrey and an Informal Discussion Followed.

A largely attended meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club was held yesterday at All Souls church. A short business meeting was held, in the course of which it was decided to continue to hold the sessions in this church edifice rather than at the Casino, as was suggested.

An interesting paper on "Optimism and Pessimism, as Voiced by Emerson and Carlyle," was read by Mrs. Henry Humphrey. She showed how Emerson's joyful spirits abounded in all his poems, and discussed his sunny nature generally. As for Carlyle, she drew attention to the many instances in his works in which there seems to be pessimistic strains.

At the conclusion of the paper, there was an informal discussion of the subject by the members generally. The concensus of the opinions voiced was that Carlyle was not a pessimist, but that his writings are almost as optimistic as those of Emerson.

WILL PAY THEIR OWN TAXES.

ALL INGERSOLL-SERGEANT DRILL CO. WANTS IS A PROPER SITE.

Communication Read at Meeting of the Board of Trade Last Evening—Short Meeting of Board.

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade, held last evening, was one of the shortest on record. A bare fifteen minutes sufficed to transact all the business brought forward by the secretary.

The most important matter considered was a communication from the Ingersoll-Sergeant drill people, in reply to a letter from the board, offering as an inducement for the location of the company's plant in Plainfield, the remittance of taxes for a stated time.

In a brief way, the letter stated that the company was not asking for anything beyond the requirements necessary to the building of a large plant. If these could be furnished, all the company wanted was fair treatment and it would pay for everything.

Several other matters appertaining to the city's needs were discussed in an informal manner, but no action was taken. P. J. McDonough was elected as a member of the board, after which adjournment was taken.

DEATH OF MRS. COONEY.

Passed Away After a Very Brief Illness.

Mrs. Anna Cooney, widow of the late Joseph Cooney, died at her home on West Sixth street, yesterday, after a brief illness of but four days. She was seventy-four years old and had resided in this city for a long time.

The funeral services will be held from her late residence Thursday morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made in St Mary's cemetery.

Changed the Date.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School has changed the date of its proposed entertainment from Thursday, December 12, to Tuesday, December 10. This action was taken at a meeting of the class held yesterday.

Want To Know More About It.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First M. E. church is arranging for a novel and instructive entertainment to be given on December 5. The details of the affair, which are said to be very unique, will be made known later.

Medical Society Meets.

The Plainfield Medical Society has been invited by Dr. Monroe B. Long, of Park avenue, to meet at his residence this evening. After a dinner to be given in honor of the society, a business session will be held.

CAULFIELD NOW LIES AT DOOR OF DEATH.

John Kennedy, Hackman, Held Under Bail Charged With Assaulting Caulfield.

FRACTURED CAULFIELD'S JAW

CAULFIELD LAY STUPIFIED ON HIS OWN DOORSTEP OVER NIGHT.

Caulfield Made Statement to Chief Kiely This Morning—Kennedy Claims He Struck in Self Defence—Held by Justice Nash.

James Caulfield, brother of Cormack Caulfield, the well-known mason and contractor, lies at death's door at his home on Johnson avenue, from an illness brought on, it is alleged, through an assault committed upon him by John Kennedy, on the night of November 2. He has a fractured jaw and is very low with pleuro-pneumonia which Dr. Tomlinson says may terminate fatally at any moment. Caulfield's ante-mortem statement was taken this morning by Chief Kiely and V. W. Nash, Jr.

According to Caulfield's statement made a few days ago, Kennedy, who is a hackman, assaulted him in front of the Hotel Kensington. Kennedy afterwards struck him, it is alleged, at the depot, knocking him down and rendering him partially unconscious. Kennedy then placed him in his hack and took him to his home, leaving him on the front porch.

Being stupefied, Caulfield was unable to awaken his family and get in, with the result that he suffered from exposure. The illness followed. When Dr. Tomlinson was called, it was then found for the first time that the jaw was fractured.

In the meantime Kennedy swore out a warrant for Caulfield's arrest, but when the constable attempted to serve it he found the man in bed. Caulfield's side of the affair was taken yesterday by his brother Cormack, who had Kennedy haled before Justice Nash. He furnished $50 for his appearance this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Chief Kiely has been investigating the affair but has been unable to find any witnesses who saw Kennedy strike Caulfield in front of the Kensington. Edward Korman, a depot hackman, says he saw Kennedy strike the man at the station, but not until Caulfield had made several attempts to assault the former. This makes it a question of self defence on Kenney's part, and if it is proven, the police say nothing can be done in the matter.

ROBBERY ON CITY LINE.

Conflict of Authority Between City And Borough Over Robbery of Somerset Street Fruit Store.

A question of municipal ownership has arisen through a small which took place on Somerset street, last night. Some one broke a pane of glass in the fruit store located on the bridge and stole five boxes of cigars, twenty pounds of smoking tobacco and a quantity of cigarettes.

On discovering the loss the proprietor, Nicholas Martone, dispatched one messenger to the city police headquarters and another to the borough officials.

Police from both arrived at the same time and after looking over the ground, each side has since been wondering whose place it is to follow the matter up. The county line runs through the centre of the building.

CAPTURED HAWK ALIVE.

Boys Threw Their Coats Over Big Bird On Mountain Side.

While on a hunting trip near the Mountain Park Inn, Saturday, Harry Schuck and William Day, of the borough, captured alive, a large chicken hawk wieghing ten pounds. The boys caught the bird by creeping up behind it and throwing their coats over it. It struggled firecely but the captors avoided its talons until they reached home, when Day was struck in the face. A deep and painful gash was inflicted beneath his left eye.

Too Ill to Appear in Court.

James Fahy was picked up by Patrolman Gamo, last night, suffering from a state of healthy intoxication. Previous to the patrolman's arrival he suffered a severe fall, and the kindly cop allowed him to go home, with orders to appear in court this morning. He was too ill at 9 o'clock to get out of bed, and the case was adjourned indefinitely.

Modern Surgery Surpassed.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, burns, bruises and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Mr. Charles Giese, cigar manufacturer, of 25 Elm place, says: "I was subject to attacks of kidney complaint for two or three years. Most of the pain was in my back and hips and I could not stoop or straighten without feeling sharp, shooting twinges When I sat for any length of time I grew stiff and sore and was compelled to get up and move about. I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills being such good medicine for kidney troubles so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to directions and after two or three days I felt better. I continued their use until the pain disappeared."

FRENCHMEN GET XCITED.

An Uproarious Scene In the Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—An uproarious incident occurred yesterday in the chamber of deputies during the discussion of the bill authorizing a loan of 265,000,000 francs in 3 per cent perpetual rentes to reimburse the treasury for its outlay as a result of the Chinese expedition and to pay indemnities to French sufferers in China.

M. Hubbard reported that the budget commission proposed to reduce the amount of the loan to 210,000,000 francs because objection was taken that France should advance indemnities to the religious associations and financial enterprises. M. Hubbard's report was extremely anticlerical.

M. Ribot, Republican, replied to M. Hubbard, protesting against his report, which he described as shameful, whereupon M. Berteaux, Socialist, exclaimed that M. Ribot deserved to have his ears boxed. At this the Centrists vehemently protested, while the Socialists cheered.

Amid the din M. Deschanel, president of the chamber, called upon M. Berteaux to withdraw. This M. Berteaux refused to do, and renewed outcries and banging of desks resulted. M. Deschanel continued to ring his bell until the hubbub was subdued, when he asked the chamber to censure M. Berteaux. This was voted. M. Ribot then resumed his reply to M. Hubbard's report, but the Socialists recommenced their noisy opposition, to which the Centrists responded equally loud until the uproar became so deafening and continuous that M. Deschanel, after vainly clanging his bell and calling for order, left the chair, and the session was suspended.

Subsequently the session was resumed, and M. Ribot concluded his speech. The chamber then adjourned.

A Three Weeks' Truce Arranged.

MARACAIBO, Nov. 19.—In view of the heavy rains in the Cordilleras an armistice of three weeks between the Venezuelan and Colombian troops on the frontier has been arranged. The town of Cucuta, in Colombia, near the Venezuelan frontier, is inundated. The floods have caused great destruction, and a number of lives have been lost. In some places the railroad from the head of Maracaibo lake to the interior is several yards under water. General Uribe-Uribe has been called to Caracas and has gone to the island of Curacao on his way there.

Anarchist Asks Freedom.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Alexander Bergman, the anarchist who in 1892 broke into the office of H. C. Frick, then president of the Carnegie Steel company, at Pittsburg, with the intention of killing Mr. Frick, and who was sentenced to a long term of imprisonment in the Western Pennsylvania penitentiary, has petitioned the superior court to be set at liberty under the terms of the commutation law passed by the last session of the legislature.

Girls Gave Up the Fight.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The girls of the village of Great Bend, Pa., some time ago organized an antitobacco league, one of the principles of which was that no member should associate with a young man who used tobacco in any form. The young men of the village accordingly unanimously resolved to go with none but out of town girls. After standing this neglect for some time the club at its last meeting capitulated and disbanded.

Dragged to Death by a Horse.

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 19.—Michael Rendler, a farmer of Mount Joy township, was dragged to death by a horse. Rendler was thrown from the horse he was riding, and the animal ran for a quarter of a mile, when it turned and came back to the farm, dragging Rendler. The unfortunate man was unable to extricate himself and was dead when found. The body was terribly cut and bruised, and nearly all the clothes were torn off.

OUT OF DEATH'S JAWS

Man Rescued After Three Days In Burning Mine.

IS SHUT IN BY FALLING SLATE.

Workmen Clearing Away Debris Caused by Explosion at Pocahontas, Va., Make the Discovery. Story of the Disaster.

POCAHONTAS, Va., Nov. 19.—The work of removing fallen slate and debris from the Baby mine still continues. Yesterday morning the body of Fritz Moulter was found entombed in a room on the west side. He was living, but a few hours more, no doubt, would have brought death. For six hours physicians worked with him before he was restored to consciousness. He is yet feeble, but is likely to recover.

There was great rejoicing when the news spread that he had been recovered alive. Moulter says that all within the mine on Thursday night commented on the heaviness of the atmosphere and that a number of the men left work before he did. He soon found that danger was imminent and with several others started to run from the drift. A heavy report which shook the mountain was heard, and an instant later a huge cloud of smoke and flames was seen coming. He lost sight of his companions, but he turned into a side room as quickly as possible and was shut off by falling slate. Probably two days elapsed before he succumbed to the foul air.

The McKinley Death Mask.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 19.—After two months' work a cast from the death mask of President McKinley taken on the morning of his death has been finished. The mask has been carefully guarded, being kept in a safety deposit vault when not in the hands of Edward L. A. Pausch, an expert maskmaker from Hartford, Conn. The mask is the property of the federal government. Next week it will be taken to Washington, where for a time it will be shown to the public at the Smithsonian institution. It was the express order of the government that no photograph of the mask should be taken. It is said to be one of the most perfect ever taken of a notable person. No time nor detail has been spared in making it absolutely accurate. The mask differs from those of Napoleon and others in that instead of merely including the face it portrays practically the entire head. The plaster itself weighs twenty-five pounds.

New York Horse Show Open.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The annual exhibition of the National Horse Show association opened at the Madison Square Garden yesterday morning. Sleek blue blooded equines that come from various parts of North America between Hudson bay and the gulf and from ocean to ocean are on hand to receive admiration and compete for prizes, and the world of horse lovers is gathered in the metropolis to take advantage of the opportunity to inspect and admire the elite of horse society corralled in the garden at the most extensive exhibition of its kind that New York ever presented.

Has Met Many Presidents.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Hackett yesterday presented to the president Edward Landor, one of the oldest graduates of Harvard now living. Mr. Landor graduated in the class of 1835. He told the president that he was a freshman when Andrew Jackson received a degree from Harvard. He said he had personally met every president since Jackson's time with the exception of the elder Harrison and James K. Polk.

Serious Dynamite Explosion.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 19.—Four city employees have been seriously injured by an explosion of dynamite, and the foreman, Eugene Levigne, will die. Water department men were relaying pipes, and in excavating blasting was necessary. A hole had been drilled in a rock for the cartridge, and the foreman attempted to drive in a cartridge with a hammer. Failing, he began to pound it with both feet, when it exploded.

Shot by Negro Boy.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Marion Wright, an eight-year-old girl, was shot by Harry Brown, a twelve-year-old negro. The girl was returning from home with a schoolteacher when she was shot. It is alleged that the boy fired at another girl, whose screams caused the Wright girl to turn. The movement probably saved her life, as the bullet struck high on the cheek, making a painful flesh wound.

GERMAN GOOD WILL.

Embassador Von Holleben Brings Friendly Greetings.

RELATIONS WITH US ARE CORDIAL.

A Tribute to the Martyred President. High Praise For Our Present Executive—Germany Has No Designs on American Territory.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Herr von Holleben, the German embassador to the United States, has just returned to Washington from his summer vacation in Europe and has resumed the duties of his post here. His excellency seems to be in excellent spirits and much benefited by his leave of absence and by the complete rest from his responsible work. When asked about the existing relations between Germany and the United States, his excellency said:

"They have never been better or more cordial. The great sorrow which came to your country through the tragedy in Buffalo has greatly aroused the sympathy of the German people, who are so closely united to the people of the United States by the many ties of blood and friendship. Just as in private life we think more of a friend whom fate has made to suffer severely so the German people have been brought nearer to those of the United States through the latter country's great misfortune. Mr. McKinley's great qualities in private life as well as his great statesmanship, shown in his dealing with public affairs, have always been thoroughly understood and appreciated.

"My countrymen," continued the embassador, "look up to your new, chivalrous president with admiration and full confidence, admiring the country at the same time which can produce a man of such high abilities as your chief executive."

The embassador before leaving Germany had been received by his majesty the emperor, who instructed him to convey to Mr. Roosevelt his majesty's most friendly greetings and best wishes of success for his administration.

"My sovereign," the embassador said, "has the most frank admiration for America's progress and the most cordial and friendly feelings for the United States. His majesty has, as you know, just shown once more how he appreciates American skill and workmanship in having a yacht built in the United States. All talk that his majesty desires to bring the European nations together in a challenge of America's progress in the commercial world is of course without foundation."

Before closing the interview his excellency said:

"I have one more thing to say. You are without doubt aware that at regular intervals reports appear in the newspapers to the effect that Germany is trying to acquire coaling stations or a foothold of some kind in South America or in the West Indian waters. These reports are started again and again by our enemies, who don't like to see us on too friendly terms with the United States. I can tell you now that I am officially authorized to state that Germany has no such purpose in view. I want to deny now once for all these ever recurring reports in an emphatic and unqualified way. I have told this to the president, who was especially gratified by it."

Sufferings of Shipwrecked Men.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 19.—Further details of the suffering of the crew of the barkentine Titania, from Liverpool for St. John's, which was wrecked Saturday morning in a dense fog near Cape Race, have been received here. During the thirty-six hours of Saturday and Sunday which they were lashed to the ship's rigging they were absolutely without clothing, excepting their shirts and drawers. Their rescue was effected with great difficulty. Three men from the shore succeeded at the risk of their lives in aiding the shipwrecked men to land.

An Oil Gusher In Russia.

THE TETANUS SCARE.

Officials of Camden, N. J., Take Action In the Matter.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The alarm that has been caused by the nine cases of tetanus following vaccination in Camden, N. J., has aroused the city officials there to take prompt action in the matter. The board of health and the board of education each held meetings yesterday. The former decided to request physicians to cease vaccinating persons until an investigation as to the cause of the lockjaw cases has been made, and the latter rescinded the order of compulsory vaccination of all schoolchildren. Of the nine cases of tetanus so far reported seven of the victims have died, and the other two are still in a dangerous condition.

The board of health appointed a committee of three to act in conjunction with the county physician and make a complete investigation of the whole matter. Dr. H. H. Davis, president of the board, in stating the purpose of the call, said he did not believe that vaccination was the direct cause of tetanus but as the city was thoroughly aroused and the people were looking to the board of health for some action he believed something should be done.

There have been several cases of tetanus following vaccination reported in Philadelphia, but no official action has been taken. The question of compulsory vaccination of school children and teachers has been taken to the courts and resulted in a verdict in favor of vaccination. The case was that of a girls' high school teacher who refused to be vaccinated. She was suspended by the school board, and she carried her case to court. The board was sustained, and the teacher was dismissed from the services of the city. She took an appeal to the supreme court.

At Bridgeton, N. J., Miss Hilda Rocap, a well known music teacher, is in a critical condition as a result of vaccination. Miss Rocap a few days ago was vaccinated on one of her limbs. The whole side of her body became paralyzed, and she is suffering greatly. A specialist at Philadelphia has been sent for to make an examination.

Zionist Dowie Accused of Fraud.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Samuel Stevenson, a brother-in-law of John Alexander Dowie, the "faith healer," has entered suit to have a receiver appointed for the Zion lace industries, one of Dowie's enterprises, for which he imported fifty lacemakers from England. Stevenson himself came from England and alleges that Dowie has withheld from him remuneration which had been promised. His bill claims that Dowie offered him a bonus of $50,000, $100,000 of the company's stock and the superintendency of the business at a good salary. He further alleges that he got nothing but the superintendency and that Dowie influenced him into signing an innocent looking document which in reality gave Dowie entire ownership of the lace company.

High Figures For Beef.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 19.—The third annual and most successful fat stock show ever held in Pittsburg closed with a banquet tendered to the visiting shippers, breeders and dealers by General Manager Simon O'Donnell of the East Liberty stockyards. At the auction sale of the prize winners and other cattle all price records were broken for beef on the hoof. Charles E. Schers' load of first prize winners, after spirited bidding, finally sold for 21½ cents per pound, said to be the highest price ever paid for a carload of meat cattle. The big steer weighing 2,190 pounds raised by A. D. Bassel of Lost Creek, W. Va., was sold for $4,280.

Many Shot In Maine Woods.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 19.—Although the last legislature enacted a law imposing a maximum penalty of ten years' imprisonment or a fine not exceeding $1,000 for negligence or carelessness which should result in the shooting of a human being by hunters, the record of such fatalities in this state during the present season is very heavy. The record up to the present time shows that twelve persons have been shot by accident. Five were either killed outright or wounded so that death followed after a time. In four instances the shots were fired by unknown persons.

Hanna Opposes Small Monument.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 19.—In an interview Senator Hanna, vice president of the McKinley National Memorial association, said that he did not approve the plan to use the surplus of $8,000 in the hands of the Grand Army people to erect a bronze statue to McKinley in Cleveland. He thinks these local monuments will detract from the funds necessary for the national monument at Canton. Senator Hanna discouraged the erection of monuments at Cincinnati, Toledo and Columbus on the same ground.

BOY TOOK POISON.

Punished by Stepmother, He Resolved to Die.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 19.—For failing to attend school regularly Mrs. Emanuel Smallstreet of this city punished her thirteen-year-old stepson Hal at noon yesterday. The boy resented the action of his stepmother and said she would have cause to regret it.

The stepmother paid no attention to the threat. The lad went up stairs to a medicine chest and procured a bottle of carbolic acid. He and his brother William, aged eight years, then left for school. At the recess both the brothers left school. They went to a field some distance away, where Hal gave his brother the acid to drink telling him that it tasted nice, but William did not like the taste very much and after drinking some handed the bottle back to his brother. Hal then drank what remained in the bottle, saying as he did so: "Here is goodby to all. They will never see me again."

A short time afterward a man passing through the field discovered the two boys lying on the ground. Both were unconscious. They were removed to a hospital as soon as possible, where the elder brother died last night. William is still in a critical condition, but it is thought he will recover.

MISS STONE HOPEFUL

Letter From Captive Reaches Sofia. Brigands Hold For High Ransom.

SOFIA, Nov. 19.—Another letter has been received from Miss Ellen M. Stone. Her health has been somewhat affected by her continual confinement and hard fare, but she expresses herself as confident of ultimate release. A letter to Mr. Dickinson, diplomatic agent of the United States at Sofia, replying to his proposals concerning a ransom, says the brigands will hold out for a figure very much above the sum at Mr. Dickinson's command.

The brigands interpret Mr. Dickinson's not having fixed on the sum he is willing to pay and on a time limit as being indications that he can get more money. They also demand immunity from prosecution, but it is impossible for the diplomatic agent of the United States here to have power to bind the governments of Bulgaria and Turkey. This point, however, is not likely to be a serious obstacle in the way of the negotiations.

Rates to the Exposition.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 19.—The Central Passenger association has adopted a schedule of rates for the Charleston exposition as follows: The rate of the regular tourist fares will be 80 per cent of the double one way fare between the initial point and the gateway for season tickets. Beyond the gateway the through rate will be constructed upon 75 per cent of double the one way fare. On fifteen day tickets both the Central Passenger association and the Southeastern Passenger association have agreed upon the rate of one fare for round trip plus 10 per cent.

NEW TREATY SIGNED

Canal Convention With Great Britain Ready.

UNITED STATES GIVEN FREE HAND

Lord Pauncefote and Secretary Hay Put Names and Seals to the Substitute For Old Clayton-Bulwer Agreement.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The new Hay-Pauncefote treaty relating to the construction by the United States of a transisthmian canal was signed in secret at the state department yesterday. No unusual formality marked the ceremony of giving life to this notable agreement. In fact, it was believed that it would not be signed until after Secretary Hay's return from New York, where he will spend today and tomorrow. Lord Pauncefote, the British embassador, has been indisposed and his appearance at the state department was a surprise even to the officers there.

The signatures of the secretary of state and the British embassador were attached to the convention shortly after 12 o'clock. Lord Pauncefote came to the department about five minutes past noon, accompanied by Mr. Percy Wyndham, the second secretary of the British embassy. He expressed a desire to proceed with the ceremony of signing, and Mr. Hay, very much gratified over the opportunity to do so, sent for Sidney Smith, the chief of the diplomatic bureau, and directed him to bring the American copy of the treaty, of which he is the custodian, to the diplomatic reception room. Mr. Wyndham brought the British copy.

The ceremony of signing took place at the long table in the diplomatic room, where many other important international agreements have been perfected.

Lord Pauncefote and Mr. Hay had a pleasant chat for a few minutes, and then the embassador returned to the British embassy, taking with him the official British copy of the treaty. The copies are identical, except that the name of the president of the United States is first mentioned in the American copy and the name of King Edward takes precedence in the British copy.

The new treaty is practically the same as the old one, except that it contains the following changes, necessary to make it acceptable to the senate:

"It is specifically stated that it supersedes and takes the place of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

"It gives to the United States power to guarantee the neutrality of the canal at all times.

"It removes the restriction on the power of the United States to fortify the canal."

British Comment on the Treaty.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Pall Mall Gazette in a leader on the isthmian canal negotiations says, "'Better late than never' will be the comment of all sensible people, either English or American." The Gazette goes on to say that we in this country must be prepared to hear a good deal of nonsense talked about this matter. It will be represented in some quarters as a British surrender. All anti-English elements in American and European society will rejoice accordingly; but, The Gazette concludes, "we may call the honors easy."

Irish Leaders See the President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The Irish parliamentary leaders who are touring this country agitating the Irish cause were given a special audience by President Roosevelt yesterday. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Redmond, P. A. Hugh, Thomas O'Connell, Miss Dalto of Australia, a sister of Mrs. Redmond, and Mr. and Mrs. St. John Gaffney of New York. The president astonished his visitors by his intimate knowledge of the Irish situation.

Will They Act at Once?

It was not only regarding the assessment and collection of taxes that Plainfield found something to interest in the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals concerning the unconstitutionality of the Stokes School revision law. Thanks to the farsightedness of Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, there was nothing to worry about in that. It was the proposed new High School and the changed conditions regarding its erection which was of particular moment to every citizen of Plainfield.

Those who are familiar with the progress of the High School movement in Plainfield will remember that the Board of Education made a request to the Common Council, early in the year of 1900, asking for permission to bond the city to the extent of $100,000 for a new High School. The request was granted by the Common Council with a unanimous vote. The request was received and acted upon at the same meeting and the Council was promptly criticized for acting hurriedly and without giving the subject due publicity. While the members of the Common Council had been aware of the proposed action, the public had not. Many of the councilmen afterwards admitted that it would have been wiser to have allowed the matter to rest over a meeting before acting on it to give an opportunity for any possible objection.

This rush did not, however, serve to advance the High School project. The Legislature that year passed the Stokes revision act which provided for an entirely new method to secure funds for the erection of a school. It then became necessary for the Board of Education to start all over again and proceed under the new law. Then the legality of the Stokes act was questioned and the subject was taken into the courts of the State. Action on the part of the Plainfield school authorities was delayed until it was possible to learn exactly where they did stand. Now comes this decision.

There are now two courses open to the Plainfield Board of Education. It may continue to delay matters until the Stokes act is revised to conform with the State constitution and passed and then proceed under the provisions of the new law, when its legality shall be assured. The other alternative is to move in the matter now with all proper speed and build the new High School while the law makers of the State are fixing up the Stokes act so that it will stand. If there is to be a new High School within the next few years, something will have to be done at once.

Permission, under the old law, has been granted for the bond issue of not more than $100,000. If the subject should come before the Common Council today, there is no doubt but a majority would vote the same way. There remains but for the Board of Education to proceed with the work. If the members of the board will remember that they are public servants and that the citizens are entitled to a full knowledge of the progress and details of the work, there is likely to be no formidable opposition. No thinking citizen will stand for a moment in the way of proper education but it is extravagance and secrecy that are objected to by the people.

The winter schedule is now in force on the New Jersey Central Railroad. Probably the most important feature of the changes, of which there are many, is the increase in the running time of the fast express trains which run between Jersey City and this city. The commuters' train, commonly known as the 7:59 express, made the trip to Jersey City in thirty-one minutes. That time has, in the new schedule, been increased to thirty-five minutes. Other of the fast trains have been treated in similar fashion. The change will probably mean that the trains will hereafter be more inclined to run on time.

It is very easy to declare a desire to take the pledge when such an act promises to free one from the clutches of the law. When the danger of a trip to the county jail is over, the promise loses much of its strength. It is, however, very poor judgment to think that the city judge will forget as well. One citizen discovered that fact much to his sorrow.

Of all the local pastors who have so far spoken on the subject of early closing, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes has been the most emphatic in his out-spoken support of the movement. There was no qualification of his opinion that the hours for the clerks are too long and he appealed to both the employers and the customers to make them shorter.

The new curate for St. Mary's R. C. church has been appointed. Although he has only been here a very few days, those of the congregation who have had the opportunity to meet him personally are highly pleased at Rev Father McGeary's successor.

A remarkable series of musical entertainments are being arranged for the month of December. Plainfield usually has its musical attractions but never before has a season begun with so many, and such fine talent too, heralded in advance.

Don't let the officials of the Plainfield Water Supply Company give you the idea that water meters will not be placed in general use in Plainfield. The public demand will eventually be answered.

WEDDED AT PASTOR'S HOME.

South Plainfield Couple Went to Metuchen For Nuptial Ceremony.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Plainfield, Nov. 19—The marriage of Miss Edith Elizabeth Arrowsmith, of this town, to John Wilson Dingler, of South Amboy, took place at the home of Rev. J. L. Fenton, of Metuchen, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. It was a very quiet affair and witnessed only by Mrs. Sarah Tingley, a sister of the bride, and Firman Arrowsmith, the bride's brother.

Upon the return to South Plainfield of the newly-married couple they were visited by a number of friends who offered congratulations and also left a number of highly prized presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Dingler have deferred their wedding trip and will immediately take up their residence at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arrowsmith. Mr. Dingler is employed as fireman on the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Medieval Days Will Be Recalled at Edward's Crowning.

Peeresses to Be Ranked by Length of Train, Lords by Rows of Ermine—The King's Coronation Robe.

Nobody in England seems to talk anything but coronation. Nothing in connection with that great ceremony seems too trivial to discuss. In fact, all manner of subjects relating to it are continually cropping up. There is quite a commotion and bewilderment over the duke of Norfolk's order as to the dress to be worn by peeresses at the coronation, all asking one another what "full court dress" really means. Until now it has always been supposed that feathers, veils and long trains were absolutely de rigueur. Now, poor peeresses ask: "How can we wear two trains? How can a coronet be worn with three feathers and a veil?" Of course, it is expected that the earl marshal will sooner or later issue a supplementary order.

Nobody, however, seems to have noticed that peers are not to wear the orthodox white satin doublet, trunks and white silk hose that have always been worn at past coronations. The order states that robes are to be worn by peers over full court dress, uniforms or regimentals, which will detract in no small degree from the pomp and glamour of the scene.

Again, peeresses are to wear their robes over full court dress. This, again, is an innovation, for formerly white satin dresses, trimmed with gold lace and embroidery, were the correct attire.

Barons are allowed two rows of ermine, viscounts 2½, earls three rows, marquises 3½ rows and dukes four rows. All the mantles and robes must be worn over full court dress, uniform or regimentals.

The earl marshal's order banishes counterfeit pearls and all jewels from

EDWARD'S CORONATION ROBE.
(In It He Will Be Crowned King of Great Britain and Ireland.)

coronets, which are to be "silver gilt, the caps, of crimson velvet, turned up with ermine, with gold tassels on top. No jewels or precious stones are to be set or used in coronets, nor counterfeits of pearls instead of silver balls."

The number of the latter permitted revives a nice sense of distinction. A baron's coronet bears six silver balls, a viscount's 16, an earl's eight, with gold strawberry leaves between; a marquis' four balls and four leaves alternately. A duke's coronet has no balls and has only eight gold strawberry leaves.

The earl marshal next prescribes the robes, mantles and coronets to be worn by the peeresses. These are of the same materials as the men's, with similar graduations in the numbers of bars of ermine and balls.

The length of the trains marks the difference in rank. A baroness is only allowed a train of three feet, a viscountess has 1¼ yards, countesses have 1½ yards, a marchioness has 1¾ yards and a duchess two yards.

Then follows a curt notification as to who shall be excluded. Peeresses in their own right and widows of peers are allowed to come, but widows who have remarried beneath their rank in the peerage are "not entitled to a summons to attend the coronation."

Some dryasdust has fished up an old drawing by Sir George Nayler, at that time garter king at arms, showing George IV. as he appeared in his coronation robes, and this, it is said, has been approved by King Edward VII. as correctly illustrating the garments he will wear when he is formally crowned in Westminster Abbey next summer.

This is supposed to show that Edward VII. will emulate the splendor which attended the coronation of George IV. rather than the modest displays made by William IV. and Queen Victoria. The crowning of the fourth George cost $5,000,000, his mantle of crimson velvet and ermine alone costing $10,000, while the coronation of Queen Victoria only entailed an expenditure of $1,500,000.

First in importance among the garments the king will wear is the imperial or dalmatic robe. It is a three-cornered mantle, fashioned like a cope. One side is about 3½ yards in length, to cover the shoulders and hang down in front; the other sides slope into a train reaching about a foot upon the ground.

The dalmatica was anciently worn by persons of the highest rank; it also signifies a part of the attire of an archbishop, and is shaped like a "Y" and decorated with small crosses.

Inventor of Maximite Tells What It Will Do—Has Stood Every Government Test.

Hudson Maxim, the inventor of "Maximite," which has recently been adopted by the United States government, gives a clear account of his remarkable invention in Leslie's Popular Monthly.

"Maximite," he says, "which has recently been adopted by the government, has satisfactorily stood every test to which it has been subjected, and there is none of the foregoing requirements which it does not fulfill perfectly. It is very inexpensive of manufacture; has a fusion point below the temperature of boiling water; cannot be exploded from ignition, and, indeed, cannot be heated hot enough to explode, for it will boil away like water without exploding. It is, therefore, perfectly safe to melt over an open fire for filling projectiles, in the same manner that asphalt is melted in a street caldron. Should the material by any chance catch fire, it would simply burn away like asphalt, without exploding. When cast into shells, it not only solidifies into a dense, hard, incompressible mass on cooling, but it expands and sets hard on the walls of the projectile, like sulphur. That is to say, it expands in the same way as water does in freezing.

"When a shell filled with it strikes armor plate, the Maximite does not shift a particle, and it is so insensitive that it not only stands the shock of penetration of the thickest armor plate which the shell itself can go through, but it will not explode even if the projectile breaks up on the plate."

ENGLISH FEAR OF INVASION.

"Destructive-Insect Act" Comes Into Force Again—Is Aimed at the Colorado Beetle.

Fear of invasion is more or less chronic among Englishmen, who, for a sturdy race, are singularly subject to nervous alarm. For years past parliamentary vigilance has been directed against the Colorado beetle, which, having in 20 years spread from the Rocky mountains through all of eastern America, was in 1877 threatening the coast of Europe. It was in that moment of peril that parliament passed a "destructive-insect act," under the provision of which every person meeting with a specimen of the beetle in any of its stages was bound, under a penalty of £ 10, to notify it to a police constable, who must at once inform the local authorities, who must telegraph to the board of agriculture. Besides this, any person keeping or selling a living specimen of the beetle in any of its stages was liable to the same penalty of £10. Stimulated by the fear of the penalty many specimens of the beetle kind were reported to the proper authorities, and the prisoner duly discharged upon proof being offered that the suspect was of British antecedents.

This year, according to the New York Post, the old act comes into force again through the discovery of the Colorado beetle near Tilbury, and we may have the chance to see tested, in small, much-mooted theories of "stamping-out" imported nuisances by legislation.

MUCH MARRIED PEOPLE.

Remarkable Matrimonial Records of Women Who Had Many Husbands.

A Spanish journal has unearthed a remarkable case of a woman who has six times been a widow in six years and is on the eve of taking a seventh husband. This calls to mind other notable cases of the sort. Lady Elizabeth Percy, in the seventeenth century, was twice a widow and three times a wife before she was out of her sixteenth year. The third man who married this much-married girl was the duke of Somerset, Charles Seymour, who stood by the coffin of Charles II. after his death and by the throne of George II. at his crowning. He was a notable figure in six reigns. He was well married into the family which has become known in history as the "Proud Percys." When his young wife, Lady Elizabeth Percy, died, the duke became the husband of Lady Charlotte Finch, and it is recorded that when his lady once tapped him on the shoulder the duke turned round and said: "Madam, my first wife was a Percy, and she would never have taken such a liberty."

John Evelyn in his diary tells a story before which the record of the Spanish lady pales. "Toward the end of August," he writes, "I returned to Haarleon. They showed us a cottage where they told us dwelt a woman who had been married to her twenty-fifth husband, and, being now a widow, was prohibited to marry in the future; yet it could not be proved that she had ever made away with any of her husbands, though the suspicion had brought her divers times into trouble.

An American lady, Dr. Mary Spencer, not many years ago took unto herself an eleventh husband in a town in North Wales. She was 44 at the time, so that she had had a new husband every three years.

THE WEBSTER LOG CABIN.

Eloquent Tribute of the Great Daniel to Humble Home of His Parents.

When Gen. Harrison got the whig nomination for the presidency that Daniel Webster had hoped for, log cabins were in popular demand as birthplaces. Even Webster, in a political speech at Saratoga, catching the spirit of the times, lamented that he, too, had not been born in a log cabin. Prof. McMaster prints in the Century this extract from the speech in question:

"Gentlemen, it did not happen to me to be born in a log cabin; but my elder brothers and sisters were born in a log cabin, raised amid the snowdrifts of New Hampshire at a period so early that when the smoke first rose from its rude chimney and curled over the frozen hills there was no similar evidence of a white man's habitation between it and the settlements on the rivers of Canada. Its remains still exist. I make to it an annual visit. I carry my children to it to teach them the hardships endured by the generations which have gone before them. * * * And if ever I am ashamed of it, or if I ever fail in affectionate veneration for him who raised it and defended it against savage violence and destruction, cherished all the domestic virtues beneath its roof, and, through the fire and blood of a seven years' revolutionary war, shrank from no danger, no toil, no sacrifice, to serve his country and to raise his children to a condition better than his own, may my name and the name of my posterity be blotted forever from the memory of mankind!"

No New Women There.

It is extremely difficult for Chinese of the higher classes to find husbands for their daughters whose feet have attained the natural size. It is thought that women who desire unmaimed feet are actuated by no honorable motive, the crippling making it difficult for them to go about and keeping them more closely at home than would be the case if they had full use of the stunted members. Love between husband and wife as it exists among Christian people is unknown in China, and it is a subject that it is not considered decorous to discuss. Suicide is common among women of all classes, and aside from grief after bereavement, unhappiness in marriage is the most common cause of such tragedies. Hundreds of wives, it is estimated, end their lives every year in Peking alone.

Mixes a Young Woman's "Yes" and "No" Letters.

Discovers Mistake After Missives Are Mailed and Then Frantically Seeks Aid of Uncle Sam to Head Off the Letters.

The Chicago post office has been bombarded with telegrams from a young woman in Kansas City, asking, begging, imploring that two letters which she had mailed to Chicago men be stopped. She explained that her whole future happiness and that of others depended upon stopping the letters.

"Hold the letters. I am on the way to Chicago and will identify them."

That was her last message. Others contained the information that the distracted young woman, having had two proposals of marriage, had answered both, but had put the letters in the wrong envelopes. One said "No," of course, but the other poured forth the fullness of her maiden heart in a love letter that finished with the acceptance of a successful lover's wooing.

The young woman—too bad her name can't be given, but it's against the rules of the post office—arrived at the lake front federal building the other morning. She rushed into the presence of Superintendent Cahill and told him who she was.

"Have you got them?" she asked in breathless suspense.

Mr. Cahill pushed some electric buttons, and in two minutes there was a scurrying of clerks from all parts of the building. They got their heads together in a provokingly deliberate way, but finally Mr. Cahill held in his hand two much-marked envelopes.

"Here are two letters that we stopped in answer to your telegram,"

IT SAYS "NO."

he said; "one was in the West Chicago station and one in the Englewood office. Are these your letters?"

The excited young woman fairly swooped upon the outstretched envelopes. Tears of gratitude and smiles of delight mingled on her pretty face as she thanked Mr. Cahill and tore open the letters.

"See? This is the one to the man I meant to marry. It says: 'No,'" she explained to the sympathetic clerks. "And here is the one to the man to whom I wished to be only a sister. It says: 'Yes.'"

"Oh, sir," she said, blushing violently, "you don't know what a tragedy you and your clerks have prevented. I'd have traveled a million miles to stop those letters. And just to think they had already been sent out to the substations. Oh, it was awfully good of you. I'll go all the way to Kansas City before I write another letter. Then I'll write my 'yes' letter on Sunday and wait a week before I write the 'no' letter. Oh, I'll never take a chance like that again."

If nobody else appreciates this story except a man in Englewood and a man in West Chicago, and those who sometimes put letters in the wrong envelopes, it's all right.

Oldest Known Bank Note.

Among the many interesting things to be seen in the British museum is an old Chinese bank note of the face value of about four shillings, which was bought by Sir John Pope Hennessy, the late governor of Hong-Kong, at an auction about 25 years ago. It was issued in the reign of Hung-Woo, the celebrated founder of the Ning dynasty, who died about the year 1398, and is of great value, as it is believed to be the only one in existence belonging to this period. Bank notes are said to have been used in China before the ninth century, and were certainly issued several hundreds of years before the art of printing was known in Europe.

Voice Suddenly Restored.

Mrs. George Ferris, of Harrisburg Hollow, near Bath, N. Y., strained her vocal cords about a year ago while calling her farm hands to dinner, and entirely lost her voice. From that time she became mute, and so continued until a short time ago, when her dentist extracted two of her teeth. The pain was so intense that, as the second tooth came out, she yelled: "Oh, you mean man!" Then she wept with joy when she realized that her voice had been so strangely restored.

Told of a Mean Man.

A selfish young man in Kansas City married a lame girl, who has to hobble along with a crutch. As it would be inconvenient to have a cripple for a companion on a honeymoon trip, he started to enjoy it alone, and immediately after the ceremony he took the train for Buffalo to see the sights at the Pan-American exposition. He writes loving letters to his bride, telling how he is enjoying himself.

I think every man I see uses R·I·P·A·N·S.

Mr. Barry, our manager, takes one after every meal and so does his father and sister. The old gentleman has rheumatism if he don't take R·I·P·A·N·S. They use twelve a day in that house.

About half the people I know carry one of those 5-cent cartons all the time in their vest pockets.

I was in the Bowery Savings Bank to draw some money, and while I was waiting in the line a clerk came up to the paying teller and said: "Give me a Ripans!" The teller took a carton out of his pocket and handed it to the clerk, who took out one of the Tabules and handed the carton back. Then I watched him and saw him go to the water cooler and swallow the Tabule with some water; I saw him tip his head back.

It's just wonderful how everybody takes them.

HOUSE GOWNS.

Picturesque Styles—A Warm Coat and an Odd Waist.

Some people would rather be stylish than handsome and are always seeking after something so novel and startling that it passes for style. Style to me seems to have many meanings, but it is all summed up in a mysterious something for women which makes them noticed as they go along the street, while their prettier sisters are unhonored and unsung. It is something so impossible to define that I shall not attempt it. I have a friend. She has not one sole pretty feature, unless you call a fine head of hair a feature. She has no figure and is so thin that I often wonder how she keeps her clothes from falling off. Yet she has style, and with that taste and plenty of money she actually passes for a beauty. Men flatter her, and women can't see what there is to her to admire, nor do I. But with her stylish dress and her charming manner she is very attractive. So let us all strive to become stylish if we cannot be beautiful.

All this came to my mind as I called up the recollection of a new and certainly stylish gown just made for a young matron for a high tea at her lovely home. This is so odd and unusual that we may call it stylish, for it is nothing if not that. There are hints of classic drapery without any and the grace of a princess gown, and yet it is not that, but a combination of the two. The inner dress is of pale shell pink peau de soie, and the outer one is made of soft faille in a dark hunter green.

MORNING DRESS.

The inner dress is strictly a tight princess, and the outer one is something like a peplum, only this reaches the ground front and back. It has a heavy double box fold at the shoulders in the back, and this is held close to the waist by invisible stitches. From thence it sweeps out in a long train. At the sides under the arms it is slashed and at the sides of the skirt also. At the neck it is also cut down. All these edges are bordered with a handsome galloon made of green silk and gold thread. There are tassels and many large sized buttons similarly colored which ornament the skirt and upper portion.

I saw another home dress made with a decided Greek key pattern done in flat silver braid down the front and around the whole bottom of the skirt. This dress was of faint blue crepe de chine, and the girdle was worked out in silver in the same style. The sleeves were long and square at the bottom and hung open over inner sleeves gathered at the wrists in bishop form. These were of white liberty.

Still another new fancy used by some one to produce a fresh and unused effect was in the shape of a suit, the bodice simply a coat in the style of Louis XVI. The skirt was a plain purple peau de cygne, very rich and with no garniture but four rows of satin cable cording set wide apart around the bottom. But the coat! That was of royal purple velvet of the richest quality. It was made in the accepted form, with long skirts to the coat and flaring pocket lids. The flowing sleeves had upturned cuffs stiff with silver embroidery. Beneath them were the fine lace undersleeves. There was a white satin vest all silver, the high collar and the full cravat of Flanders lace. The revers were of satin and edged with the silver trimming, and there were four immense enameled buttons.

Talking of style, I have seen the handsomest of all the really cold weather cloaks shown yet. This was of rough black velvet and was in princess shape in the back, save that there were two large black bone buttons at the waist line. In front it was double breasted and lapped across clear down to the feet. At the waist line there were a few folds drawn up to the left side, forming a wrinkled drapery. The sleeves were wide and bishop shaped ones, with a deep cuff of black bear fur. The collar was in an immense sailor shape, with one end reaching to the waist. It was so large and fluffy that even while lying flat it came quite to the ears. This draped front is quite a novelty in a long coat.

TEA GOWN.

On looking at my notebook I find that I have forgotten to mention an odd waist. This was made of silk mull over taffeta. The mull was white and the taffeta blue, so that it gave a veiled effect. All over the whole waist were pasted black velvet dots in what the dealers call "assorted sizes." Down the front there were three lines of black velvet ribbon and the same around the collar and cuffs.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

A Race Problem and Its Solution

What the Negro Is Doing to Help Himself.

IT HAS been truthfully said that we try to occupy the place given to us in the estimation of our friends. Unconsciously, perhaps, but surely, the high opinion and regard of those whose friendship we cherish exert an elevating and helpful influence on our lives, and, contrariwise, let associates and boon companions hold low ideals and live just for the pleasure of living, and we soon descend to their level and find ourselves possessing the unpromising land of their warped conceptions. God has raised up for the negro race an apostle whose life has been an inspiration; whose ideals for the men and women of his race have ever proved that power of attraction which draws a man out of his natural environment and lifts him onto a high plane and reveals to him a new vision of possibilities. Mr. Booker T. Washington, endowed by God with high ideals, clear conceptions and sanctified common sense, has seen a great light, and is patiently and wisely leading his brethren step by step out into it. If Mr. Washington sees visions, he is not a day dreamer, but plunges into the work of getting the most and best out of the negro race, ever hopeful of that day which will see a complete solution of the serious problems which now confront the race. He is laying a careful foundation of works upon which can be reared in the years to come the superstructure which will surprise the world. That he is intensely practical is shown by an extract from his speech delivered at the second annual convention of the National Negro Business league at Chicago, in which he said: "As a race, we must learn more and more that the opinion of the world regarding us is not influenced by what we say of ourselves, or by what others say of us, but it is permanently influenced by actual, tangible, visible results. The object lesson of one honest negro succeeding in each community in some business or industry is worth a hundred abstract speeches in securing opportunities for the race."

A DRY GOODS STORE OWNED BY A NEGRO AT MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

STOCK FARM OWNED BY A NEGRO AT EMMA, NORTH CAROLINA.

But the purpose of this article was not to exploit Mr. Washington, or say flattering things about him. Nothing is more distasteful to Mr. Washington, and he has won such a place in the esteem and confidence of the people of the United States and the world and his name and works are so well known that to speak patronizingly of him would be resented by himself and his people, as well as by the intelligent reading public. But the thought that has inspired this article has been the fact that the negro race is doing something worthy the attention of the world and it ought to be told about it, and in the telling of it it would be as hard to leave out the name of Booker T. Washington as to render the play of "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out.

Because the illiteracy of the race has been reduced at least 45 per cent. since the emancipation proclamation rang through the land; because negro brains and energy have published nearly 500 books and edited fully 300 newspapers; because there are 2,000 colored lawyers successfully practicing before the bar; because there are a corresponding number of practicing physicians, and 32,000 school-teachers; because the colored people own 140,000 homes, and have real and personal property valued at $920,000,000; because there are probably 50,000 persons of African descent successfully engaged in business; because in every community there are negro men and women who are honorable and desirable citizens and faithful wives and mothers, these facts furnish the excuse for and the theme of this article.

With the echoing of the thunder of the American cannon around the world during the Spanish-American war, the nations of Europe awoke to find that the United States was a world power. The war was not the creator of a new, expanding nation, but it was the act which revealed to the world that steady development and growth of the years which placed her commercially and industrially among the first nations of the world. So with the passing of the second convention of the National Negro Business league there comes a revelation of what has been accomplished for the negro race, and what he is doing for himself, that has not been realized before. The convention has not created, but revealed. There is nothing very striking or impressive in seeing scattered over the country and lost in the bustle of life the individual negro who is industrious, intelligent and successful, but when wagon makers, watchmakers, druggists, bankers, brokers, bakers, barbers, hotel keepers, caterers, undertakers, builders, contractors, printers, publishers, decorators, manufacturers, tailors, insurance agents, coal dealers, real estate agents, collectors, the proprietor of a brick yard, the owner of a cotton factory and the president of a coal mine are brought together in elbow touch, something of that greater hope which has for years filled the breast of Mr. Washington and those associated with him, begins to break upon the public mind.

Down at Tuskegee, Ala., in that great industrial institute which has grown up so miraculously and wrought so successfully in behalf of the negro race, we see the process of evolving the New Negro, and in the National Negro Business league we behold the practical working out of the problems confronting the negro race through this New Negro.

Mr. Booker T. Washington is the president of the league. The other officers are as follows: First vice president, Giles B. Jackson, Richmond, Va.; second vice president, Mrs. M. A. Robinson, St. Louis, Mo.; third vice president, Charles Banks, Clarksdale, Miss.; recording secretary, E. E. Cooper, Washington, D. C.; corresponding secretary, Emmett J. Scott, Tuskegee, Ala., and treasurer, Gilbert C. Harris, Boston, Mass. The convention had a businesslike air and definite aim, Mr. Washington skillfully avoiding issues that endangered strife and divisions. "This is not a league of orators," he stated at the opening session, "but of workers. The main portion of the talking will be done by those who have actually succeeded in business and not by those who seek to tell us to do what they themselves failed to do." And in a straightforward, honest, simple way

AN OBJECT OF HATE.

Venezuela's Dictator, Castro, Is a Man Without Friends.

He Rules His People with a Hand of Iron and Knows as Much of Government as a Bandit Chief.

Cipriano Castro, president of Venezuela, is the most unhappy ruler in the world. No oriental sovereign lives in such constant dread of assassination as does this dictator of a so-called republic.

The dictator has the face of a tired man, eyes of the ferret, mouth of cruelty. By temperament he is nervous, irritable, impatient, his excitability finding expression principally in his thumbs. Of government he has shown that he knows as much as a chief of bandits.

That which Castro most fears is not earthquake, not nature, but human kind. Were he to camp on the summit of Vesuvius the uncertainty of the prolongation of his career could not be greater than it is as the dictator of Venezuela. The country over which he rules is a volcano and Caracas is its crater. One day last year, in the Prado, a man named Lopez fired a pistol point blank in Castro's face. By a miracle the bullet went astray. When the would-be assassin was brought before Castro, the dictator jerked his thumb toward the door, and Lopez was thrown into that black hole of Caracas, the Rotunda. Recently, when the judge of the superior court inspected the prison, none of the prison authorities could remember having seen Lopez after the first days of his incarceration. "Escaped," said the governor of the prison, but offered no proofs. The verdict of Caracas, when the judge told the tale, was: "Murdered and buried, in the jail." Perhaps Castro had jerked his thumb downward.

Castro's own soldiers love him not. "He took away our thin uniforms," they say, "and dressed us up in cloth uniforms and caps, like French soldiers. Besides, he seldom pays us. So he is glad when we desert, simply putting new men in our places." The officers of Castro's army, however, make no complaint. For every time the dictator uses the military as the instrument for making a golden haul the officers get the drippings. To illustrate: Last fall the soldiers reported that three rich Caracas merchants were hoarding gold within their homes. The dictator ordered that each of these men be taxed $60,000 for the "support of the government." The merchants refused to pay. Castro turned them over to certain army officers, who, having made them prisoners, kept them tied to stakes facing the sun all day and facing an electric light as fiercely bright as the sun all night. Half blinded and almost crazed by their sufferings, they at last yielded and paid the "tax."

CIPRIANO CASTRO.
(President of Venezuela, Called a Man Without Friends.)

Another case was not quite so profitable, either to Castro or his military staff. A German merchant arrived in Caracas and proceeded to collect bills payable to the amount of $12,000 in cash. Castro not only forbade the German to take the money out of the country, but demanded that it be paid over for "government support." The man was arrested and tortured until he understood that it was his money or his life, and so led the soldiers to the place where the treasure was hidden.

A few weeks later one of the kaiser's cruisers put in at Laguayra, and the captain hurried over to Caracas and demanded not only the $12,000, but the punishment of the officers who had maltreated a German subject. Castro, livid of face, liquidated on the spot and the guilty members of his staff are still in Maracaibo prison.

Castro, says the New York World, has not a single friend among the foreign representatives in Caracas. All the members of the diplomatic corps, on behalf of countrymen who have interests in Venezuela, watch Castro with suspicious, untrusting eyes. For the dictator has more than once openly asserted that if he could he would annul all concessions of land granted to foreigners by his predecessors, and sell the same over again to others. He actually did annul concessions enjoyed by the various Orinoco river companies—all American concerns. But he has not yet succeeded in selling these over again.

Moonshine Whisky in Brooklyn.

The biggest moonshine distillery was discovered in Brooklyn the other day in an suburban cottage inhabited by Russian Jews. Its capacity was 150 gallons of proof spirits a day, and its profits were $500 a week. A wagon load of its products was captured, and the officers found the place by allowing the horse to choose its own route homeward.

SPORTING.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Alis football team will be coached for the game with the Elizabeth eleven by Lewis Waring, who will instruct them in the latest plays tried this season by college elevens.

The Alis football team will play the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. eleven on the latter's gridiron Saturday afternoon. Thus far this season the kickers from the county seat have not been defeated.

The football game scheduled to be played Saturday afternoon between the St. Mary's choir boys and the North Plainfield Grammar School elevens was cancelled. The match will probably take place Wednesday afternoon.

THEATRICAL.

The famous Ten-Ichi, magician extraordinary, and his troupe of Japanese wonder workers, inaugurate the offerings of vaudeville at the Casino, which Manager Maze Edwards intends presenting from time to time. He promises that the standard of excellence which marked the presentation of his first musical entertainment last week will be verified in the instance of the vaudeville tonight. Messrs. Vion and Homans, who are sole booking agents for Weber and Fields, provide the vaudeville artists, and they are responsible for the American engagement of Ten-Ichi. The company supporting the great magician includes some very clever artists, all Japanese, and four beautiful Geisha dancing girls.

The word Ten signifies Heaven, and the word Ichi is the Japanese numeral one; so the literal translation of this marvelous magician's name is Heaven One, or as one would put it, the First of Heaven. The Geisha girls are thus named. Ten-Katsy englished becomes Heaven's Victory; Ten-Toshi is the teeth of Heaven, Ten-Jei the feet of Heaven, Ten-Sei the eyes of Heaven, Ten-Waka the lungs of Heaven, and Ten-Guichi the mouth of Heaven, and collectively the entire troupe are called in Japanese the Stars in Heaven. Prices for this engagement are 50c., 75c., and $1.00. All seats reserved.

At Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, next week, the Living Art Studies will continue their phenomenal success. Indescribably beautiful are the only words that appropriately convey an idea of the magnificence of this production. Two car loads of scenery are used in the presentation of this act; there are also sixteen models, eight small children, a live calf, a magnificent St. Bernard dog, kittens, doves, etc. It is the original B. F. Keith $10,0000 production, than which no better has ever been presented. Other attractions next week are the Pony Ballet, a conception of mirth, melody and motion, presented by eight young ladies; Press Eldridge, the well-known monologue artist; Vernon, the ventriloquist; Joe Reichen and his trained dogs; Shean and Warren; the Ashleys and many others. Continuous performance from noon to 11 p. m.

HOW DISPOSAL PLANT HAS BEEN CHANGED

An eight-inch valve connects the two tanks, and another is connected, by an eight-inch pipe, with the lower part of the first gate chamber. Through this the water from the septic tanks may be turned directly to the lower contact beds without passing through the upper ones.

After the new works are in full operation, the sand filtration beds will be planted with various crops, and will be given only so much sewage or effluent from the sceptic tanks as will be benficial to the crops; every effort will be made to give an attractive appearance to the entire plant, both new and old, and it is hoped that the long-continued objection to the disposal works will cease.

It is expected that two men will be required to operate the new works, and one or two more, with horse and cart, will be needed part of the time to keep the irrigated beds in good order.

As an offset to this expense, the city will receive the crops grown on the beds and also a rental for the house and barns on the property, as well as for pasture and other land.

The cost of the new work with all expenses will be about $40,000, not including value of land. The construction prices were low, especially that for concrete, which was $4 25 per cubic yard; filling material for contact beds cost $1.45 per cubic yard, in place; the septic tank roof complete cost $1,900, and the gate houses $240 each.

KILLED BY BRIDGE.

Body of Earl Tixley, a Central Brakeman, Found on Top of Car.

The body of Earl Tixley, a New Jersey Central brakeman, was found on the top of a freight car just after the train passed through this city, last night. He had been struck either by the Clinton or Cherry street bridge at Elizabeth and instantly killed.

The remains were taken back to Elizabeth and placed in the morgue. He lives at Elizabeth and was twenty-five years old. He leaves a mother and sister at Portsmouth, Ohio, his former home.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W Randolph.

HUNDRED-DOLLAR MISTAKE.

Unreasonable Resentment That Came Near Costing a Testy Teller That Amount.

"The average bookkeeper does not like to be told that he has made a mistake in counting out cash," said one of the craft the other day, reports the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "and I have known of instances where quick resentment followed such an act. I recall one instance where the resentment was not only unreasonable, but it might have been unprofitable in a small way under different circumstances. I had occasion to go to the bank after some money, and the paying teller counted me out a wad of money. I kept up with the count pretty well, but, on counting the money again after reaching the office, I found that the teller had made a mistake of $100. I went back to the bank to inform him of the fact and to straighten the matter out. 'Say, old fellow,' I said, 'you made a mistake of $100 in that money you gave me.'

"'Too late now,' he replied; 'you ought to have counted your money in the bank. I guess you lost it on the way to the office,' and kept on about his business.

"I walked out of the bank. Just as I was closing my office for the evening I noticed a gentleman hanging around the front door. 'Say, old man,' he said as I walked out to the door, 'I'm $100 shy at the bank.'

"'Short in your accounts, eh?' I replied, indifferently.

"He was very much worried over the matter, and I knew exactly how he felt about it. After playing with him for awhile I walked back into the office, got the $100 and gave it to him, and he was the happiest fellow I ever saw for a few seconds."

JOKE ON BULLFIGHTER.

A Frenchman Is Invited to Newark to Fight a Tammany Tiger.

Not long ago a French bullfighter of Beaucaire named August Fabre, who was not particularly prosperous, thought he saw an opening for his talents in America and wrote to New York for an engagement, writes the Paris correspondent of the New York World. To his surprise he received this answer:

"It is not a slayer of bulls we want in New York this fall, but a slayer of tigers."

The great Fabre had never heard of Tammany and he took the message literally. Screwing up his courage with a few drinks of absinthe, he called back: "Agreed for the tiger fight. Am going into training. Send date."

Then the ingenuous bullfighter told his comrades and was preparing to learn the way tigers should be attacked and conquered when he met a friend better posted than himself on American idiosyncrasies, and from him he learned the truth. But he cautioned his friend to silence and himself said nothing. So the inhabitants of Beaucaire remain convinced that in New York arenas are maintained for tiger fighting.

Flowing of Metals.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that one of the most important properties of metals employed in striking coins and medals, and stamping and shaping articles of jewelry, is that of flowing under pressure. Standard silver is remarkable for this property, which precisely resembles the flowing of a viscous fluid. The flow takes place when the metal is subjected to rolling, stamping or hammering, and the particles of the metal are thus carried into the sunken parts of the die without fracturing, and a perfect impression is produced.

War of the Animals.

Some time ago cats were imported into Australia to subdue the plague of rabbits. Now come complaints from New South Wales and Victoria that the birds are being destroyed, the cats, which were only intended to prey upon the rabbits, having turned their attention to the feathered inhabitants of the country, while the foxes, introduced for some other purpose, are robbing the hen-yards and assisting the cats in the war on native birds.

MANY PAYING TAXES ON THE LAST DAY.

Collector Smith Has Been Kept Very Busy Receiving the Taxes Due the City.

FEW COMPLAINTS HEARD.

PATROLMAN HIGGINS ON DUTY AT THE COLLECTOR'S OFFICE.

Today is the Last Chance to Pay Without Allowing Taxes to Become Delinquent—Big Share of Taxes Will be in by This Evening.

There continues to pour into the hands of Collector F. H. Smith money from the taxpayers of the city. There seems to be an unusual effort this year on the part of the taxpayers to settle their accounts with Mr. Smith before the time-limit, thus saving the additional interest and the publication of names in the newspapers. As reported yesterday there was received the day before $16 200. While the amount yesterday was not quite so large the amounts came in with much regularity.

There are very few complaints this year on the part of the taxpayers. One well-known woman objected seriously to paying her husband's poll tax because her mail was not delivered to her by carrier. She lives quite a distance from the heart of the city and outside the route traversed by the carrier, but still she believed that her mail should be delivered.

Other complaints are made over the ever-present dog-tax. Some people declared emphatically that they never owned a dog, but when questioned as why they did not meet the commissioners of appeal and have the tax removed, they invariably replied that they had not thought of that. It is needless to say that in each case the tax was paid. One noticeable thing is that in many cases the person having the least to pay kicks the most.

Patrolman Maurice Higgin's is stationed at the collector's office and keeps a watchful eye on all who enter and leave. Maurice is a little uneasy, though, for he is used to traveling about on his wheel. It was suggested yesterday that a track be built in the city offices and that Maurice be allowed to ride just the same.

Collector Smith keeps his temper admirably and thus far no serious trouble has occurred. Today all who can possibly raise the price are hurrying to the collector's office and, by the time the office closes this evening, it is predicted that a good big share of the city's taxes will be in.

CHESS TOURNAMENT.

Much Interest Being Taken in Matches Being Played at Y. M. C. A.

Much interest is being taken in the chess tournament at the Y. M. C. A. Richard Stevens defeated P. VanArsdale and Dr. P. B. Cregar defeated D. Denton. In a match between Dr. Cregar and Mr. Stevens, the former was defeated. There are a number of games yet to be played, some of which are in progress. The winner of the tournament will receive a set of bone chessmen in red and white.

At present while the Seventh-Day Baptist church is without a paster, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis takes charge of the regular weekly prayer-meeting.

KENNEDY OUT ON BAIL.

If Caulfield Dies He is Instructed to Give Himself Up at Once.

John Kennedy, who was arrested Monday afternoon on a charge of assault and battery preferred by James Caulfield, and was subsequently released by Justice Hand on $50 bail, was brought before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon for a hearing. This was done as the original complaint was made before the latter Justice.

Kennedy waived examination and was held in $250 bail for the Grand Jury. At 10 o'clock last night Kennedy secured a bondsman in the person of Lawrence Paoli, of North avenue. In case of the death of Caulfield, who is very low, Kennedy was instructed to give himself up at once.

JAPANESE WONDER WORKERS.

APPEARED AT CASINO LAST EVENING WITH GOOD PROGRAMME.

Did Some Very Remarkable Things Before an Interested Audience—Fire Eating Exhibition.

A troupe of Japanese wonder workers appeared at the Casino last evening and did some really remarkable things. For two hours, Ten Ichi and his assistants entertained a comparatively small audience with some clever tricks. The Japanese magician and his assistants gave a high class performance that was really deserving of far better support than was given it by the Plainfield public.

There was some sleight-of-hand and palming, some actually startling illusions and several oriental stunts that savored of the marvelous. The Japanese background to the whole performance made it different from the usual legerdemain performance.

Several native Japanese dances by real geisha girls were included in the programme. Owing to a failure on the part of the electrical apparatus to work properly, the "transformation" dance had to be omitted.

The most startling of the tricks was the "Defiance of the Elements" by Ten-Ichi himself. He ate large red hot coals with evident satisfaction and then breathed out fire with which he ignited some Japanese fire works, a series of elaborate wheels, which concluded the evening's performance.

DOCTORS MET.

Dr. M. B. Long Entertained Members of Plainfield Medical Society Last Evening.

Dr. Monroe B. Long entertained the Plainfield Medical Society at his home on Park avenue, last evening. The occasion was the regular monthly meeting of the society. Following the custom in vogue Dr. Long presided.

A paper on "Amputations" was read by Dr. Long and a number of interesting and peculiar cases were reported to the society by various members. At the conclusion of the formal meeting refreshments were served. The next regular meeting will be held at the residence of Drs. E. W. and B. Hedges.

T. A. B. Fair.

A fair is being planned by the members of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society to be held January 20 25. Michael O'Keefe, Richard Birmingham and Clarence Waldron have been appointed a committee to complete the arrangements. There will be new features each evening and several contests will be arranged.

THAT MYSTIC NUMBER SEVEN WAS SUPREME.

Remarkable Sociable Given in Chapel of First Presbyterian Church Last Night.

BY LADIES' AID SOCIETY.

SOME THRILLING THINGS WERE INCLUDED IN THE PROGRAMME.

The Charge Was Seven Cents and Every Seventh Person Was Admitted Free—Auction of the Various Donations Brought.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church held what was termed a "seven social" in the chapel last evening. The unique features introduced were greatly enjoyed and proved a source of pleasure to the large number of people present.

Admission to the affair was seven cents, every seventh person being admitted free. Each person was expected to bring something worth seven cents, which they did. These things were auctioned off later in the evening by E. W. Williams. Some things brought as high as twenty-two cents. The money received from the sale of the articles, which included all sorts of things such as flour, rice, stuffed dogs, cats, soap, candy, etc., went toward a church kitchen. There was much merriment and excitement while the auction was going on.

Another feature of the affair was a mock concert given on the harmonica drum, cymbals, accordeon and a Porto Rican guira. This was under the direction of Miss Clara VanFleet, who presided at the piano. An amusing part was the "Charge of the Light Brigade," interpreted by six boys dressed in white riding hobby horses Mr. Hinman read the thrilling story, while the boys acted the part.

After the entertainment and auction refreshments were served by the committee in charge which included Mrs E. W. Williams, chairman; Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland, Mrs. John Abbott, Mrs. William Dunn, Miss Clara VanFleet, Miss Julia Williams and Miss Addie Dietrich. While refreshments were being served those present enjoyed a social time.

Of Home Missions.

Rev. Dr. Moorehouse, of New York, who is associated with the Baptist Home Missionary Society, will preach at the First Baptist church Sunday morning.

HUSBAND VS. BOARDER.

John Gray Was Jealous and Took to Drink While Boarder Staved at Gray Home.

Drink and jealously, according to his wife, were the prime factors which led to John Gray being a prisoner in the City Court this morning. Inquiries on the part of City Judge Runyon revealed the fact that it was really the jealousy which resulted in his downfall as this part of the combination drove him to drink. A handsome young boarder at the Gray domicile on Manson place is said to be responsible for both.

In giving his opinion in the matter Gray declared the only remedy for the trouble was for either him or the man to leave the house. The court thought it wouldn't be a bad idea to let Gray consult the boarder in this respect and placed a suspended sentence of forty days over his head until they determine which is to bask in Mrs. Gray's smiles.

ENGINE BROKE DOWN.

So the Commuters' Express, Due at 6:19 Didn't Arrive Last Night Until 7:30 O'clock.

The express train leaving New York on the Jersey Central Railroad at 5:30 o'clock was stalled last evening between Elizabeth and the Port. Instead of it reaching this city on scheduled time, 6:19, it was 7:30 when the train rolled into the station.

It was the engine that broke down and it was necessary to get another engine at Roselle. In the meantime most of the Plainfield passengers left the train and caught other trains coming to this city. No one was injured in the accident.

PRIVATE DANCE.

Was Given in the Camera Club Rooms Last Evening.

A delightful private dance was given last evening in the Camera Club rooms which was attended by thirty couples. The patronesses were Mrs. H. S. Taylor, Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, Mrs. Herbert Buxton, Mrs. F. H. Smith, Mrs. F. S. Cutter. The music for dancing was furnished by Westervelt, of Newark.

The committee having the affair in charge consisted of H. H. Coward, chairman; J. G. McLaughlin, H. S. Taylor, F. H. Smith and N. B. Titsworth. Another similar affair will be given at the same place next month. About midnight refreshments were served, after which dancing was continued until a late hour.

NO DISPLAY.

Was a Quiet Ceremony Which United Miss Libe And John J. King.

A quiet wedding took place last evening in the rectory of St. Mary's R. C. church, when Miss Mabel Libe, daughter of Mrs. Ella Libe, of Easton, Pa., was married to John J. King, of West Third street. The ceremony was performed by Father Smyth.

The bride, who is a sister of Mrs. George Ballentyne, of 314 East Second street, was attended by the latter and her husband. After the wedding an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, where the couple will board for a time. Just the immediate family was present. The groom is a moulder in the Pond Machine Tool Works.

BOWLING PLANS FOR PARK CLUB'S WINTER.

Famous Bachelor-Benedict Series of Games Will Be Revived at Christmas Season.

TO PLAY LEAGUE GAMES, TOO

TWO INDIVIDUAL TOURNAMENTS TO BE STARTED THIS WEEK.

Cups Will Be Offered in Straight Ten Pin and "Cocked Hat" Tournaments—First Bachelor-Benedict Game Dec. 21.

Bowling promises to be an attractive feature of the winter life at the Park Club house this season. The fact that the club has a team in The Daily Press Bowling League gives an added interest to the sport. The opening game is rolled on the club alleys with the Cranford Casino, Thursday, December 5, and after that there will be other games at intervals through the months of December, January and February.

The bowling committee has, however, prepared other attractions besides the league matches. Two individual tournaments begin on the club alleys this week. Tonight, the first matches in a handicap "cocked hat" tournament will be rolled. It will be possible to enter, however, up to December 7, with any member of the bowling committee. A handicap ten pin tournament opens Saturday night. Entries for this event close also December 7. Cups will be awarded in both contests.

It has been decided to continue the famous Bachelor-Benedict series of games this winter. Each side will be represented by ten men. There is every prospect that the old interest in those games will be revived. The first match is scheduled for Saturday evening, December 21, and the second for Saturday, December 28. If a "rubber" should be necessary, it will be rolled Saturday evening, January 4.

The bowling committee is composed of Allan B. Laing, chairman; H. B. Hibbard, Nelson A. Miller and William B. Faber. William B. Faber has been elected captain of the team in The Daily Press League.

FOR STORM SEWER.

Pipes is Here and Work on Albert Street Will Soon be Started.

Contractor C. M. Meeker has received a supply of pipe for the Albert street storm sewer extension. It has already been placed on the ground and actual work will be commenced in a few days. The length to be laid is 200 feet.

A catch basin is to be located on the south side of the street. At present the water is carried under the street railway tracks and a great deal of trouble is experienced on account of its becoming choked up under the rails. After every heavy rain a deposit of mud is left in the gutters. The building of the new sewer will obviate this trouble.

Blames The Doctor.

In the Second District Court of Newark, the case of Pasquali Perretti, of this city, against Dr. Ernest Buckley, of East Orange, will come up for trial Friday. The Plainfield man, who is represented by Hetfield and Hetfield, is suing for $300 damages, claimed for injuries sustained, for which he declares the physician is responsible.

This Year's Work Ended.

The Parliamentary Club will not resume its regular course of study until the beginning of the new year.

OLD PASTOR DIDN'T COME.

So the Congregation at Mt. Zion Church Was Disappointed in Anniversary Exercises.

Through the non-arrival of Rev. J. W. Cooper, of Navesink Highlands, a large assemblage at the Mount Zion A. M. E. church last evening, was very much disappointed. Mr. Cooper is an ex-pastor of the church and the congregation looked forward with much pleasure to having him preach at the anniversary services which are now being held. The evening, instead, was devoted to informal talks.

This evening the Fillmore Avenue church concert company will be in attendance and entertain with vocal and instrumental selections and readings. The concluding night of the anniversary will be tomorrow when a public banquet will be given.

WILD CHASE AFTER A PIG.

WITNESSED ON WEST FRONT STREET YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Pig Escaped From Farmer's Rig And Hundreds of Small Boys Finally Ran It Down.

An exciting pig chase, such as is seldom seen outside of grangers' picnics, was the amusing sight witnessed on West Front street, in the vicinity of Madison avenue, yesterday afternoon.

A diminutive porker escaped from a farmer's rig, and with exultant squeals went whirling about the feet of pedestrians. He had been free but a few minutes, when the ever-present small boy hove in sight, and the chase began round about the Stillman and Babcock buildings, to the great delight of a large crowd of spectators.

Piggy proved to be an expert sprinter, but reinforcements were steadily added to his pursuers, until, through sheer force of numbers, he was corralled on the Madison avenue bridge. He was returned to the rig, and announced his displeasure for twenty minutes, while the farmer vainly endeavored to learn who was entitled to a five-cent reward out of the one hundred contestants.

"THE ART OF HAPPINESS."

Mme. Sarah Grand's Lecture at the Casino Tomorrow Night.

Mme. Sarah Grand will make her first appearance in Plainfield at the Casino tomorrow night, and her lecture about Happiness will, no doubt, be most interesting. Major J. B. Pond, who directs her engagements, says that she is one of the best talkers he has ever heard, abounding in humor and good, sound common sense. Here are a few more of her remarks about Happiness.

"The craze to be thought better off than we are is one of the greatest enemies to happiness."

"Happiness is composed of innumerable small items and is never to be had in a solid lump."

"Smart society, so called in contradiction to good society, knows no such thing as noblesse oblige."

"One of the most delightful persons I ever met was an old gentleman who early in life had sworn off finding fault with the weather."

"Idleness is at the bottom of everything objectionable in society."

Admission to lecture, 50 and 75c. Tickets at Armstrong's.

"THE HOLY CITY."

W. H. MacClymont Will Direct Its Rendition at Christ Church, Poughkeepsie.

William E. MacClymont, A. G. O., of Washington Park, will direct the rendition of "The Holy City" at Christ church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., tomorrow evening. The affair will be of the same nature as that so successfully held at the Church of the Holy Cross a week ago. On this occasion the celebrated quartette in Holy Trinity church, New York, of which Mr. MacClymont is the organist and choirmaster, will be the soloists and will receive the support of a chorus of eighty voices, which composes the vested choir of Christ church.

TO REMOVE BULLET.

David King is at Muhlenberg Hospital Awaiting the Operation.

King's condition is not the best, and the only alternative in the hope of ultimate recovery.

PARK CLUB'S GUESTS APPEARED AS BOOKS.

Library Party Was Held Last Evening at Clubhouse of Popular Organization.

MANY MEMBERS PRESENT.

SOME OF THE REPRESENTATIONS WERE VERY AMUSING.

Miss Edith Clapp Was the Most Successful in Guessing the Titles of the Books Represented—Some of the Most Clever Ones.

A decidedly unique affair, which called into play the knowledge one has of books, and which also at the same time afforded delightful and instructive entertainment, was the "Library" Party given at the Park Clubhouse last evening. In all there were probably 150 members present, and they had a gay time until nearly midnight.

The idea was that each member should appear bearing some symbol of a known literary work. This demanded much ingenuity. As the object was to guess the representations intended, naturally each one attempted to make this as difficult as possible. Cards were provided the members and on these were to be inscribed the guesses as to the various productions represented. Prizes were offered to those most successful in the guessing contest and the rivalry to win was quite keen.

A rather clever idea was that hit upon by James W. DeGraff who appeared with a bottle and two glasses, one full and the other empty. It suggested "fill up the second," meaning "Philip II." Another good one was conveyed by Dr. Frank W. French. His suit was covered with olive colored bastings. This was "Oliver Twist." Councilman Jan vanHerwerden marched about with a card bearing this inscription: "What do you know?" meaning "The Open Question." There were many commendable representations among the 100 on the list.

After everyone had been given ample time to guess Samuel St. John McCutchen read the official list and it was found that Miss Edith Clapp had discovered the names of fifty-two books and that Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., had found forty-seven. Others were very close to these two. There were many far from the mark, which seemed all the more to increase the enjoyment, for naturally some of the guesses were laughable.

Before adjourning delicious refreshments were served. This feature of the evening was superintended by Mrs. J. P. Northrop, Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mrs. Henry A. McGee and Mrs. Gene S. Murray.

The committee in charge of the entire affair consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Senator and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Miss Mabel VanDeventer, Miss Grace M. Overton, C. E. Murray, Jan vanHerwerden and Allen B. Laing.

TROUBLE AT BRIDGE.

Catch Basins Are Higher Than Surface of the Street.

The Union county Freeholders have completed the new bridge at Netherwood avenue and Cedar brook, with four catch basins to lead the surface water from the street to the stream. These are placed higher than the present surface of the street and the street committee of the Common Council has given orders to have gravel hauled from the old railroad embankment in order to remedy the difficulty.

Additions at Pond's.

The large additions to the plant of the Pond Tool Works are rapidly nearly completion. The extension to the machine shop is entirely enclosed and the interior work is well advanced. In the foundry part, the work of installing will shortly be commenced.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unecessary to cure piles. KNEW THE JUDGE'S VOICE.

And Refused to Believe the Judge When He Answered the Telephone.

Justice Jerome, of New York, sat in his room, adjoining the court of special sessions, the other afternoon. Between cigarettes puffs he was parrying the question of a half dozen inquisitive reporters, when the telephone bell began ringing vigorously, reports the Times of that city.

In the absence of his clerk and secretary the justice thought it not beneath his dignity to play telephone boy, and this is the one-sided conversation that convulsed the newspaper men with laughter:

"This is Justice Jerome. What do you want?" A short pause.

"No, it is not the clerk; it is the justice himself. What do you want? Spit it out."

"Humph! Not the justice, you say? Well, I was when I got out of bed this morning and looked in the glass. I guess I haven't changed my identity since then. You want the justice, you say? Well, you have him—now fire away.

"Oh, you say, you know the justice well and that this isn't his voice? Well, who the deuce am I, then? Some fresh office boy, eh? Well, I can't waste any more time on you." And up went the receiver with a bang.

"I suppose I ought to have that fellow, whoever he is, arrested for contempt in calling the court a liar and a fresh office boy," said the judge, with mock dignity, as he resumed his interrupted conversation with the reporters.

CHINAMEN ALWAYS COOL.

The Celestials Never Appear to Suffer from Heat in Scorching Weather.

Chinamen may be deficient in many things, according to our point of view, but when it comes to keeping cool in hot weather they have us beaten to a standstill. Even on the hottest day in midsummer it is a rare thing to see a Chinaman perspiring or displaying any evidence that he is uncomfortably warm. Of course, his flowing garments, allowing a free and untrammeled circulation of air, have a good bit to do with this, says the Philadelphia Record, but that isn't all. Speaking of this, a Sixth district policeman whose beat embraces Chinatown said the other day:

"A Chink doesn't feel the heat because he drinks so much hot tea. The hotter the weather is the hotter he drinks his tea. It's just like taking a hot bath, which is always more refreshing in its after effects in very warm weather than a cold bath. Chinamen, though, never bathe at all in hot weather. Then, too, they never eat meat of any kind during a torrid spell, not even yokamai. But I dare say the fact that they don't understand thermometers has as much to do with it as anything. You see, they never know how hot they really are!"

BUFFALO TREASURER OUT.

Mayor Diehl Suspends Gerst—Shortage of $50,000.

BUFFALO, Nov. 20.—Mayor Diehl has suspended City Treasurer Philip Gerst, a shortage of more than $50,000 having been discovered in that officer's accounts. The suspension created a sensation and will be a blow to the friends Gerst made throughout the state when he was a member of assembly. Gerst's record in the assembly won him his place as city treasurer.

The mayor formally notified Gerst of his suspension and also sent a formal notice to the city clerk for transmission to the city council. Strenuous efforts have been made for the past week to prevent Gerst's suspension. Politicians of all kinds flocked to the mayor's office and tried to induce him to be easy on Gerst, but the conditions were such that Mayor Diehl could not see his way clear to do so.

Mr. Gerst made the following statement:

"I don't care to discuss the matter in detail at present. The books in my office are undergoing an examination by an expert accountant, and the result of that examination will show that every cent of the city's money is in the banks or in the office of the treasurer at this very moment. Notwithstanding the charges of the mayor the city of Buffalo will not lose a single penny through my administration of the office of city treasurer."

THE MESSAGE READY.

President Roosevelt's Annual Address a Long One.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Roosevelt's message to congress has been set up in type at the government printing office, and the president has proofs of the printed copy practically as it will appear on the day when it is sent to the capitol to be read before the two houses of congress. It is expected that only slight changes will be made in the document. Several minor changes were suggested at the meeting of the cabinet yesterday, and these will be sent to the public printer as corrections of the proof now in the president's hands.

President Roosevelt read the most important parts to the members of the cabinet and would have read the whole document had the two hours of the meeting sufficed for this purpose. The message as it stands now is longer than has ever been written before by any president by several thousand words. Many of the subjects treated in the paper are discussed in great detail. Principles and policies are enunciated clearly, but there is a notable absence of specific recommendations for radical legislation on any subject.

Dr. Greer Chosen Bishop.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 20.—The new diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, composed of Hampden, Hampshire, Franklin and Berkshire counties and all of Worcester county except South Bridge, was formally organized in primary convention of parochial delegates in the Christ church, this city, yesterday and after selecting as its name "the diocese of western Massachusetts" gave a unanimous election to Dr. David H. Greer of St. Bartholomew's church, New York city, for bishop. The convention was notable for harmony in its every proceeding.

Live Stock Firm In Trouble.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 20.—Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings have been instituted in the federal court here against Tamblyn & Tamblyn, live stock commission merchants, trading at the Kansas City Stock Exchange. The petition states that the firm's liabilities are $250,000. It is filed by the Llano Live Stock company and the Texas Cattle Raisers' association. No assets are given.

Professor North Resigns.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 20.—At the semi-annual meeting of the board of trustees of Hamilton college held here yesterday Professor Edward North resigned the professorship of Greek, having completed fifty-seven years in the service of the college under five successive presidents. The resignation was accepted, and Professor North was elected emeritus professor of the Greek language and literature.

Negroes Boycott Street Cars.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 20.—Negroes who have instituted a boycott against the street cars on account of the recent ordinance separating the races on the cars held a mass meeting and agreed to organize a stock company of 2,000 shares at $1 a share to operate a stagecoach service throughout the city exclusively for negroes.

The Plague at Cape Town.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 20.—The British steamer Monmouth, Captain Troop, which has arrived here direct from Cape Town, South Africa, reports the existence of over 800 cases of bubonic plague in the vicinity of Cape Town when she left that port. Up to the time she sailed some 380 deaths from the plague had occurred.

Successful Cable Mending.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 20.—The cable steamer Mackay-Bennett, which has arrived here from midocean, reports that she met with fine weather, picked up the cable and laid a new section forty miles long. Having secured coal supplies, she will return to midocean to complete the work.

CHICAGO FOGBOUND:

Loss of Life and Damage to Property Result.

ELEVATED RAILROADS ARE CRIPPLED

In One Collision Seventeen Cars Were Wrecked, One Man Killed and Scores Severely Injured. Many Other Accidents.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—The worst fog in years descended on Chicago yesterday, causing much damage to property and some loss of life. Owing to the fact that the fog was the worst just at the time the crowds were journeying from the suburbs to the downtown centers for work the transportation systems were severely handicapped, and much delay and many accidents resulted.

The most serious results of the fog were felt by the elevated railroads. In a crash between an express train and a local on the Metropolitan elevated one person was killed and scores seriously injured. A Canal street express ran into a local Metropolitan train near the Marshfield avenue station shortly after 7 o'clock. Seventeen cars were piled up in the wreck, from which injured men and women were carried.

One man was killed, Thomas Meaney. He was standing on the rear platform of the first train and was crushed to death. The most seriously injured were Fred Jones, whose head was cut and flesh lacerated; William Upton, who was internally injured, and Harry Twohey, who was badly bruised. Several patrol wagons were hurried to the scene, and the injured were conveyed to neighboring hospitals.

At the Homan avenue station of the Lake Street elevated two trains crashed together. The cars were telescoped. No one was killed, but many were badly hurt.

At the Madison avenue station of the South Side elevated two trains collided. One car was all but thrown to the ground. A wild panic followed. One of the motormen was seriously injured. William Gallagher was taken to the County hospital with a fractured leg.

Another wreck occurred on the Northwestern road at Chicago avenue. Officers of the road say no one was killed in this wreck. Traffic was blocked for over an hour, and a number of cars were badly wrecked.

Killed at a Safe Cracking.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Nov. 20.—The safe of the Missouri Pacific railroad depot here was blown open by robbers last night. Afterward a man, believed to have been one of the robbers, was found dead with a bullet hole through his heart. The supposition is that the dead man was stunned by the explosion, which was very heavy, and the others, thinking he was too badly crippled to get away, shot him. An identification card bearing the name of Charles M. Kinney was found on the dead man. The card was a guarantee from the International Registry company for expenses of caring for Kinney in case of sickness or accidents. The money left in the safe was all found under the debris.

America's Greatness Predicted.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—M. Jules Siegfried lectured at the Musee Social on his recent tour in America, repeating in extended form the opinion already expressed in an interview last July. He predicted that the present century would see the United States the greatest and most powerful commercial and industrial nation in the world. "If France is wise," he said, "she will not delay to take advantage of America's traditional friendship in order to secure the means, by a give and take policy, to get a fair share of this vast, unlimited and ever increasing field of commercial enterprise beyond the Atlantic."

Hart Renominated In Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Amid prolonged cheering and with the deafening accompaniment of a cow bell which some one had smuggled into the hall Thomas N. Hart was unanimously renominated for mayor by the Republican municipal convention. The ticket for members of the school committee which had been made up by the Public School association was unanimously indorsed by the convention, and a committee of three, with full powers, was appointed to nominate a candidate for street commissioner.

HAY ON DIPLOMACY.

Notable Speech at Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

A TRIBUTE TO HIS FALLEN CHIEF.

Secretary of State Says Our Diplomatic Intercourse Is Governed by the Monroe Doctrine and the Golden Rule.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The annual banquet of the New York chamber of commerce was held last evening. It was attended by many distinguished men, not only of this city, but of state and nation as well. Among the speakers were Senator J. L. McLaurin of South Carolina, who spoke on "The Monroe Doctrine of the Nineteenth Century;" Governor Elect Cummins of Iowa, who took for his theme "The Present Prosperity of the Republic," and Secretary of State Hay. Mr. Hay paid a glowing tribute to the late President McKinley. The major portion of his address was upon the subject of diplomacy. Among other things he said:

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I need not dwell upon the mournful and tragic event by virtue of which I am here. When the president lay stricken in Buffalo, though hope beat high in all our hearts that his life might be spared for future usefulness to his country, it was still recognized as improbable that he should be able to keep the engagement he had made to be with you tonight, and your committee did me the honor to ask me to come in his place. This I have sometimes done in his lifetime, though always with diffidence and dread, but how much more am I daunted by the duty of appearing before you when that great man, loved and revered above all even while living, has put on the august halo of immortality. Who could worthily come into your presence as the shadow of that illustrious shade?

"Let me advert but for a moment to one aspect of our recent bereavement which is especially interesting to those engaged, as you are, in relations whose scope is as wide as the world. Never since history began has there been an event which so immediately and so deeply touched the sensibilities of so vast a portion of the human race. The sun which set over Lake Erie while the surgeons were still bateling for the president's life had not risen on the Atlantic before every capital of the civilized world was in mourning. And it was not from the centers of civilization alone that the voices of sorrow and sympathy reached us. They came as well from the utmost limits of the world, from the most remote islands of the sea; not only from the courts of Christendom, but from the temples of strange gods and the homes of exotic religions. Never before has the heart of the world throbbed with a sorrow so universal. Never before have the kingdoms of the earth paid such homage at the grave of a citizen.

"One simple reason why the millions of this country mourned him as if they had buried a brother and why all the nations of the earth felt that his death was a loss to humanity at large was that he loved his fellow men. There were literally no bounds to his lavish good will. In political genius, in wisdom for government, in power of controlling men, he was one of the elect of the earth—there were few like him. But in sentiment and feeling he was the most perfect democrat I ever met. He never knew what it meant to regard another man as his inferior or as his superior. Nothing human was alien to him. Even his death was in that sense significant. He was slain in the moment when, with that delightful smile we knew so well, which seemed like the very sunshine of the spirit, he was stretching forth a generous hand to greet the lowest and meanest unit in that crowd of many thousands.

"Others will rise and labor and do good service to the republic. We shall never lack good men when the emergency calls for them. Thank God, we do not lack them now! But it may well be doubted if in any century of the glorious future before us there will ever appear two such sincere, high minded, self respecting lovers of the people as the last fifty years have shown us in Abraham Lincoln and William McKinley.

"I am asked to say something about our diplomacy. You want from me nothing but the truth, and yet if I confine myself to the truth I cannot help fearing I shall do my profession a wrong in the minds of those who have been in the habit of considering diplomacy an occult science, as mysterious as alchemy and as dangerous to the morals as municipal politics. It must be admitted that this conception of the diplomatic function is not without a certain historical foundation.

"There was a time when diplomacy was a science of intrigue and falsehood, of traps and mines and countermines. The word 'machiavelic' has become an adjective in our common speech, signifying fraudulent craft and guile. But Machiavel was as honest a man as his time justified or required. The king of Spain wrote to the king of France after the massacre of St. Bartholomew congratulating him upon the splendid dissimulation with which that stroke of policy had been accomplished. In the last generation it was thought a remarkable advance in straightforward diplomacy when Prince Bismarck recognized the advantage of telling the truth, even at the risk of misleading his adversary. The comparative simplicity of our diplomatic methods would be a matter of necessity if it were not of choice. Secret treaties, reserved clauses, private understandings, are impossible to us. No treaty has any validity until ratified by the senate. Many require the action of both houses of congress to be carried into effect. They must therefore be in harmony with public opinion.

"As to the measure of success which our recent diplomacy has met with it is difficult if not impossible for me to speak. There are two important lines of human endeavor in which men are forbidden even to allude to their success—affairs of the heart and diplomatic affairs. In doing so one not only commits a vulgarity which transcends all question of taste, but makes all future success impossible. For this reason the diplomatic representatives of the government must frequently suffer in silence the most outrageous imputations upon their patriotism, their intelligence and their common honesty. To justify themselves before the public they would sometimes have to place in jeopardy the interests of the nation. They must constantly adopt for themselves the motto of the French revolutionist, 'Let my name wither rather than my country be injured.'

"But if we are not permitted to boast of what we have done we can at least say a word about what we have tried to do and the principles which have guided our action. The briefest expression of our rule of conduct is perhaps the Monroe doctrine and the golden rule. With this simple chart we can hardly go far wrong.

"The attitude of our diplomacy may be indicated in a text of Scripture which Franklin, the first and greatest of our diplomats, tells us passed through his mind when he was presented at the court of Versailles. It was a text his father used to quote to him in the old candle shop in Boston when he was a boy, 'Seest thou a man diligent in his business he shall stand before kings.' Let us be diligent in our business, and we shall stand—stand, you see, not crawl nor swagger—stand as a friend and equal, asking nothing, putting up with nothing but what is right and just among our peers in the great democracy of nations."

Noted Horticulturist Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—Thomas Meehan, one of the foremost horticulturists and botanists in this country and who has an international reputation in these fields, died at his home in Germantown last night after a lingering illness. He was seventy-five years of age. Mr. Meehan devoted his entire career to botany and horticulture and was an eminent authority on those subjects. He was a prolific writer and contributed thousands of articles to scientific publications on the subjects of his life's work. He was the first to succeed in flowering the Victoria Regia in this country, and his success in this was quite an event in the botonical and horticultural world. Mr. Meehan was born in England.

A Triple Murder.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 20.—The dead bodies of A. P. Wilcox, his wife and two-year-old son have been found in their home at Downey, twelve miles from this city. All the bodies were horribly mutilated, and the bloody condition of the premises indicated that the assailants had met with a fierce resistance. Wilcox and his family had been shot and then literally cut to pieces with a knife. The crime was discovered when a neighbor called at the house and found the place evidently abandoned. On forcing the door he found the dead bodies of the family stretched out on the floor. There is no clew to the murderer.

Big Blaze In St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 20.—Fire last night destroyed the five story brick building at the corner of Ninth and Wabash streets, entailing a loss of $150,000, partly covered by insurance. The ground floor was occupied by stores, while the upper stories were used as a warehouse by the People's Storage company and were filled mostly with household furniture. During the progress of the fire an explosion of gasoline occurred, slightly injuring a number of firemen. The building was owned by Caroline E. Boardman of Troy, N. Y. The damage to adjoining property amounted to about $10,000.

Lawyer Indicted For Embezzlement.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—George W. Cass, former secretary of the Illinois State Bar association, has been indicted by the grand jury on the charge of embezzling $25,000. The property involved, according to the testimony, belonged to friends and relatives of Cass living in and near Coshocton, O.

SANTIAGO IMPROVEMENTS.

Governor Wood Orders Extensive Public Works For the City.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Nov. 20.—Governor General Wood and Mrs. Wood entertained Mayor Bacardi, Adjutant General McGunnegle and several prominent Cuban officials at luncheon on the government yacht Kanawha. Major Barbour, chief of the sanitary department, took Collector Bliss and the other members of General Wood's party to El Cobre, where they inspected the mines and looked at the famous shrine.

General Wood accomplished a good deal of routine work during the day. He gave directions for the carrying out of many new public works, involving an outlay of hundreds of thousands of dollars. He ordered the construction of a sea wall half a mile in length, which will cost $50,000, and of a custom house building. He issued instructions also for harbor dredging, for the completion of the sewer system and waterworks, for the repair of roads and for the transfer of the prisoners from the jail to the old Spanish barracks in order to make a courthouse out of the jail, which is one of the oldest and most famous in the West Indies.

TACOMA BANK CLOSED.

A Run Caused by a Misunderstanding Compels the Step.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 20.—The Metropolitan bank, P. V. Cæsar president, closed its doors after experiencing an all day run. The run began as the result of a misunderstanding, the small depositors believing that a suit filed Friday against the receiver of the Metropolitan Savings bank, which failed five days ago, had something to do with the present Metropolitan bank. About $40,000 was withdrawn, and the bank applied for a receiver. Dwight Phelps was appointed, with a bond of $10,000.

The fact that the school children's savings account, amounting to $12,000, was in the bank helped to spread the rumor started by the suit.

The Metropolitan's total deposits are about $500,000. The failure is due entirely to the misunderstanding.

President Cæsar says he is negotiating with New York people and believes he will be able to perfect arrangements to pay every depositor in full. The school savings are secured by school warrants held in trust by the school board.

Much Watered Milk Found.

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 20.—Under the new and exceedingly strict pure food law of New Jersey, which went into effect Nov. 1, a large force of state inspectors swooped down on the milk dealers of this city yesterday, with disastrous consequences to the dealers. Supplies of the fluid which came in on trains were tested as well as that which local dairymen and neighboring farmers were peddling in wagons. Hundreds of gallons which the inspectors said had been watered were poured into the gutters. The result was that many families were without milk. In each case samples were taken from the cans to be tested with a view to prosecutions. The police force of the city gave all the aid possible to the inspectors.

Sending Gold to Europe.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Treasury officials feel no apprehension whatever on account of the exportations of gold. Secretary Gage said he would not make at this time any statement in regard to the matter, but it is known that he regards the shipments as a very natural movement in view of the quite general demand for money in Europe and that he believes there is nothing in the situation to cause the least uneasiness. At this time there is an unusual demand for money in several European financial centers, and it is to be expected, it is said, that United States investors would take advantage of the increased interest rates and ship their funds to the best markets.

Fatal Freight Wreck.

TOWANDA, Pa., Nov. 20.—A serious freight wreck on the Lehigh Valley railroad yesterday blocked both tracks near Ulster for six hours. Jesse Horton, a brakeman, was crushed to death under a car, and an engine and thirteen cars were wrecked. Track repairers had taken up rails in the course of their work and had, it is said, failed to flag a fast moving eastbound freight train in time to prevent its running off the track.

Miss Stone and Companion In Belleritza Mountains.

CONSUL DICKINSON ASKS FOR TROOPS

Only Eight Bandits Now Guard the Captives—Agreement on Terms Impossible—Compulsory Measures Are Decided Upon.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 20.—It is reported that Mr. Dickinson, the United States diplomatic agent here, has informed the government of Bulgaria that the abductors of Miss Ellen M. Stone and Mme. Tsilka, with their captives, are concealed in a defile of the Belleritza mountains near Smotchno, district of Dubnitza, and has requested that troops be sent to surround the place and liberate the captives. Both Mr. Dickinson and the Bulgarian foreign office decline to confirm or deny this report. Nevertheless it is believed that Mr. Dickinson, persuaded of the impossibility of coming to terms with the brigands and relying upon his belief that they will not harm their captives if troops are employed against them, has, after consulting with Washington, decided upon this move.

Only eight bandits now guard Miss Stone, and some of these are known to sympathize with her.

About a fortnight ago Mr. Dickinson approached the foreign office and proposed this same plan, but its carrying out was abandoned because of the uncertainty of the location of the bandits.

New York State Fair In Debt.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The state fair commission at its meeting in this city decided to hold its next fair at Syracuse during the week commencing Aug. 25, 1902. While a two weeks' fair has been under consideration, it was deemed advisable to hold it but for one week. The treasurer reported that there would be a deficiency resulting from the fair held in September last of from $20,000 to $24,000. This is considerably less than the estimated deficiency, which was placed by some at $40,000. The deficiency is due mainly to inclement weather and the excitement attending the assassination of President McKinley, which took place during the period when the fair was held.

Notable Kentucky Nuptials.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20.—The marriage of Miss Patti Ellison of Louisville and Sir Charles Rose took place yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ellison. On account of a business engagement of Sir Charles at New York the wedding was advanced a day, the date having originally been set for today. Sir Charles and his bride left in the afternoon on August Belmont's private car for New York, whence they sail for Europe on Saturday. After a few days in London they will go to Bainagoen castle, in Scotland, where they will entertain a house party during the holidays.

Judgment Against Strikers Affirmed.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 20.—The New Jersey court of errors and appeals has sustained the action of Vice Chancellor Pitney in adjudging guilty of contempt of court several Paterson mill strikers. These strikers had disobeyed an order of the court, and Vice Chancellor Pitney imposed sentences for a term in jail on two and fined the others. Former Attorney General Griggs, counsel for Frank and Duggan, the mill owners, with whom the strikers had been employed, appeared and argued in favor of sustaining the vice chancellor.

Bohemian Violinist Coming.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Jan Kubelik, the Bohemian violinist, who will start today for the United States for his American tour, under the management of Daniel Frohman, gave his final recital in London yesterday at Queen's hall. At the close there was a scene of enthusiasm rivaling Paderewski's receptions. The women stormed the platform, insisted upon shaking hands with the performer, presented to him a huge floral crown and threw buttonhole flowers at him.

Glass Workers Strike.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 20.—The members of the American Flint Glass Workers' union employed at the Morgantown Glass factory went out on strike yesterday. Many of the employees not members of the union struck through sympathy with the movement. The factory is idle, with doors closed and locked. The cause of the strike was the fact that A. M. Gantz and Charles Frantz were discharged for an infraction of the company's rules.

Senator Sewall's Condition.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 20.—Senator Sewall of New Jersey, who has been at Asheville, N. C., for some time for the benefit of his health, was able to be out yesterday. He walked about the grounds of the Battery Park hotel in company with his daughter. He has improved somewhat within the past few days, but it is said to be doubtful if he ever entirely recovers his health.

Postoffice Robbed.

A Change is Desired.

A strong protest has come to this office from those who have to make the trip to the New York markets, early each morning, against the action of the New Jersey Central Railroad in discontinuing the eastbound train which formerly left here at 3:16 o'clock every morning. Those men whose business calls them to the Washington and other New York markets every day, were accustomed to take that train. The only way that they can now get to New York in time is to take the Philadelphia express, which is due here at 2:17. It frequently happens, however, that this train is anywhere from ten minutes to two hours late and the Plainfielders are compelled to suffer in consequence.

There are quite a number of Plainfielders who feel the change very much and who declare that unless the railroad company makes some different kind of an arrangement so they can reach the markets in time, they will have to move elsewhere to some place where suitable transportation facilities may be secured. They suggest either that the old train be put back or else that an early morning train, which now starts from Roselle, be changed so that they may have the benefit of it.

It is probable that the officials of the New Jersey Central Railroad carefully considered each change that was made in the time card this winter. It was undoubtedly in the interests of economy that the train was removed. The railroad men should still bear in mind, however, that there are certain demands of their patrons which are but just and which should be acceeded to even if they do not promise direct financial returns. Plainfield's interests are, in some measure, the interests of the New Jersey Central Railroad and that company can no more afford than can Plainfield to allow a number of good citizens to move away simply because they cannot get to their place of business in time.

Through the courtesy of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, The Daily Press was enabled to print yesterday the full text of a paper by him concerning the city sewage disposal works. It originally appeared in the Engineering Record. This article was of particular interest to Plainfield in that it explained in detail the new system which is about to be inaugurated at the disposal works. It was conceded that the old method was not the success anticipated and after careful investigation, the Common Council decided in favor of the plans as outlined by Mr. Gavett in his article. It is expected that the plant will soon be in operation. Its success or failure will be watched with much interest as it is something which intimately affects the local condition of municipal affairs.

Among the many results of having two municipalities in the same community, there has now developed a new complication. There is a little fruit store built on the bridge where Somerset street spans Green brook, which marks the line between city and borough, as well as between the two counties. A thief broke into the establishment and carried away part of the stock. It becomes impossible to tell where either he or the stolen property was when the crime was committed. The proprietor summoned the police of both municipalities, who were confronted by this new problem. It now becomes a question as to which should ferret out the thief and which county shall act after he is captured.

The uses of advertising are rapidly increasing, comments the Philadelphia Record. People find that it is easier and far better to make announcements through the advertising columns of newspapers than by word of mouth or by letter. Thus the great Boston Library has profited largely by newspaper advertising. Instead of personal appeals to a few persons for rare collections of books and prints the library managers have expressed their desires in regular "ads" and have been surprised by valuable gifts from unexpected sources. The newspaper reaches virtually everybody.

The Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company is not asking favors for anybody. The company is ready and willing to pay all its just debts. The question of its location does not depend on any financial assistance which any community may offer. The decision of the company is to be made entirely on the suitableness of the site. Plainfield has the land, there is room for the added population and there is not a good Plainfielder who will not gladly welcome the industry should its officials decide to locate here.

Some friendly official of the Plainfield Water Supply Company thinks that The Daily Press is in league with a meter company. Any one who is at all acquainted with this newspaper knows the falsity of such a charge. The Daily Press is in this fight to stay and we are going to advocate water meters until they are installed or someone is able to convince us that the best interests of the city would not be furthered thereby.

What is the value of several coats of paint when compared to that of a human life? It is well-known that by painting the fence which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station, the New Jersey Central Railroad will be taking a step for the protection of the lives of its passengers.

One of the last acts of the present Common Council will probably be to award the contracts for the printing of the city ordinances. There is no doubt as to the need of such a volume. Hardly a day passes but there is a call for some city ordinance.

The Elizabeth Journal does not believe that the bill to include Plainfield as part of Somerset county will ever amount to anything. That's the Elizabeth view of the situation, but Elizabeth does not control the entire Legislature.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Plainfield Press predicts that a bill of very great interest to Union county will be introduced in the next Legislature. It will provide for the changing of the boundary line between the counties of Union and Somerset so that the city of Plainfield shall become part of Somerset. Of course such a bill may be introduced. Any member of the Legislature may introduce a bill, or any citizen of New Jersey may draft a bill and may have it introduced by the member from his county "by request." But a bill of the kind referred to by the esteemed Press would hardly get further than the desk of the chairman of the committee to which is was referred.—Elizabeth Journal.

It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

Miss Bertha Nelson and Lester Nelson sang solos that evoked great applause and the remainder of the programme was fully as meritorious.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

FOUR MONTHS FOR CURTIS.

HE WAS SENTENCED BY JUDGE VAIL THIS MORNING.

Had Nothing to Say Concerning Charge—Pale But Erect When Sentence Was Pronounced.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, November 20—Before Judge Vail in the Court of Quarter Sessions, this morning, David L. Curtis, the young Plainfield man who pleaded non vult to a serious charge preferred against him by Miss Lillian B. Thorn, was sentenced to four months in the county jail. He made no comment and was returned in silence to the cell where he has been awaiting the court's action for the past three months.

While standing before the bar, Curtis held himself erect but his features plainly showed the confinement he has undergone. In reply to Prosecutor English's questions he stated in a clear voice without a tremor that he was twenty-nine years old and that he had a wife living in Jersey City but that he had not lived with her in eight one-half years. These were the only words exchanged in court by him before sentence was pronounced.

John Burk, formerly of Plainfield, who gave his name as John Thompson, was arraigned and pleaded non vult to a charge of grand larceny. He was sentenced to three years in State's prison. He was detected stealing silverware at a Cranford home.

FAKE TALE.

Police Are Looking For Man Who Started Story of Serious Case.

The police are making a thorough search today for the person who originated the weird story of an attack on a Plainfield young woman, similar to the Paterson Boschelter case.

The affair was supposed to have occurred last night, but there is not one iota of truth in the story which spread about the streets this morning. Several patrolman were put on the case and they have reason to believe the guilty person can be found.

A PIANO-TUNER'S TROUBLES.

Some Things He Found in the Neglected Instrument of a Particular Housewife.

"There are housewives and housewives, no question about that," said the communicative piano-tuner. "The other day I went to a spink-and-spar house uptown. The woman was one of the kind that prides herself on doing her own work. She paused a moment to polish the bell handle, on which I had thoughtlessly imprinted a thumbmark, before allowing me to pass in, and even then she instructed me to be particular in wiping my feet, and scowled at me because I set my bag of tools on the polished oak seat of the hall rack. I noticed that she stooped to pick up a bit of thread on the parlor carpet, as I walked toward the piano, and I kind of knew what to expect.

"You just ought to have seen the inside of that piano! I had no more than lifted the lid when off I went into a fit of sneezing. The dust was thick in there, and no mistake. I scraped around in it awhile, trying to locate the mechanism, and then I said: 'Madam, I'm sorry to trouble you, but I shall need a dustpan and brush.'

"She pretended to be indignant at first, but she colored up like fire, brought me the dustpan and brush and helped me use it. We found all sorts of curiosities in that piano," continued the piano-tuner, according to the Philadelphia Record. "Spiders' webs, several defunct cockroaches and one dead fly, but when we came across the relics of a mouse's nest the woman's equanimity failed her. She marched out of the parlor and didn't bother me any more until I was ready to go. Meet such cases often? Oh, yes; once in awhile."

DEADBEATS IN ALL CLIMES.

Wall Signs Prepared for Their Especial Benefit All the World Over.

Two New Yorkers, sitting at a round table in a combination barroom and restaurant, eating hot roast beef sandwiches and drinking beer, had their attention called to a sign over the bar which read: "In God we trust; all others cash." "That sign smacks too much of sacrilege," said one. "It's witty, perhaps, but I don't like it. A sign that one sees in many English ale houses conveys the same hint to those who desire credit, and yet does not drag in the sacred name. This sign I speak of is often accompanied by the picture of a faithful watchdog lying dead on the ground, and the legend reads:

" 'Old Trust is dead; bad pay killed him.'

"The difference between the two signs," replied his companion, "it seems to me, is the national difference between British humor and Yankee wit. When I was in Europe last vacation I often saw a sign in the wine shops there which I never saw anywhere else until a few days ago I spied it decorating the wall of a little Italian drinking shop on the lower East side. It reads:

" 'To-morrow we give credit, but not to-day.' "

"The dead beat seems to be the especial product of no particular nation," said the first speaker. "By the way, Bill, can you lend me a half? I don't like to hang up the house. Never do it, indeed. Matter of principle with me. Thank you. Return it next time we meet, of course."

SCOTLAND COMING.

Shiploads of It Are Being Frequently Dumped in New York Harbors.

It is a fact that Scotland is literally being transferred to America. It is being carried across the Atlantic piecemeal; and, although it will take many years to remove the whole of Scotland, considerable portions are being conveyed at not infrequent intervals.

The Land of Cakes comes to the United States in the character of ballast; and the other day as much as a thousand tons was thus brought to New York on the Allan line steamer Laurentian. Nearly every week a large quantity is shipped.

This is because of the absence of freight. Shipowners would much rather leave the land of the Scots at home, but without ballast their vessels might turn turtle. While for commercial purposes the soil is absolutely worthless, it has to be paid for at Glasgow, its removal from the hold at New York involving still further expense. After the cargo of soil has been discharged the ship has to be thoroughly cleansed before freight can be received on board.

But other ships than those that hail from Scottish ports carry earth as ballast. Any French or Italian exile in America who is yearning for the sight of his native land can see it without the trouble and expense of crossing the Atlantic by visiting the New York harbors. This is all because the tide of trade is in our favor. We ship more goods than are shipped to us, and the difference is made up in soil of the old world.

Women All Beautiful in 1901.

If there are now few or none of the all-conquering "belles" and "toasts" of olden days, says the London Mail, it is equally certain that the plain woman has become an extinct species in society. The health craze makes for beauty, as it enjoins exercise, early hours, fresh air and temperance in eating and drinking. The plain woman, dowdily dressed, has been left behind with the dead and gone nineteenth century. We are all moderately beautiful in 1901.

Stamped by Its Ugliness.

An amusing controversy has sprung up in Paris over the gender of the "automobile," which the French academy has solemnly declared to be masculine. One disputatious writer would like to know how "automobile" can be masculine, while "locomobile" is feminine. To this the answer is triumphantly given that the automobile is too ugly to be feminine. With this gallant and unanswerable argument all debate ceases.

STANDARD OIL PLOT.

Chicago Authoress to Make Attack on Trust Methods.

Gertrude Potter Daniels Claims That the Arguments of Her New Story Are Based on Facts Verified by Records.

Mrs. Gertrude Potter Daniels is about to follow "The Warners" with another novel, says the Chicago Tribune. Not daunted by the criticism the first book provoked by its attitude toward certain industrial conditions, she says that the second book may meet still more opposition, for it will be a direct attack upon some of the methods of the Standard Oil company.

The book is to be finished by January, and there is considerable detail yet to be written. In outline Mrs. Daniels says she will begin with an episode in the operations of the trust which she has verified by records, but transferring her characters to the west from the east, where the thing occurred. A man discovers an oil well and associates with himself a company of three or four, pooling their means, to develop it. An Eastern man, experienced, refined and intelligent, with a weakness for drink, is employed as superintendent. Then the trust steps in. The offer to purchase is refused, and the superintendent is approached. At first he is incorruptible, but the bribe is a greater sum than he can ever hope to lay by from his salary, and he has the promise of protection afterwards. The new buildings are completed, the machinery installed, and on the morning when that which promised immediate wealth to the little company was to be set in motion there was a terrible explosion, never explained, and the new plant was hopelessly wrecked. The superintendent turns up afterward in Boston. He has plenty of money and lives without work. It is three years before conscience, deadened by drink, awakes, and remorse drives him to seek the little company of men whose fortunes he wrecked and confess the plot against them. They enter a suit against the trust, and the developments of this litigation Mrs. Daniels will make the basis for her argument against the Standard Oil company.

So much for the trusts, but the book will have the lighter touches of a love story, although the hero does not make an auspicious advent. He is born in New York city, grows up an honest, intelligent youth, but handicapped by poverty. His ambition is to get out to the great west where fortunes can be made, and, frenzied with the desire, he resolves to steal the money that will take him there. He mingles with the throng on Broadway, and at the opportune moment steals a woman's purse. The act is noted by an older thief. He follows the boy out to a lonely street where he stops in an open lot to count the money, demands the purse or threatens exposure. The boy kills him, he thinks, in self-defense. He starts for the west, and his money carries him as far as the desert lands, where he falls in with a family of consumptives trying to reach Colorado. The man dies with the disease, and then the wife, leaving to the boy's care a little daughter. He does not go on to San Francisco, but taking the child with him makes his way to the Texas oil region. He cares for the child as his sister, and afterwards their love story classifies the book as a romance.

Suffered for Bird's Crime.

Dumb animals sometimes have the power of causing fearful changes in a human life. A man named Fergus, who last year was discharged from Blackmoor prison in England after serving three years in jail, always claimed he was entirely innocent of the crime of which he was accused. Fergus was sent to Blackmoor on conviction of the theft of Lady Allonvale's diamond ring. The prisoner always claimed that his pet jackdaw had stolen the ring and left it on the window sill, where he had found it. His story was discredited until finally the skeleton of a jackdaw was discovered under a trap door in Lady Avondale's house. Then Fergus was believed and his pardon followed.

The Cathedral of Cologne.

One would think that the identity of the architect of such a superbly designed building as the Cologne cathedral could not possibly be lost to the world. But it is. The cathedral took centuries to build, and many architects have modeled parts of it according to their own ideas. The result is the most beautiful cathedral in the world.

Cats Sacrificed to Fashion.

A hundred tons of cats' tails were recently sold in one lot in New York for ornamenting ladies' wearing apparel. This means that no fewer than 1,792,000 pussies had been killed to supply this one consignment.

INSOMNIA
INDIGESTION

"I have been troubled with indigestion, a full feeling after eating, little or no appetite and dizziness," writes Mrs. Hiram Little, a housekeeper, aged sixty-seven years, living at Smith's Mills, Chautauqua Co., N.Y. "I was also afflicted with insomnia, some nights being almost unable to close my eyes, lying wide awake and hearing the clock strike almost all the hours of the night. My son sent me a few cartons of Ripans and asked me to try them, which I did, but in a half hearted way. They relieved my ills and I feel very much better. My appetite is good and I rest well, some nights scarcely awaking from the time I retire until morning. The dizzy feeling has also gone."

A Woman Architect

Visitors at the Pan-American exposition were especially attracted by the imposing and at the same time thoroughly cozy and convenient interior of the New England building. It was not so impressive upon the outside owing to its speckledish red, green and white coloring, which goes with its colonial architecture. But in whatever tends to the making of a desirable interior it surpassed any of the other state structures. Was this because it was designed by a woman? It may have been.

When the New England commissioners to the Buffalo fair decided to have a union building, one commodious home for people of all the five states in their section, they advertised for designers for it. Bids were opened at a meeting in Boston, and this desirable contract was given to a woman, Josephine Wright Chapman. So favorably was her plan received that she was likewise appointed supervising architect for the New England commission.

The interior arrangement of the New England Pan-American building was extremely simple, which was an added charm. You entered in from a pillared portico and faced a grand staircase.

Ranged to the right and left and rear of this grand staircase were the reception and living rooms. At the top of the staircase, opening off a gallery that ranged around three sides, were what in a private residence would have been the sleeping rooms. The great hall, with view unobstructed to the roof, gave scope for splendid wall and hall decorations, which was duly taken advantage of.

I have described a little in detail this interior because it impressed me as being the perfect plan for a country house. At any rate, when I get my country house it will be planned inside like that. If the fact that it was designed by a woman proves anything, it proves that there ought to be at least fifty women architects in America where there is one now. Of the few ladies that have already entered this profession Miss Chapman is one of the best known and most successful. She has always a number of important and remunerative contracts in hand, enough to occupy several assistants.

Miss Chapman's career, too, shows that a woman can design other structures than homes. Craigie hall, the largest dormitory at Harvard university, with the great swimming pool connected therewith, is from plans prepared by her. So is the beautiful stone church of St. Mark's, Leominster, Mass. Then again she has designed a vast apartment hotel, a $100,000 clubhouse and a number of handsome and costly country homes. Everything in the house planning line, from a stable to a statehouse, she is able to turn out.

One pleasant feature of Miss Chapman's experience is that men architects have been uniformly kind and courteous to her.

Writing of woman as an architect reminds me of the electric light in our building. We women need that electric light every day in one of the dark rooms. Whenever we turn it on or extinguish it we must mount a box and even then stretch our arms to the danger point for shoulder seams. If the frail box should tip over, we would strike against the wall or upon the hatrack and break nose or skull unless a guardian angel forefended. A man put up that light. I myself am going to move soon and am looking for a convenient house. The other day I found one the owner and designer thought was absolute perfection in the matter of convenience. To begin, there was the chandelier in the living room so low that a woman would strike her head against it every time she passed it at constant risk of breaking either the head or the chandelier.

"We thought we would put it low so ladies could reach it easily," said the satisfied owner.

"Yes, but a long lighter for the gas would have been better than to knock one's head against the brass and glass twenty times a day," I replied.

The owner led the way to the kitchen. Here the cupboard—the kitchen cupboard, mind you—was so high and far away that a short woman would have required a stepladder to reach even the lowest shelf of it. These masculine home designers understand not the rudiments of their trade. Ladies, here is a most inviting and remunerative field. Go you to the Paris school of architecture to learn artistic and harmonious exterior designing, then for interiors go down into the interior of your own common sense.

Bowling Grows In Favor

The Growth of This Popular Game Has Been Remarkable.

ADHERENTS of the sport of bowling are "hard at it" all over the United States. More popular than ever, the game has spread to such an extent that it would require an identification bureau expert to keep track of the many leagues that are playing scheduled games in the big cities. Secretary Sam Karpf, of the national organization of bowlers—the American Bowling congress—is in a position to tell a great deal about the growth of the game. He told me the other day that if he had all the money that he has invested in bowling alleys and balls, pins, supplies of all sorts and in building improvements for alleys, he would build cup defender yachts, buy great masterpieces of art and become a great philanthropist.

"The game cannot die out if it proceeds as it has for two years," said Mr. Karpf. "It has got to such a state that the business men of small cities are putting in alleys of the standard up-to-date pattern to hold trade that might otherwise be lost on account of people going to the clubs. Aside from thousands of new public alleys that have been put in since last spring, there are hundreds of club house alleys on my list. Each has its following and roughly speaking I should say that this winter there will be 1,000,000 bowlers in the United States. It will take a small forest to supply wood for the pins that are going to be put 'out of the ring' this winter."

Champion Brill's suggestions to beginners—the position for novices, the backward swing and the delivery down the center.

Another optimist on the success of the winter season of bowling is Champion Bowler Frank Brill. The premier roller of the country will be such in evidence with his team of first-class bowlers this season. He has charge of 30 alleys and has spent many hours figuring how to schedule more leagues than his alley facilities will accommodate.

"How do I know there are more beginners in the game this fall than ever before?" asked Mr. Brill. "Why, never since I was bowling in New York have I been asked by so many people to give them instructions in bowling. That alone indicates that there are novices galore who have the league fever and who wish to roll well so as to make some team. Seriously, I do not know why they should come to me for lessons. It was quite by good fortune that I gained the title of champion. Of course I have bowled many years and have fared well—rolling consistently and about the same average each year, but there are better bowlers than I am.

"Anybody who can send the 16-pound lignum vitae ball down the alley and who is able to make it hit the 1-3 pins, is in line for bowling honors," continued the champion. "There is no sport that I know of in which the participants have such a variety of styles of play that bring results, unless it is golf. You may roll a curve ball, or you may be a straight-down-the-center roller, or you may always deliver the ball from the right or the left hand corner of the alley, and yet you may be a roller who can average over 200 for the season."

Brill may seem modest, but the fact remains that his tips on the game are in demand everywhere. No man can be the "war horse of the alleys" that he has been for years without knowing a great deal about the game. First-season bowlers watch his work and ask all manner of questions. To all he invariably remarks: "Bowling is not hard to acquire proficiency in. Don't try to make it hard. Learn to keep on your feet and above all cultivate the habit of leading with the left foot and sliding a bit on that foot just as the ball is delivered. The eye must help you, for if you do not hit the head pin, you must not expect strikes. Another thing—go after spares with just as much accuracy and earnestness and in the same style of delivery that you use in sending the first ball after strikes. On the same principle that the beginner should not try to imitate the style of Schaefer in billiards—for he will fail—I would suggest that no beginner try to roll after my style. Years of bowling have clinched my style, which does not come easy to the man who is learning. So many beginners do too much useless swinging of the arms. Theoretically they bring their arms to a dead standstill, although they think they are adding momentum to the departure of the ball. I crouch, perhaps not so much as some of the crack easterners, and when I stoop I let my right arm begin to stoop in front of my body. As the ball comes up, I instinctively bring my left hand up until my fingers touch the ball. That touch, coming automatically and with just enough force to steady the ball, gives my aim a little more effectiveness. As the arm starts to return I take the first step. The next step must be taken as the ball comes back on the return trip and the ball is delivered after a short slide down to near the foul line.

"Never attempt to curve a ball. There will be more or less of a natural curve, try as you may to send down the straight cross ball for the crotch, but if you succeed in making good scores this habit of curving will become so fixed that you will do it unconsciously. The alleys sometimes have slight deflections which account for the curving. Don't be afraid of stooping. You are closer to the alley and naturally your aim on the head pin is better than it is in the upright position. Besides, you are more likely to be steadier on your feet. A hard fall on an alley due to crossed feet or slipping is often attended by serious results. Learn to be just as careful in going after spares as in trying for strikes. The fallacy of having to be a strike man to get big scores is exploded. Roll for every spare and aim to keep free from errors.

"It is obvious that the nature of the spare to be made will govern the actual delivery of the ball. The No 10 means that you have to veer over toward the left-hand side of the alley to shoot accurately for the lone pin. So if the No. 7 is left standing you will have to deliver the ball from the right hand side. When No. 6 or No. 9 pin is up, the center delivery is best. If you begin a characteristic style in spare rolling, do not shift it for experiments or you will find your score full of breaks.

"The beginner must learn first of all to take it easy. Do not try to slam the end of the alley out into the street. With the ball held firmly with the fingers of the right hand and resting in the palm of the left hand about waist high, you take a position on the runway, standing a good deal more erect than a veteran roller would. Roll the center ball for a time. As you get over your awkwardness, you rapidly develop a style of your own.

"The cross ball and the curved ball together with the pronounced stoop will come later. I never believed in the use of too much speed. You will see by timing my ball down the alley that it is only moderately fast, but does not vary a full second in its journey from one day's rolling to another. It is easily possible to use too much speed and the ball then tears through the pins and leaves disappointing railroads. You may become a very effective roller by the use of the curve, but this efficient delivery is hard to control. Besides, the curve does not work on all alleys. During the national championship my old friends from the New York teams essayed the curve much to their sorrow. Nick Thyne, the veteran of the east, who began to bowl about the time the Dutch discovered Manhattan isle, disdains a curved ball. Thyne has repeatedly shown the critics how good consistent bowling might be played.

"Don't begin to roll with a small ball. Of course the regulation balls seem heavy and some people have trouble in sending them down the alleys. Don't be afraid of the gutters. The balls will do no harm if they roll off the alley. The pins are arranged with scientific accuracy and the full, regulation ball makes strikes where a ball that is a fraction of an inch smaller in diamater will fail to get the pins. It is surprising in what a short time the heavy ball seems to become light. It is not an evidence of supersensitiveness to demand bowling shoes even if you are going to roll but one game. With rubber or elk-hide soles you have an advantage over the bowler who depends upon his street shoes. Besides there is the added element of safety in delivering the ball, to say nothing of the increased accuracy that comes in being well poised. Another thing—don't keep track of your scores and don't figure your average until you are really a bowler. After you have begun to average 165 your satisfaction over the scores will keep pace with your improvement."

BULL STARTED BACK.

Would Not Attack a Woman Made Up as a Statue.

Perilous Performance of Senorita Mercedes del Barte, Known as Donna Tancreda, Beautiful Queen of Valor.

According to a London correspondent there appeared, a few weeks ago, some alluring advertisements which were especially attractive to those Parisians who love excitement, and who had had their appetite for such things tickled by the races of the Rue Pergolese. The attraction this time was a woman, Donna Tancreda, who, made up to resemble a statue, was to await, motionless in the arena, the assault of the bull, and to conquer it by her immobility. At the last moment this performance, which was to have taken place at Enghein, was forbidden. It did, however, take place at Roubaix. Here is an exact account of what happened at the "suerte" of the statue:

At a given signal from the president, the doors of the arena opened and a magnificent carriage appeared, all draped in red velvet, fringed with gold. In this carriage sat Senorita Mercedes del Barte, alias Donna Tancreda.

The "Queen of Valor" is dressed completely in white. Her face and hair are powdered. The carriage stops just in front of the presiding party, and she gets out, smiling and bowing, and throws off her mantle, talking with the ushers while the attendants arrange in the middle of the arena a pedestal of wood about two feet high. When all is ready the impresario addresses the public, and begs them to observe the most rigorous silence during the performance. This is indispensable. Then Donna Tancreda mounts the pedestal, helped by the matadors. She crosses her arms and faces the door from which the bull will emerge. The woman looks exactly like a marble statue. The arena is empty. All the ushers have disappeared behind the barriers and shelters. The deepest silence reigns in the vast auditorium. Half a minute passes thus. Then the door opens, and one sees in the shadow the enormous head of the bull Gitano. The spectators hardly breathe; many of the women cover their eyes with their hands. It is a terrible moment.

THE BULL STOPS SHORT.

The bull is a superb animal, with a powerful neck and long, straight horns. He raises his head, looks around, and at once bounds upon the white statue.

It is with the greatest difficulty that one can restrain a cry of horror; one's sensations are too painful, and a long endurance of such emotion would be unbearable.

Donna Tancreda is as rigid as marble. The least movement would be fatal to her.

The bull starts back, looks at his strange adversary, and then with a terrible bound rushes up to the pedestal. Anxiety is at its height. But once more the bull stops short without striking. He draws back a few feet, and, taking advantage of this, Donna Tancreda jumps down and rushes behind a screen, whilst the ushers draw off the bull.

The people breathe again. A long sigh escapes from all, and then thunders of applause are heard, and the "Queen of Valor" gets a tremendous ovation.

Donna Tancreda, who was born in Paris, has appeared with success at Barcelona, Valentia, Castile, Madrid, Seville and, for the first time in France, at Roubaix.

Enslaves the Kaiser's Son.

Miss Parker Deacon, who went to Berlin recently with the duchess of Marlborough, created a furore in German court circles. The crown prince, who will be kaiser if he outlives his father, was her devoted slave. In addition to being one of the most perfectly beautiful girls imaginable, she is an excellent linguist and uncommonly clever. Therefore it is no wonder that she causes a sensation wherever she goes. The duchess of Marlborough is devoted to her. Miss Deacon has every prospect of making a brilliant marriage. Miss Secor, another American girl, has made a sensational social success as well as Miss Deacon under the chaperonage of Lady Decies.

Poetry and Labor Mix.

A blending of poetry with the stern reality of manual work in applied science offered a departure in educational methods at the Armour institute at Chicago the other day. President Gunsaulus, determined that labor in greasy shops clad in overalls and jumpers should not rob the students of an appreciation of the delicate flights of poetry, introduced a new feature by giving over an hour to a lecture on one of the later English poets. The purpose of the lecture to the freshmen, as announced by President Gunsaulus, was to give to the students a broader view of the education that might be useful in engineering branches.

GOLF.

The golf committee of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club is arranging for several events on the course for Thanksgiving Day. In addition there will be the regular play for the Gilbert cup at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The chances are that there will not be much more playing for the Mellick cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course this season. During the past three weeks the play has gone by default. Miss vanHerwerden being a sure winner, the interest in the competition has decreased. Play for the trophy was interesting throughout the season and nearly every Saturday there was a goodly number of entries. The play for this, as well as the Golf Committee trophy, will come to an end Saturday, November 30, when it is expected that the course, so far as the active season is concerned, will be closed.

BASKET BALL.

The New Brunswick and the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. basket ball teams will play in the local team's gymnasium Friday evening.

The Leal's basket ball team is arranging a series of games with out-of-town teams. Arrangements have already been made for a game with the Newark Academy.

FAIR AND BAZAAR.

Big Affair Opened at the Mt. Olive Baptist Church—Continues Three More Nights.

The third annual fair and bazaar of the Faithful Workers commenced in Mt. Olive Baptist church, last evening. It will continue for three more nights, and, from the opening attendance, will, no doubt, be a grand success.

There was no regular programme prepared for last evening, but tonight a vocal and minstrel entertainment will be given by T. T. and R. L. Toney. Tomorrow evening a grand concert will be rendered under the direction of Miss Cora Pierson, of Dunellen. Mrs. Lulu Dempsey is in charge of the bazaar and is assisted by Mrs. Annie Been.

M'ANDREWS WEDDED.

Ceremony Took Place at His Bedside Yesterday Afternoon.

Philip J. McAndrews, formerly yard master of the New Jersey Central Railroad, in this city, and Miss Lizzie Wheeler, of Savannah, Ga., were quietly married at the Hotel Imperial, where both reside, yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Father Smyth officiated at the ceremony. The best man was Thomas McAndrews, of Whitehaven, Pa., a brother of the groom, and the bridesmaid was Miss Laura Fealey, of this city. Mr. McAndrews is suffering with a paralytic stroke and it was for this reason that the service took place at the home.

MERCURY DROPPED.

This Morning Was The Coldest So Far This Season.

Tingling ears, red noses and benumbed hands predominated about the streets this morning. The sun shone brightly, but despite the warmth of its rays, the thermometer dropped to the lowest point it has reached this season. At 7 o'clock it was hovering about 22 degrees while in the earlier hours it was two points lower. The cold wave will probably break tomorrow.

Preparing for Fair.

Arrangements were made at a meeting of the fair committee of the West End Hose Company, last evening, for elaborate decorations to adorn the interior of Saengerbund Hall when the affair is held during the first week in December. Contributions are coming in rapidly and judging from the hearty support already being given it is probable that the event will eclipse all previous efforts.

FIRE APPARATUS WRECKED.

SERIES OF ACCIDENTS WHICH BEFELL SOMERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

Hose Wagon, Truck and Chemical Engine All Met With Accidents Going to a Fire.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 20.—A curious thing happened to the fire department here last night. In going to a conflagration three of the four fire companies met with accidents.

The house of Louis Bacon, on Hamilton street, was discovered to be ablaze and an alarm was turned in. The West End Hose Company, in turning the corner of Main and Mechanic streets, did it so sharply that the carriage struck a post and the horse was thrown. There was little damage.

Central Hook and Ladder Company met a trolley car, near the Somerset Hotel, and O. N. Apgar, who was driving, pulled his horses up so quickly that the truck ran against the portico, breaking off one of the posts and smashing several of the weatherboards of the building. One of the horses was badly scratched and bruised. Mr. Apgar had a most remarkable escape with his life. Had he driven a few inches closer to the building he would have been crushed in the contact.

The Lincoln Chemical Engine Company, in crossing the Central Railroad at Hamilton street, nearly had its fire apparatus broken up. Lawrence Austin, who was driving, did not hear the train coming, and claims it gave no warning signal. It smashed the pike pole in the rear of the engine.

The old-reliable steamer company reached the scene without any mishap. The fire, which originated from a defective flue, was soon extinguished by the use of the chemical engine. The damage was entirely covered by insurance.

TURKEY SUPPER.

Given for the Benefit of Mt. Hyr Baptist Church.

A turkey supper, served in true Thanksgiving style, was the feature of a delightful affair given last evening by Mrs. Robert Yetman, of West Third street, to a number of friends for the Mt. Olive Baptist church. There were seven courses.

After the supper, the Boys' Orchestra, consisting of George Tomey, James Miller, Harry Kingslow, Harry Mitchell and Bertram Green rendered musical selections and the rest of the evening was spent in an informal manner. Mrs. Yetman was assisted in receiving by Mr. William Danridge.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church, will hold its monthly business meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of one of the members, Mrs. August Windham, 57 Fairview avenue.

Will Ride the Goat.

There will be important business at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M.; tomorrow evening, at which time there will be initiation.

Bad Temper of Divers.

"One of the strange effects that diving has upon those who practice it," said a diver to the writer recently, "is the invariable bad temper felt while working at the bottom, and as this irritability passes away as soon as the surface is reached again it is only reasonable to suppose that it is caused by the unusual pressure of air inside the dress, affecting probably the lungs and through them the brain. My experience has been that while below one may fly into the most violent passion at the merest trifle; for instance, the lifeline held too tight or too slack, too much air or too little, or some imaginary wrongdoing on the part of the tender or men above, will often cause the temper to rise. I have sometimes become so angry in a similar way that I have given the signal to pull up with the express intention of knocking the heads off the entire crew, but as the surface was reached and the weight of the air decreased, my feelings have gradually undergone a change for the better, until by the time I reached the ladder and had the face glass unscrewed I had forgotten for what I came up." —Washington Star.

How Russia Prevents Riots.

Riots and disturbances are practically unknown in all the vast empire of the czar, stretching, as it does, in an unbroken line from the Baltic to the Pacific. The reason for this is the wise precaution arising from the population fraternizing with the military, says Pearson's Magazine. The government distributes the troops in such a way that they have nothing in common with the population. Tartars are sent to districts where there are no Tartar compatriots, the Poles and Little Russians go to St. Petersburg, the Caspian regiments to Kronstadt—thousands of miles from home—and the purely Russian troops are stationed in Poland, Caucasia, Finland or any other district that might possibly cause the government trouble.

Corean and Japanese.

The Koreans as a people are better developed physically than the Japanese. They are taller and mentally are liberally endowed.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ROWE.

Services Were Held From the House on Grove Street Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Rowe took place from her home on Grove street at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Plymouth brethren officiating at the service.

Mr. McKenzie, one of the brethren, made an address, according to the custom of that religious society. There was a large number of floral tributes. Six of the Plymouth brethren acted as pall-bearers, and the interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

WANT REHEARING.

Attempt to Retain Parts of Stokes Law Which Are Not Unconstitutional.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Nov. 20.—A petition for a rehearing of the cases involving the constitutionality of the school law, known as the Stokes' Act, has been filed in the Court of Errors and Appeals. It will receive early attention. Numerous reasons are alleged for the rehearing, among which is that the entire act is not unconstitutional simply because some of its sections conflict with the Constitution.

'Twas A Love Party.

Miss Margaret Coriell, of Fairview avenue, entertained some of her young women friends at her home last evening. Music and dancing were the feature of the affair.

AS IT LOOKED ON FIRST THANKSGIVING.

Tableaux of Puritan Days at Thanksgiving Social Held Last Evening.

'TWAS A SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

GIVEN IN PARLORS OF THE SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Under Auspices of Women's Society For Christian Work—What Composed the Programme—Those Who Arranged the Affair.

Very appropriate to the season was the Thanksgiving social given in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Society for Christian Work. The unique idea of appearing in costumes of the Puritan style and the entertainment were in harmony with events of the early days. The whole affair was greatly enjoyed.

The programme opened with a vocal selection, "Crossing the Harbor Bar," by a male quartette consisting of Richard Wright, first tenor; Dr. O. B. Whitford, second tenor; Charles Potter Titsworth, first bass; Paul Whitford, second bass. This was followed with a reading, "The First Thanksgiving," by Miss Nellie Williams. The third number was a chorus, "The Harvest Song," by fifteen children, after which Roy Titsworth recited "Boys Wanted."

The next part of the programme consisted of five tableaux representing scenes and incidents in the life of the Pilgrim Fathers during the first Thanksgiving week after their arrival at Plymouth. The idea of interpretation was secured from the story of Miles Standish.

The scenes represented the first breakfast, welcoming the Indians, etc. H. M. Maxson represented "Governor Bradford," while Asa Randolph represented "John Alden." "Miles Standish" appeared in the person of Frank J. Hubbard. James Everett Kimball represented a Puritan and the the Indians were George Babcock, Charles Potter Titsworth, Paul Whitford and Nathan Wardner. Miss Marie Rogers and Miss Elizabeth Allis took the part of the squaws. Miss Mildred Green took the part of "Priscilla," while Miss Cornelia Miller represented "Mary Chilton."

All of these characters were faithfully portrayed and the tableaux were exceedingly realistic evoking much applause. After the presentation of the tableaux the male quartette sang "The Jolly Smiths."

Following the entertainment refreshments were served by waitresses in Puritan dress. They were the Misses Marie Rogers, Nellie Williams, Bessie Dunham, Eva Rogers, Isabelle Randolph and Grace Weeks.

The affair was in charge of the entertainment committee composed of the following women: Mrs. E. A. Miller, chairman; Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Mrs. Charles Dunham and Miss Ida Randolph. Assisting that committee was a refreshment committee consisting of Mrs. J. P. Mosher, chairman; Mrs. William Mosher, assisted by William Mosher.

During and after the serving of refreshments a social time was held and this was not the least enjoyable part of the affair. A part of the programme in which all responed heartily was the receiving of a Thanksgiving offering. The proceeds will be devoted to the work of women's society.

SPOILED THF SAUSAGE.

Herbert Hand Wrecked a Window, the Remains of Which Fell Into the Ground Meat.

While a number of workmen in the employ of Watt & Company were preparing sausage at the factory of Morgan Bird, on East Fourth street, Tuesday afternoon, a large stone crashed through a glass close beside them. Splinters of glass fell into the receptacle holding the meat and, as it was revolving, was soon scattered through it. The sausage, 125 pounds in all, was completely ruined.

Several men in the vicinity rushed out of the building and discovered Herbert Hand, son of Charles H. Hand, making away. He was called back and finally admitted throwing the stone. His father will probably pay for the damage which at the present rate of the Jersey delicacy will amount to about $20.

TIED THE NUPTIAL KNOT.

QUIET WEDDING OF MISS ETHEL DEVINE AND JOHN W. SHEPHERD.

At Home of the Groom Last Evening—Couple Will Reside in Plainfield.

In the presence of sixty relatives and friends, Miss Ethel Devine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Case Devine, of Carpentersville, Ill., was united in marriage at 8:30 o'clock last evening to John W. Shepherd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Shepherd, of Westervelt avenue. The ceremony was performed in the parlor of the groom's home by Rev. G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church. The room was tastefully decorated with ferns, palms and potted plants.

Miss Devine was attired in a gown of blue silk organdie and carried bride roses. She was accompanied by Miss Mildred Everitt, as maid-of-honor, whose gown was of white silk organdie. She carried pink carnations. The groom's attendant was his brother, Charles Shepherd. The form of service used was that of the Episcopal church.

The nuptial event was followed by an elaborate collation during which the young people were showered with congratulations.

They were also the recipients of a beautiful array of presents consisting of silverware, bric a brac and other articles.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd have deferred their wedding trip for the present and will make their home with the groom's parents.

AT THE BAZAAR.

Good Entertainer Appeared at The Mt. Olive Baptist Church Last Evening.

Thomas and Robert Toney, two well-known musical experts, were the contributors to last evening's enjoyment at the bazaar being held in the Mt. Olive Baptist church. Their fund of songs, duets and musical selections seemed inexhaustible but in spite of the long programme rendered the audience insisted on encores.

This evening, Miss Cora Pierson, of Dunellen, will give a grand concert with the assistance of a number of young women. The programme for tomorrow, the closing night, has not yet been announced.

MME. SARAH GRAND.

Will Lecture Tonight at the Casino on "The Art of Happiness."

Unstinted praise and enthusiastic audiences is the record of Mme. To many the lecturer is well known from her literary work, particularly the book, "The Heavenly Twins," which was one of the most popular books ever published.

As a lecturer Mme. Grand is said to excel, and to fully warrant the high praise awarded her efforts. Her address tonight will undoubtedly attract a brilliant audience. It is expected that Major Pond, who directs her tour, will be present this evening to introduce her to the gathering.

Invitations have been extended to many of the local clergy to attend and all may anticipate an interesting entertainment. Reserved seats, 50 and 75 cents, are on sale at Armstrong's.

PLEA FOR EDUCATION OF SOUTHERN NEGRO.

Meeting in Interest of Atlanta University Was Held in Crescent Avenue Church.

TWO INTERESTING SPEAKERS

PRESIDENT AND SECRETARY OF UNIVERSITY TOLD OF ITS WORK.

University Particularly Aims to Prepare Negro Teachers for Work in the South—Hopes Thus to Uplift Negro of Southern States.

In the interest of Atlanta University, an institution having for its object the higher education of the negro, the service at the Crescent Avenue church was set apart last evening. Addresses bearing on the subject of the uplifting of the southern negro through educational advantages, especially through the opportunity afforded by this great Georgia seat of learning, were delivered by Rev. Dr. Horace Bumstead, the president of the university, and Hon Robert Lloyd Smith, the secretary of the institution.

Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Richards, the pastor, introduced the distinguished executive of the university with a few timely remarks. The latter asked the congregation to first listen to Mr. Smith, an alumnus of the institution, who, as the head of a Texas Farmer's Improvement Society, has achieved remarkable success as a true friend of his own race.

Mr. Smith related in a pleasing way his early inspirations along the line which he has devotedly adhered to during the past eleven years. An article in the Youth's Companion, over a decade ago, moved him to organize a village improvement society among the members of the negro citizens of his native town, Oakland, Texas. The fruits of this noble undertaking were briefly told and then he passed on to the story of the organizing and the work of the Farmers' Improvement Society, which afforded a broader field for his efforts. The defeat of the awful effects of the great enemy of the southern negro, the credit system, whereby a man parts with his crops before they are raised, was described. In conclusion, Mr. Smith, who is a member of the Texas Legislature, brought to the attention of the congregation the valued education he had received at Atlanta University, which had made his work successful.

Dr. Bumstead, in opening his talk, said that the university is consecrated to the task of sustaining and strengthening the negro public schools in the south and the betterment of the general social condition, or, in other words, the uplifting of the negro. The idea of producing teachers from the more enlightened class of negroes, he said, is that the scope of the work may be broader by educating teachers to instruct other teachers, who in turn might infuse knowledge into the youthful mind. Over fifty-five per cent. of the graduates are now teaching and over eighty per cent. are performing some professional work, either teaching or otherwise.

At the conclusion of the addresses Rev. Dr. Richards pleaded for a liberal contribution and in response the congregation made up a goodly purse for the worthy cause.

DIPHTHERIA AT RARITAN.

Two Deaths Reported—Talk of Closing the Schools.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 21.—The town of Raritan is suffering from a diphtheria scare. There are many cases and so far two deaths have been reported.

The latest victim, Katrina Maroonie, aged four, was buried in St. Bernard's cemetery Tuesday. The Board of Education thinks it may be necessary to close the public schools. The old as well as young seem to be afflicted. The wife of ex-Sheriff Geo. A. Dilts is among the sufferers.

Dances at Camera Club.

The dates for the remaining four dances to be given at the Camera Club rooms under the auspices of those who held a dance in that place Tuesday evening are as follows: Thursday, December 12; Thursday, January 9; Thursday, February 6 and Thursday, April 3.

Stag Social.

The Young Men's Brotherhood of the First M. E. church will hold a stag entertainment and social in Vincent chapel tomorrow evening.

Pulpit Supply.

Rev. Dr. Stocking, of Orange, will preach at St. Stephens' church, Netherwood, Sunday.

BOUND FOR THE PACIFIC.

'MISS CALANTHE" DEPARTED FROM PLAINFIELD LAST NIGHT.

Perseverance Lodge Escorted Her to New Brunswick, Where She Will Stay For Awhile.

With the assistance of 150 Pythians from Perseverance Lodge, "Miss Calanthe" bade farewell to Plainfield last evening, and resumed her journey toward the Pacific ocean, or rather the Raritan river. With a fife and drum corps the lodge members were taken to New Brunswick in two special trolley cars, where "Miss Calanthe" was placed in the care of Friendship Lodge.

On its arrival, the Plainfield contingent was met by a large crowd of paraders who formed a line and proceeded about the city. Her Ladyship was given an enthusiastic welcome, such as she received in this city two weeks ago.

It was 10 o'clock before the procession started and by reason of the late hour, the line of march was necessarily cut short. On its conclusion, the participants adjourned to the Pythian's Hall, where a short entertainment was held and refreshments were served. The return to this city was made at 1:30.

BY THE JUNIORS.

Programme Provided For The Meeting of Congregational Women's Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the Womans' Association of the Congregational church will be held tomorrow afternoon, instead of this afternoon, which is the customary time for meeting. Preceding the entertainment features of the programme, a short devotional and business meeting will be held commencing at 3:30 o'clock.

At 4 o'clock, a missionary exercise, entitled: "We Are The Light of The World" will be given by the Junior Endeavorers assisted by some of the young women of the congregation. This exercise will be given in costume. An invitation is extended to all interested to attend.

FARMERS INSTITUTE.

Will be Held at Stelton Monday With a Good Programme.

An invitation is extended by the State Board of Agriculture to all farmers in this vicinity to attend the farmer's institute which is to be held at Stelton, Monday.

A programme of much interest to those engaged in agricultural pursuits has been prepared. It will consist principally of addresses by Edward VanAlstyne, of Kinderhook, N. Y., R. B. Seeds, of Birmingham, Pa., and others by State officers.

In the evening an address for the benefit of the farmer's wives will be made by Miss C. C. Bedford, of Haddonfield. Her subject will be "Flour, Yeast and Bread."

LEVIED ON RIG.

Wagon Sold at Auction and Brought Enough to Satisfy the Judgment.

A rig, belonging to Lewis Blume, was levied upon at the Plainfield Cab Company's stable, Tuesday afternoon, by Constable John Gjetelsen, to satisfy a judgment obtained against him by Fass & Berkowitz.

The rig was put up at auction, but the wagon brought enough to pay the judgment and the costs of court and the sale was stopped. William De-Meza, counsel for the owner, was the purchaser.

THERE WAS NO BOARDER.

It Was His Step Son That John Gray Did Not Want at Home.

The Daily Press was in error yesterday, in its account of the troubles at the home of John Gray, which subsequently led to his arrest and appearance in the city court yesterday morning. There was no boarder in the case but a son of Mrs. Gray against whom there was strong feeling on the part of Mr. Gray. It is understood that Mr. Gray objected to the son staying at the house.

Independent Singing Club Furnished Programme at Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church Last Night.

There was an excellent attendance at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, last evening, and the entertainment rendered was one of the best of those seen since the anniversary exercises commenced.

The Independent Singing club was the organization which provided the entertainment which consisted of vocal selections and recitations. These were given by Miss Mary E Randolph who sang two solos and the Misses Randolph and Miss Bessie Langdon who gave recitations.

The anniversary exercises will be brought to a close this evening with a public banquet. A large attendance is expected, including many prominent visitors from out of town.

DELIGHTFUL FUNCTION GIVEN BY MISS MARY E. MARTINE.

At the Old Homestead—Some Of Those Who Accepted The Famed Martine Hospitality.

A delightful affair in the nature of an afternoon tea was given by Miss Mary E. Martine, at the manor, Cedar Brook Farm, yesterday, from 4 until 6 o'clock. A goodly number of her friends in this city had responded to the invitation extended, and a particularly enjoyable time was had.

In all there were probably thirty women, prominent in the social life of Plainfield, in attendance. Dainty refreshments, mostly products of the farm, were served.

Among those present were Mrs. C. D. Fredericks, Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. George P. Dupee, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. Henry Bushnell, Mrs. B. H. Depew, Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mrs. Walter Peterson, Mrs. Annie Clay, Mrs. W. H. Newkirk, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs Elizabeth Stillman, Mrs. Charlotte Groendyke, Mrs. Frank S. Martin, Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, Mrs. J. WAS IN SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Carman Kushke Proved an Alibi in Famous Chicken Stealing Case.

The case of George Dellei against Carman Kushke has been tried before Justice Huff. The plaintiff brought suit to recover $10 the price of fifty chickens which he claimed were stolen by the defendant, who is a boy. He claimed that the boy threw corn to his chickens, thus baiting them. The boy had letters and papers to show that he attended the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school and that he was at Sunday-school when the chickens were alleged to have been taken. After considerable argument Justice Huff dismissed the case, believing the boy to be innocent.

RARE BUTTERFLIES FOR THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

WORTH MORE THAN $10,000

PROF. GEO. FRANCK ARRANGED COLLECTION FOR EXHIBITION.

The Collections Of the North American And New Jersey Types Are Particularly Complete—Over 5,000 Butterflies.

A valuable collection of butterflies, representing a lifetime's task, has been placed in the art gallery of the Plainfield Public Library, and in a few weeks the citizens will be given an opportunity to view the rare specimens. The collection has been donated by former Mayor Gilbert, of West Eighth street, and was gathered, owned and prized by his late wife.

There are in all over 5,000 butterflies, and of this large number there are at least 4,000 distinct specimens, varying greatly in size and still more widely in coloring. Beautiful colors, with every possible tint, are to be seen among the types. Here they are gathered together in specially made cases, which are quite attractive. To properly quarter the collection, eight cases have been made and are now in use, and in them the butterflies are placed close together, there being little room for any future additions.

For some time past Professor George Franck, of the American Entomological Company, of New York, has been engaged in arranging the collection for exhibition. To do this properly it was necessary for him to classify each separate specimen and to attach a label with the scientific name. In some instances, Mrs. Gilbert had collected as many as six specimens of the rare types, all of which vary in some small particular, maybe in the shading or spotting. This makes the collection all the more valuable, especially so to students of these insects. In all most all cases the upper and lower wings of the butterflies are shown.

The rarest part of the collection is that comprising the North American specimens. To entomologists of this country this assortment is far more important than those gathered in European countries. The New Jersey specimens are exceptionally complete. Six cases are devoted to the North American collection. Prof. Franck claims that it is even more valuable and more complete than that on exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History, in New York, which has the reputation of being the finest in the land. Some of them are natives of Colorado, some of Florida, others of Texas and still others of the New England states.

Professor Franck declares that the entire collection is worth more than $10 000. One tiny specimen, no larger than a pea, is valued by entomologists at $25, and there are three or four of these. The South American Motho and the River Styx moth, two huge types, are magnificent and their value is high among lovers of the lepidaptera. A peculiar looking butterfly is the Dead Leaf. It is well named for on casual observation one would be inclined to swear that it was in truth a dead leaf. The nocturnals and the diurnals are separated in the collection.

Many of these specimens are the result of caring for the chrysalis while others were obtained while in the caterpiller stage. Some were caught in various parts of the country under different conditions. The method used in a number of instances being to lure them by sweet stuff spread on trees at sunset, while in other instances a bright light was used at night time to lure them to the net.

Preparations are being made to overhaul the art gallery and as soon as the place can be renovated the collection will be open to public exhibition.

NEARLY BURNED CHURCH.

New John Ryan's Father Says The Boy Is Beyond Him.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, November 21.—John Ryan, aged fourteen, the son of Wm. Ryan, who lives near Basking Ridge, has been brought to jail here, on complaint made by his father.

Two weeks ago the lad maliciously broke windows in the Roman Catholic church at Bernardsville, and, gaining entrance, committed depredations inside. He built a bonfire in the outhouse, and had it not been discovered by neighbors, the church sheds and barns would probably have been destroyed.

He will probably be sent to Jamesburg, as his father confesses he can do nothing with him.

PERSONAL.

Charles Palmer, of Port Morris, N. Y., is spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Palmer, of East Second street.

John Apgar, of East Front street, who has been seriously ill for the past several weeks, was able to sit up today for the first. His rapid recovery is now expected.

George Patterson, of West Front street, who is at Muhlenberg Hospital, was able to sit up for the first yesterday since his leg was amputated. He will be able to return home in a few weeks.

Modern Surgery Surpassed.

"While suffering from a bad case of piles I consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, "says G. F. Carter, Atlanta, Ga. "I procured a box and was entirely cured. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unnecessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, burns, bruises and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

A MODERN MIRACLE.

Reported to Have Been Recently Performed by the Famous Father John of Cronstadt.

The Novoe Vremya recently had the following account of a miracle performed by the famous Father John of Cronstadt, says the London Pall Mall Gazette. "On the 12th Father John arrived at the village of Sopino, conducted service, and spent the night with Father Lvov. Next day he journeyed to Konchanskols, and consecrated the new stone church there in the presence of fully 10,000 people. After this service a breakfast was given in the school and many speeches were delivered.

"In the midst of the breakfast two men and two old women were seen approaching the schoolhouse bearing the seemingly lifeless body of a woman. For seven years this woman had been paralytic, unable to move arms or legs, or open her eyes—was a living corpse. On their bringing her to him, Father John arose, stood before her, and, asking her name, gazed fixedly at her. Then in a loud voice he bade her open her eyes. After several attempts Audotya (the paralytic) did so. 'Look me straight in the face,' said Father John, 'and cross yourself.' Slowly and with great effort the woman succeeded in making the sign of the cross. 'Do it again,' said Father John, 'and again.' With ever-increasing faith the woman repeated the movement.

"'Stand up,' said Father John, and the woman arose. Then he moved from his place, bidding her follow. 'Now, walk around me,' said Father John, and the lately seemingly dead woman slowly approached and fell on his shoulder. 'Go and pray,' said he, blessing the woman. On this she moved away without any help. All this took place in the presence of thousands, who were unable to restrain their tears."

MILWAUKEE INTRODUCTIONS.

A Short Story on the Social Amenities of the City Made Famous by Its Beverage.

The teacher of an intermediate grade in the Third Ward school was "showing off" her pupils before a number of visitors, says the Milwaukee Sentinel.

The spelling class was on the floor, and one small, red-headed boy was given the word "introduction."

He paused, twisted his lips, stared, and then in a faltering way spelled it correctly, and seemed rather surprised that he had done it.

"Do you know what the word means?" asked the teacher.

"No'm."

"What? You don't know what introduction means?"

"No'm."

"Well, now, I'll explain it to you. Does your mother ever have callers?"

"Yes'm."

"Well, now, suppose that two ladies came to call on your mother. Your mother knows one of the ladies, but doesn't know the other. She has never seen the lady and doesn't even know her name. Now, how would she become acquainted with this lady and find out her name?"

"She'd send me out for a can of beer."

As that was the correct answer, the teacher had nothing further to say.

THIRTY LIVES LOST.

Miners Suffocated by Smoke In a Colorado Mine.

SEVENTEEN BODIES ALREADY FOUND.

Flames at the Mouth of the Smuggler-Union Mines at Telluride Entrap Two Hundred Victims.

TELLURIDE, Colo., Nov. 21.—By a fire in the Bullion tunnel, belonging to the Smuggler-Union Mining company, probably thirty lives were lost yesterday. Seventeen bodies have been recovered. The fire, which is known to have been accidental, started early yesterday morning in the buildings at the mouth of the tunnel. At this point is located the upper terminal of the tramway to the company's new mill at Pandora, and it was in the bunkhouse attached that the fire started. From this it spread to the terminal station, which, with its ore bins, machinery and supplies, is a mass of ruins.

The day shift of 200 men had entered the mine and reached their stations when the fire broke out.

The tunnel acted as a flue, and a great volume of smoke poured in and filled the slopes.

About 175 of the men succeeded in reaching safety by another exit. The fire rapidly burned itself out, but the mine was so filled with smoke that it was six hours before rescuing parties could penetrate the slopes where the less fortunate were. Seventeen dead have been removed from the mine. The engineer, Hugh J. O'Neill, was found alive, but is not expected to recover. No list of dead is obtainable at this time.

Janitor Stole $2,000.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Nov. 21.—William Thomas, who has been employed as janitor at the Opera House cafe for a few weeks and who slept on the premises, found a cigar box containing $2,000 which had been hidden behind the bar by the proprietor, Thomas Gibbons. Taking the money and two revolvers, he proceeded to William Penn, a suburb of this place, and after giving $100 to his father and $20 to his brother left, saying he would go to Philadelphia and make a present to his sister, who resided there, and leave at the earliest moment for Europe. His father hastened to town and notified the police, who are now on the track of the fugitive.

Killed by Premature Blast.

WINSTED, Conn., Nov. 21.—A premature blast of dynamite on the New Haven road late yesterday afternoon caused the death of George Ball, aged thirty-eight, and injured ten laborers. Ball was kneeling over a hole preparing the blast. His pockets were filled with sticks of dynamite which he intended to use for other blasts. In some manner the blast was prematurely exploded, and Ball was blown to atoms. The other ten men, including the foreman, H. V. Johnson, were stunned and cut by flying rock.

Mississippi Murderer Captured.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 21.—A telephone message received from Oxford, Miss., states that Will Mathis, charged with murdering two deputies several nights ago, has just been captured at Dallas, twelve miles south of that place. A mob of 200 people from Oxford, Pontotoc and other places are now bringing Mathis to the scene of the alleged crime. Bonfires are being built in the streets of Oxford, and it is feared that Mathis, upon his arrival, will be burned or lynched.

Student Riots at Athens.

ATHENS, Nov. 21.—The agitation of the university students against the proposal to translate the gospels into modern Greek has resulted during the past two days in riotous demonstrations against two newspapers which have been advocating such translations. Yesterday the students fired on the police. Troops were then summoned, and a serious fight occurred, which resulted in the wounding of a score of cavalrymen and several students.

DECATUR, Ala., Nov. 21.—James Wynn, an Oxford blacksmith, has narrowly escaped being buried alive. After the funeral services the casket was opened at the grave, when the body was seen to move. The casket was hurried back to the home of Wynn, where he revived and is now under treatment. Wynn had been pronounced dead by physicians, and he lay apparently dead for two nights and a day.

STRONGHOLD TAKEN.

Brilliant Feat of Major Waller's Men In Samar.

SCALED STEEP AND LOFTY CLIFFS.

Three Insurgent Camps Destroyed, Forty Cannon Captured and a Large Quantity of Stores Burned.

MANILA, Nov. 21.—Major L. W. T. Waller of the marine corps has cabled Rear Admiral Rodgers, at Manila, a full and detailed account of the attack Nov. 7 by the men of his command upon the rebel stronghold at Sojoton, near Basey, island of Samar.

Three insurgent camps were destroyed, forty bamboo cannon were captured, and much rice and other stores were destroyed. The rebel stronghold was almost impregnable. The trails leading to it were lined with poisoned spears sticking from the ground and were filled with hidden pitfalls.

Major Waller's command attacked the enemy unexpectedly. To do this they had to scale a cliff 200 feet high. This they climbed barefooted over bamboo ladders. At the top they found bowlders piled ready to precipitate upon an attacking party.

Major Waller says he was personally not present at the action. He praises Captain David D. Porter and Captain Hiram I. Bearss for their splendid work and says too much praise cannot be given the marines themselves, whose behavior he characterizes as brilliant in every respect.

The major considers the scaling of cliffs 200 feet high as a new feature of warfare and says such men would be able to do anything anywhere. Thirty of the enemy were killed. The marines sustained a few trifling wounds.

Rear Admiral Rodgers has replied to Major Waller, congratulating him on this successful action by his command.

A fund is being raised by the Federal party in Manila for the purpose of attempting to prevent the execution of the Filipino general Isidoro Torres, who surrendered to the American authorities in the early part of this year and who was later tried on charges of having violated the rules of warfare and sentenced to death. Several congressmen will be asked to exert their influence in favor of General Torres.

Sixto Lopez, who has been in the United States and Europe in the interest of the Filipino insurgents and who is now at Hongkong, has written to Governor Taft asking to be exempted from taking the oath of allegiance to the United States upon his arrival at Manila, asserting this action might injure his labors in behalf of peace.

Aguinaldo has written General Chaffee, the military governor of the Philippines, asking the latter's permission to go before congress and express the desires of the Filipino people. Aguinaldo further requests to be accompanied by eight friends, whom he designates, four of whom are prisoners at Guam, while the others are prominent in Manila.

Transport Leaves Manila.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—General Chaffee cables from Manila that the transport Thomas has sailed from there for San Francisco with 49 furloughed and discharged soldiers, 102 prisoners, 127 sick and 949 short term men.

Large Estate Divided.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Christian Cook, eighty years old, one of the largest real estate owners of this city, has divided his real estate, valued at $600,000, equally between his four children, reserving his personal property, estimated at more than $100,000, for himself. His children are George C. Cook, Mrs. F. J. Kaufman and Mrs. Jeremiah Zimmerman of this city and Mrs. Henry Hess of Philadelphia. Mr. Cook is one of the most respected German citizens and amassed his fortune by thrift and economy. He came to Syracuse fifty-three years ago with only 2 cents.

Striking Miners Must Disperse.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Nov. 21.—County Judge Hall, as announced, acted upon the sworn proof which he has been gathering for several days and issued an order directing the camp of striking miners at Nortonville to disperse. He says he will not permit the establishment of any more such camps within his jurisdiction. If his order shall not be obeyed promptly, he will call on the troops to enforce obedience.

West Point Defeated Pennsylvania.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The University of Pennsylvania football team was defeated by West Point Military academy yesterday and incidentally suffered one of the worst defeats in her football history. The score, 24 to 0, shows how West Point outplayed the Pennsylvanians. The visitors put up a stiff game, however, and were beaten simply because West Point played a superior article of football.

New England Postmasters Meet.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—When postmaster Hibbard of Boston called the first annual meeting of the New England Postmasters' association to order here, 200 postmasters from every section of New England were present. Football at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 21.—The Columbia university eleven beat the middies yesterday, but by a very narrow margin. The game, which was closely fought from beginning to end, resulted in a score of 6 to 5 in favor of the New Yorkers, but was in doubt until the last minute.

BIG STRIKE THREATENED.

New York and New Haven Railway Troubles Increasing.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad refused after a conference to grant any of the demands of the striking freight handlers, and the strikers have voted to ask all the men in the freight department of the road between here and Boston to come out on a sympathetic strike.

This will involve a strike of 5,000 men if it is successful and will tie up the freight traffic of the whole main system at this the very busiest time of the year.

Leonard Ames, first vice grand master of the Switchmen's union, who is here in charge of the strike, says that he has received assurances that all the men in the various unions will come out and that the whole road will be at a standstill within twenty-four hours.

The troubles of both the yardmen and the engineers, according to the men, dates back to last August, when J. W. Wardrup was appointed yard superintendent at Mott Haven. The men assert that he began working them overtime without extra pay, that he was anxious to make a record for himself and that he violated their agreement with the road in many minor respects.

The dismissal of Robert J. Turbush, the assistant yardmaster, was the direct cause of the strike. He was very popular with the men, and when they heard of his discharge on Monday they asked for his reinstatement. This was refused by the company, and, looking upon this as the culmination of their grievances, the men went out.

The Company's Version.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—President John M. Hall of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was seen in Boston yesterday and asked to give the company's version of the reported disturbances among the freight car handlers at the yards on the Harlem river water front. He said: "We have been greatly annoyed for a month or more by numerous thefts at these yards. Merchandise of various kinds has been taken from the cars, while coupling irons and other metal implements used about the premises have surreptitiously disappeared. In addition to this, there has been a want of discipline among the men. To remedy these evils we concluded to make a change in the interest of better service and honesty. No more than seventy-five men went out, and we shall proceed to fill their places from the long list of applicants we always keep on hand. So far there has been no embarrassment in the making up of trains and in dispatching them."

Reported Attack on Queen Draga.

VIENNA, Nov. 21.—The Neue Freie Presse and other Vienna papers publish various rumors, one declaring that the Servian queen was assassinated, another that she was wounded and a third that she committed suicide. Reports from other sources deny the statement that Queen Draga was killed and assert that the rumor of her death was caused by a hysterical scene with King Alexander. There is no reliable information on the subject here, but it is generally believed that a serious crisis exists in Belgrade.

Ejecting Colored Homesteaders.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 21.—Notwithstanding the announcement of United States Attorney Horace Speed that he will have canceled the homestead entry of every man who makes an attempt to eject a colored homesteader from his claim complaints of such action against colored men are filed daily with the United States marshal asking protection for negroes who drew claims in the recent government land lottery. More than a hundred colored homesteaders have been driven out of the country.

Mr. Charles Giese, cigar manufacturer, of 25 Elm place, says: "I was subject to attacks of kidney complaint for two or three years. Most of the pain was in my back and hips and I could not stoop or straighten without feeling sharp, shooting twinges. When I sat for any length of time I grew stiff and sore and was compelled to get up and move about. I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills being such good medicine for kidney troubles so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to directions and after two or three days I felt better. I continued their use until the pain disappeared."

LIMITED TRAINS CRASH.

Seven Killed and Fourteen Hurt In a California Wreck.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 21.—A fatal wreck occurred on the Santa Fe railroad one mile west of Franconia, Ariz., a switch station twenty miles east of Needles, Cal., yesterday. Seven trainmen were killed, three passengers and fourteen trainmen injured. Limited trains, east and west bound, crashed together while running at full speed. The eastbound train was drawn by two engines, while the westbound train had but one locomotive. The three engines were crushed and blown to pieces by an explosion which followed the collision. Both trains were made up of vestibule cars of the heaviest kind, and, while they stood the terrific shock well and protected the passengers to a great extent, several of the cars took fire at once and burned up. The dining cars, one on each train; one Pullman and two composite cars were destroyed.

Following is a list of the dead: P. M. Elligott, engineer; P. P. Goldsmith, fireman; E. F. Barnhardt, barber; Walter Davorage, waiter; W. L. Case, fireman; A. H. Armitage, fireman; Sam Brown, waiter. The bodies of the latter three are missing.

The collision is said to have been due to a disregarded order by the crew of the westbound train, though full particulars on this point are as yet lacking. From all accounts, however, it is gathered that the eastbound train had orders to take the siding at Franconia and await the passing of the westbound flier, which was running two hours late and trying to make up time. Tht eastbound train failed to reach the siding, and as the westbound train did not wait for it the two trains came together without warning and with an awful crash. The boiler of the westbound engine is said to have exploded immediately after the crash, scalding to death those of the engine crews who had not been killed outright.

From the meager details of the scenes gathered from the passengers it is learned that the sleeping cars, with one or two exceptions, suffered slightly, and as a result the passengers were afforded comparative immunity from injury.

Nebraska Will Join the Fight.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 21.—Any form of railroad consolidation between the Union Pacific and Burlington tending to lessen competition of those roads will be opposed by Governor Savage. OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 21.—At a meeting of the Dominion cabinet it was decided to renew Canada's offer of last March to raise a corps of 600 men (mounted) for service in South Africa. A cable was sent to the colonial secretary through the governor general announcing the cabinet's decision.

Farmers and Miners Clash.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 21.—The secretary of the interior has been asked by the homesteaders in the Kiowa and Comanche country to decide whether or not their homestead entries which conflict with alleged mining districts therein will be recognized. REBELS HOLD COLON.

One Hundred and Sixty Men Made the Attack.

PAID THEIR FARE INTO THE CITY.

Liberal Invaders Alight From Evening Train and After a Short but Bloody Engagement Make the Prefect a Prisoner.

COLON, Nov. 21.—The city of Colon is in possession of the Liberals.

One hundred and sixty men took and paid for passage by railroad train from Las Cascadas. They arrived in the town at 8 o'clock in the evening and attacked the defending force.

After a fight that lasted an hour they took the town prefect prisoner. Fourteen men were killed and twenty-two wounded. Traffic is not impeded.

The United States gunboat Machias has landed a force at the railroad station.

According to the latest news received here from Panama, nothing has yet been heard in that city concerning the outcome of General Alban's expedition against the Liberal forces at Chorrera. It is said that information of the recent happenings at Colon has been sent to him.

In the meantime the government troops in Panama, numbering 300 men, are busily engaged in the construction of earthworks and barricades at the railroad bridge going into the city in anticipation of an early Liberal attack.

Colonel Shaler says that no request has been made upon him for a special train to convey government troops to Colon. If such a request is made, it will be granted, but Colonel Shaler does not consider it likely. The Liberals claim to have at least 700 men in possession of the different railroad station on the line between here and Panama. These men would doubtless do their utmost to prevent the transportation of government troops to this point.

Traffic across the isthmus by the railroad continues uninterrupted. Marines from the Machias are guarding the railroad station and property here.

Since the renewal of activities by the Colombian Liberals some five or six months ago on the isthmus an attack upon Panama has been expected at any time. After a very stubborn and bloody battle in July of last year the Liberals almost succeeded in capturing the city, and they have recently frequently threatened to renew the attempt.

General Alban, then acting governor of Panama and today at the head of the Chorrera expedition, commanded the government troops upon the occasion of this attack.

Capture of Colon Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—A number of telegrams have been received at the state department from the United States consular officers at Panama and Colon confirming the report of the capture of the latter city by the Liberals, or insurgents. A dispatch was received at the navy department from Lieutenant Commander Henry McCrea, commanding the gunboat Machias, to the same effect.

The news of the situation on the isthmus came to the Colombian legation here in the following cablegram from General Argona, acting governor of Panama in the absence of General Alban, who is leading the Chorrera expedition:

"Colon is being attacked. Scarcity of troops here. Traffic may be interrupted."

While the above dispatch does not state that the city has fallen, Mr. Herran, the Colombian charge d'affaires at Washington, credits, of course, the news to this effect that has come through diplomatic and naval channels.

When asked as to what results may be expected from the capture of the city, Mr. Herran said: "It will depend entirely upon the success or failure of the expedition under General Alban, which is headed for Chorrera to engage the insurgents at that point. If General Alban is successful, the recapture of Colon should be a comparatively easy matter, but if, on the other hand, the government expedition should be defeated the results undoubtedly would be disastrous, for the insurgents then would have, temporarily at least, undisputed sway over the entire isthmus."

Extending Alaskan Telegraph Lines.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—General Greely has received a report from the chief signal officer at Alaska that the overland telegraph line from Valdez toward Fort Egbert has been extended from the fort about 150 miles. A Powerful Factor.

The other day a man stopped in The Daily Press office and thanked us for our campaign in behalf of water meters.

"I've been up and told them," he said, "just what I thought. Now I'm going home and I'm going to use all the water I possibly can. As long as I have to pay for the water anyhow, I might just as well get the worth of my money."

In that remark is one powerful factor which is going to play a decidedly important part in bringing the Plainfield Water Supply Company to put in meters. It may not be the right thing to do but it is going to be a very powerful argument in bringing about the desired result.

At present the demands on the wells of the company are so great that the company has been adding several more. If the people of this city and borough try to use up the water they can manage to dispose of many million gallons. If the company continues its present high rates and bases its charges on the number of taps instead of the amount of water actually used, that is the inevitable result.

If meters were introduced the waste of water would be greatly reduced. The citizens would then only have to pay according to the amount they used. It is said that it would cost the water company a year's revenue to install meters throughout the city and borough. It would, however, be a good investment in the end and would do much to restore the company to a satisfactory position in the eyes of the public.

The Council Will Act.

It is possible to exhaust the patience of even the Common Council. The Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company is going to discover that fact before many days pass by. Those who are prominent in authority in Plainfield have come to a conclusion that it is time this city possessed a decent street railway service. This fact is going to be brought home to the company with considerable force.

It is probable that the subject will be brought to the company's attention in a formal communication from the Common Council. Such a document is now under consideration and is likely to be introduced at the next meeting of the Council. If that does not have the desired effect, more strenuous means will undoubted be adopted.

This proposed action on the part of the Common Council will be commended by every thinking citizen. There is not any doubt but the present service of the company is decidedly unsatisfactory. Its like would be hard to find. Such disreputable old cars, such demoralized service, everything seems to show lack of care and attention. If the company is not desirous of a bout with the Common Council in which the trolley company cannot help but come off second best, it is time that its officials saw to it that Plainfield was given decent service.

An observing student of advertising, according to the Philadelphia Record, asserts that it has become a recognized principle with progressive and enterprising advertisers that all seasons are seasonable. "More and more there is a tendency not to let up at any time, but to keep everlastingly at it, year in and year out." It has been learned that it is within the power of the business men of every community to transform a period of comparative stagnation into an era of profitable activity.

Never before has the Park Club opened its winter season under such auspicious circumstances. The membership of the club is now filled, and there is a waiting list which is growing almost every day. All the committees are taking an active interest in preparing a season full of pleasureable excitement. Many social attractions have been announced. There is certainly a field for a strong social club in this community, and the Park Club appears to be filling that want.

After a lethargy lasting several years, interest in chess has taken a sudden rise in Plainfield. At one time, this city possessed a number of strong players. The game is a good one and deserves a strong following among those who are in interested in games where science prevails.

Another week will practically end the active golf season in Plainfield. Twilight comes so early now that most of the local golfiacs are unable to reach the links in time for any play. The season, now so nearly ended, has been a very successful one at both clubs.

For some reason, an unusual proportion of tax-payers have settled with the city before their taxes became delinquent. A far larger proportion would undoubtedly settle if the city made arrangements to discount its taxes in advance.

Some of the bad boys of the West End seem to think that any vacant house is fair prey and so they take care to wreck everything within reach. An example should certainly be made of one of these offenders.

It is not essential that the fence separating the tracks at the North Avenue station shall be painted white. Any color that will make it easy to see at night is all that is required.

THEATRICAL.

There will be another great bill of vaudeville at the Casino, Thanksgiving Day, furnished by the Weber and Fields booking agents, Messrs. Vion and Homans, whose guarantee of excellence was fully sustained in their selection of the Ten-Ichi company of artists, for Manager Maze Edwards' first vaudeville entertainment. There will be two performances, matinee and night. Particulars hereafter.

Business at Proctor's theatres continues to increase as the season advances, and the crowds in attendance upon his refined entertainments are continually on the capacity order. Manager Proctor credits this condition of affairs directly to the liberal treatment and just criticism the press has bestowed upon his new style entertainments and up-to-date business methods.

The elasticity of his plans has been again demonstrated by the renewal of continuous performances at his Twenty-third Street Theatre, where high class vaudeville is the main feature of the weekly programmes. The Fifth Avenue retains the continuous performance plan, but the stock company appropriates a portion of the time with revivals of fine old comedies and comedy dramas.

The stock also divides, with vaudeville, possession of the Fifty-eighth Street and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatres. "Blue Jeans" is now a current magnet with the dramatic players, produced under the personal supervision of the author, Joseph Arthur. David Belasco's beautiful production of "Mme. Butterfly," with Mlle. Pilar Morin as Cho-Cho-San, is nearing the end of its highly successful tour of the Proctor circuit and its last presentation in New York.

The Consumptive's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

John Day, of Liberty street, has recovered from an attack of rheumatism.

BAD FAITH DENIED.

Bulgarian Foreign Office Resents Insinuations—Ultimatum to Bandits.

SOFIA, Nov. 21.—The foreign office here resents the insinuations published abroad that the government is acting in bad faith in the matter of effecting the release of Miss Stone and, explaining its attitude toward Mr. Dickinson, the diplomatic agent here of the United States, affirms its entire readiness to take any action suggested by him.

The foreign office also avers that, acting upon the suggestion of Mr. Dickinson, it caused the village of Gratchowo to be surrounded and searched a fortnight ago, but the brigands were not there. It also says that Mr. Dickinson's later information to the effect that the bandits were concealed in a dedle of the Belleritza mountains, district of Dubnitza, could not be acted upon by it, as an inquiry showed the place in question to be within Turkish territory.

The latest intelligence received here sets forth that the brigands are holding out for a high figure of ransom, and it is asserted that they are able to keep their captives as long as this may be necessary.

Mr. Dickinson, according to the Vezerna Posta, whose editor was a member of the former Macedonian committee, has sent an ultimatum to the brigands, giving them six days to accept a specified sum as the ransom for Miss Stone. If this amount is not accepted within the time mentioned, Mr. Dickinson's offer will be withdrawn.

Sixty Thousand the Limit.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Mr. Dickinson's ultimatum to the brigands, according to a dispatch from Sofia to The Daily Telegraph, specifies £12,000.

Smallpox Scare In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Nearly a million persons in Philadelphia, according to the chief clerk of the health bureau, have been vaccinated during the past few months as a result of the prevalence of smallpox. He bases his calculation on the fact that more than 100,000 vaccinations were made by the bureau itself and that the reports of private physicians lead him to reach that conclusion. Of the 1,400 inmates of the Eastern penitentiary 935 have been vaccinated. There has been an average of more than fifty new cases of smallpox reported in this city each week during the past two or three months, but the percentage of deaths is small.

The Bonine Jury Secured.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—At a few minutes past 3 o'clock yesterday the jury which is to try Mrs. Ida Bonine on the charge of murdering James Seymour Ayres, Jr., the young census clerk, was completed, and the court then adjourned until 10 o'clock today, when a presentation of the case on behalf of the government was made by the district attorney. Mr. Douglas, representing Mrs. Bonine, said after the court adjourned that he would reserve his opening until after all the witnesses for the prosecution had been heard. It is expected, therefore, that the taking of testimony will begin at once.

Pennsylvania's Official Returns.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—The official returns of the recent election in the state, as tabulated at the state department, show that the vote for state treasurer was: Harris (Rep.), 435,040; Coray (Dem., Municipal League and Union), 389,570; Porter (Pro.), 18,044; McConnell (Social Labor), 2,584; Barnes (Public Ownership) 2,674; Watkins (People's), 530; total, 848,442; Harris' plurality, 45,470. Coray received 93,413 votes in the Union party column. This is more than enough votes for that party to get a column on the ballots next year without the formality of taking out nomination papers.

Large Conscience Contribution.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The secretary of the treasury has received through the mail from a person whose name is unknown a draft for $5,875, with the statement that it is the amount which should have been paid the internal revenue department years ago, with interest to date. The letter was signed "E. O." The money will be deposited to the credit of the conscience fund.

Better Pay For Trolley Hands.

BUFFALO, Nov. 21.—At a meeting of the International Railway Employees' association President W. Caryl Ely of the International company, which operates trolley lines in this city and vicinity, announced that the wages of all conductors and motormen would be advanced from and after Nov. 23 from 17, 18 and 19 cents to 18, 19 and 20 cents per hour.

WOMEN COLLECTORS.

Hoarding Things—A Fad of the Idle Class.

Gathering together a collection of—well, most anything—is the favorite occupation of the idle woman. We all know the woman who collects teapots. Her house is filled with them. They line the walls not only of the dining room and parlor, but they even threaten to fall on you from the bedroom frieze. She is the one who stands for hours jollying the farmer's wife while all the time her glittering eye is fastened on the kitchen table, where some particularly tantalizing bit of "millennium" or "statehouse" ware reposes. However, her methods are legitimate compared to those of the woman who collects spoons from the different hotels and restaurants and unblushingly sets her table with the same.

Old books are not such favorites with women as with men, but old jewelry and, above all, hoards of yellowing laces are dear to the feminine heart. A friend of mine has recently started a jug collection, one from every town she visits. They range from foreign china with armorial bearings to blackjacks and Indian pottery from Arizona. A well known society woman has a collection of boots and shoes which comprise valuable historical specimens, while a young debutante remarkable for her gentle not to say timid bearing has a remarkable collection of knives and daggers, including several vicious looking Malay and Canary island belt knives.

Nor have ordinary women been the only ones to indulge in this mania. Queen Victoria's ruling passion was tablecloths, Christine Nilsson papered her walls with her hotel bills, Queen Isabella of Spain, Queen Alexandra and the dowager empress of Russia collect fans. The little queen of Holland is the proud possessor of jeweled and curious skates. Perhaps the most unique royal collection is that of the empress of Germany, who preserves a feather from each bird her husband has shot.

HELEN CLIFTON.

THE BABY'S CARRIAGE.

Choose It For Comfort, Not For Show.

The other day I saw two baby carriages going down the street. One was all ruffles, lace and gilding. It was wheeled by a smart looking young nursegirl, whose eyes darted coy glances at a nearby policeman. So occupied was she with her own appearance that she drove the carriage hard up against the curbstone on the farther side of a crossing, and the cheap springs of this outwardly gorgeous vehicle responded with a sharp bump. The small occupant gave a shrill yell, for which I did not blame it, for, in addition to being muffled up in a lot of foolish lace and prickly embroideries, the poor little mite was suffering from the glare of the sun, which stole in through the flimsy silk parasol.

The other baby carriage was modest in appearance, but of a solidity which argued well for its comfort. A substantial hood protected the baby from the sun and wind, and, wrapped in comfortable and simple garments, it slept peaceably. The woman who guided this second conveyance was sensible looking and middle aged, with a neat black dress and a snowy apron. Now, perhaps you think the child in the first carriage was that of a rich woman and that the second belonged to some woman in modest circumstances. Not a bit of it. The baby in the plain little wagon was the heir to a fortune, but its parents were sensible people. They recognized that their child was out for its health, not to be made a show of, and they looked to its comfort first of all. As for the baby in the outwardly gorgeous carriage, it belonged to a silly, feather brained woman, the wife of a man with an excessively modest salary. "It's these people who really haven't the money who likes to make the show, mum," remarked my old servant to me the other day. And she is right.

SUN IN ITS EYES.

Mothers, at least don't show off with your children! Give some thought to their comfort. See to it that they are dressed warmly and sensibly. Choose for their nurse some plain woman who has common sense, who will not allow their delicate backs to become cramped or distorted and who will not let the hot sun glare down into their defenseless little eyes. Give them every chance to grow up strong and healthy.

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders held on Thursday, October 3, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll-call showed the following members present, viz:

Director Hubbard, Freeholders Adams, Bonnel, Brucklacher, Cady, Farrell, Gerstung, Krouse, King, Mc Candless, Miller, Robinson, Scudder, Swain, Wahl, Westphal and Woodruff —17.

The minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

On motion of Freeholder King the Board took a recess of fifteen minutes to examine the plans for the proposed new court house which were ready for inspection.

Upon reassembling after recess, roll call showed all members present—17.

COMMUNICATIONS, PETITIONS, ETC.

From Mrs. M. A. Ehrlich as follows, viz:

Rahway, Sept. 4, 1901.

The Members of the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Kindly accept my thanks for the engrossed set of resolutions presented me by your committee, expressing your condolence on the death of my husband, Christian Ehrlich, who was a member of your honorable body. Thanking you again for your past favors, I remain.

Yours respectfully,
Mrs. M. A. Ehrlich.

Received and placed on file.

From the Union County Board of Election stating that an additional election district had been created in the Eighth Ward of Elizabeth, and that another ballot box and five (5) new booths would be needed.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, received and referred to the public buildings committee.

From P. J. Ryan, E. S Frenche, D. W. Luds and sixty-three others, property owners of the upper section of the city of Elizabeth, a petition requesting this Board to carefully consider the advisability of replacing the bridge on Prince and Crane streets, by iron girder bridges similar to that recently rected on West Jersey street in said city.

Attention was called to the fact that the section of the city mentioned had suffered severely in recent years from heavy floods caused by the inability of the water course of the Elizabeth River to carry off such large amounts of water, more particularly in that the old arch bridges act in time of flood as actual dams against the unusual flow of water, this Board was therefore urged instead of repairing he old bridges that modern bridges as hereinbefore specified be substituted.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell received and placed on file.

The following opinion of the county attorney was presented and read, to wit:

September 17, 1901.

Benjamin King, Esq.,

Dear Sir—I do not know that you are the proper one to whom I should return the enclosed bills of the State Village for Epileptics, but in case you are not you will kindly turn them over to the proper parties. They were referred to me for investigation, and after investigation, I am satisfied that the county will be liable for the payment of these bills providing the amounts are correct. The law of 1891 seems to settle the question, and according to the enclosed letter of Mr. Weeks, the patients were evidently committed through Mr. McCandless and N. W. Bonnell, two members of the Board. I am,

Yours respectfully,
W. B. Coddington.

Accompanying the foregoing was the following letter from H. M. Weeks:

September 3, 1901.

W. B. Codington, Esq., No. 152 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.:

Dear sir—Replying to your letter of August 31, in regard to the commitment of James Miller and Josephine Conley to this institution, I beg to say that these patients were admitted under the act of 1899. After the passage of the act of 1901, we rendered bills to the counties having indigent patients here on the theory that they would prefer to pay the small amount than go to the expense of having them committed under the new act, but as there was objection made on the part of one or two of the counties, we have had all committed by the local authorities. James Miller and Josephine Conley were committed by Judge Vail, Freeholders Joseph McCandless and N. W. Bonnel, approving their respective orders of commitment.

Any further information you may desire will be cheerfully furnished.

Respectfully yours,
H. M. Weeks.

Freeholder King moved that the opinion of the County Attorney, together with the letter of Mr. Weeks, be received and filed, and that the bills mentioned to wit: $52 for quarter ending June 30, and $52 for quarter ending September 30, be paid when properly audited and approved, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the Committee on bridge over Woodruff creek, etc.:

Elizabeth, Oct. 3, 1901.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, County of Union:

Gentlemen — Your committee appointed at the last meeting on Woodruff Creek Bridge, Elizabeth, most respectfully report that they have examined the present bridge and find it unsafe, and we recommend that a new bridge be built, the cost not to exceed $600.

(Signed) Fred Miller,
John Farrell,
M. M. Scudder,
Committee.

Freeholder Brucklacker moved that the report be received and the recommendation therein adopted, which was so ordered on roll-call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Wood Avenue Bridge, Linden Township:

Elizabeth, N. J., October 3, 1901.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to examine into the advisability of building a new bridge over West Brook on Wood Avenue in Linden Township would report that they have carefully investigated the matter and would recommend the building of a new iron-beam brick-arch bridge at said point, 48 feet wide with 20 feet span, not to exceed in cost twenty-eight hundred dollars.

(Signed) Henry Krouse,
Benjamin King,
John Farrell,
W. H. Swain,
E K. Adams,
Committee.

Freeholder Miller moved that the report be received and the recommendation contained therein adopted which was so ordered on roll-call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on Crane Street Bridge in the city of Elizabeth.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen — Your Committee to whom the matter of the Crane Street Bridge, Elizabeth, was referred respectfully report that it is the sense of your committee that a careful examination of the Crane Street Bridge shows that it is in a very unsafe condition and not worth repairing, also that the present bridge is not large enough to carry of the water in time of floods or freshets. Depressions in the brick work of the easterly arch show a liability to fall at any time, the entire south parapet wall has been washed away or is detatched from the adjoining brickwork, and is also unsafe.

Your committee therefore respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That a new single span iron bridge be constructed over the Elizabeth river at Crane street in the city of Elizabeth at a cost not exceeding $12,000, and that this Board take the proper steps to secure the co-operation of the city of Elizabeth to make the necessary changes in the grade of Crane street in order to give more waterway at said point.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) Joseph McCandless,
August Gerstung,
John N. Cady,
Fred Miller,
J. Robison.
Committee.

Dated Oct. 3, 1901,

On motion of Freeholder King the report was received and further consideration of the same was laid over to the next meeting of this Board.

By the county building committee as follows, viz:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—We the undersigned committee would respectfully report that we have examined the several court house plans submitted to us and have awarded the first prize to Ackerman and Ross, architects, they in our opinion having furnished the best, and we would respectfully recommend that they be accepted by this Board.

Signed, J. F. Hubbard.
Jacob Brucklacher,
John Farrell,
County Building Committee.

October 3, 1901.

Freeholder King moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted which was so ordered without dissent.

By the Committee on Prince Street Bridge, city of Elizabeth, N. J.

Elizabeth, Oct. 3, 1901.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, County of Union:

Gentlemen — Your Committee appointed at last meeting of the Board to consider the advisability of constructing an iron beam bridge on Prince street, at Elizabeth, would respectfully report that they have carefully examined said bridge with County Engineer Bauer, and find it in an unsafe and dangerous condition and that the cost of repairing said bridge would be of a considerable amount and an unwise expenditure of money.

Your committee therefore do not think it would be advisable to repair said bridge, and therefore recommend that an iron beam bridge be built at a cost not to exceed $13,500.

(Signed) Jacob Brucklacher,
Joseph McCandless,
Benjamin King,
John Farrell,
Henry Krouse,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell the report was received and further consideration of the same was laid over to the next meeting of this Board.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Farrell:

Whereas, Frank F. Miller and Spencer C. Miller, alleged lunatics, are now confined in the State Asylum for the Insane, and for a long time last past have been and still are being kept at the expense of the County of Union; and

Whereas, The County of Union has expended for board, etc., for the Frank F. Miller the sum of $2,267.72, and for the said Spencer C. Miller the sum of $2,780.78; and HORSE RESCUED HIM.

Boy Is Saved from Certain Death by a Remarkable Display of Equine Sagacity.

Cleveland (O.) reports say that the almost human sagacity of the horse was demonstrated when 11-year-old Ray Campbell, whose mother was drowned in a cloudburst, told his experience during the frightful night.

According to the boy's story, he and his mother were driving along the road about nine o'clock, the water being well over the animal's knees. The rain was yet falling in torrents, and it was as dark as pitch.

Suddenly the horse stopped. Mrs. Campbell hit it with the whip, but it didn't budge. Against the little boy's entreaties she hit the animal a second time, when it plunged forward, and horse, buggy, boy and mother were in a torrent.

The boy was thrown on a log, one of the many being washed down the creek. The log was driven into a piece of high ground and stuck fast. Several hundred yards below the boy heard his mother crying for help. He answered her, but was afraid to trust himself to the swift current.

At the second answer he heard a horse's whinny, and the animal appeared swimming out from the bank. It came to him and rubbed up against him. He then quit his hold on the log and grasped the horse's harness, when the animal swam with him to the bank.

There he must have become unconscious, as it was midnight when he reached a farmhouse half a mile away, and the watch found on his mother's body had stopped at nine o'clock.

WISDOM IN CHUNKS.

Delinquent Debtor, in a Moment of Leisure, Gives Some Valuable Hints to a Collector.

The Chicago Tribune says that a collector of bad accounts received a lesson from a delinquent debtor a few days ago that has started him to thinking a bit. The collector had been chasing this delinquent for about six months and had become tired of "Call to-morrow," "I haven't it just now," and other excuses of a similar diatory nature, and thought it was time to becme "sassy."

"See here," he said the last time he called, "are you ever going to pay this bill?"

"Why, yes," replied the delinquent, "I suppose I will pay it some day or other. But look here yourself, young man. I think I can show you a thing or two. How many bills have you in that bundle?"

"About 40, I guess."

"How long does it take you to visit these people?"

"Generally I can get over my route in a day."

GOLF.

W. L. Glenney, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, and J. A. Edwards met yesterday over the Fox Hill course to determine the championship of Columbia University. The pair had already played eighteen holes at St. Andrews, where Mr. Glenney finished three up. Continuing the last half yesterday Mr. Edwards held his own until playing the nine hole, which fell to his opponent in four and five and made him four up on the twenty-seven holes. This was the condition of affairs to the fifteenth, or thirty-third hole, which Mr. Glenney won in five and seven. Playing out the bye holes the last named won all three in par figures and finished the round with the fine score of 84.

LOTS OF MONEY.

Amount Paid Into Collector Smith During The Last Ten Days.

Now that the rush in Collector Smith's office is over, an adequate idea of the collections can be gained. During last October there was received $31,193.96, and up to and including last Saturday, the amount reached $54,258 86. From Monday morning until the close of the collector's office last evening, there was received $77,277.56.

This morning, and in fact nearly all day, Collector Smith has been receiving money by mail, and, of course, this will be added to the general amount received prior to today. The collections this year will compare favorably with those of any previous year, and Collector Smith is much gratified.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

FRIGHTENED AT AUTO.

Runaway Horse Then Smashed up The Delivery Wagon.

While the driver, Wilbur Henderson, was in a nearby residence, a delivery horse belonging to J. A. Smith & Brother, was frightened by an automobile and ran away this morning, from in front of fire headquarters on East Second street. At the corner of Second street and Park avenue, it collided with a heavy Swift Beef Company wagon and the grocery rig came out second best. The load of orders was scattered about the street while the wagon was badly damaged.

The horse broke the harness and continued on to Voehl's lane where it was captured by Samuel Goff. Beyond a few scratches it was unhurt.

SIX MONTHS FOR BURGLARY.

SARAH SPEARS, IMPLICATED IN BURNETT ROBBERY, SENTENCED.

"Big Socks" Found Guilty This Afternoon Of Shooting At Police Sergeant Frederickson.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, November 21.—Sarah A. Spears, the young woman, who, with James Simpson, robbed the home of W. A. W. Burnett, of Sandford avenue, Plainfield, of $1 700 worth of furs and clothing, was this morning sentenced by Judge B. A. Vail to six months in the county jail.

Simpson died several weeks ago while awaiting indictment. The woman's infant also died several weeks ago and her health is badly broken. Soon after her incarceration she made a complete confession which accounts for her light sentence.

Frank Harrison, alias "Big Socks" was put on trial this morning on a charge of shooting at Sergeant Frederickson, of the Plainfield police force last November. He is said to be one of a number of men discovered by the police in an out of the way spot while searching for burglars who had terrorized Dunellen. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, this afternoon.

FILLING UP WELL.

Old Fire Well Will Be Abandoned as It Is Considered Dangerous in the Roadway.

The continual displacement of the iron cover on the abandoned fire well, on West Second street, near Park avenue, has resulted in Street Commissioner Gavett ordering the hole filled up. A force of men and carts are now at work carting gravel to the well and dumping it in, but it will be several days before the job is completed.

The iron cap to the well has always projected at least six inches above the roadway and has been a source of danger to wheelmen and drivers. Lately the cover has been displaced several times and many horses have had narrow escapes from stepping into the well.

There was a large attendance of members from the various auxiliaries located at Morristown, Elizabeth, Newark, Belvidere, New Brunswick, Orange, Trenton and this city. Mrs. Mead, as president of the local auxiliary, presided at the sessions.

At the afternoon session there were the reports from the auxiliaries telling of the grand work being done at the various stations in France. All were encouraging and showed marked improvement. Especially noteworthy was the report of the work being done at Limoges, France, by the local auxiliary. The two stations at Limoges are being admirably supported by the Plainfield women.

After the reports there was an instrumental selection on the violin, and Madame LeGay, of Paris, was introduced. Madame LeGay has for a number of years been interested in the work of the auxiliary and it was through her efforts that the Plainfield auxiliary was organized many years ago.

She told of the work being done in Limoges and of the first $1,000 contributed to open the two stations in that place. She also told of the progress made since the establishment of the stations, how both old and young have become deeply interested and converted through the efforts of the workers there. Mrs LeGay's remarks were of deep interest to all.

Rev. Dr. S. D. Rossiter, of New York, who made the address in the evening, at this time made several announcements, including one for the meeting of January 17, when every auxiliary is expected to meet by itself and pray for the work. He also announced the annual meeting of the American auxiliaries, to be held in Morristown, and urged that every auxiliary be represented. At this time New Brunswick invited the auxiliaries present to meet in that city next year, and the invitation was accepted.

Among the other speakers of the afternoon was Mrs. Charles H. Parkhurst, of New York, president of the American McAll Association. She made a few remarks concerning the work of the association in general, and gave the members much encouragement by her earnest words. The afternoon session then closed, after which the delegates were entertained at the homes of the Plainfield members.

The evening session was of great interest. It was well attended by members and friends of the auxiliaries. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards was in charge. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, read the Scripture lesson, after which Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, offered prayer. Miss Isabelle Schroder sang a pretty selection, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Johnson on the piano and Miss Hyatt on the violin.

Dr. Richards introduced Rev. Dr. S. B. Rossiter, of New York, who is representative secretary of the American McAll Association. Dr. Rossiter recently returned from France and he was brimful of knowledge concerning the work being carried on in that country. He believed that Robert McAll was called to Paris just as much as Paul was called to Troas, in fact he believed that God had ordered him there. He said that the French people need to hear of a living Christ and the word of God. He said the French people have a religion, but it has lost all power over their conduct and opinions. A remarkable thing related by the speaker was that there was no word in the French language for righteousness which is the Kingdom of God.

Dr. Rossiter related in a graphic manner the work being done in France at the various stations and especially in Limoges, where two stations are supported by the Plainfield Auxiliary. The need of a better and more suitable place in Limoges he presented. It is the purpose of the local members to raise $1,200 during the coming year, which will enable the securing of a better place for a meeting hall.

Dr. Rossiter said that he believed that within the next ten years cultivated France would be earnestly seeking God and he asked all to pray that a divinely-appointed apostle might be found to take up that work. At present, the work is among the poorer class of French people. The speaker told of the earnest and sincere desire of the people to hear the Gospel and he urged all to increase their interest and support of the work.

At the close of the session a collection was taken for the work and after a piano solo by Mrs. Johnson, the singing of a hymn and the pronouncing of the benediction, the meeting adjourned.

CANNOT FIND OWNER TO SUE FOR DAMAGES.

John Blackford, of Samptown, Bitten by a Dog, Wants Redress for Injuries

DOG WAS SOLD AT AUCTION.

NOW BLACKFORD IS UNABLE TO DISCOVER WHO BOUGHT CANINE.

Originally Belonged to a Neighbor Whose Property was Sold—Dog Wandered Over Looking for Meal and Bit Mr. Blackford.

John Blackford, the well-known Samptown resident, was bitten by a ferocious dog, yesterday, and he is now wrestling with the legal problem as to who he is to go for redress. From present prospects, if he ever takes it to the courts it will be relegated to the archives as one of the problems beyond the comprehension of the Supreme Court.

Briefly stated, the dog belonged to L. L. Block, a neighbor of Blackford's, whose possessions, including the canine, were sold at auction Wednesday by Justice H. K. Hand. The clerk says that the dog was knocked down to Tony Martin, of Scotch Plains, for 75 cents, but Tony denies being a party to the transaction. When the sale began the canine was fastened to a chain which was also disposed of. The purchaser of the latter to get his property released the dog and, when the new owner came to get it, Carlo was missing.

It returned to the Block home yesterday, and finding no one at home, wandered over to the Blackford farm in search of a meal. The animal was feeling rather aggressive from its long fast. When Blackford attempted to run it home, doggie grabbed him by the leg and departed with a generous supply of cuticle and the underlying flesh. Blackford naturally felt hurt, and thought the only way to be repaid for the indignity he had suffered was to sue the owner.

Then it was that he really found trouble. Block says the dog was sold. Tony Martin says he did'nt buy it, and Justice Hand has been asked to look over the records to see if by chance the man who bought the chain was supposed to take the accompanying animal. Until this is established, Blackford will hold off taking the matter to the courts.

MADE A WINNING FIGHT.

EDWARD R. FINCH, A PLAINFIELD BOY, WAS A FUSION CANDIDATE.

Sketch Of The Young Man Who Was Elected To New York Assembly From Fifth District.

There was probably no candidate for the New York Assembly who attracted so much attention in the recent election in New York as Edward R. Finch, who was elected from the Fifth district by the largest majority ever given a Republican for that office in the district.

Mr. Finch is a young man, having been born in New York in 1873. Soon afterward he came to Plainfield with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Finch, who now reside in Park avenue. He first attended school at John Leal's school for boys and was graduated from there in 1891. The following fall he entered Yale University from which he was graduated in 1895.

During the summer of 1895 he went abroad and traveled considerably on the continent. Returning to New York in the fall he entered the Columbia Law school and was graduated from there in 1899. He then began the practice of law, soon forming a partnership with Mr. Tappan, of New York, under the firm name of Tappan & Finch, with offices at 51 Wall street. Mr. Finch has been wonderully successful in his comparatively short career. In the recent campaign his earnest efforts, as well as those of his friends, attracted widespread attention. Mr. Finch possesses exceptional talent and is considered one of New York's most promising lawyers.

Mr. Finch is a prominent figure in social circles and belongs to several clubs including the Yale Club, Riding and Driving Club, Baltusrol, Hillside Tennis and Golf Clubs. He is also a member of the Sons of the Revolution and the New York Bar Association. A very bright future is predicted for him in the Lower House of the New York Legislature.

DESERVED BIG CROWD.

Interesting Lecture by Mme. Sarah Grand Given at the Casino Last Evening.

It was disappointing, indeed, to see the size of the audience to which Mme. Sarah Grand, the brilliant novelist, spoke at the Casino last evening. Her subject was "The Art of Happiness," and there is no gainsaying the fact that it was intensely interesting.

Mme. Grand understands true happiness and she possesses the rare faculty of describing it, through its various stages, to others. Her analysis was a most happy feature, and, illustrated by instances, as it was, made it a delightfully absorbing lecture. Then, too, the causes of unhappinesses were told in an interesting manner. It is a reflection on the literary public of this city that the lecture did not receive better support.

Thanks.

The Union Furniture Company, 139 East Front street, desires to thank the people of Plainfield and vicinity for the patronage they have shown them since opening their store in this city and, in appreciation of this fact, they offer one of the biggest furniture sales ever heard of in this city today and to morrow until 10 o'clock. This sale means a saving of fifty per cent. to all purchasers.

YORK AND LANCASTER BATTLED AT TRINITY.

The War Of The Roses Fought Over Again In a Really Unique Fashion.

FIGHT WAS FOR PATRONS.

SUCCESSFUL SUPPER OF YOUNG WOMEN'S MISSION BAND OF TRINITY.

Ammunition Ran Out And An Armistice Was Declared Until This Evening When The Conflict Will Be Renewed—House Of York Leads.

History repeats itself. Many a battle has been lost because of insufficient resources to fall back upon. Such was almost the case last evening, when, through lack of ammunition, the modern house of York was on the verge of surrendering all and avowing fealty to the latter-day proud house of Lancaster. An armistice was declared, after a hasty council between the fair representatives of the contending hosts. All this happened at the "Modern War of the Roses," which is being fought over again, in a most fascinating way, under the direction of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church.

To raise funds needed by the organization, Mrs. A. E. Leggett conceived the admirable idea of giving a supper with these features followed as far as possible. The sum and substance of the plan is simply that the rival clans fight for patronage for their suppers, there being two distinct menus. The faction serving the largest number of suppers is declared the victor of the battles. To give color to the plan the lecture room is divided by an imaginary line, the one side being the camp of the Yorks and the other the ground of the Lancasters.

Elaborate decorations, perfectly in keeping with the idea intended to be conveyed, adorn the room. About the pillars on the side are entwined strands of artificial white roses interspersed with white bunting and on the other red roses with red bunting, thus typifying the houses of York and Lancaster respectively. Immediately above the front of the platform on either side were the words "Lancaster" and "York" in appropriately colored artificial roses.

All through the room this plan prevailed, and, under the subdued glow of the electric light, the scene was really enchanting. To add further to the attractiveness, the women connected with the fair were clad in the colors of the houses they represented, the effect being somewhat that of the attire of the girl enthusiastic over her favorite college, today.

The suppers were exceptionally good; so good in fact that the unusually large crowd stormed the dainty dishes with vigor and long before the appointed time it was necessary to discontinue the fight, for the rations had fallen short. The two armies are allowed until this evening to forage for fresh supplies according to the compact.

Aside from the supper there was an additional feature. A musical programme was provided and also a decidedly instructive and entertaining talk. This last feature was furnished by Robert Clark, Jr., who in his entertaining style related briefly the story of the War of the Roses, ringing in as a climax the great modern war at Trinity.

Patriotic songs of all nations, with a large share of American tunes, were rendered by a chorus of fifteen well blended voices. The orchestra was composed of R. W. Barnes, violin, Kenneth Stuart, violin, Elmer E. Wheeler, flute, Mrs. G. W. Saums, violin, and Miss Lillian A. Force, accompanist. Ben LaVere favored the attending hosts with a few cornet selections, being accompanied by Bert Harold.

The commissary department of the House of York reports 160 suppers sold, while the House of Lancaster disposed of 107.

The affair is being given under the direction of the entertainment committee of the band. This committee is composed of Mrs. A. E. Leggett, chairman; Miss Lillian A. Force, Mrs. G. W. Saums, Mrs. H. C. VanEmburg, Mrs. Albert Baker, Mrs. E Zelez, Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mrs. William Startup, and Mrs. Leonard Smith. A reception committee consists of Miss Lillian Bemsen, Miss Sadie Searing, Miss Katherine Baxter, Mrs. William Rogers for the house of York, and Miss Mabel Woodruff, Miss Minnie Williams and Miss Vroom for the house of Lancaster.

In charge of the supper affairs are Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mrs. E. Zelez, Mrs. L. Rosensteihl, Mrs H. C. VanEmburgh, and Mrs. Garretson. Superintending the tables in the house of York are Mrs. Leonard Smith, Mrs Will F. Williams, Miss Anna Searing and Mrs. Frank Woodruff. Gliding about the white tables are the following waitresses: the Misses Jessie Little, Grace Rowland, Mae E. Anthony, Minnie Wyman, Abbie VanCleef, Eva Dunavan and Miss Annie Kirch.

Over on the Lancaster side in charge of the tables are Mrs. William Startup and the Misses Adelaide Baxter, Gertrude Tier and Grace Emmons. The waitresses are Mrs. H. McDonald, Miss Josephine Fritz, and the Misses Bessie Martin, L. Bogart, Martie Anthony, Louise Fisher, Annie Fenner, Olive Wikoff and Dora Ulrick.

Dispensing cake, on the Lancaster side, are Mrs. Albert Baker and Mrs. David Krymer, while Mrs. William Olmstead and Miss Helen Bogart are selling the dainty for the York people. At the candy table on the Lancaster side are Miss Mary VanFleet and Miss Sarah Holmes and at the same table on the York side are Miss Grace Nevius and Mrs. Theodore Mantz.

Vending popcorn are Miss Achsah Holmes, Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. DeCamp. White lemonade is poured by Mrs. Clark and Miss Jennie Quick and red lemonade as well as red apples by Miss Cora Laire and Miss May Randolph. The handsome and attractive decorations are due to the efforts of Messrs. Emmons, Ross, Slater, Cutter, Williams, Rogers and Corieli.

The electric wiring was done by William Pope. William Olmstead made the candy booth. At the door gathering the tickets is Will F. Williams.

The affair will be given again this evening and a rare treat is promised all who attend.

ALIBI DIDN'T HOLD GOOD.

"BIG SOCKS" HARRISON SAID HE WAS SOMEBODY ELSE.

Jury Found Him Guilty After Only Being Out Ten Minutes—Sentenced Next Week.

It needed but ten minutes for the jury before whom Frank Harrison, alias "Big Socks", was tried in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday, to bring in a verdict declaring him guilty of shooting at Sergeant Frederickson on the morning of November 11, 1901. He will be sentenced next week.

The circumstances which led to Harrison's arrest occurred near the Dunellen line on West Front street, early in the morning of the date mentioned. The night before the Plainfield police had been asked for assistance in hunting down a number of burglars who had terrorized Dunellen. Sergeant Frederickson with Roundsman Flynn were searching near the Eight Row when they suddenly came upon a stranger in the dark. They called to him to halt and were answered with two bullets which narrowly escaped wounding the sergeant. The fellow escaped in the woods near Guinea Egg pond.

At the trial yesterday Harrison attempted to prove an alibi to the effect that he was not Harrison, but Jim Williams and that on Nov. 10, he had been arrested in Philadelphia and sent to the workhouse for three months. This part of his testimony was shaken down by Lieutenant O'Brien and Detective Carson, of the Philadelphia force, who arrested Williams and declared he was a negro. Sergeant Frederickson and Roundsman Flynn positively identified Harrison as the man who fired the shots. They furthermore declared they did not know who he was at the time but instantly recognized him when Chief Kiely first brought him to Plainfield after his arrest.

While on the stand, Harrison repeated his boast that he never did a day's work in his life. It was plainly evident to the court that Judge Vail was not favorably impressed with the remark.

WILD RUN.

Horse And Runabout Ended in a Heap in French's Alley This Morning.

A horse, belonging to L. M. French, attached to a runabout, left standing on Somerset street, this morning, became frightened and ran through French's alley. Near the old fat house, it collided with a grocery wagon, partially wrecking it.

The frightened animal then climbed the steep bank to the mill race, turned about and ran to the bridge in the rear of A. M. Griffen's. At this point it attempted to descend the alley again, but the bank was too steep, and it fell headlong, with the wagon on top. When the wagon was pulled away, the animal was found to have suffered a number of bad cuts. The vehicle was slightly damaged.

Press Opinions.

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle says of the Metropolitan Quartette: "They are perfect. No better quartette has charmed audiences for years, and they were up to concert pitch. Without taking from their art, it must be said they seem to personally attract, and certainly make an effort always to please. Each appearance seemed an ovation for them." This quartette appears in the next Y. M. C. A. Star course entertainment, Thanksgiving night.

LITERARY.

In pursuance of its policy of printing a long story in each of its issues in the magazine year which began with November, St. Nicholas presents in its December number "The Boy and the Baron," by Adeline Knapp. It is a romantic tale, appealing to boys and girls alike, and dealing with the time of the robber barons in Germany, "when the sunlight fell on glancing steel and floating pennon," and when the nobles were absolute lords of their own castles and the regions round about. "The Christmas Story" is the title of a seasonable frontispiece drawn for the occasion by Henry Hutt. An interesting feature is an illustrated description by Will H. Chandlee, of "Uncle Sam's Toys,"—the dolls, games, etc., of the native races of America and certain far away lands, exhibited in the National Museum at Washington. The number abounds in poetry for the young, by Carolyn Wells, Helen Gray Cone and others, and is especially rich in illustrations.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, burns, bruises and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

It is only a few years, comparatively, since the Central Railroad of New Jersey was bankrupt and was placed in the hands of a receiver. And now the Central Railroad of New Jersey is reported to be doing finely. Its earnings during the past year are unusually large; its net earnings in October last increased to the amount of $700,000. The prosperity of the whole country, careful management of the business of the road and its absorption by the Reading company are the cause of the Central's later success.—Elizabeth Journal.

MOON RECEDING FROM EARTH.

Scientists Say It Is Slowly Increasing Its Distance from This Terrestrial Planet.

Scientists say that the moon is receding further and further from the earth, and will continue to recede for countless ages until the terrestrial day is shorter than the lunar month. Millions of years ago, when the earth was a molten mass, it revolved around its axis once every five or six hours. The moon then was a part of the earth, but in time became broken off and became its satellite.

As the motion of the earth decreased and the day became longer the distance of the moon became greater. Our day is now 24 hours long and the moon is 240,000 miles away. As the length of the terrestrial day increased so did the distance of the moon. The two quantities are connected by inexorable equations. If one varies, so must the other. Whenever the rotation time of a planet is shorter than the period of revolution of its satellite the effect of their mutual action is to accelerate the motion of the satellite and to force it to move in a larger orbit—to increase its distance, therefore.

It is proposed to apply motor power to agricultural implements under the direction of the department of agriculture.

Best "Second" Language.

Which language is or is to be most worth learning, and so to have the strongest claim to be the second language learned by the educated classes of all nations? The decisive factor in this matter is the amount of science and thought the acquisition of a language will afford the man who learns it. The actual number of books published in English is less than that in French or German, and the proportion of serious books is very greatly less.

How Russian Peasants Live.

Most of the Russian peasants pass a great deal of their life in workshops where they work, eat and sleep, the same room sheltering a number and probably a pig into the bargain. There are few beds. Instead, all around the four walls of the room is fixed what may be literally described as a bench. It is made of wood, and at this works the peasant by day and on it he sleeps by night, each man at his own spot. The conditions of the Russian workshop, or factory, and the Russian prison and military barracks, so far as interior arrangements are concerned, are akin. Chairs there will also be and tables, rudely fashioned, as a rule, by the men themselves.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Astamalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 13 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. February 5, 1901.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 265 Rivington street, S. RAPHAEL,

RIOTING IN ATHENS.

Agitation Against Proposed Scripture Translation.

SEVEN KILLED AND SCORES INJURED.

Monster Demonstration Organized by Students Assembled About Ruins of Temple of Jupiter—Troops Quell the Disturbance.

ATHENS, Nov. 22.—The agitation against the proposal to translate the gospels into modern Greek was continued yesterday. Twenty thousand persons assembled around the ruins of the temple of Jupiter Olympus and took part in a demonstration organized by the students. A resolution was passed calling on the holy synod to excommunicate any person who translated the gospels into Greek as now spoken.

Eight hundred marines were landed and co-operated with the troops in patrolling the locality. Several collisions occurred, and during the encounters between the military and the turbulent demonstrators seven persons were killed, thirty were severely and many others were slightly wounded.

During the demonstrations following the assemblage several shots were fired at M. Theotokis, the Greek premier, but without effect.

Great excitement prevails. Strong military detachments guard the palace and the residence of the premier. Everywhere anxious groups are discussing the situation.

Heartrending scenes occurred when the bodies of the dead were handed over to their relatives.

It is rumored that armed men have arrived at the university, but the building is still guarded by the students, who are adopting military discipline.

Opposition deputies paraded the streets during the day, exciting the rioters by violent language.

There were no further disturbances during last evening, but it is feared that there will be a renewal of disorder today.

Among those slightly injured are the prefect of police of Athens and the prefect of Attica.

As cabled from Athens yesterday, the students of the university had then been making riotous demonstrations for two days against two newspapers which had been advocating the translation of the gospels into modern Greek.

Wednesday the students fired on the police. Troops were then summoned, and a serious fight occurred, which resulted in the wounding of a score of cavalrymen and several students.

A political motive connected with the Slav propaganda in Greece underlies this religious movement.

As a result of the demonstrations of the day the metropolitan has resigned office.

Advance In Tin Plate Manufacture.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 22.—Demonstrations of manufacturing tin plate and sheets by the Allis-Andrews system were being conducted for the American Tin Plate company at their United States works in this city. The tests of this new system were commenced at the Demmler plant some ten days ago and were so satisfactory that more extended operations were desired. Thus far all indications point to the justifications of the claims that with the present heating and rolling capacity of the American Tin Plate company the present output can be more than doubled, thereby saving fully $5 per ton. The packs are reduced to thirty-one gauge at one heat in five passes and without any opening or doubling in the operation.

The Bonine Trial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The trial of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine on the charge of killing James Seymour Ayres, Jr., was fairly launched yesterday. The preliminary presentation of the case on behalf of the government was made by Assistant District Attorney Hugh T. Taggart, and after he had concluded a number of witnesses were heard. Mr. Taggart's statement consumed only about an hour and a quarter and consisted for the most part of a review of the circumstances connected with the tragedy. Mrs. Bonine apparently was unmoved by his representations. Once or twice during the address she leaned over and spoke to her attorneys. The witnesses of the day did not throw any new light upon the killing.

Good Advertisement For Brewery.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The unusual spectacle of 1,000 drunken men marching in a line or trying to march in a line was seen on one of the main thoroughfares of this city. The men got their "jags" at the Thomas Ryan Consumers' brewery, which threw open its doors to the public on Wednesday and allowed everybody to go in and take what beer they wanted. All day long there were throngs of people going in and coming out of the place.

Mr. Dickinson to Leave Sofia.

SAFIA, Nov. 22.—Mr. Dickinson, the diplomatic agent here of the United States, will leave today or tomorrow for Constantinople. There is obviously no prospect of a settlement with Miss Stone's abductors. The departure of Mr. Dickinson will probably have a good effect upon the brigands who have Miss Stone in their possession, as they may fear to lose everything by not accepting Mr. Dickinson's proposals.

The Chicago at Nice.

NICE, Nov. 22.—The United States cruiser Chicago, Rear Admiral Cromwell's flagship; the cruiser Albany and the gunboat Nashville have anchored off Villefranche. Admiral Cromwell obtained permission for the men to land unarmed for exercise.

TIENTSIEN STILL HELD.

Military Rule Continues In That City. The Court Near Peking.

PEKING, Nov. 22.—The military government established over the native city of Tientsin continues in effect, the military commanders refusing to yield the collection of taxes to the Chinese. They also decline to submit the question of their control of the native city to the ministers of the foreign powers here, holding that a continuance of the military government there is vital to the maintenance of communication between Peking and Taku.

The ministers apparently regard the question as within their jurisdiction, and some of them are of the opinion that it is impossible under the terms of the protocol for foreigners to continue to govern Tientsin.

The receipt by Hu Yu Fen, the civil governor of Peking, of orders to prepare for the use of the court the street leading from the south gate to the palace indicates the speedy arrival of the empress dowager and emperor, as this is one of the last preparations that need be made.

The acting viceroy affirmed the intention of the imperial court to conclude immediately a convention with Russia.

There was only a slight observance here of the empress dowager's birthday compared with former years.

Korea has secured the premises in Peking long occupied by the United States legation and will take possession thereof at the expiration of the American lease next spring.

Archbishops Meet.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The annual meeting of the archbishops of the Catholic church in the United States began at the Catholic university yesterday. Cardinal Gibbons presided, and the attendance included Archbishops Williams of Boston, Corrigan of New York, Elder of Cincinnati, Ryan of Philadelphia, Ireland of St. Paul, Kain of St. Louis, Katzer of Milwaukee, Keane of Dubuque and Christie of Oregon. The meeting considered a number of matters of interest to the welfare of the Catholic church and reviewed generally the affairs of the hierarchy. The only feature of the proceedings formally made public after the day's work had been concluded was that the meeting had adopted resolutions of lament at the assassination of President McKinley and containing an invocation of the benedictions of heaven on his successor's administration.

Lawyer Semple Denies All.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Lawyer John L. Semple of Camden, N. J., who is on trial in the United States district court in this city charged with aiding and abetting counterfeiters in the making of spurious twenty dollar notes while the latter were imprisoned, went on the witness stand yesterday and occupied most of the time of the two sessions of court. He made a general denial of the charges against him, saying that he had been engaged as counsel for Arthur Taylor and Baldwin S. Bredell, the convicted counterfeiters, in a regular manner. A large number of witnesses testified to Semple's good character. Among them were justices of the New Jersey court of errors and appeals and supreme court, judges of county courts and prominent attorneys of the New Jersey bar.

Twenty-nine Bodies Found.

TELLURIDE, Colo., Nov. 22.—The number of victims of the terrible disaster in the Smuggler-Union mine is now known to be at least twenty-nine, with a considerable portion of the mine yet unexplored. Besides the twenty-two bodies taken out and identified Wednesday night seven were located yesterday afternoon in the north end of the ninth level, but the gas is still too strong to permit the rescuers to reach them, and their identity is as yet unknown. Several members of the searching parties were overcome in their efforts to bring out the bodies. It probably will be several hours before they can be reached or any further explorations made.

Shot by an Unknown Man.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Bert Powell, a farmer residing ten miles from Gouverneur, was shot in the head by an unknown man last night. He will recover. Powell was called to the door, and as he stepped out the shot was fired from the darkness. No clew of his assailant has been obtained.

Oil Gusher In Colorado.

DENVER, Nov. 22.—Specials from Pagosa Springs, Colo., where a company has been drilling for oil for some time, announce that a gusher has been struck at 300 feet. It is not known yet what the extent of the flow is. The strike is 150 miles from the Florence oil district, which has been producing for years.

BROWN OUT, BROWN IN.

Governor Stone Ousts Pittsburg's Recorder and Names Successor.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—Governor Stone last night removed Recorder A. M. Brown of Pittsburg and appointed in his place ex-Director of Public Safety J. O. Brown. The second class charter bill passed by the last legislature and known as the "Pittsburg ripper bill" struck out the office of mayor and gave the governor power to appoint a recorder who would be the chief executive officer of the city.

The governor then appointed A. M. Brown to the office.

In a lengthy statement addressed to the people of Pittsburg the governor gives his reasons for making the present change. He says also that he appointed Recorder A. M. Brown, who was under no political obligations to any party or faction; that he has removed a large number of officeholders against the governor's protest and that in order to prevent further removals there is nothing for him to do but to remove the present recorder and appoint a man who will not remove capable and efficient men for political reasons.

The governor denies that he has secured promises that he shall succeed Senator Quay or that he has received the pledges of certain persons to support him for United States senator.

EXCLUSION FAVORED.

California to Urge Re-enactment of Laws Against Chinese.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—A state convention of 1,500 delegates from all parts of the state has assembled in this city to inaugurate a movement in favor of the re-enactment by congress of the present Chinese exclusion law, which will expire next May. Former Congressman T. J. Geary, the author of the present restriction act, is chairman of the convention.

The principal result of the convention will be the adoption of a memorial to congress urging the re-enactment of the present law without modification and the appointment of a delegation to do propaganda work in the east. There is some sentiment in favor of extending the restriction to Japanese. The Japanese residents of the state are taking much interest in the convention, and a feature of the first session was the distribution among the delegates by Japanese of a circular asking that action pertaining to the exclusion of Japanese be omitted. Telegrams have been received from the governors of Washington, Nevada and Oregon stating that the sentiment of their respective states favors a continuance of the exclusion of Chinese and expressing sympathy with the objects of the convention.

Sorry He Had Not Killed Others.

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 22.—Will Mathis, the murderer of the two Montgomerys, who gave himself up to the officers of the law at Dallas, twenty miles southeast of this place, was brought here by a posse. When first arrested, Mathis confessed to having shot the two Montgomerys and gave a detailed account of the atrocious deed which tallied with the confession made by the negro Orlando Lester, Mathis' partner in the crime. Upon reaching Oxford Mathis voluntarily made a statement before the coroner's jury which has been investigating the case since Sunday last. He denied having done the shooting and said that he held the lamp and a pistol while the negro Lester shot the marshals. Mathis said he regretted having burned the bodies, but also regretted not killing other parties who had attempted to arrest him.

Killed His Chum.

BUFFALO, Nov. 22.—John Garraher, a student at Niagara university, accidentally shot and killed his friend and fellow student, William O'Shea, shortly before noon yesterday. Both young men were taking a final course at the university previous to entering the priesthood. They went shooting yesterday morning, and by the accidental discharge of Garraher's rifle a bullet pierced O'Shea's heart, killing him instantly. Garraher was a nephew of Father Garraher of Ellicottville, Cattaraugus county.

A Profitable Land Deal.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—The Pittsburg Steel company has purchased from Jarvis Adams fifteen acres of land at Monessen for $248,000, which is $235,500 more than Mr. Adams paid for it six years ago. The site was the only available one with the necessary river frontage for the company's purpose. The steel company will at once commence the erection of a plant where at least 2,000 men will find employment.

More Room For Insane.

MORRIS PLAINS, N. J., Nov. 22.—The new wing of the State Hospital For the Insane was opened yesterday. It provides sleeping room for about a thousand persons and will be used as a dormitory alone. The cost to date is $325,000, and the building is ready for occupancy. Governor Voorhees, United States Senator Smith and a host of officials and public men were present at the opening.

Quakers to Have a Big Dog Show.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—The entries for the third international show to be held by the Philadelphia Dog Show association Nov. 27 to 30 are the largest ever made in this city and surpass all records in this country outside of Madison Square Garden, New York. The entry list is a representative one and includes champions and prize winners of every known breed.

WOOD VERY BUSY.

At Santiago Cuba's Governor General Predicted Ultimate Annexation.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Nov. 22.—Governor General Wood and his party left this city on the government yacht Kanawha for Guantanamo, where General Wood inspected the troops yesterday. The Kanawha was compelled to return to the harbor on account of the rough sea outside, but left a few hours later.

An enormous amount of work was accomplished by General Wood during his stay here. He inspected the details of every department and ordered many public improvements. He said he thought Cuba was destined to be annexed eventually to the United States on account of the economical conditions existing, as the sugar and tobacco industries of the island would be unable to prosper to so great an extent in competition with the industries of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines as would be the case should annexation be accomplished with the will of the Cuban people.

He pointed out also that the United States government had guaranteed a stable government for Cuba, a thing which it would be impossible to maintain without prosperity, and he declared that the United States would be morally bound to annex Cuba if solicited to do so by the insular republic.

General Wood will return to Havana, visiting all the ports on the north coast, and then go to Washington to endeavor to secure an amendment to the tariff schedules affecting sugar and tobacco, which he says he regards as absolutely necessary.

MEN STILL HOLD OUT.

Strike on the New York and New Haven Road Unsettled.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.—One hundred and twenty-five switchmen and freight brakemen had a meeting here last night to discuss the strike situation on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and after the meeting it was said that under no circumstances would the men go back to work until the railroad had acceded to their demands.

The strikers were met by Yardmaster Canfield, representing the railroad company, who urged the men to return to work. The men, however, said that such a proposition would not be considered until they had received "their rights" from the company.

After the meeting the strikers gathered in little groups, and there was a rumor that the engineers and firemen would leave their engines. This could not be confirmed, however, and the company's passenger trains are still running on schedule time.

In the freightyards there is a different story to tell. There is hardly a foot of available track, and thousands of cars are stalled, waiting for switching crews to move them.

Inquiry at the general offices of the railroad company in this city elicited the reply that there was no change in the situation in this city.

Noted Case Submitted.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 22.—The suit for $1,500,000 against President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern Railway company, alleged to be due for location of immense coalfields for the railway company, was called for a second trial yesterday. The first trial resulted in a disagreement. It was expected that another long trial would begin yesterday, but counsel, after a conference, agreed to submit the case to Judge Kelley on the testimony taken at the former trial and on briefs to be filed alternately.

Boston Bank Consolidation.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Interest in the movement for the consolidation of several Boston national banks to take effect about Jan. 1 is alive. It is no longer a secret that promoters are active in trying to secure options on stock, and it is stated that the combination plan involves ten banks. The names of the institutions are being carefully guarded. The belief is general that C. W. Morse of the American Ice company of New York is back of the proposed transaction.

To Test the New Dock.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The battleship Illinois has left Newport News for New Orleans, where the navy department has sent her to test the large floating dock at the New Orleans naval station. In the interests of safety the collier Sterling, which is now loading at Lambert's Point, will proceed to New Orleans and take her place in the dock, and then, if all goes well, the Illinois will be put in in order to finally test its strength.

Eleven Injured In Train Wreck.

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 22.—Eleven people were injured in a collision between an accommodation and freight train near Chunchula on the Mobile and Ohio road. Only one, a negro fireman named Collins, is believed to be fatally hurt. There were four cars of stock attached to the freight train, and most of it was killed.

Postmaster For Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The president has appointed Clayton McMichael to be postmaster at Philadelphia. Mr. McMichael was formerly one of the proprietors of the Philadelphia North American and at one time United States marshal for the District of Columbia.

Considine Acquitted.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 22.—The jury in the case of John Considine, accused of the murder of former Chief of Police Meredith, has returned a verdict of acquittal.

Cresceus Could Not Do It.

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 22.—Cresceus failed to lower his record yesterday on Pueblo's half mile track. Paced by his running mate, he made the mile in 2:10¾.

ALL QUIET IN COLON.

Transit Across the Isthmus Not Interrupted.

THE LIBERALS MAKE APPOINTMENTS

Opening of the City Treasury Safe Revealed $480 in Gold—Municipal Offices Will Be Reopened Today.

COLON, Colombia, Nov. 22.—There is no disturbance in this city. There has been no rude behavior on the part of the Liberals. Foreigners are being respected and protected, and transit across the isthmus is uninterrupted.

The postoffice, prefecture, all the other government offices and nearly all the commercial houses have been closed.

The feeling of the community cannot be regarded as antagonistic to Liberalism. The existing conditions have created no panic, but it is recognized that the fact that the Liberals hold Colon while the Conservatives are in possession of Panama creates a state of affairs which cannot possibly continue.

The following provisional appointments have been made by the Liberals: Senor Esprella to be prefect, Dr. Valverde to be mayor, Dr. France to be postmaster and Senor Silva to be captain of the port. Other minor appointments were also filled.

The treasury safe was opened yesterday afternoon in the presence of witnesses. It was found to contain 1080 Colombian dollars, equivalent to $450 in gold. The former postmaster also handed over to the Liberals the cash and the postage stamps in his possession. The municipal offices, in charge of Liberals, will probably be opened today.

It is said the gunboat Marietta, which sailed from Key West for Colon Nov. 18, has been signaled.

SITUATION ON THE ISTHMUS.

Reassuring Dispatches From Consul Gudger and Captain Perry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Save for the two reassuring dispatches from Consul General Gudger, at Panama, and Captain Perry of the battleship Iowa, lying off that port, neither the state nor navy department has received any advices concerning the situation on the isthmus.

Great interest is felt in official circles here as to the outcome of the Chorrera expedition, for it is realized that the result of the engagement at that point will be decisive in giving either the Conservative or the Liberal element control of the isthmus.

In a few days the gunboat Concord will have reached Panama to relieve the Iowa, and the Marietta, on the Atlantic side, will be at Colon to take the place of the Machias. However, if the present situation continues all four of these vessels will be held on the isthmus pending further developments.

A Clever Safe Robbery.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 22.—The town of Duncanville was thrown into darkness at 1 o'clock yesterday morning by the cutting of the electric feed wires. While the town watchman was searching for the cause of the trouble a dull explosion was heard at the postoffice building. He found that the safe had been wrapped in carpets and blown open with nitroglycerin. All the stamps, money and papers in the safe, amounting to several thousand dollars, were taken. The cracksmen escaped without being seen. A month ago a similar attempt was made on the safe, but the thieves were frightened away.

Burglar Gets Fifteen Years.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Fred Murkey, one of the three residents of Amsterdam indicted jointly and tried separately on indictments charging them with burglary in the first degree, assault in the second and grand larceny in the first degree, was convicted in the county court of the first crime charged. It was breaking into the farmhouse of John O'Bryan of the town of Galway and cruelly torturing O'Bryan and his aged wife on the night of Aug. 2, 1901. The prisoner was sentenced to fifteen years and six months in Dannemora prison.

Killed at a Crossing.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 22.—William Hasbrouck and Oscar Hasbrouck, brothers, aged twenty and eighteen respectively, and John Titus, aged nineteen, were instantly killed near Goshen by a westbound train. They were driving across the track at a grade crossing. The young men and the horse they were driving to a wagon were hurled far from the track. They had waited for the passing of a train on another track before crossing and were caught unawares by the westbound train.

Fatal Freight Wreck.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Nov. 22.—Near Goldman, about thirty miles north of Pine Bluff, a Cotton Belt fast freight suffered a disastrous wreck yesterday. Sixteen loaded cars were demolished. The engine jumped the track and turned over. Conductor Walter Noble of Jonesboro was killed, and a brakeman, fireman and engineer were seriously and probably fatally injured. Some time will pass before the wreck is cleared, and trains are delayed several hours.

New Building For Harvard.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Through the generosity of a Boston man and a Harvard graduate whose name is withheld from the public for the present Harvard is soon to have another building added to its collection. The new structure will be built on the land now occupied by Foxcroft House. The original amount intended to be given was $50,000, but the sum has been nearly doubled.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The nation will not soon forget the year which draws near to its close. Its sorrow for its fallen leader will linger long.

Yet it has cause to remember the goodness of Him in whose hands is the ordering of all events. In the time of shock and stress its life was in His keeping. He brought it safe deliverance. Its people have known peace and prosperity.

Plenty has abided in their homes. Reward beyond compare has crowned their labors. Grim want and lurking pestilence have been far from them. Their love of country has been renewed, and as they cross the threshold of the century just begun they have cause to hope that He will not suffer liberty, justice and charity to perish in the land.

It is meet for us who have been the object of His care and His goodness to make suitable acknowledgment thereof.

Therefore, I, Foster M. Voorhees, Governor of the State of New Jersey, do hereby recommend that on Thursday, the twenty-eighth day of the present November, the people of this State forego, so far as they can, their usual labors and at their homes and with their families and in places of religious worship, by deeds of devotion and kindness, express their thanks to Him who rules the destines of all for His goodness to our nation, our State and its people, and ask that His favor may not be withheld in time to come.

Foster M. Voorhees.

A False Report.

Plainfield is getting a great deal of unpleasant notoriety over the report which is going the rounds of the State to the effect that over a hundred "speak-easies" are open every Sunday. A local pastor even goes so far as to state from his pulpit that there are fully 160 such establishments in operation. Now such publicity would be bad enough even if the reported state of affairs existed, but it so happens that it is grossly exaggerated and the fair name of Plainfield suffers in consequence.

That there are "speak-easies" in Plainfield, no one denies. The police themselves admit the fact. They have broken up a number but the difficulty of securing evidence that will convict has prevented further action. As to there being anywhere near the number reported, there is no truth in the story. The police know of from six to a dozen places where the illegal sale is suspected. There may be half a dozen more. Any talk of a hundred "speak-easies" is rank exaggeration.

It is a habit with many residents of the city, particularly in the west end, to gather together on Sunday and buy a case or two of beer. Then the day is spent drinking and carousing more or less actively. These are not "speak-easies" according to the accepting meaning of the term. There is no attempt made at illegal selling, the beer is bought in advance, and no law which can be found on the statute books of the State can prevent such gatherings as long as the participants do not disturb the neighborhood in which they gather.

As for real "speak-easies," there is no doubt but that the "cider-joints" are the worst offenders. In some cases, it is only hard cider but in others, spirituous and fermented liquors are sold to those who are recognized patrons of the place. There are only a few of these.

The mischief has been done. The report has been circulated through the State and it is impossible to stop it now. It is well, however, to remember who are the men who have thus deliberately injured the fair reputation of this city without cause.

The gift of Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert to the Plainfield Public Library is a valuable one and one which will be of interest to every visitor at that institution. The public spiritedness which prompted the gift is particularly to be commended. The collection was the work of years. Mr. Gilbert prized it particularly for its association rather than than the mere monetary value, although that is by no means small. Mr. Gilbert has long been recognized as one of Plainfield's most valued citizens. And now the city is still more indebted to him for favors which have come at his hand.

The Philadelphia Record points out that the value of newspaper advertising is recognized by American manufacturers and by their foreign agents, who are seeking to enlarge their sales abroad. It is affirmed that the great increase in the demand for American cotton manufactures in various European markets has been largely due to liberal advertising in the leading European journals. The experienced American would not undertake to build up a trade without advertising.

Again the wisdom of the advice of Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh to the Board of Education is apparent. An attempt is being made to allow the portions of the Strokes School Revision act, which are not unconstitutional, to stand. This is asked for the reason that so many cities and towns, which have acted under the new law alone, would find their affairs in horrible confusion if the entire act was thrown out. Plainfield may rest content whatever happens.

Camden has managed to achieve such publicity as must be woefully distasteful to its citizens. First there was an epidemic of smallpox but that was completely lost from view in the notoriety which grew out of several cases of lockjaw that followed the vaccination. An investigation followed and it is now declared that the virus was not at fault, but that the wound was poisoned before it was allowed to heal.

In order to break the news gently to the Plainfield public, the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company has been putting a few stoves in its trolley cars and then delaying a while before building fires in them. Had all the stoves been installed at the same time and fires built at once, the stock would have been too great for the community to stand.

When the people of Plainfield begin to get their money's worth of water, the officials of the Plainfield Water Supply Company will begin to see the wisdom of installing meters. But don't forget to impress it on these officials that you want a meter as soon as possible.

While the lack of a theatre is still felt in the unsatisfied demand for a large hall, it has been proven that Plainfield may still enjoy some of the best entertainers to be seen in this country today.

A famous old land mark, a relic of the old days of the city, passes away when the fire well on West Second street is filled up.

"Miss Calanthe" has bid farewell to Plainfield and its Pythian knights. Her stay here has been a rather exciting one.

The Children's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter, Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For cou ghs, croup bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

In Justice Moffett's Court.

In Justice Moffett's court, yesterday, justice was rendered in favor of the plaintiffs in the cases of the Eastern Bottling Company against John V. Keiderling, on contract, and French against Coddington, landlord and tenant for possession of premises.

DUNELLEN'S GREAT FAIR.

AUSPICIOUSLY OPENED AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Began Last Evening and Will be Continued Tonight—These at the Different Departments.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, November 22.—The first night of the fair of the Presbyterian church was even more of a success than anyone had anticipated. From the time the doors were opened at 5 o'clock, the chapel, in which the affair was held, was thronged by a crowd intent on viewing and purchasing many of the pretty things displayed on the booths, which were handsomely decorated. Upon entering each person paid 10 cents, which entitled them to a plate of ice cream, served by Thomas Bodine and a corps of waitresses.

The different departments were presided over as follows:

Dry and fancy goods, Mrs. F. T. Dickerson, Miss Blanche Marlow, Miss Maude Wilcox and Mrs. A. A. Lake; grocery, A. N. Randolph, John Fenner, Frank Tozeau, William Dealaman and Herbert Wyckoff; homemade department, Mrs. Schneider, Mrs. Swackhamer, Mrs. Starker and Mrs. Fisher; kitchen department, Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Bogardus; furnishing department, Mrs. Barick, Miss Lizzie Dunham and Mrs. Campbell; junior department, Mrs. Bodine and Mr. Lake, assisted by a number of children.

The lemonade well, in charge of Miss Emma Craig and a number of other young women, was well patronized. The demand to be served was so great in the restaurant department, under charge of Messrs. Dickerson, DeGraff and Day, that the supply of food gave out before the evening was over. Wilson Fredericks was general cashier, assisted by Mrs. Hamilton and both were kept very busy.

The fair will be continued this afternoon and tonight and it is hoped that it will be as great a success as last night.

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL.]

Adjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Wednesday, Oct. 9, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed sixteen members present and one absent.

The minutes of the previous meeting, reading of bills being omitted, were on motion approved as read.

The director stated that the business before the meeting was the consideration of the reports of the special committees on the Orane street and Prince street bridges, in Elizabeth, laid over at the last meeting of the board, and which reports recommended that new bridges be built on said streets; he suggested that it would be advisable for the board to view said bridge in a body.

Freeholder King moved that the board take a recess subject to the call of the chair, which was so ordered.

Upon roll-call after recess it showed all members present except Freeholder Swain.—1

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The report of the committee on Orane street bridge, Elizabeth, as presented at the last meeting of the board, was then taken up and read in full by the clerk.

Freeholder Bruchlacher moved that the resolution contained in said report authorizing the construction of a new bridge not to exceed in cost $12,000 be adopted, which was duly seconded.

Freeholder King thought that the present bridge could be repaired, and be used for a number of years.

Freeholder McCandless said that he had carefully considered the matter, and was of the opinion that the interests of the city of Elizabeth demanded the construction of a new bridge.

Freeholder Farrell was of the opinion that it was too late to begin the construction of a new bridge this year; if allowed to go over until next year it would save the issue of bonds, as the expense could be provided for in that year's appropriation; he would also like to know who would pay for the expense of change of grade of street.

Mayor Ryan, of Elizabeth, being present stated that when the West Jersey street bridge was built the change of grade of said street was paid for by said city, and would doubtless be so in the present instance. He thought that new bridges should be built at both Crane street and Prince street.

In reply to a question by Freeholder Robinson, J. L. Bauer, C. E., said he thought the bridge too old to be safe.

F. J. Hubbard was of the opinion that the bridge could be repaired, and be as safe probably as before its present damaged condition.

Freeholders Miller and Cady were of the opinion that the present bridge should be replaced with a new structure.

Freeholder Brucklacher said that the bridge had been carefully examined by the committee, and had been unanimously pronounced unsafe, and said committee had recommended the construction of a new bridge.

The question of payment, etc., was provided for in that the present prosperous condition of the county would admit of an issue of bonds that could be readily sold at a low rate of interest.

The resolution was then adopted on roll call by the following vote, viz:

Ayes—Freeholders Bonnell, Brucklacher, Cady, Gerstung, McCandless, Miller, Robison, Scudder, Wahl and Woodruff—10.

Nays—Director Hubbard and Freeholders Adams, Farrell, Krouse, King and Westphal—6.

Absent—Freeholder Swain—1.

The report of the committee on the Prince street bridge, Elizabeth, was then taken up and read in full by the clerk.

Freeholder Gerstung moved that the recommendation contained in said report, authorizing the construction of a new bridge, etc., at a cost not to exceed $13 500, be adopted.

Freeholder Brucklacher briefly addressed the Board, stating that the said conditions practically prevailed with the Prince street bridge as existed with the Crane street bridge, after which Freeholder Gerstung's motion was adopted by the following vote, viz:

Ayes—Freeholders Bonnell, Brucklacher, Cady. Gerstung, McCandless, Miller, Robison, Scudder, Wahl and Woodruff—10.

Nays—Director Hubbard and Freeholders Adams, Farrell, Krouse, King and Westphal—6.

Absent—Freeholder Swain—1.

Freeholder King moved to adjourn, which was carried.

The Director declared the Board adjourned until Thursday, November 7, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

S. Busling Byno, Clerk.

TO CHANGE A QUARTER.

It Requires Seventy Cents and Thirty-Two Coins to Accommodate a Person All Ways.

"How much does it take to change a quarter?" asked the bartender. "Twenty-five cents, eh? Not on your life. It takes 70 cents to do the trick. How many ways do you suppose a quarter dollar can be changed? Just exactly 11. A fellow of limited means may like the jingle of coin in his clothes. In that event you can give him 25 pennies, or 20 pennies and one nickel, supposing he wants to get a beer. He may like to have a little sprinkling of silver in his clothes, and you can accommodate him with 15 pennies and a dime, or ten pennies, a dime and a nickel. If he prefers to have change handy for a beer and a car fare, why, 15 pennies and two nickels will fix him up; and if he wants a cigar in addition, besides having a little stock of cash in his jeans, give him ten pennies and three nickels. That makes six ways. Now, then, a fellow with a quarter can trade it off for five pennies and two dimes, five pennies and four nickels, two dimes and one nickel, one dime and three nickels, or five nickels, just as he prefers. And to accommodate him in any way he might select, you have to possess 25 pennies, two dimes and five nickels —70 cents in all."

The New Woman

By Eliza Archard Conner

The old, old story, the woman did it. I have just been reading how a young idiot of a bank messenger fell into the habit of borrowing the bank's money to bet on the races and at first paying it back, next not paying it back and finally getting caught and being haled to prison and then throwing up his hands and bursting into tears and exclaiming between blubbering boohoos, "It's a woman's fault—all her fault!" When this chicken hearted youth was arrested, his father, his brothers, his Sunday school superintendent, his grandfather, his mother, his cousins and his uncles declared instantly and loud voiced: "It's all that woman's fault. Before he knew her Pinkie was an exemplary young man at home and reading good books every evening, faithful in attendance at church, and he never said a bad word. Poor, poor Pinkie! That vile woman has ruined his life." This sort of thing continually spread before the public makes a reasoning woman at times have a contempt for the whole masculine sex. They, forsooth, are the strong; woman is the weak. She is too weak to take part in politics. She cannot be permitted to vote because she has not sense and strength and firmness enough. She cannot take care of her own money because she has not brains enough. Oh, no! Man, the masculine creature, is the strong, the brave, the brainy. Oh, yes! Yet when this godlike creature goes wrong he squalls out like a whining puppy: "I was all right till that woman got hold of me, and then I could not help myself. She got me drunk, she made me steal, she—she—she"— This is sickening. Men, if you are men and not fools and whiffets, weaker than the weakest, take the blame of your sins on yourselves. If you are stronger minded than women, prove it.

The most notable sign recently of the world's progress is the refusal of the general convention of the Episcopal church in America to indorse the proposed rule forbidding clergymen of that denomination to perform the marriage ceremony for a person who has been divorced. The Episcopal church is to be congratulated on this enlightened decision, for which it must thank its lower house, composed of laymen and ordinary clergymen. That lower house again is particularly to be congratulated on its independence in refusing to be bossed by the bishops. The cruel old laws that refuse to allow divorce are based on a monstrous misinterpretation of Scripture. When people are married by priest or justice, it is men, "mere men," who join them together. Those whom God joins together never wish to be put asunder. Those whom mere men have joined together have a right to be apart if they cannot hit it off in company; also to find afterward somebody else with whom they can hit it off if they so desire.

Did you ever know that the correct rendering of verse 11, psalm 68, is as follows: "The Lord giveth the word, the women that publish the tidings are a great host." The new version of the Scripture prints it thus, and if anybody wants any higher authority than this for women preaching the gospel where will he find it?

Very much I admire Bossie Mulhall, sixteen years old, who owns and manages a large ranch in Oklahoma. Bossie is a refined, well educated girl, yet she can ride a broncho or lasso a steer equal to the best. She is strong, healthy and handsome, and President Roosevelt showed his good taste in inviting her to visit the White House.

One splendid woman suffragist is placed where she ought to be anyhow. Mrs. Fawcett, the English woman, a physician and LL. D. of St. Andrews university, is at the head of a commission of six women appointed by the British government to visit the Boer concentrado camps in South Africa and report on their real condition. The government knew women could be trusted to do this faithfully, as they had neither political nor military aims of their own to subserve.

Mrs. Roosevelt said a very wise and fearless thing when she made the statement that she could dress well on $300 a year. Of course in her official position as the president's wife she will require more than that, but there are thousands of American women in private life whom her remark will set to thinking if anything could. American women overdress horribly, many of them far beyond their means, and spend thrice as much time over their clothes as any being with an immortal soul ought to. Mrs. Roosevelt has had particularly the reputation of dressing in perfect taste. If she could do it on $300 a year, moving as she always did in the most select social circle of the country, does it not show the entirely false and foolish standard hosts of our republican women have set for themselves in the matter of fripperies and furbelows, for they are fripperies and furbelows and foolishness as well.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 24, "Thanksgiving"—Text, Isa. xxv, 1-8.

The spirit of gratitude is a characteristic of the noblest human nature. No trait in men is so base as ingratitude. To receive benefits and not to appreciate and acknowledge the obligation under which they place us to the giver shows a heart where selfishness crowds out all the higher and bettter qualities.

Not to recognize God as the giver of the best we have in this life speaks loudly of thoughtlessness, if not of something baser, in us. Much of purest devotion and sweetest spiritual communion and comfort comes in the times of quiet retirement, when we shut out all the world, and just think of the home, friends, opportunities, enjoyments, hopes, prospects, promises and successes which have been given us and turn in humble gladness and gratitude to God as the one who has guided and given all to us.

But it would be a serious mistake to thank God only for the pleasurable. The sorrows, privations, disappointments and sufferings we have experienced have in many instances been of greatest benefit to us. Sweetness of disposition comes to many persons not by natural inheritance, inborn, but only after years of bitter reverses and heartache, when from experience of pain and seeking for strength and relief of soul the Saviour has been found as comforter and gentleness of word and deed, blossoms and fruits from the inner soul culture which has learned to say in all sincerity, "Thy will be done."

How much we have to be thankful for! Do you ever stop to reckon up your mercies? Are you ever glad with a godly gladness that you are who you are, and where you are, and as you are? What a blessed individuality is possible to each of us! No one else sees and hears, feels, thinks and speaks just as we can. God comes to you in a manner somewhat different from what He ever appeared to any one else in all the world. Do you catch the full meaning of this and its possible effect on your being? You are to sing a song no one else can sing, round out to perfection an individual existence unique among the numberless multitude.

How much companionship may mean to us also! In our personality we are singular, but not isolated; unlike others, but not alone. Fellowship means, or, at least, may mean, so much to us. Congeniality of spirit and helpfulness in occupation yield such richness of enjoyment and suggestiveness in our tasks. Not what we get from others, but what we have the chance to give to them, brings most satisfaction.

What a glorious world this is for one who wishes to develop all the better elements of human nature! Nothing lacking which we could desire for most thorough training and discipline!

Then to think of all the past progress of nation, church and race, how wonderfully has God led us! All realms are open to us—science, philosophy, art, history, religion, society, industry and literature. All the past, present and future, life and death, are ours.

"O Lord, Thou art my God! I will exalt Thee!"

Self Cultivation.

It happens to many a man and woman that in the absorbing demands of business or professional life, of home duties or the claims of society, there is a gradual failure of moral purpose or religious conviction, and, while the life grows in one direction, it as surely degenerates in another. We can cultivate any part of our natures we will, just as the gardener or horticulturist, by selecting certain qualities, gradually develops a new kind of potato or corn, a new variety of strawberry or apple. We can make ourselves new kinds of men and women by giving attention to business or pleasure, books or music, athletics or religion. Spiritual things are not of interest to us where we do not cultivate them, just as business becomes dull if we do not give attention to it and try to make it interesting. As no man can be strong unless he takes much exercise, so no man can be devout who does not wrestle with God in prayer, early and late.

Every kind of cultivation leads to growth in manhood, and we are the kind of men we make ourselves by our toil and our play, our hopes and our fears, our fidelity of mind and our loyalty of heart. When the mind is open and alert, the heart gentle and loving, the conscience firm and unfailing, the will strong and steadfast, we are sure to grow into larger manhood and womanhood, and there is nothing else for the sake of which life is worth living. Truly, it is a good and acceptable saying that "the only object in life is to grow."—Christian Register.

Truth.

Though all the winds of doctrine were let loose to play upon the earth, so truth be in the field we do ingloriously, by licensing and prohibiting, to misdoubt her strength. Let her and falsehood grapple. Who ever knew truth put to the worse in a free and open encounter?—John Milton.

All to God.

Leave all to God,
Forsaken one, and stay thy tears,
For the Highest knows thy pain,
Sees thy sufferings and thy fears.
Thou shalt not wait His help in vain;
Leave all to God.

Be still and trust,
For His strokes are strokes of love
Thou must for thy profit bear;
He thy filial fear would move;
Trust thy Father's loving care.
Be still and trust!

Oh, teach Him not
When and how to hear thy prayers!
Never doth our God forget.
He the cross who longest bears
Finds his sorrows' bounds are set.
Then teach Him not.
—Anton Ulrich of Brunswick, 1633.

CHOICE "SMOKES" RECOVERED

How the Duke of Cornwall's Cigars Fared in the Wreck Beneath the Waves.

Private advices to a London tobacco dealer give the information that some 7,000 of the costly cigars shipped for the use of the duke of Cornwall and his suite while in Canada have been recovered from the hull of the wrecked liner Lusitania, on the east coast of Newfoundland. In all 10,000 of the highest class cigars, intended for royal use, were on the Lusitania, packed in hermetically sealed cases. They were consigned to the citadel at Quebec to await the arrival of the Ophir. Each cigar was valued at three shillings.

So choice were the costly "smokes" that, in case the crew might break open the cases, they were packed in the extreme stern of the ship and bolted behind heavy planking. When it became known to the islanders that the duke's cigars were part of the Lusitania's cargo, a patrol was established to search for boxes on the beach.

All the smokers on the island reveled in dreams of three-shilling cigars without stint. Speculators wanted them also. But their dreams came to nothing. Divers, after ten weeks' work, have now got at the cigars, and, according to the cable, have saved 7,000 in good condition. The other 3,000 were washed out of the wreck. Meanwhile, however, the duke's cigar order has been duplicated in London.

HE WAS FROM MEMPHIS.

And He Had a Habit of Putting His Hands in His Hip Pockets When Conversing.

A Memphis lawyer has a peculiar habit of putting both his hands in his hip pockets when engaged in conversation, and on every occasion when he is stopped on the streets his hands invariably seek the pockets. Several days ago he took a trip to Cincinnati, and now he is in doubt whether his pocket habit or the fame of Memphis in a peculiar way saved him from trouble.

Soon after he arrived in the pork town, and while walking on a street near the railway station, he was accosted by a stranger. The latter said:

"You don't live here, do you?"

"No, sir," responded the Memphian.

"Well, I'm a drummer and I—you're a merchant, ain't you?"

"No, sir," and his hands sought his hip pockets as he wondered what the drummer wanted.

"You see, I'm from Memphis, and—"

But the other had fled. The motion toward his hip pocket, with the magic word "Memphis," was too much for his feeble nerves. Thus does a city gain a reputation.

NOISY SUNBEAMS.

They May Be Heard by Anyone by a Very Simple Home Experiment.

Fill a glass vessel with lamp black, colored silk or worsted. Focus the rays of the sun in a lens—that is hold a magnifying glass so that the rays pass through it before they fall on the glass vessel. Then revolve in the light between the lens and the vessel, a disk with an opening or slit in it, so that the light is alternately falling on the vessel and being shut out. Now listen, and you will hear a noise when the light passes through the slit, but there will be silence when it is shut out. You must place your ear close to the glass holding the silk or other substance.

Another experiment is to use a prism instead of an ordinary lens. This makes a rainbow, and as the rays pass through the slit it is possible to tell that some parts of the solar spectrum—as it is called—produce a sound as they fall on the glass vessel while other parts have no effect.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 24—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Thanksgiving.—Isa. xxv, 1-8.

Thanksgiving should have a very prominent place in our Christian lives. We are enjoined by the word of God to engage in many religious duties, such as prayer, study, meditation, but to none of these duties is that of thanksgiving placed second. God's word throughout calls upon us to praise the Lord, to exalt His name at all times and "in everything to give thanks." The religious history of the world illustrates to us very clearly the naturalness and appropriateness of thanksgiving to God. Nature as well as Scripture enforces the duty of thanksgiving. The first forms of worship among all nations were altars and sacrifices, the purpose of which was to express thanksgiving to God for some recognized blessing. "It is as the giver of benefits that man seems first to have recognized God. One of the earliest forms of religion was sun worship, and the reason for selecting the sun as the object of religious regard was the manifest fact that from the sun man derives so many and such great blessings. The very name 'God' is probably a modification of the root 'gut,' or 'good,' and was given to the Supreme Being by our Anglo-Saxon forefathers in recognition of His goodness in bestowing upon us so many blessings. The first religious utterances seem to have the shape of hymns rather than prayers, and hymns or psalms form the most antique portions of our rituals." This natural tendency to thank God pervades us, as it did those who have gone before us, and we should follow in the footsteps of the ancients and foster and cultivate.

Thanksgiving should be rendered unto God for what He is. He is God and as God is worthy of our highest adoration and praise. "O Lord, thou art my God! I will exalt thee. I will praise Thy name." Our God is the only living and true God, the infinite and sovereign God, sublime in majesty, perfect in holiness and in all His attributes. "Who is like unto Thee, O Lord, among the gods? Who is like Thee, glorious in holiness, fearful in praises, doing wonders?" For what He is the angels around God's throne are constantly praising Him.

Cherubim and seraphim falling down before Thee,
Which wert and art and ever more shalt be.

Well may we join in the anthem and praise God for what He is!

Thanksgiving should be rendered unto God for what He does. "I will praise Thy name, for Thou hast done wonderful things." Among the wonderful things Isaiah goes on to mention the execution of God's judgments, their effect upon the heathen and the salvation which God has vouchsafed unto His people. To enumerate all that God has done and is doing, for which we should thank Him, would be impossible. "Every good and perfect gift cometh from above." For temporal, spiritual, individual, family and national blessings we should cease not to thank Almighty God. "Great and marvelous are Thy works, Lord God Almighty. Just and true are Thy ways, Thou King of Saints, Who shall not fear Thee, O God, and glorify Thy name? For Thou only are holy; for all nations shall come and worship Thee; for Thy judgments are manifest." Such is the song of Moses and the Lamb, and we need not wait until we reach the heavenly shore to join in it. "Praise ye the Lord."

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Arrange a special Thanksgiving programme.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxxiv, 1-8; xlviii, 1; lxvi, 1, 2; lxxxi, 1-3; xciv, 1-5; cxlvii, 1-20; II Cor. ix, 10-12; Phil. iv, 4-6; Col. ii, 6, 7; Rev. vii, 11, 12.

In the Way of Salvation.

The hard part in the way of salvation, if there be a hard part at all, is constancy. It is endurance in little things and endurance to the end; it is remaining faithful unto death rather than doing some great thing or conquering in some fierce and agonizing battle. The Christian builds up his character, or the tower of its strength, little by little, stone by stone, in the rising wall or he fights his battle with one evil at a time, the rest being restrained by that beneficent power which fights with him and freely lends its almighty aid. "Ye shall not be tempted greater than ye can bear." To him who fights in earnest the issue of the battle is not doubtful.—Helper.

Forget.

Put a seal upon your lips and forget what you have done. After you have been kind, after love has stolen forth into the world and done its beautiful work, go back into the shade again and say nothing about it. Love hides even from itself.—Professor Drummond.

Unlocks the Treasures

Faith is the hand that lays hold on Christ, the eye that looks to Christ, the ear that hears the voice of Christ, the mouth that feeds on Christ, the finger that touches Christ and the key that unlocks the treasures of Christ.—Rev. F. Harper.

A Disciple's Prayer.

At sunrise pray: "Now, Lord, Thy day begins;
Receive my thanks; grant strength; wash out my sins.
My feet must stumble if I walk alone;
Lonely my heart till beating by Thine own.
My will is weakness till it rest in Thine;
Cut off, I wither, thirsting for the Vine.
My deeds are dry leaves on a sapless tree;
My life is lifeless till it live in Thee!"

At sunset this: "Now, Lord, Thy daylight fades;
Guide Thou my craft amidst the gathering shades.
I thank Thee that Thou steerest my frail bark,
O faithful Pilot, o'er these waters dark!
The waves have bared their threatening fangs of white;
But 'Peace, be still!' Thou speakest. Now comes night.
I drop mine anchor in the silent sea;
Through the long watches I am safe with Thee!"

SPORTING.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The 1900 Whittier school football eleven which won the championship, last season for teams averaging 115 pounds, has accepted a challenge to play the Westfield team, tomorrow afternoon, on the latter's grounds. The Westfield team claims the championship for this year.

The Plainfield Association Football team will have as opponents, tomorrow afternoon, the strong Kearney team. The game will be played on the Clinton avenue grounds beginning at 3:30. On Thanksgiving afternoon, the local eleven will play the Thistle Club, of New York, on the local grounds.

GOLF.

Play for the Mellick and Golf Committee cups on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course is supposed to end tomorrow. It is not believed that there will be any play for the Mellick cup. Miss vanHerwerden is easily the winner, and unless some of the women play for the amusement of it, there is likely to be no further play this season. There will be play for the Golf Committee cup no doubt. The active season of the club will undoubtedly close after the Thanksgiving Day events.

Death Of Mrs. Maher.

Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

HACKMEN IN COURT.

Two Pleaded Guilty to Violating Hack Ordinance—Kelley's Trial Tomorrow.

John Gill, John Kelley and William Callahan, depot hackmen, were arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged by Patrolman McCarthy with violating the hack ordinance. Gill and Callahan pleaded guilty and Kelley denied the charge.

In the case of the former two, the usual sentence of a suspended $5 fine was imposed while Kelley was given until tomorrow to secure the evidence of the party he is said to have solicited.

MISSIONARY SALAD.

Pleasant Affair by Women of Monroe Avenue Church.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Monroe Avenue church had a "missionary" salad and tea served yesterday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. I. P. LaRue, Liberty street. Clippings containing missionary information were served with each dish of salad and afterward read aloud by different members, thus contributing interest and instruction to the occasion. The proceeds from the affair will be devoted to missionary purposes.

A Physician Testifies,

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." It the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

LEAGUE OFFICERS.

Election Held at Meeting of Epworth League of Monroe Avenue Church.

The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue church, elected officers for 1902, last evening, as follows: President, Edwin H. Beekman; vice-presidents, Miss Georgie Beekman, Miss Bertha Wenzel, Walter M. McGee, Miss Susie Pound; secretary, Mrs. S. T. Saums; treasurer, George T. Whitley. Miss Charlotte Aldrich was made superintendent of the Junior Epworth League.

The election was followed by a social hour, arrangements for which were made by Miss Mary Beekman and the social committee. There was a peanut hunt which furnished much amusement. Among the refreshments served were sandwiches with peanut butter.

Peculiar Accident.

A peculiar accident occurred to one of the large plate glass windows in the front of VanSyckle's butcher shop on North avenue, yesterday morning. Almost in the centre of the glass a small piece, not over an inch in diameter and oval in shape, fell out. There is no explanation as to the cause, but it is supposed that a shot from a flobert rifle is responsible for the damage.

Evening at Whist,s

A card party was given by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Homan, at their residence on Hillside avenue, last evening. After enjoying the game of whist refreshments were served.

NEIGHBORLY QUARREL.

All Sorts of Troubles in Trial of Case at City Court This Morning.

A neighborly quarrel case in which Sophie Kmosko accused Annie Darling of not being a "lady" was tried in the city court, this morning, under circumstances which ordinarily would have driven judge and jury to distraction.

Three infants, at just the age when they can make themselves known, belonging to principals and witnesses, exercised their lungs, crawled about the floor, climbed up and fell off benches and kept Doorman McCue at his wit's end trying to restore order. In addition to this, the principals understood only Polak and to make matters worse, counsel for one objected to the interpreter for the other.

The matter was finally settled by having two interpreters sworn. City Judge Runyon adjusted the case by placing a fine over Mrs. Darling's head to be imposed when she misbehaves again.

Verdict for the Bank.

The landlord and tenant case of the First National Bank against McClure, for possession of premises, was tried before Justice Hand yesterday afternoon. Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiffs.

FREIGHT CAR SHORTAGE CAUSES FLOUR FAMINE.

Local Bakers Find Their Supply Very Short and No More of It In Sight.

CAN'T GET THE CARS EAST.

AN AMPLE SUPPLY OF THE STAPLE IS SOMEWHERE ON THE WAY.

First That Plainfield Has Felt of the Trouble Which Has Affected Many Railroads—Pennsylvania Has Big Orders Placed for Cars.

The shortage of freight cars on railroads throughout Pennsylvan d the middle west, which has caused a serious stagnation of business in those sections, is beginning to affect Plainfield in several ways. Many local business men, who deal with western manufacturers, have asked in vain for shipments of goods ordered some time ago, only to be told that it is utterly impossible to get goods east.

Probably the merchants in this city, who feel the effects of the shortage the most, are the bakers who buy their supplies of flour from Minnesota mills. Owing to the limited amount of store room available, this necessary commodity in the making of bread is generally bought in car load lots. Consequently a new supply is ordered several weeks before the previous shipment becomes exhausted. This is the state of affairs which existed before the car shortage became known, and now the bakers are gradually using up the supply on hand without any idea as to when more is to be obtained.

One baker, who ordered a consignment in September, received word yesterday that his car had been shipped seven weeks ago, but owing to the tremendous amount of business being done by the railroads was probably tied up somewhere on the road. On the prospect of its reaching Plainfield some time this month, he has been borrowing from his business rivals and now finds it impossible to return a barrel. A similar state of affairs exists with the wholesale flour jobbers in this vicinity.

In parts of Pennsylvania and Ohio, large manufacturing plants have been forced to shut down, it being impossible to get raw material, as well as coal and coke. To guard against a similar shortage occurring in the future, the Pennsylvania Railroad, which has been one of the worst sufferers, recently placed an order for 15,000 cars. Other railroads have also placed large orders.

STAG SOCIAL MARKED MEETING OF YOUNG MEN'S BROTHERHOOD.

Rev. Dr. Snodgrass And Samuel Bingaman Told of Experiences In Foreign Countries.

The Young Men's Brotherhood of the First M. E. church met last evening in regular monthly session. It was decided that the chorus should meet Sunday mornings and on alternate Sundays a devotional meeting will be held.

S. H. Tugwell, who is in Cleveland; J. W. Sprague, of Brooklyn, and Rhey T. Snodgrass, who is in Boston, were elected honorary members. They will be away from Plainfield for several months to come, but it is the desire of the Brotherhood that they be identified with the association.

After the transaction of business the meeting took a social turn and the members enjoyed refreshments consisting of Welsh rarebit, roasted chestnuts and toasted marshmellows.

Following the refreshments, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass gave an interesting talk concerning his trip abroad last summer. Samuel Bingaman was then called upon for a talk, and he related some interesting things concerning his experience in Mexico, where he lived for over year. James Stafford was chairman of the committee on refreshments and he operated the chafing dish.

WAR OVER LUNCH WAGON.

ATTEMPT TO CLOSE UP ON SUNDAYS WAGON AT SOMERVILLE.

Superintendent of Police Hardgrove and Proprietor of Wagon in a Thrilling Controversy

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 23.—This town is in the midst of a sort of lunch-wagon war, which is causing no end of excitment.

For over two years now Somerville has boasted of such a wagon, although its proprietor has had a pretty hard road to travel, on occasions, because of meddling. The people are taking sides. Arrayed on the one Superintendent of Police John Hardgrove and his friends, while on the other are the patrons of the wagon.

Hardgroves says the wagon shall not be allowed to do business Saturdays after midnight and Sundays. He claims it is a nuisance and that he will shut it up. Wm. Montgomery, who runs the wagon, has consulted his lawyer, Hon. A. A. Clark, and will do business regardless of the orders of the superintendent. The affair will reach a climax tonight, after which it is probable the matter will come before the Board of Town Commissioners. A bitter fight is looked for.

Montgomery says it is only spite work on the part of Superintendent Hardgrove. "Last Saturday night when my wagon was full of customers waiting to be served, Stewart Hardgrove, a brother of the Superintendent, with a chum, came to the window. I could not serve them until their turn and they called me vile names, saying they would have me put out of the business. I then refused to sell them anything, and the present trouble is the result."

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

A BLOODLESS VICTORY FOR THE WHITE ROSES.

House of York Won the Modern War of Roses at Trinity Reformed Church

'TWAS CONCLUDING NIGHT.

SECOND NIGHT OF THE SUPPER WAS AS SUCCESSFUL AS FIRST.

Efforts of Young Women's Mission Band Have Added Snug Sum to Their Treasury—Programme Given During the Evening—477 Suppers Served.

Although a struggle lasting six long years was necessary to defeat the pretentions of the Lancastrians to the throne of England, it took but two evenings for the modern warriors, fighting under the banner of the white rose, to gain a decisive victory. Victory perched on the battle flag of the house of York, last evening, at Trinity Reformed church where the up-to-date bloodless "War of Roses" was being fought to a finish.

After making a noble effort to prevent the fair defenders of the claims of the house York from wresting the power from them, the Lancastrians declared their allegiance and to-day the contending factions in the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinty Reformed church, are not only united but are jubilant over the result of the interesting strife. A snug sum has been added to the treasury of the society.

The armistice brought about by the lack of rations on the previous night was declared off last evening when the commissary departments of the two camps were found to be well supplied. The battle waged fiercely until a late hour, when the announcement was made that the Lancastrians had been routed.

As previously stated the idea was to serve as many suppers as possible and on both occasions the house of York triumphed. Last evening the white rose followers served 125 separate suppers, while the red rose defenders supplied but 33. This brought the total up to 287 for the York combatants and 190 for the Lancaster band. The battle ground was again crowed with people interested in the struggle and they gave most hearty support to their favorites as the case might be. Some disinterested war correspondents were also there to witness the good natured fight.

The supper was as good as on the previous evening and justly deserved the patronage it received. There was a marked similarity in the entertainment provided. The volunteer chorus of fifteen voices, accompanied by a willing orchestra and accompanist, furnished a programme of attractive music. National airs, of many nations, were among the features. Miss May Randolph and Miss Miller played a pleasing duet and Kenneth Stuart rendered a creditable violin solo. The popular Ben LaVere contributed a cornet solo to the musical feast. When the evening was far spent, City Judge Bunyon made his appearance and kindly consented to add to the entertainment.

TROLLEY OFFICIALS PROMISE A CHANGE VERY SOON.

Conference Between R. I. Tolles And Col. E. W. Hine, Of The Trolley Company, Yesterday.

Hine, one of the officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company, in this city, yesterday. The church committee is composed of: President, Rev. O. G. Norseen, the pastor; vice-president, Hans Jorgensen; secretary, Henry Brandt; vice-secretary, Miss Elsa Norling; treasurer, William Johnson. The congregation wishes to have a house of worship of its own, and it takes this plan of obtaining one.

In Press Opinions.

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle says of the Metropolitan Quartette: "They are perfect. No better quartette has charmed audiences for years, and they were up to concert pitch. This quartette appears in the next Y. M. C. A. Star course entertainment, Thanksgiving night.

LEAKING GAS MAIN OVERCAME TWO MEN.

Dragged Out of Trench on East Front Street, Just in Time to Save Their Lives.

FRANK CARVER WAS FIRST.

HE WENT INTO TRENCH TO REPAIR THE LEAK IN THE PIPE.

He Fell Unconscious And Was Dragged Out—Then Foreman James Harding Met With a Similar Fate—Leak Was In a Four Inch Main.

Two employes of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, while repairing a leak in the mains on East Front street, yesterday afternoon, were overcome by gas and narrowly escaped asphyxiation. The men were James Harding, of West Second street, foreman of the repair gang, and Frank Carver, of West Fourth street.

A very perceptible odor of gas was noticed by residents in the vicinity of East Front street and Watchung avenue, yesterday, and the company was notified. Harding and Carver were sent to investigate, and discovered a leak in a four-inch main, directly opposite the home of J. F. Macdonald. A trench about four feet in depth was dug, into which Carver lowered himself. He had hardly got in before he reeled and fell unconscious. Harding and several bystanders sprang to his rescue, and after getting him out, applied lemons and other restoratives to his mouth.

The gas still continued to issue from the main in stifling volumes. Leaving others to attend his fellow workman, Harding sought to check the flow. He had worked but a few moments when he, too, fell unconscious. Another hurried removal followed, several non-employes assuming the risk to get him out, and restoratives were applied in the second case. Although the last to be overcome and remaining in the excavation the longest, Harding recovered first. Carver was unconscious for a long period, and was still very weak last night.

The leaking main was eventually repaired by shutting off the flow at another point.

As seen by donations given to local charities, they have been much benefitted by the work of the guild, and appreciated by those in charge.

Many thanks are extended to associates who have helped us in this good work, by giving to the poor new, strong, suitable garments.

We hope for more directors, and so an increase in the number of garments for 1902.

THEATRICAL.

The sensational success of the theatrical season in New York is Klaw & Erlanger's mammoth production of the Drury Lane extravaganza, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" now being presented at the Broadway Theatre. Without making a single exception, it is the greatest indoor entertainment ever seen in this country and by far the most gorgeous and magnificent ever presented on the American stage. Those who witness it go with anticipation worked up to the highest pitch and yet are not disappointed. On the contrary, great as the production is, it is full of novel surprises and from beginning to end presents unexpected features of a most novel and entertaining character.

The story is exceedingly interesting and is told by a large company of artists of great prominence. Such an aggregation of talent is rarely seen, even on Broadway. It is headed by such famous entertainers as Harry Bulger, Joseph Cawthorne, Charles J. Ross, John Page, John Hyams, Viola Gillette, Ella Snyder and May and Florence Hengler. The comedy interest is carried by Mr. Bulger as the King, Mr. Ross as the Queen, Mr. Cawthorne as the Nurse and Mr. Hyams as the Doctor. The serious vein is sustained by Ella Snyder as the Princess Beauty, Viola Gillette as Prince Charming, Phoebe Coyne as the Witch and Nellie Thorne as the Fairy Queen. The action of the story is interpolated with the brightest and most attractive specialties that have been seen on the Rialto in years.

The spectacular features, especially the ballet of "The Four Seasons" and the great Palace of Crystal, incite the wildest enthusiasm. The artistic magnificence of these scenes surpasses description. The curtain rises promptly at 8 o'clock in the evening and at 2 o'clock Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

Modern Surgery Surpassed.

"While suffering from a bad case of piles I consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, "says G. F. Carter, Atlanta, Ga. "I procured a box and was entirely cured. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unecessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, burns, bruises and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Winter Tours.

Winter Tours is a neat little octavo of some 70 pages, issued by the passenger department of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and, as its name indicates, is devoted to descriptions of winter resorts in warmer climes. The paper, press work and make-up are good; there is a well arranged index, and much care has evidently been given to the compilation of the text. Copies may be had by addressing Chas. S. Lee, General Passenger Agent, 26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

Reliable and Gentle.

"A pill's a pill", says the saw. But there are pills and pills. You want a pill which is certain, thorough and gentle. Mustn't gripe. DeWitt's Little Early Risers fill the bill. Purely vegetable. WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The coroners and justices of the peaces in some of the counties will take advantage of the recent decision of the Supreme Court which holds that the sheriff is a constitutional officer, whose powers cannot be interfered with by the Legislature. In Somerset as well as other counties the county physician has been legislated to assume the prerogatives of the coroners. In Passaic county the coroners propose to serve notice on the county physician that they will allow this interference no longer. The justices of the peace will also demand that they be allowed the jurisdiction of which they have gradually been robbed by legislation. We believe the county physician or coroners ought to be abolished. Both are not necessary. If the coroners are the constitutional officers, why not let them have full power. They are chosen by the people, while the county physician is appointed.—Somerville Unionist Gazette.

FIRST SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Brakeman Hagan in the Hospital With One Arm Gone.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov 23—Barney Hagan, the brakemen on the South Branch Railroad, who met with such a severe accident at Flemington, as told in The Daily Press, is doing as well as can be expected for one of his age.

The staff physicians of the Somerset Hospital here, where he lies, amputated his left arm at the shoulder. His left foot was badly hurt, the ankle joint being crushed. The physicians fear they will have trouble with it.

In all his thirty years of railroad service this is his first serious accident.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 13 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. LIBERALS STILL GAIN

An Attack on Panama Seems Imminent.

REPORTED DEFEAT OF GENERAL ALBAN

Two Divisions of the Government Leader's Army Said to Have Been Routed—Isthmian Transit Is Not Interfered With.

COLON, Colombia, Nov. 23.—The latest news obtainable here is to the effect that the Liberal general Lugo has arrived at Empire Station, distant about twelve miles from Panama, with a force said to number 1,000 men. The Liberals are gaining and arming many recruits along the entire length of the railroad and now control the line up to within a point two miles from Panama. An attack on that city is expected momentarily, and much uneasiness is felt there. The Liberal leader Dominigo Diaz is expected shortly to arrive at Colon.

The Liberals here assert that General Lorezo attacked General Alban's force after it had landed at Chame, near Chorrera, and defeated it, only General Alban and a few of his troops escaping back to Panama.

It is also asserted by the Liberals that the other division of General Alban's army was routed by General Lugo, when 400 of Alban's troops joined the Liberal ranks.

The Liberals at Colon are jubilant and assert that they expect General Lugo to arrive at Colon momentarily.

It is reported that the government has addressed a communication to the United States consul setting forth that it cannot guarantee protection for isthmian transit.

It is rumored here that Buenaventura, a Colombian port on the Pacific coast about 400 miles south of Panama, has been taken by the Liberals. Confirmation of this report is lacking.

Marines from the gunboat Machias still guard the station and property of the railroad here. The battleship Iowa will land forces at Panama when the necessity arises.

The Liberals here have already given notice that the ad valorem duties on goods disembarked at Colon will henceforth be 10 per cent, not 20 per cent, as formerly. All the stores in Colon are open, and business has been resumed.

The Colombian gunboat General Pinzon is believed to be along the coast somewhere near Colon, as when she left here she was short of coal.

Transit across the isthmus is still free and uninterrupted.

Farmer Murdered.

WASHINGTON, N. J., Nov. 23.—Hunterdon county is greatly excited over the murder of Oliver Alpaugh, one of the leading farmers in this section. He was found lying across the shafts of his wagon in the barnyard near his home in Cokesbury. He was dead and apparently had been roughly handled. His skull was fractured in several places, but the skin was unbroken, showing that the man had been assaulted with some blunt instrument. The horse had evidently come home of its own accord. Alpaugh went to High Bridge on Wednesday to collect some money. It is known that he gathered up several hundred dollars in that place and at 7 o'clock started for home unaccompanied. This was the last seen of him alive.

A Small Mining Strike.

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 23.—There is a strike at the Norton Coal company and the Wise Coal company collieries at Norton, in Wise county. None of the other miners in that section has been affected so far. The whole force of 150 men employed by the Norton Coal company are out, and seventy-five, the entire force of the Wise Coal company, also have quit work. The miners have no grievance except that the companies will not recognize the union. It is alleged that several men were recently discharged because they belonged to the United Mine Workers and that the companies refused to reinstate them.

A Mysterious Disappearance.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Nov. 23.—The eastern section of North Carolina is greatly excited over the mysterious disappearance Wednesday night of Miss Nellie Cropsey, daughter of well known residents of Elizabeth City, under circumstances indicating that she has been murdered and her body cast into the river. Bloodhounds which were procured from Virginia traced her to the river; but, although it has been dragged and the whole town has aided in the search, no clew has been found.

$25,000,000 For Rolling Stock.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—The expenditures to be made by the Pennsylvania Railroad company in 1902 for rolling stock will aggregate $25,000,000, a sum unprecedented in railroad history. Of this amount about $19,000,000 will be expended for cars and the other $6,000,000 for locomotives. As already announced, the company will require 19,000 freight and coal cars for 1902, the greater number of which have been already ordered.

Prominent Man Gone.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 23.—George A. Whitehorne, a prominent business man, well known throughout the northwest, is dead at his home here, aged eighty-one. Mr. Whitehorne was at one time private secretary to United States Senator Thomas H. Benton. For several years he was on The Congressional Globe and was connected with various New York newspapers thirty years ago.

THE INDIAN QUESTION

Commissioner Jones Has a New Plan.

HE WOULD TEACH SELF RELIANCE.

Abolishment of Reservations and Food and Protection of Person and Property Among Suggestions In Report Just Made Public.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—A policy which, it is contended, will settle the entire Indian question within a generation is announced by Commissioner of Indian Affairs William A. Jones in his annual report, just made public. His plan is to give the Indian opportunity for self support, the same protection of his person and property as is given others, throw him upon his own resources and to enforce on him realization of the dignity of labor and the importance of building and maintaining a home for himself.

Mr. Jones says that at the outset the Indian must have aid and instruction, and necessaries doubtless will have to be furnished him until his labor becomes productive. Until the Indian has become a part of the community in which he lives, day schools, the commissioner says, should be established at convenient places where the Indian may learn enough for ordinary business transactions. The key to the whole situation, the commissioner suggests, is the home. The larger and more powerful tribes, he adds, are located in an arid region on unproductive reservations, often in a rigorous climate, where there is no chance to make even a living. In these cases something should be done quickly toward placing such Indians in a position where they can support themselves.

Commissioner Jones says the cutting off of rations from all Indians except those who are incapacitated from earning a support has had very gratifying results and if followed up ultimately will lead to the abolition of the reservation and the absorption of the Indian into our body politic. He makes the emphatic statement that the present Indian educational system, taken as a whole, is not calculated to produce the results that were anticipated so hopefully and may be added to the obstacles to independence and self support under which class Mr. Jones has placed indiscriminate issue of rations, periodical distribution of large sums of money and the general leasing of allotments.

In the last thirty-three years, the report says, over $240,000,000 has been spent on an Indian population not exceeding 180,000. Notwithstanding this the Indian is still on his reservation being fed, money is still being paid him, he is still dependent on the government for existence, and he is little, if any, nearer the goal of independence than he was thirty years ago, and if the present policy is continued he will get little, if any, nearer in thirty years to come.

Laborer Gets Fat Office.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 23.—The resent municipal elections throughout the country furnished many instances of the advancement in public office of men who heretofore have labored for day's wages. In Albany John Franey ap to the adjournment of the last session of the legislature operated one of the elevators in the capitol building back of the assembly chamber and previous to that had been night watchman in the Albany county clerk's office at a salary of $900 a year.

Cotton Cargo on Fire.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 23.—The fire on board the British steamer Dunblane, Captain Farquhar, which put in here when ten days out from Savannah for Bremen with part of her cargo of cotton burning, was found to be more serious than at first reported. A large volume of flame is breaking from her No. 3 hold, and the city fire department has been working to subdue the fire. It is expected that most of the Dunblane's cargo will have to be discharged.

Big Gas Vein Struck.

TIPTON, Ind., Nov. 23.—A fifty million foot gas well came in yesterday on the Hobbs farm, four miles south of this city. The flow came in at 4 o'clock, and when the tools were thrown out the drillers had to run for their lives. The well is equal to if not larger than the celebrated Wallace well which was discovered near Fostoria, O., seven years ago, at that time said to be the biggest gusher on record.

Chamberlain's Health Poor.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The friends of Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, have for some time been concerned with regard to his health. Yesterday Mr. Chamberlain wrote the Handsworth school declining to distribute prizes at that institution because, as he said, "it is absolutely necessary for me to confine my strength to public work.

The President on a Cruise.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by the children, left here yesterday afternoon on the yacht Sylph for a brief cruise down the Potomac. A presidential salute of twenty-one guns was fired as the president went aboard the yacht. The president and his family will be gone a day or two.

To Discuss Excise.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—A conference between Republican leaders is being called at the Fifth Avenue hotel for today to discuss changes in the excise law. Senator Platt, Governor Odell, State Chairman George W. Dunn and State Senator John Raines are among the number in attendance.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Brisk Business In All Lines—Farm Products High.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Careful search discloses few unfavorable factors in the iron and steel situation. Probably the least satisfactory conditions are found at plate mills, which report an uneven distribution of orders. A few large concerns appear to secure the bulk of new business, but heavy orders for cars will largely expand the buying, while the new combination will put this class of mills on a stronger basis. In rails the e is no apparent limit to the orders placed, though some mills are unable to guarantee delivery within a year. One Pittsburg report places the year's output of structural material at 600,000 tons. After six months of more or less interruption all machine shops and kindred plants at San Francisco have fully resumed, and it is certain that the greatest force on record is now engaged in the various departments of iron and steel making.

Eastern footwear manufacturers are now generally insisting on small advances when new contracts are placed, but large jobbers resist the upward tendency, and the continued strength of leather will necessitate depreciation of quality if higher prices are not paid. Despite the increase of factories at the interior heavy contracts have been placed in New England during the past week by western buyers.

Cotton relapsed into dullness with barely steady quotations, in marked contrast to the exceptional activity and strength of the same week in 1900, when prices were $11.25 a bale higher.

Strength is the rule in the markets for farm products. Favorable weather during the closing days of corn harvesting failed to bring any reaction from the highest price level in many years, and the market was equally oblivious to Atlantic exports for the week of only 450,424 bushels against 3,838,666 a year ago. After some weeks of gradual decline toward a normal position pork products suddenly bounded upward regardless of weakness in live hogs. Wheat holds at about 3 cents above last year's price despite the marked difference in size of crops.

Failures for the week numbered 218 in the United States against 238 last year and 31 in Canada against 29.

The Bonine Trial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Five witnesses were heard yesterday in the trial of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine for the murder of James S. Ayres, Jr. Four of these witnesses were police officers who had gone to Ayres' room after discovery of the body by employees of the Kenmore hotel, and the fifth was W. W. Warfield, who was proprietor of the hotel at the time of the tragedy. The policemen testified to details of the wounds, position of the body and arrangement of the furniture in the room. Mr. Warfield's testimony was very brief. In response to a question by Attorney Fulton of Mrs. Bonine's counsel he said that Mrs. Bonine had made arrangements to leave the hotel before the tragedy occurred, but both question and answer subsequently were ruled out.

Railroad Strike Unsettled.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—A conference was held yesterday afternoon between the committee of five representing the striking freight handlers of the New Haven railroad and the officers of the railroad. The strikers renewed their demands for the removal of Superintendent Wardrop, Detective O'Brien and Assistant General Yardmaster Smith. The railroad officers refused to accede to the demands, and the conference broke up without result.

SUBDUING SAMAR.

Large Capture of Cash and Hemp. Rebels Active In Luzon.

MANILA, Nov. 23.—News received here from the island of Samar is encouraging, although up to the present time there have been no wholesale surrenders of natives. The Filipinos captured there by our troops show evidences of suffering and hunger. The coasts of the island are closely patrolled by gunboats, and the use of the searchlight makes it almost impossible for the natives to land food on the island for the insurgents. The patrolling gunboats have captured over $20,000 in cash, and $100,000 worth of hemp upon which a tax had been paid to the insurgents has been confiscated.

The system of taxation and the collection of taxes maintained by the insurgent leader Lukban were perfect and exhaustive in every particular and produced revenue from births, marriages, deaths, cockfights and from the fish ponds of Samar. Hemp was the most important feature of commerce. Two per cent of its price was given to the local presidentes, who collected the majority of the island's revenue from those natives who had sworn allegiance to the United States and turned it over to the rebel authorities.

Smallpox is raging in the southern islands of the archipelago. The United States Philippine commission is preparing an act to compel everybody to be vaccinated.

It has been officially reported to General Chaffee that the insurgent leader Cabellos has 500 fully armed men, including a number of American negroes, under his command in Laguna province, Luzon. An insurgent officer has just been captured, carrying papers dated Mauban, Laguna province, Nov. 18, and signed by Caballos. The prisoner admits that Caballos has 1,000 men with him and contemplated attacking Mauban. This probably accounts for the fact that yesterday the telegraph lines were cut near Mauban, and in several places the supporting poles were found to have been removed.

AGREEMENT REACHED.

McKinley Monument and Memorial Arch Associations Harmonize.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Plans by which it is hoped to prevent differences between the Canton McKinley Monument association and the Washington Memorial Arch association and secure harmony of action were agreed upon at a meeting of the executive committee of the latter body yesterday. A committee of five was appointed to confer with the board of trustees of the Canton association in this city Dec. 7.

A resolution was adopted for the guidance of the Washington conferees outlining the wishes of the executive committee. These are that the two associations shall make a joint poll of the country for a fund to erect both the monument at Canton and the memorial arch in this city. The territory to be canvassed will include everything except the District of Columbia and the state of Ohio. The desire of the executive committee and the proposition which will be made to the board of trustees of the Canton association is that of all the money collected one-third shall go to the Canton monument and two-thirds to the memorial arch.

The trustees of the Canton association are scheduled to meet in this city Dec. 7, and it is to meet these trustees that the Washington organization appointed a conference committee.

Cruel Treatment of Polish Children.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—"Shocking accounts have been received here," says a dispatch from Cracow to The Daily Mail, "of wholesale flogging of Polish children by Prussian schoolmasters for refusing to learn the catechism and prayers in German at Wrzesnia. Such general flogging nearly produced a riot. The parents and relatives assembled in front of the school and violently denounced the authorities. Many persons were arrested on charge of insulting government officials and sentenced to imprisonment for periods ranging from a month to two years and to be put in chains. The Polish newspapers are indignant at these outrageous sentences."

Eighteen Circuits on One Wire.

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 23.—Dr. William Duane, professor of physics at the State university, has just been granted a patent for an invention by which a large number of telegraph messages can be sent over one wire and return at the same time. In the physical laboratory at the university it is said that he has had as many as eighteen circuits working on the same wire and return all at the same time.

ATHENS MORE QUIET

Funeral of the Riot Victims Peaceably Conducted.

STUDENTS STILL GUARD UNIVERSITY

They Refuse to Retire Unless Given Certain Guarantees—Resignation of the Metropolitan Was a Dramatic Affair.

ATHENS, Nov. 23.—It is announced that the obligation of the government to preserve order prevented the ministers from attending the chamber of deputies yesterday, but that they will attend today and ask a vote of confidence.

In the course of the afternoon the growing crowds and the increasing excitement heralded the hour fixed for the funeral of the victims of the riots. The bulk of the troops were confined to barracks. The shops along the route were closed by police orders.

At 5 o'clock the cortege left the cathedral for the cemetery, dense crowds following. The seven coffins covered with white flags were preceded by students carrying a black banner. The procession halted for some minutes before the palace, but no cries were raised. The populace, going to and returning from the cemetery, maintained a silent and restrained demeanor.

At the cemetery M. Levidis delivered an oration, in the course of which he attacked the government and declared that the people ought to erect a mausoleum over the "victims of duty and patriotism."

The city resumed its normal aspect as the evening wore on. The students, however, still remain in occupation of the university. The rector, at the head of thirty professors, endeavored to persuade them to retire, but they declined to comply unless given guarantees that no legal proceedings would be taken against them, that the translators of the gospels would be excommunicated and that the university would not be occupied by troops.

It seems that the resignation of the metropolitan of Athens, Procopius Oeconimidis, was very dramatic. The minister of public worship, M. Stais, visited him during the night and told him that the king and the government desired him to resign. At first the metropolitan refused. He was then taken to see the premier, M. Theotokis, after which all three went to the palace at 1 o'clock in the morning. As a result of the interview with King George the metropolitan signed his resignation, weeping and broken hearted.

Delaware County Officials Indicted.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 23.—As a result of Attorney General Ward's recent investigation of county affairs the grand jury of Newcastle county has returned ten indictments against John Linn, president of the levy court, charging him with obtaining money from the county under false pretenses by having orders drawn for which work has never been performed and one indictment for the larceny of money. There is also an indictment against former Levy Court Commissioner Harry M. White for obtaining money under false pretenses. Other indictments are expected, including some prominent citizens who are alleged to have acted with the members of the levy court in securing the money on fraudulent orders.

Bridge Workers Strike.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 23.—In consequence of the refusal of the American Bridge company to heed the demand for an eight hour day of the Baltimore union of the structural iron and bridge workers a general strike has been declared against the company. The strike of the Baltimore union had its origin in the alleged discrimination of the American Bridge company in allowing structural workmen in other cities a workday of eight hours, while nine hours' work was demanded here. It is said that the trust wished to break up their eight hour day, and Baltimore is being used as an entering wedge.

Governor Voorhees Sees Sewell.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 23.—Governor Foster M. Voorhees of New Jersey arrived in Asheville yesterday afternoon, going immediately to Battery Park hotel, where he was admitted at once to the room of Senator W. J. Sewell of New Jersey, who has been here for two months for his health. Governor Voorhees does not admit that his visit has any significance other than friendship. Senator Sewell went driving yesterday, but his physician advised him against going to Washington for the opening of congress.

Fire In Wheeling, W. Va.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 23.—Fire has destroyed four business blocks and four residences, with all their contents, entailing a loss of $35,000. The fire started in the shoe store of Edward U. Highwats. Highwats, who within a month lost his wife and child by death, lost everything he owned except the clothes on his back, having allowed his insurance to lapse two weeks ago.

Advance For Railway Hands.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23.—The Louisville and Nashville railroad without notice has advanced the wages 10 per cent of all the shopmen in Louisville who formerly drew $1.75 per day or over. About a thousand men will be benefited. The increase was unsolicited.

A Heroic Act Rewarded.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Nov. 23.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company has presented $100 in gold to Harry Baker, a locomotive fireman, for breaking into a burning car and removing twenty cans of powder. The cans were so hot that they burned his hands.

No Gain for the County.

Now that the Supreme Court has decided in favor of the sheriff of Essex county and given the control of the county jail there to him from the hands of the Board of Freeholders, an important decision in county jail affairs in New Jersey has been given. Acting upon this opinion of the court, Sheriff House, of Union county, has started proceedings in an attempt to assume charge of the county jail at Elizabeth.

So far only the formal demand has been made and the courts will have to decide whether or not the county jail shall go under different management. During the time that the Union County Board of Freeholders has conducted the county jail, that institution has compared very favorably with any in the State. The jail building may not be all that is desirable, but the management has certainly been excellent. Compared with some other counties, the cost has been low and the management remarkably economical.

It is difficult to see were Union county will be the gainer if Sheriff Houston assumes the reins of government at the jail. It is exceedingly doubtful if the present regime can be excelled. Of course, the Sheriff, himself, will be the gainer by such a change. He will then be allowed a certain charge for each prisoner. It may work well for his pocket book but there is not likely to be any improvement made in the care and direction of the county institution.

In the Philadelphia Record an observant person remarks that "the public likes as well to read interesting matter in the advertising columns as in the news columns." There is nothing surprising about this, since the facts which are advertised have a direct personal interest to the public. The advertiser offers to the people only such things as the people need, and about the character and prices of which they want information. A persistent advertiser is bound to win the attention of all newspaper readers.

The series of farmers' institutes now being held through New Jersey are of great importance to the rural population of the State. Some subjects of great importance are treated at these meetings and everything is done to give the farmer the benefit of the best theoretical and practical training. Farming is now as much a science as any of the professions, and the wise farmer is studying the subject closely and taking full advantage of all these excellent opportunities offered.

A sure way remains to secure the general installation of water meters by the Plainfield Water Supply Company. When the patrons of that company show determination to get their money's worth of water, the drain on the company's resources will be so great that the requests for water meters will be gladly granted. By installing the meters at once, the water company will save itself contiderable trouble besides a great deal of water.

Despite the fact that household supplies were seldom so high as they are today, a sign of unusual prosperity in Plainfield is to be seen. Never has there come such a long list of entertainments and fairs, conducted by local organizations, as during the last two weeks. The prosperity is evidenced in the fact that all these affairs have been remarkably well patronized and were, almost without exception, complete financial successes.

One of the most popular classes at the Y. M. C. A. this winter is the one which gives instruction in first aid to injured. The man or woman who knows what to do in an emergency is often the means of saving a human life. Every one should be acquainted with the first principles of the subject as there is no telling when he or she may be called upon to act.

Plainfield was well represented by three of its prominent citizens at the reciprocity convention. The local Board of Trade should have taken advantage of the chance to send a delegation of local manufacturers to the gathering, however. It was a splendid opportunity missed.

Basket ball has been popular with Plainfield audiences ever since its introduction. The season for activity in that sport is here. The local Y. M. C. A. will support a team and there may be others on the floor before the season is over.

A coat of paint, white or some other easily desernable color, should be given the fence which separates the tracks of the North Avenue station. It may be the means of saving a human life one of these days.

LITERARY.

The Hon. John A. Kasson, who negotiated the reciprocity treaties in which the late President took so keen an interest, will contribute to the December Century his "Impressions of President McKinley." He lays considerable stress, it is understood, on the man's personal kindliness, unselfishness, and sense of the dignity of his office. His study of the character of his friend is accompanied by photographs by George Cox, taken at Canton especially for The Century Magazine.

A truly Christmas number is the December issue of the American Queen. Articles on the Holiday Season abound between its covers. "Christmas Church and Home Decorations," "The Dressing of the Christmas Tree," "Games for Young and Old," "How to Dress Dolls," "Simple Home-Made Toys," etc., etc., are but a few of the Christmassy subjects treated. In addition a page full of holly designs, holly and mistletoe, is offered to the readers of the magazine at a nominal sum.

The complete stories, two in number, the household and the fashion articles, are all up to the usual high standard which the American Queen has set for itself both in matter and illustrations. The cover design, by Malcolm Strauss, is one of a series of poster effects which the magazine has been getting out each month.

Quite an attractive feature of the paper is the beauty and toilet department, conducted by Dr. Mary Easton, who offers, free of charge, to answer all questions relating to beauty and the toilet put by the readers of the American Queen.

Price of magazine, 50 cents per year. Office of publication, Union Square, New York.

JAIL USED AS RESERVOIR.

Nevada Town Has Utilized the Walls of the State Prison as a Fountain of Health.

Some years ago the state of Nevada had need of a prison, and for that matter it has great need of it now. But at that time the necessity was deemed so great that the legislature made an appropriation for the construction of a place at Reno, where dangerous characters might be kept in restraint. The walls were built good and strong. They were thick and high, for they were intended to prevent any possibility of escape by the craftiest of convicts. The work was finished in due season, but exigencies had arisen since the beginning that made it seem desirable to confine the prisoners elsewhere. So the walls were never used, although $118,000 of hard cash had been spent on them. There they stood, year after year, as useless as a barren fruit tree.

Not long ago Dr. Patterson, superintendent of the Nevada insane asylum, an institution not far from the unused walls, figured that they would hold water. He consulted with others, and the result is that the stockade, instead of being a corral for prisoners, has become a fountain of health, of comfort, almost of life, for Dr. Patterson and the unfortunates under his care. More than this. As the walls are 20 feet high and only six feet are needed for reservoir purposes, the rest is being torn away and the material used for repairs and new buildings at the state university and the asylum. If this isn't gathering figs from thistles it comes about as close to it as anything that has come under observation in recent years.

Why Capital Is Invading the Little Isle of Cape Breton.

One of the Rarest Spots on the Atlantic Coast—How a Brave Yankee General Captured Louisburg Citadel.

[Special Boston Letter.]

PERHAPS no piece of land embracing the same number of acres presents more varied attractions to the sightseer than the island of Cape Breton, and few are more neglected by tourists. Its coast line divides it from various bodies of water and it is indented in every direction by large bays and inlets.

Fogs from the Atlantic ocean, the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Gut of Canso, Cumberland strait, and, last but not least, over the neck of the peninsula of Nova Scotia from the Bay of Fundy, drift over it, enriching and deepening the color tones of its vegetation.

Certain portions of the coast stand out in bold grandeur. Everywhere the scenery is fine. In winter, the dark pines outlined against sea and sky and contrasted with the purity of the snow give an impression of great solemnity. This is heightened by the roar of the surf. In spring and summer, when maple, birch and oak trees furnish variety to the forest coloring, the effect is less severe. In autumn, when the frost has touched the leaves with glorious reds and purples, the island is magnificent. The atmosphere softens and blends everything. Grain grows in abundance, although the inhabitants draw more or less on the United States for food supplies. Fish, of course, are used in large quantities, for the surrounding waters contain the finest fishing in the world, but the great wealth of the island has always consisted of coal, which is now being mined in great quantities.

Cape Breton lies between Newfoundland and the mainland of Nova Scotia, to which it was annexed in 1820, much to the disgust of its turbulent inhabitants, who were as restless as the waves that surrounded them. French and Spanish settlers superseded the Indians; these were followed by English and more French, then more English. After these came, in 1800, Scotch Highlanders, driven from their homes by unjust laws. These latter settled in Nova Scotia and Cape Breton.

On the island the influx came chiefly from the inland districts of Inverness and Argyleshire, Roman Catholic and Presbyterian making common cause and rendering the little island the Scotchiest of all Scotch districts outside the old country. Many amusing anecdotes are told of their manner of standing by each other, casting religious prejudice to the winds. Any kind of a Scotchman was better than the best representative of another nation. These different nationalities have never become amalgamated, and not the least of the attractions of the island are the speech and customs of its people.

After many years of neglect, public attention is now turning toward Cape Breton on account of the development of its mines. It has been called the "long wharf of America," and for about eight years past it has been regarded as a future great distributing center. It is well situated for the purpose and coal crops out prominently in various localities, notably on the east coast cliffs from Morien Bay to North Sidney. During the reign of Queen Elizabeth the coal trade of Cape Breton flourished; and Champlain, in 1812, drew a map of the island. But Nicholas Denys, of Tours, was the first to make reference to the coal. A grant of the island was made to him in 1654, by Louis XIV. Its possession was furiously contested with him and he finally returned to France in 1672, and wrote a work concerning his troublesome possessions, with a title as long as his years of disappointment. The mines since that time have been worked in a desultory way. An English company, the General Mining association, had a monopoly of the coal trade from 1827 to 1858, when their charter was amended, so that the legislature resumed all portions but the North Sidney part of the eastern coal field. Leases were at once made to different companies. The Dominion Coal company has been methodically handling the output for the last few years, and now the Dominion Iron and Steel company intends to join in making Louisburg a headquarters.

This venerable town, from having been an obscure fishing village for a century and a half, is liable to regain an importance equal to that of the distant past, though differing from it in kind. Wharves are being built into the waters of the harbor, looking down through which fish may be seen flashing around sunken cannon. In 1893 a Boston capitalist consolidated all the mines not belonging to the old company. Old shafts have been enlarged, immense new ones dug and modern machinery put into use. The Nova Scotia Steel company is equipping a large steel plant. At different points large mines are being worked, and in 1899 the Dominion Steel & Iron company at Sidney was founded with a capital of $20,000,000, being a veritable Prince Charming to the sleepy little village, which is as yet hardly awakened to the fact of its future importance.

Cape Breton is a land of splendid harbors. Several railroads are expected to terminate at Louisbourg, and it is mentioned as the probable future landing place for British vessels. This little town is full of historic interest. Although Lief Ericson is said to have been the first white man to view these shores, there is no history of their having been trodden except by the feet of Indians until John and Sebastian Cabot landed there in 1497. All the nations after this time sent boats to the surrounding waters for the fishing, Spain and France taking the lead. In 1713, by the treaty of Utrecht, Cape Breton was acknowledged to belong to France, and during the following 30 years about $5,000,000 was expended on the fortress at Louisbourg. This town became most important to the French fishing interests as well as a key to French possessions in America. Authorities differ as to whether it was named after Louis XIV. or his successor. It was established on the south side of a commodious landlocked harbor, and is about 25 miles from Sidney, with which it is now connected by rail. The mouth of the harbor is about a mile in width, but a continuous reef reaching from the main shore to a large island near the center reduces the entrance to about one-third of a mile. On this island the French mounted a battery.

Duchambon, the governor in 1745, was obstinate and incompetent. In defiance of repeated warnings he neglected taking proper precautions against attack, trusting in the strength of his fortifications. This fact rendered an expedition under Col. Sir William Pepperill, of Massachusetts, a brilliant success. A lot of untrained New Englanders, without siege artillery, captured the best equipped fortress in the country, upon which and its outworks were mounted 170 guns, and which contained a garrison of 1,500 trained militia and 750 regulars. Pepperill, while knowing nothing of war, possessed a good fund of Yankee common sense which stood him in good stead at this time. Louisbourg surrendered June 16. By keeping the French flag flying the victors were enabled to capture the ship Notre Dame de Deliverance, containing a cargo of cocoa, $2,000,000 in Peruvian gold and a large sum in gold and silver ingots. A garrison was left which occupied the town until 1748, when Great Britain turned it over to France. During the next ten years convicts were employed in strengthening the defenses. In 1758 an attack was made by the British under more imposing, if less romantic circumstances than the former one. Frigates, 22 ships of the line with 12,000 troops, came against 4,200 French and 12 ships. A landing was forced, and although the place was ably defended, the women, even, headed by Commandant Drucour's wife, assisting the soldiers, Louisbourg surrendered on July 27, but not until after a determined resistance had compelled Wolfe to defer his attack on Quebec until the following year. The town was dismantled two years later; even the cut stone of the houses, brought from France, was carried to Halifax. Grass grows on the site of the old fortifications, and but little is left to indicate former importance. But modern progress has touched Louisbourg with its magic finger and strangers are treading the ground once familiar to the feet of a vanished civilization.

I wish to add my testimony as to the virtue of Ripans Tabules. Have tried them, and know whereof I speak. I am fifty-five years old, and am at present and have been for past fifteen years a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, State of Pennsylvania. I served nearly four years in a Pennsylvania regiment in the Civil War, ten months of which was spent in a Southern military prison, in which (as is well known) the bill of fare was not high, but rough, which deranged my stomach and bowels to such an extent that I have been a continuous sufferer from indigestion and constipation since 1865. Have gone through the catalogue of remedies and treatments laid down by medical practitioners and patent medicines for the same, with only temporary relief. In November, 1896, my wife had a severe bilious attack, after which she had stomach trouble, from which our family physician was unable to relieve her. I noticed ad of Ripans Tabules and bought a box. She said the effect was magical. In fact, one box of thirty-six Tabules cured her, and she said she feels better than she has at any time for five years. I procured a second box and gave them a trial, and was both pleased and surprised to find I could eat the most hearty food without inconvenience, which I had not been able to do for thirty years.

WANTED—A case of bad breath that R-I-P-A-N-S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R-I-P-A-N-S on the package and accept no substitute. R-I-P-A-N-S 10 for 5 cents may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, for a trial of the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

A GRACEFUL CARRIAGE.

The Woman Who Possesses It Always Appears Well Dressed.

There isn't one woman in ten who presents a smart appearance. Even this is a generous percentage. Take a walk any afternoon through the shopping district or any other place where women congregate and you don't find even that number. Yet it isn't that the women are poor or shabbily gowned. Far from it. Some of them carry small fortunes on their backs. "Carry on their backs" is a good phrase, for it just expresses the whole trouble. Most women carry their clothes on their backs; they don't wear them.

It isn't swathing yourself in goods at four dollars a yard that will make you attractive, my would be fashionable lady. It isn't even having your hats made by Doucet or your gowns by Worth. You will find out this bitter truth for yourself when you see some plain faced little creature in a ten dollar homemade gown totally eclipse you. And why can she do this, pray? Because she carries herself so as to set off her gown, and you don't.

The trick is all in the way that you hold yourself, the way you stand, the way you walk, the way you sit. If you do these things gracefully, as you should, you will be called a chic and a well dressed woman, no matter if you have on the plainest and most Quakerlike of little gowns. The best results of course come from being trained from earliest childhood. French mothers realize this, and a graceful carriage is one of the chief lessons taught by the family governess. American women have the best figures in the world, better even than the French. Why should they not equal the latter in grace?

"HOLD YOUR STOMACH IN."

It is all very easy when one tries. Learn to stand with your stomach in and your bust thrown out—that is the principal point. Let your back be short, and if your waist is too long—a common American fault—wear a tiny rounded pad just below the belt in the back. You have no idea what a difference it will make in your appearance. Train yourself never to do anything by jerks; let your walk be gliding and every gesture rhythmical. Carry your chin well up, not haughtily, but as if you respected yourself. Learn, however, to bend it gracefully when addressing a friend. When you bow, bend slightly the whole body, not the head alone. Let your hands hang naturally. Don't pose them. Walk in front of a long mirror and practice these things. Above all, be natural. To be natural is to be graceful. Nature never meant us to be stiff. It is we who have made ourselves so.

tings and is inclosed in pale green tilings. The glassware is iridescent green and gold, and a green and gold lamp hangs from the ceiling. The corner seat is upholstered in old rose silk striped in pale green. The sheraton table and chairs are of mahogany. The floor is hard wood partly covered by a green and white rug, while the portieres are of old rose brocade.

Aid to Sociability.

"I have come to the conclusion," says a woman who entertains constantly, "that a round table is almost an essential to successful dinner giving. I have been in the habit of ordering a circular top now and again from my caterer, and I noticed that the dinners at those times went off with greater ease to myself than at any others. This year I have had two circular tops made to keep in possession. The smaller one we use constantly, keeping the other one in reserve for a large company. Our daily family dinners have taken on an added sociability since we have established the round table permanently. It is certainly something more than a notion that the arrangement around a board instead of up and down its length increases the responsiveness of the company."

Football Officials on the New Rules of the Game

FOLLOWERS of gridiron sport feel assured that until the sun sets Thanksgiving day their popular form of sport will hold the center of the stage. The football field absorbs all attention and other outdoor sports get little chance. Of course every enthusiast is ready to swear that this is the greatest season in the history of intercollegiate football. Every fall the devotees of the game say that. New rules were made for the game this fall, but they were not intended to have any material effect upon the style of game and the play. They give the officials who watch the games more backbone and keen critics will watch the progress of football on many college gridirons this year to see whether the officials have elected to take advantage of the authority with which they have been clothed. The effect of the changes in rules and the prospects for the season from the view point of the umpires and referees, I have made the subject of a symposium, asking the well-known officials selected for the season's games in the west to say a few things of interest.

Everte Wrenn, Harvard, says:

"I am glad that the rules committee has strengthened the position of the official. The task of the official is always a difficult one. Coaches and players naturally eye the officials of the games with a feeling akin to suspicion. I believe that the strict following of the letter of the rules is the principal duty of an umpire. If he permits himself to question whether or not a rule was violated intentionally he cannot draw the line and will lose his firm hold on the game.

"Football is lauded because it teaches self-restraint and subordination to a higher authority. The game makes men of our boys. The college boys know the rules and realize that they must not commit a foul either intentionally or otherwise. The players are quick to see whether or not an official is strict. If the official wobbles, the players will violate the rules at will. However, they all feel a great deal of respect for the umpire who is strict. I never have trouble with Wisconsin. The badgers know me and they have been coached by Phil King to obey the rules no matter what happens. I used to have to penalize the cardinal. With the entire confidence of the two rival teams an official should never have any trouble in enforcing the rules. However, I think that an official should not be selected for a game in which his alma mater team is engaged. He is either too technical in that case or too strict with his own college's eleven."

Ralph Hoagland, Princeton:

"The additions to the rules are matof considerable importance and show moves in the right direction. Strengthen the authority of football officials and you will keep the grand game high in the estimation of not only the college world, but in the minds of the public adherents of outdoor sport. The referee this year has to give the signal when the ball touches the ground for a goal kick and the opposing side is not so likely to charge before the right time. In many respects the new rules uphold the officials and when drilled into the players teach them the value of self-restraint—a valuable lesson for future life in coping with the world.

FRED HAYNER.

Fred Hayner (Lake Forest):

"It has often come to me in the midst of a hard game when I was perspiring with efforts to keep along with the fast and furious play, to ask whether when I was a football player for my old alma mater Lake Forest, I ever stopped to think of the difficulties that beset the work of the football official. I think that the young men who are striving harder to win for the glory of their respective colleges than any group of men ever could strive in the commercial or financial walks of life, are keenly alive to the necessity of keeping football the best exhibition of sportsmanship in outdoor contests. They know that the spectators expect a great deal more of them than a throng would expect from a pair of well-trained pugilists. They know also that the football rules are the result of hours of deliberations by the rules committee on the technical points of the game. Nothing affords me greater pleasure than to officiate in a football game. I look for little coaching from the side lines this season and a very pronounced willingness on the part of team captains to accept absolutely the slogan: 'The officials have no favorites. All they are striving to do is to have the game decided absolutely on its merits.'"

Harry Hadden (Michigan):

If the boys who play the game and who look to me for fair work in officiating this year spend as much time as we officials have to in study of the rules of the game, they will not try to violate any of the rules. I dislike to penalize a team, but believe in the strictest possible interpretation of the rules. If a team that is on the five-yard line deserves punishment, administer that chastisement, and the young sportsmen who are caused to suffer will be the first to publicly acknowledge that the officials had no alternative. The games are going to be fiercely fought this year by the big varsities. There is a general disposition this year among the coaches to take scoring against their teams with less concern than they used to take it. The goal line, of course, is sacred, but it is a mighty fine thing for football when Yale, Harvard and and Pennsy are scored against by smaller elevens.

Phil Allen (Chicago):

If I do not have the confidence of the coaches of the opposing teams I do not care to act as umpire. The latter is compelled to make compromises in his interpretations of the rules, not to please both sides, but to save the game from constant interruptions. To live up to every letter of the rule would be to give a decision on almost every play. Eager players many times make unintentional violations. But so long as these infractions do not interfere with the progress of the game, one way or the other, I do not feel like penalizing them. I think it only common sense to enforce the rules according to their spirit rather than by their exact letter. No umpire wants to be continually penalizing a team.

Ikey Karel (Wisconsin):

The boys at Madison used to think I was football crazy. I share that idea with them now. I have to put aside the cares of business for many hours this fall to follow the work of my favorite elevens. From every indication that has been given this should be one of the hardest seasons we ever had. Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois loom up big and powerful this season, while Iowa and Chicago seem to be in somewhat hard lines. But there is no telling what the future may bring out. I am satisfied now that under the rules if I cannot officiate properly, with all the aids laid down for the official, I am no longer capable of serving as umpire or referee. There will be no exhibitions of kicking at the decisions this year. In all the world there is no sportsman who is quicker to do the honorable thing than the football player. In sober truth, I really live every fall when the whistle is heard on the gridirons.

Fred Darby (Grinnell):

My idea of officiating coincides with those of Wrenn, Hoagland, Hayner and the others who blow the whistle on the western gridirons. An official cannot be too strict in enforcing the rules. The whole contest hinges on the display of backbone by the official. The players who realize that the official is strict and honest, will not dare to violate the rules.

E. G. WESTLAKE.

Americans Are High Livers.

Europeans regard the average American and his family as living on an extravagant scale, says Everybody's Magazine. In Europe such viands can be afforded by only the rich. His table is spread with abundance, not only with articles of domestic production, but of imported foodstuffs. For example, his family consumes annually 1,250 pounds of wheat flour, and 600 pounds of oat and cornmeal, 750 pounds of meat, or about two pounds per day; 750 pounds of potatoes, 100 pounds of butter and 300 pounds of sugar. He is the greatest coffee drinker on earth, one pound per week being required for his family's consumption. Of tea, however, he uses little, five pounds per year sufficing for his needs. His table costs him $16 per month. He eats three meals per day, taking his dinner at noon. He retires between nine and ten at night, and rises at six in the morning.

PRIMATE OF ENGLAND.

Position Is Now Held by Dr. Temple, Who Has a Long and Bitter Fight Before Him.

The indications are that the renewal of the struggle against the established Church of England is at hand. Recent events connected with the accession of King Edward have aroused the nonconformists to another effort to shake off what they regard as the intolerable yoke of a state church. In a movement of this character, says Leslie's Weekly, the most prominent figure on the side of the established church will be Dr. Temple, who, by virtue of his office as archbishop of Canterbury, is also the highest ecclesiastical officer in England. Temple is a man of mild disposition with an aversion to controversy, and so far as his power and influence go the interests of peace and harmony will be carefully observed. The see of Canterbury is one of the oldest in Europe, and its history is brilliant with the names of illustrious church dignitaries and saints, beginning with Augustine, who came here from Rome in 596 A. D., and including such personages as Thomas a Becket, Thomas Craumer, William Land, John Tillotson and Thomas Seeker, men whose names are inseparably bound up with the most eventful tragic and romantic periods in English history. The present cathedral at Canterbury stands on the site of a Roman church given by King Ethelbert, together with his own palace adjoining, to Augustine and his monks. The archbishops have not resided in Canterbury since the seventeenth century. Dr. Temple came to his present high office in 1896, succeeding the famous Archbishop Tait. He was educated in Balliol college, Oxford, and was for several years head master of Rugby school. He was made bishop of London in 1885, the ecclesiastical post of duty in England next in honor and dignity to that of the archbishopric of Canterbury.

AN ARTISTIC BANNER.

Unique Example of Rare Needlework Designed and Made Especially for King Edward.

The banner to be hung over King Edward's stall in the famous St. George's chapel, to designate the place of the sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, has just been finished, and is said to be one of the finest examples of needlework every worked out. The banner was made at the royal school of art needlework, South Kensington, England, after designs by G. W. Eve, A. R. E., and occupied those who worked on it a longer time than any similar piece of work ever turned out of the school. It is fashioned of velvet of exquisite color, cloth of gold, and gold and silver embroidery, in a combination extremely pleasing to the artistic eye. The drawing is vigorous and has been carried out in a simple manner. In the decorative distribution of the details the same lines are followed as in the series of royal book plates that are among the attractions of Windsor library, by the same artist. The English and Scottish lines follow ancient examples, and in the Irish harp old and simple lines are chosen. The same figures and emblems are used as in Queen Victoria's banner, but in an arrangement quite different.

AN ELABORATE BANNER.
(Made for King Edward in His Capacity as Sovereign of the Garter.)

Most Exact Man on Record.

A singular old man has died in Vienna in his seventy-third year. He died with the reputation of being the most exact man on record. From his twenty-seventh year he kept accurate account of everything he bought, and what he paid for it. In the 27 years of his convivial life he consumed 28,786 glasses of beer. He gave up drinking in his fifty-fourth year, but he continued to smoke constantly, even during his last sickness, raising the number of cigars to 628,713, or an average of 13,667 a year. Of the whole number some 43,500 were given to him; he bought the rest for $12,500, or about two cents apiece.

Rejuvenated Potato.

The supercilious vegetarian, sneering at the ease with which mutton for lamb and horse for beef can be palmed off on persons whose intellect is dulled by a long course of flesh-eating, may now be retorted upon with the imitation new potato. Late in the season the gardener plants his crop, digs them up just before winter, and buries them. When the potato season arrives the tuber is dug up and renews its youth in a bath of boiling lye (appropriate name!) solution. Their appearance is hereafter faultless, but lye solution somehow does not impart the flavor of new potatoes.

MONKEY SLEW THE SNAKE.

Strategy of the Bold Simian Was Too Much for the Cobra and the Former Won.

At Bangalore, India, not long ago a battle between a monkey and a snake was witnessed by a party of Europeans. The reptile, a cobra, was enjoying a sun bath near the highway, far from the beaten track of jungle travel, when the monkey espied him and deliberately put an end to his siesta by hurling at him every missile he could find. The snake wriggled awhile under the punishment, and then in a fury gave chase to the monkey. The little simian was far too agile for the reptile, however, and kept him at a safe distance until a pile of rocks was reached. On this the monkey calmly perched, with his back against a bowlder, and awaited the onslaught.

The snake came up in blind rage, and again and again struck at the monkey, who dodged every blow, allowing the venomous head to strike the rock at his back. The cobra became more and more infuriated as he battered himself against the bowlder, and at last, bleeding and exhausted, lay at full length with every fighting instinct subdued. This was the monkey's opportunity. Seizing the snake by the neck he quickly rubbed the head off against a sharp point of rock, and then climbed a tree and chattered gleefully at the admiring human spectators, who showed their appreciation of the spectacle he had afforded by leaving a banquet of Indian corn and sugar cane for the victor.

A DRIED CUP OF COFFEE.

Preparations Now Being Manufactured Which Serve as Substitutes for Various Beverages.

For soldiers' use, and for employment under circumstances where fresh milk, coffee and chocolate are not easily obtainable, a dried preparation is now being manufactured which serves excellently as a substitute, says the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Skimmed milk is evaporated by the help of an air blast to the condition of a paste, and, after being dried, is reduced to powder by grinding. Then it is mixed with powdered chocolate, half and half, and is either put up as dust or compressed into cakes. When wanted, water is added, the resulting fluid is boiled, and all that is needed is a little sugar.

There are several varieties of this peculiar kind of food mixture. Cocoa (the roasted and ground chocolate bean deprived of fat) may be substituted for the chocolate, or coffee may be employed instead. If coffee is utilized, only one-fourth of dried milk is put with it. In any case the ingredients are powdered separately and then mixed.

In a dry state the mixtures of milk and chocolate are pleasant to the taste and highly digestible, affording an admirable condensed food.

One advantage of this kind of food is that it is cheap, the skimmed milk being almost a waste product. It is composed mainly of the "proteids," or flesh-forming ingredients, of the milk and cocoa or coffee beans, with enough fat and starch to make it a well-balanced ration. If desired, the requisite sugar may be introduced into the original mixture.

A Contradicted Adage.

The adage, "Happy is the bride that the sun shines on," is one that is unknown in many lands. A Breton bride takes it as a bad sign when the day of her wedding dawns bright and sunny. Rain on her marriage morn is held to signify that all her tears are shed, and that she will, therefore, have a happy married life. A New York daily prints the following: "The earl of Simbrisk called the day before the wedding the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep as much as possible, with the idea of getting the mourning of life over, so that only what is joyful may remain. In some countries this result is attained by sousing the bride with water. The Greeks think that a thorough drenching of the bride will bring her lasting good fortune."

TEAM WORK DECIDED GAME FOR PLAINFIELD

Alis A. A. Defeated Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. at Elizabeth 17 to 0.

PLAYED THEIR BEST GAME.

ONLY SCORING DONE BY ALIS BOYS IN THE FIRST HALF.

Touchdowns Scored by Rapalje and Cuming—Radford Kicked One Goal—Superior Team Play Won Game for Local Eleven.

Good team work was instrumental in bringing about a victory for the Alis A. A. eleven of this city, against the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. aggregation on the latter's gridiron, Saturday afternoon. Alis rolled up 17 points against its opponents in the first half, which was all the scoring done on the gridiron during the game.

Alis kicked off, Elizabeth, securing the ball, brought it as far as the Plainfielders' thirty-five yard line, when a fumble was made and Rapalje fell on the ball. By steady work around the ends and tackles, Alis forged down the field, most of the brilliant plays being made by Rapalje, who carried the ball over the goal line before five minutes of time had elapsed. A try at goal from touchdown failed.

Principally by the same style of play, the ball was shoved across the Elizabeth's goal line twice, each time by Cuming, during the first half. Radford planted the ball between the bars from the first touchdown made by Cuming, but no goal was made from the final touchdown. Elizabeth was outgeneralled, the Plainfielders putting up the best game that they have played this season.

Rapalje was the star of the contest, but H. Smith, Woolston, Cathcart and Radford, of the Alis, also did good work. No scoring was done in the second half.

The line up:

Alis.		Elizabeth Y. M. C. A.
H. Smith	l. e.	Able-Broadhead
Rapalje	l. t.	Woosley
Pike-Egan	l. g.	McGrath

Cuming	l. h. b.	Krause
Woolston	r. h. b.	Moore, Desreismes
T. Smith	f. b.	Mill

Summary—Touchdowns — Rapalje, Cuming (2) Goals from touchdown—Radford. Time of halves—Twenty and ten minutes. Referee—Roger Erickson.

GIVEN FORTY DAYS IN JAIL.

MRS. SARAH WILLETT IN CITY COURT FOR KEEPING DISORDERLY HOUSE.

Her Place Has Long Been Suspected—Police Finally Obtained Evidence and Secured Conviction.

A long series of complaints on the part of the Organized Aid Association and residents in the vicinity culminated Saturday in the arrest of Mrs. Sarah Willett, better known as "Sal," charged with keeping a disorderly house in her apartments at Plainfield avenue and South Second street.

The place has been under police surveillance for a long time, as it was known the house was the rendezvous for West End characters of shady reputation. Not only was this fact apparent, but children in the neighborhood, according to Chief Kiely, gathered at the windows to witness the orgies which followed the frequent growler parties.

When arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, Mrs. Willett made a vehement denial of all the charges made by the police. They proved of no avail, however, as she was given forty days straight.

Reed, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, acting president of Columbia University: S. C. T. Dodd, general counsel of the Standard Oil Company; Assistant Postmaster General W. M. Johnson, Col Sheffield Phelps, Col. Samuel D. Dickinson, of Jersey City; Senator McCarter, Former Governor Werts, Congressman Benjamin F. Howell, Judge Blair, of Jersey City.

AID FOR THE HOME.

Borough School Children Will Contribute For The Benefit Of The Children's Home.

Following the custom in former years the pupils of the North Plainfield public schools will contribute barrels of clothing, groceries and other useful articles to the Children's Home, as a Thanksgiving offering.

Last year eight barrels of donations were the result of the pupils' efforts and this year an attempt will be made to eclipse that record for Superintendent Wightman has laid in ten empty barrels. The goods will be sent over to the home late Wednesday evening.

There are twenty children in the institution at present and all attend the borough schools, hence the pupils take an especial interest in the Home.

ABOUT PLAINFIELD.

Two Interesting Articles Appeared in Yesterday's Newark News.

The Sunday edition of the Newark News, contained two articles of local interest yesterday. The subject of one was "Cedar Brook Farm and Its Owner," being a sketch of the famous old homestead and its esteemed owner, Hon. James E. Martine, the genial "Farmer Orator." The other story dwelt upon the fire service and was entitled "Plainfield's Efficient Fire Department."

Both stories were well illustrated, following the custom of that progressive paper. Henry J. Talford, the Plainfield correspondent, is the author of the articles.

TROLLEY COMPANY SETTLED.

Robert M Clark Received Another Check This Morning From a Client.

Counsellor Robert M. Clark received this morning a check from the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company for settlement in full of the suit brought against it by Mrs. Margaret Cullinan, of Elizabeth. September 15, Mrs. Cullinan was forced off a trolley car, near Cook's Corner, and was injured internally. Her fall was due to the crowded condition of the car, which was an open one. The company refused to settle at first and allowed the suit to come to trial.

Death of Mrs. Robert Tingley.

Mrs. Helen Josephine Tingley, wife of Robert Tingley, of Stone street died at her home, early Saturday morning, after a lingering illness. She had been married but seven months. The funeral service will be private.

—All bills against the city must be in the city clerk's hands by Wednesday night to insure payment at the next meeting of the Common Council.

HOW GREATLY FAVORED ARE AMERICANS TODAY

Rev. D. J. Yerkes Preached a Thanksgiving Sermon To Members Of Junior Order.

PRAISE FOR PRINCIPLES.

GREATEST OF OPPORTUNITIES ARE OFFERED IN THE UNITED STATES.

Hundred Juniors From Local Councils Were In Attendance At The Services At The First Baptist Church Last Evening.

A patriotic Thanksgiving service was held in the First Baptist church, last evening, when the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, preached an appropriate sermon to members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. There was represented Franklin, Somerset and Benevolent Councils, of this city; Twilight Council, of Scotch Plains; William G. Holton Council, of Dunellen, and Friendship Council, of New Market, there being in all nearly one hundred members of the order.

Dr. Yerkes announced his text: "I will offer to Thee a Sacrifice of Thanksgiving." In the beginning the speaker dwelt upon the importance of being duly thankful for all blessings, material and spiritual. Referring to the Juniors, he said that the organization possessed a spirit of Americanism that is commendable. He thought all should be thankful for this great land, where every man stands on an equal footing. All should be thankful for being able to worship according to the dictates of one's conscience.

Dr. Yerkes recalled the persecutions of the early days, when people were burned at the stake for serving Christ. In the opinion of the speaker, America grants blessings that no other country does. He spoke of the well-paid mechanics in this country as compared with the pittance paid in other countries, and of the greatest of opportunities offered in America. He recalled how Thomas Scott and Andrew Carnegie, as very poor boys, arose to places of honor and distinction.

In conclusion Dr. Yerkes spoke words of commendation of the principles of the Juniors. He believed that the protest against the free admission to this country of persons not fit to come here was right and just, also the claim that there should be a longer time before naturalization.

Returning to the thought of Thanksgiving, Dr. Yerkes urged everyone present to return unto the Lord the thanks due Him for all the manifold blessings received at His hand.

REV. MR. GRIFFIN PREACHED.

Heavy Cold Prevented Pastor of Trinity Reformed Church From Going Out.

Owing to a heavy cold, it was not deemed advisable that Rev. Cornelius Schenck should venture out of doors yesterday and Rev. W. T. Griffin very kindly came to the rescue and preached at Trinity church morning and evening. On account of the wild storm there was a light attendance at the morning service to hear the earnest words of Mr. Griffin, but in the evening there was a larger attendance and all felt repaid for braving the storm, as they listened to the able sermon of Mr. Griffin.

L. L. Croom Honored.

At the election of officers of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey K. of P., held at the closing session of the convention in Newark, last week, L. L. Croom, of this city, was made Grand Lecturer. Mr. Croom has always taken an active interest in the affairs of the lodge and honor was conferred upon him in recognition of his services.

Quick Recovery.

Donald McInnis, of West Third street who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, was discharged from Muhlenberg hospital today. His recovery was one of the quickest for a case of this nature, ever experienced by the hospital attaches, only fourteen days elapsing from the time he was taken ill.

Played Havoc With Fences.

A horse, belonging to Peter Seader, escaped from the stable on Race street, Friday afternoon, and before it was captured, did considerable damage to the fences of property on Manning avenue. It was finally rounded up on Watchun avenue.

The Call of Moses.

At the meeting of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A., the subject of the lesson will be "The Call of Moses." Miss Spicer will teach.

MISSION SERVICE.

Rev. Dr. Morehouse, of Baptist Home Missionary Society, Spoke at First Baptist Church.

There was not a large attendance at the service in the First Baptist church yesterday morning, but those present were deeply interested in the remarks of Rev. Dr. Moorehouse, secretary of the Baptist Home Missionary Society. Dr. Morehouse has had a wide experience in this department of the mission work and his words telling of the progress of the work held the close attention of all.

The speaker took for his text the words "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ." He urged a more consecrated mission work among the pioneers of the west, the colored people of the south, the North American Indians, also among the inhabitants of Porto Rico, Cuba and Mexico, and the thousands of foreigners who are landing in this country daily. The speaker declared that upon the evangelization of these people depends the preservation of this glorious country.

TIED WITH KEARNEY A. C.

INITIAL GAME FOR YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION OF HOPE CHAPEL.

Has Absorbed The Old P. A. F. C. And Will Continue Schedule—Score Was 2 to 2.

Despite a chilling wind and drizzling rain, the P. A. F. C., or rather its successor, the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel, played a tie association football game Saturday afternoon with the Kearney A. C. The local team was composed almost entirely of new players, but it showed up very well, making two goals in the first half. The Kearney men played in ragged form, but also secured two goals in the first half, the only ones made in the game. Plainfield braced up in the second, but was unable to break the tie.

The P. A. F. C. has practically been absorbed by the Young Men's Association and will assume the former's schedule. A drawback was experienced Saturday, it being the first game, by six of the players being partially unacquainted with the rules.

Plainfield's goals were kicked by Smith and Galbraith, both of whom did very good work, as did also Turner, Nicholson and McComb.

The lineup was as follows:

Y. M. A.		Kearney A. C.
Dodd	g.	McPeck
Nicholson	f. b.	Smith
Turner	"	Kenworthy
Barry	h. b.	Hackett
McComb	"	Brokaw

AID FOR THE POOR.

Packing A Barrel At Park Avenue Baptist Church.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, together with the Christian Endeavor missionary committee, are packing a Thanksgiving barrel of eatables to be sent Mrs. Dassori, of Mariners' Temple, New York, for distribution among the poor of lower New York.

Donations are requested to be sent to the Park Avenue Baptist church any time today or tomorrow. Anything in the provision line is acceptable. Mrs. Dassori and her works are well known among the people in this city, and her many friends will undoubtedly avail of this opportunity to add a little good cheer for Thanksgiving Day among her sick and poor.

Special Sermon Postponed.

Upon request of a number of parishioners who were unable to attend on account of the inclement weather, Rev. John MacMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, postponed the special sermon which he was to have delivered last evening on "Twentieth Century Christianity and Popular Amusements." It will be given next Sunday evening.

Claimed Plainfield As Home.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, November 25.—A man, who gave his name as J. F. Long, of Plainfield, was found by Officer Knapp, on Summit avenue, yesterday afternoon, helplessly drunk. He was taken before Justice Toucey and fined $3.70, the odd amount being for costs. The money was paid late in the evening by friends.

Dance at Cranford.

The second grand annual ball of the Garwood Athletic Club, will be given in Assembly hall at Cranford, Thanksgiving eve. A large number of young people from this city expect to be in attendance.

SEVERE STORM SWEEPS THROUGH NEW JERSEY.

City and Borough Both Felt the Effects of the Wind and Rain Yesterday.

HIGH VELOCITY OF WIND.

RICHMOND STREET SEEMED TO SUFFER THE MOST IN PLAINFIELD.

Roof Blown Off Townsend's Marble Shop—Wind Was Cause of Supposed Fire—Trains Blocked on Jersey Coast Lines.

The wind and rain wrought havoc in this city and in the borough Saturday night and Sunday. While Greater Plainfield escaped much of the damage which was visited upon other places, still it came in for a good share of loss. Trees were uprooted, store signs blown away, plate glass shattered, roofs damaged and a general amount of devastation resulted.

At Townsend's marble yard the roof was blown from the marble shop.

The heavy wind yesterday afternoon blew a number of bricks down the chimney at the residence of W. C. Chamberlain, of East Third street, blocking the flue. The house soon filled with smoke, and the family, not knowing the cause, sent a still alarm to fire headquarters. The trouble was soon remedied.

Here the wind blew at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Reports from other cities show an increased velocity. Over in Elizabeth the lower end of the city was again flooded. Traffic was necessarily blocked on both the coast lines of the Pennsylvania and the New Jersey Central Railroads. From Staten Island comes almost a similar tale, the damage being great.

Richmond street, in this city, suffered to a great extent. A large tree was blown across the trolley track and the trolley cars, passing about 6 o'clock Sunday morning, were stopped. The skylight and plate glass window in the store of Sylvester Sharkey were smashed and the awning and plate glass window at the store of Thomas Callahan were damaged.

Over in the borough the storm got in its work. The tin roof on the barn in the rear of W. L. Smalley's butcher shop was completely lifted from the building and blown to one side. On a large shed in the yard of the shop there are signs that a roof once existed for some remnants still exist. A boot-black chair, which stood in the yard, was blown against the building and the fence separating the yard from that of J. K. Arnold's was blown down as was also the fence between the latter's yard and the rear lot at J. J. Stahl's.

One of the large four-lamp block signals, situated near Washington street, on the New Jersey Central, was sent down the embankment by the force of the wind and was totally demolished. The repair gang placed another in position today.

NO ORDINANCE VIOLATED.

City Judge Runyon Refused to Hold Young Men for Shooting Crap.

Albert Sutterlein and Joseph Traynor, two young men, were arraigned in the City Court, this morning, charged by Patrolman Vanderweg with shooting crap in the rear entrance of Washington Hall, Saturday night. As the city ordinance does not cover this form of gambling and the alleged offense was committed on private property, City Judge Runyon dismissed them. They were told, however, that if the case was taken to a justice's court, they might not fare as well.

DECLARED A FORGERY.

Note Presented to First National Bank With Signature of A. M. Runyon on It.

Among the papers received at the First National Bank, Friday, was a four months note for $255, dated July 22 and made payable to A. B. Whitehead, of Newark. It bore a signature purported to be that A. M. Runyon, and was endorsed by John Diefendorf, of Orange. Cashier David Runyon pronounced the note a forgery and when it was shown to A. M. Runyon it was declared so by him. The note was returned to the bank's correspondent.

Gashed His Arm.

While at work with a sharp instrument in the Pond Machine and Tool Company's Work's Friday afternoon, Bert Ford, of West Fourth street, cut a deep gash in his left arm near the wrist. The wound was dressed and sewed up by a physician. Mr. Ford will be unable to work for some time.

GOD MAKES NO MISTAKES.

INTERESTING SERMON PREACHED BY REV. J. W. RICHARDSON.

Dwelt On The Fact That Troubles And Difficulties Are All Part Of God's Great Plan.

One of those sermons which appeal to a person, especially to one in distress, was delivered by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. His subject was "Thawing and Freezing." He spoke in an eloquent manner on the troubles and difficulties which are sometimes experienced in this life and the beneficial and fruitful results which are attained thereby.

He said that the winter of adversity often prepares the soil of the soul to wheat. What are often called losses are frequently the very means chosen of God to bring a real gain. The winter which comes upon one's personal experience is not a haphazard event. It is as much under the control of God as the chariot wheels of the twelve months are. If one is troubled in his business affairs and has sincerely put the whole matter in God's hands and is willing to abide by His wise decision and planning, he may sit down in peace and await His revelation. The outcome may not be just as one has planned but he should teach his soul to believe that that is God's way.

The present result, uncomfortable as it may be, is the wise course. Remember that God makes no mistakes. He never becomes confused and sends winter when He should have sent summer. His remarks were illustrated by the story of the California farmer, who wished that bankruptcy might be averted by a large harvest. The wheat field was discovered on fire and the flames threatened the house. Quickly the farmer plunged furrows between the conflagration and the farm house and in doing so the plough struck a tin can, in which were $7,000 in gold.

The fortune had been waiting all these years and it took misfortune to bring it to the downcast farmer. God doesn't always send bankruptcy to His people nor does He always give them fortunes, but He cares for their interests.

THANKSGIVING AT CASINO.

Artists Who Will Take Part in the Vaudeville Performance.

One of the chief features of the performances to be given at the Casino, Thanksgiving Day, afternoon and evening, is Miss May Wentworth, a very charming actress of much ability who will appear with her company of five other artists, in a dramatic sketch, entitled "A Woman's Dilemma," which will be presented in the same manner as rendered by the talented young woman at the Keith's theatres in New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

Other artists who will appear in the great holiday bill of polite and refined high-class vaudeville, include Murphy and Slater, "Komedy Koon Kings;" George Cummingham, operatic baritone singer; William Raynore, black face monologue and parody singer; Galy and Paine, Irish comedy singing and dancing; the Jessups, comedy artists; and Alice Chester, piano monologue and sweet singer. The entire bill is one of merit and novelty and has never been equalled in this city. Reserved seat tickets are on sale at Armstrong's for both performances.

A Word From Sousa.

John Philip Sousa, director of Sousa's Band, says: "I take pleasure in recognizing the excellent work the Metropolitan Quartette did in my five days' festival at Manhattan Beach, commencing August 30 and ending September 3." The quartette will appear with Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, elocutionist, in the second entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course Thursday evening, November 28.

CIGAR SUPPOSED TO HAVE STARTED FIRE.

Flames Were Under Good Headway Before They Were Discovered.

LOSS WAS QUITE HEAVY.

AT FIRE IN HOUSE OF J. H. TIER, SR., OF BANK PLACE.

Loss Is Estimated at $3,500, of Which $2,500 Is on the House and the Rest on the Furniture —Covered by Insurance.

Fully $3,500 damage was caused by the fire which broke out at 2:30 Saturday afternoon in the large three-story frame house, owned and occupied by John H. Tier, Sr., of Bank place. Of this amount, $2,500 is placed on the building and the remainder on the furniture in the upper rooms, which was either burned or partially damaged. The loss in both cases is covered by insurance.

As near as can be ascertained, the flames originated in a room on the third floor, occupied by H. P. Hirst, the East Front street groceryman. He had been in his apartment after lunch enjoying a quiet smoke. Apparently the head of a match, used in lighting a cigar, flew into some clothing or else a spark from the weed itself dropped unnoticed in some inflammable material.

There was no sign of a fire when Mr. Hirst returned to work and it was some time afterward before flames were detected by a member of the family. They were then too far advanced to be combatted with alone.

An alarm was sent in from box 14, at Watchung avenue and East Front street. By the time the department arrived, the fire had eaten its way through to the attic and then spread in every direction, including an extension in the rear. Two rooms on the third floor were also wrapped in flames.

In order to prevent, as far as possible, loss by water, the chemical engine was used to good advantage and did much to keep the damage at so low a figure. Nothing was burned below the third floor and the water for the most part descended the stairs in the main hallway, clearing the adjacent rooms.

The roof suffered to the greatest extent, being practically ruined. All the clothing and the greater part of the furniture in Mr. Hirst's room was destroyed.

PRINCETON GLEE CLUB.

Appears at the Casino, Tuesday Evening, December 3.

Lovers of rollicking college songs, and who does not love them, will be glad to learn that the Princeton University Glee Club will give a concert in the Casino Tuesday evening, December 3. The Banjo and Mandolin Clubs also take part and an evening of rare enjoyment is promised.

Holroyd Andrews, the leader of the Glee Club, has his twenty-four singers well trained. The feature of the programme will be distinctive college songs ranging from the stately choral like "Old Nassau" to the latest popular medleys. All the varying moods of campus life are reflected in the music of the students' songs.

To those who have ever been to college they bring back memories of happy times, of dearest friends, and whether one has spent four careless years beneath the elms of a college campus or whether the privilege has not been his, these songs, full of the dash and swing and enthusiasm of youth, will make one feel young again and will do him good.

Modern Surgery Surpassed.

"While suffering from a bad case of piles I consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, "says G. F. Carter, Atlanta, Ga. "I procured a box and was entirely cured. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unecessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, burns, bruises and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

PRIVILEGES OF DIPLOMATS.

They Are Above the Law in the Countries in Which They Are Sent.

The recent arrest of a dipolmat's son for larceny and his subsequent discharge as a matter of international courtesy brings to the front one of the medieval customs that have survived to this day. Outside of the District of Columbia such an incident excites curiosity and also some adverse comment.

At Washington, however, people are accustomed to recognizing diplomats as above the law. Their carriages, for instance, are entitled to, although they do not always take, the right of way. Few, if any, of the ministers abuse their privileges. Commenting on the subject a lawyer said to a New York Times reporter:

"There is no more reason in this age of rapid transit and instantaneous communication around the earth for making a diplomat exempt from the operation of criminal law than there would be in granting the same sort of indulgence to those of our own citizens who have red hair.

"Two or three hundred years ago there was some sense in the internation law which holds an ambassador or plenipotentiary sacred. They were far away from their home, with which they could communicate only at long intervals. They represented their respective governments absolutely, and were compelled to act wholly upon their own responsibility. Such, of course, is not the case now. The minister, generally speaking, now simply carries out the cabled instructions of his government. If arrested for crime, thrown into prison, or even executed, it is doubtful if the interests of those whom he represents would particularly suffer."

Reliable and Gentle.

"A pill's a pill", says the saw. But there are pills and pills. You want a pill which is certain, thorough and gentle. Mustn't gripe. DeWitt's Little Early Risers fill the bill. Purely vegetable. Do not force, but assist the bowels to act. Strengthen and invigorate. Small and easy to take. L. W. Randolph.

A $7,000,000 BABY.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Inherits Estate of Lady William Beresford's First Husband.

James Hooker Hamersley, for many years a prominent figure in the fashionable life of the city, died of heart failure a few days ago at his country home at Garrison's-on-the Hudson.

Mr. Hamersley was the cousin of Louis C. Hamersley, the first husband of Lady William Beresford. Lady Beresford's second husband was the late duke of Marlborough, says the New York World.

Louis C. Hamersley left an extraordinary will when he died in February, 1883. He provided that his widow should have the income of his estate during her life, but upon her death the whole property, valued at $7,000,000, was to go to the male issue of his cousin, J. Hooker Hammersley. In event of the latter leaving no male issue, the estate was to go to such charities as his widow should name in her will.

At the time of Louis C. Hamersley's death J. Hooker Hamersley was regarded as a confirmed bachelor. But soon after he married Miss Katherine Chisholm, a noted southern beauty.

One baby daughter and then another baby daughter were born to the couple. But on July 2, 1892, a baby boy was born, and since then he has been called "the $7,000,000 Hamersley baby," although he is now a sturdy boy of nine years.

The boy is named Louis Gordon Hamersley, and his health has been guarded as carefully as if he were the heir to a kingdom.

SHE BOUGHT THE LOT.

Baltimore Man with Real Estate for Sale Made Effective Use of Billboards.

Honest advertising is hard to beat, as all business minds will agree, but here is a story of a little scheme that served the purpose quite as well as advertising, says the Baltimore News.

A man, well known in this city, had a piece of property in the northern section which he wished to sell. The property was on one corner of a conservative street and on the opposite corner was the residence of a lady who is well known in society and wealth. The man who owned the lot offered it to the lady at what real estate brokers term a "stiff" figure. She wanted the property, but not at the price.

The man, who, of course, will be designated as "mean," decided that the lady on the opposite corner should have the property and at his price. Now, the lady in question is orthodox to an extreme undreamed of by the most rabid conservatives. She is a white-ribbon lady, and she often shuddered at the "rude" pictures that had a change of bill weekly on the huge poster-boards with which the man adorned his lot.

Week after week pictures of actresses of the "few-clothes" variety were displayed on the posters and the lady was horrified. She offered to split the difference with the heartless man, but he held out for his price. Recently the lady paid it, and now the "nasty" billboards are missing.

ALL ARE FOUND DEAD

Eight Bodies Recovered From Burning Mine.

VICTIMS OF THE WHITE DAMP.

Party of Officials Had Entered the Mine on Inspection Tour, Believing the Danger Past—Flames Are Still Unquenched.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 25.—The dead bodies of the lost party of eight well known mining men who entered the West mine of the Pocahontas Collieries company on Friday morning last at 11 o'clock were recovered at 12:45 o'clock yesterday. At 7 o'clock in the morning a rescuing party numbering forty persons entered at the main entrance, bratticing the mine as they went in order to improve the circulation of the air. They had reached a distance of 3,000 feet from the entrance when they encountered such quantities of white damp that it was impossible to proceed farther.

Retracing their steps, they decided to make another attempt from the Tug river entrance, some six miles across the Flat Top mountain. They went in this entrance about 10:30 o'clock, and after going a distance of some 600 feet they found the dead bodies of A. S. Hurst, chief inspector; Bob Odham, subinspector, and Frazier G. Bell, mining engineer, all huddled together. From their positions they must have met death suddenly and without pain. All of them were lying face down, with no signs of a struggle. Hurst had made a pillow of his coat, on which his head rested.

The bodies of the other five members of the party, Superintendent of Mines Walter O'Malley, Joseph Cardwell, superintendent of the Shamokin Coal and Coke company; R. E. St. Clair, second assistant inspector; State Mine Inspector Price and Maurice St. Clair, subinspector, were found several hundred feet back in the mine, three of the bodies lying some little distance apart. Bob St. Clair and Joseph Cardwell were lying with arms clasped around each other cold in death. The bodies of O'Malley, Maurice St. Clair and Price were discolored and bruised about the face, showing signs of a struggle, it being very plain to see that they made a desperate attempt at retracing their steps to better air, but already had advanced too far into the deadly white damp to escape alive.

The fire is still burning in Baby mine, and the mine officials seem at a loss to understand how it will be finally extinguished. The only way, it is believed, is by flooding. This will be an enormous undertaking, as the mine is a drift mine. Mine experts claim there is great danger of explosions by flooding the mine, as when water comes in contact with the fire the generation of gas will be so great as to possibly blow away the whole side of the mountain.

A NIGHT UNDER WATER.

Fifteen Hours at the Bottom of New York Bay Unharmed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—In the presence of a big crowd which despite the storm assembled to witness the emerging of the submarine boat Fulton that craft rose from the bottom of the bay yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock with all well and greatly surprised to find there was a storm raging.

The test of the Fulton's staying powers was highly satisfactory not only to the officers of the company that built her and the naval officers present, but to those who went to the bottom in the boat. They report there was not the slightest discomfort to them during their more than fifteen hours of submersion beneath the surface.

Captain Cable of the Holland company, who was in command, said that the boat could have remained down for three months if there was food enough on board. Although there was but six feet of water over the top of the turret, those on board felt nothing of the storm. Through the night there was a light rolling motion to the craft, but this was ascribed to the regular motion of the water and not to the disturbance which was rolling the waves high on the shore.

The Consecration of Conaty.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25.—At the cathedral in this city yesterday morning Mgr. Thomas J. Conaty, rector of the Catholic university at Washington, was consecrated titular bishop of Samoa. The impressive services were graced by the presence of an unusually large number of archbishops and bishops of the American hierarchy, as well as many clergymen from all parts of the country.

Chile's First Iron Steamer.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 25.—The launch of the first iron steamer constructed in Chile occurred here yesterday and was a great success. The ceremony was attended by the president, Senor Jerman Riesco, the federal authorities and a large assemblage of people. The entire ship from keel to truck was constructed in this country.

WORK OF INTERIOR.

Secretary Hitchcock's Annual Report Published.

INDIANS, FORESTRY AND IRRIGATION.

These Are the Principal Topics Treated—The Building of Large Reservoirs Advocated For Reclaiming Arid Lands.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The annual report of Secretary Hitchcock of the interior department is made public. It indorses the conclusions submitted by Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones regarding the present Indian education system. The secretary says:

"The management of the Indian service in the field and in the schools, while satisfactory under existing conditions, is not deemed to be the best for the welfare of the Indians, and different methods will hereafter be adopted. This policy contemplates requiring the working by Indian allottees able to do so of a fair portion of lands allotted them and the contributing by their industry to their own support of all not entirely disqualified by actual disability, physical or otherwise, the discontinuance of the issue of rations to those able to support themselves and the extension to the latter of every possible aid for their well being and encouragement, the inauguration of industrial training in all schools where not now established, so that such Indians of both sexes may be taught the trades or industries adapted to their circumstances."

The income of the various Indian tribes from all sources during the year aggregated $5,338,880, a falling off of $260,952, mostly due to the expiration of treaty obligations.

The report says that the act of June 3, 1887, known as the timber and stone act, if not repealed or radically amended will result ultimately in the complete destruction of the timber on the unappropriated and unreserved public lands.

The time has arrived, according to the secretary, when reservoirs must be built and managed as part of a national system of forest and water conservation. They cannot be successful if maintained, however, without a thorough system of forest protection. The introduction of practical forestry on the forest reserves has now begun. The general policy as announced in an outline memorandum to the commissioner of the land office is that additional forest reserves, with boundaries drawn to liberate the smallest amount of scrip, should be created during this winter, the good will of residents in or near the reserves should be gained, forest fires guarded against, and the reservoir of the reserves should be made available for the conservative use of the people. Systematic investigation designed to make them accessible and useful should be undertaken, and each forest reserve and part thereof should be dealt with on its own merits.

Legislation to correct the abuses that have grown up in the practice of lieu selections of land is urged. The report highly indorses the work and recommendation of Commissioner of Pensions Evans and says that the veterans have no more sincere friend than their comrade, the commissioner, "who himself served as an enlisted man in the armies of the Union, and he but maintains and defends the honor of their patriotic service when, refusing to ignore both the letter and spirit of the law, he declines to permit the impostor, whether claimant or agent, to share in the bounty provided for the veteran and those dependent upon him."

On the question of reclamation of the arid region the secretary says:

"The investigations which have been carried on demonstrate that there is no one question now before the people of the United States of greater importance than the conservation of the water supply and the reclamation of the arid lands of the west and their settlement by men who will actually build homes and create communities."

It is recommended that construction be commenced at once as follows:

The San Carlos storage reservoir in Arizona, reclaiming 100,000 acres or more of public land at an estimated cost of $1,040,000; reservoirs in the Sierra Nevada in California for reclaiming desert lands in Nevada and the diversion of the St. Mary river into the head waters of Milk river in Montana.

An appropriation of $250,000 is asked to carry on the hydrographic work on the geological survey.

Greek Cabinet Resigns.

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 25.—As a result of the demonstrations against the proposed translation of the gospels into modern Greek the Grecian cabinet has resigned. This action was taken in spite of King George's efforts to induce the cabinet and M. Theotokis, the premier, to remain in office. M. Theotokis considers the responsibility of a judicial inquiry into the recent riots should be left to another cabinet in order that the truth may be established beyond suspicion.

Accidentally Shot.

BEDFORD, Pa., Nov. 25.—Benjamin Evans, aged fifteen years, was killed at his home through the accidental discharge of his shotgun. He lifted the gun from the floor, when the weapon struck a trunk and was discharged, its contents entering the young man's chin. He died a few hours later.

Consul Dickinson at Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 25.—Mr. Dickinson, the special diplomatic agent of the United States who has been conducting the negotiations for the release of Miss Ellen M. Stone, has arrived here from Sofia.

WILD NORTHEASTER

Wide Stretch of Coast Swept by November Gale.

SHIPS AND SUMMER RESORTS SUFFER

Heavy Damage Done by High Seas Along New York, New Jersey and Connecticut Shores.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The heavy northeast gale which raged along the coast for twenty hours did a vast amount of damage in and about this city. In the upper and lower bays the storm blew with great fury. An unusually high tide washed up on the Staten Island shores, doing considerable damage to docks, small boats and other craft. The Staten Island Rapid Transit railroad track between Tompkinsville and Stapleton was obstructed by wreckage from pile drivers and a small schooner which was driven ashore and the wreckage piled up on the railroad track. Trains could not be run on the South Shore division of the Rapid Transit company's lines, and all passengers from the city landed by ferryboats at St. George were compelled to travel by the electric roads. A heavy sea raged in the upper bay, and steamers which arrived during the night remained at anchor off the quarantine station. At Clifton, Staten Island, the Richmond Ice company's dock was undermined, and 600 tons of coal were lost and part of the Rapid Transit company's tracks swept away. At South Beach booths were swept into the lower bay, and a vessel moored at Stapleton drifted on to the beach. She was finally saved.

Driven by the terrific northeast gale, the highest tide ever known along the north shore of Long Island swept inland, leaving a ribbon of wreckage that girts the shore from Astoria, in Long Island City, out to Greenport, on the extreme end of the island.

Thousands of dollars of damage was done. Docks, boat and bathing houses were wrecked, and fleets of yachts which had been drawn up in supposedly safe winter quarters were floated off by the high tide and left stranded in many instances more than half a mile inland.

Washouts occurred on two branches of the railroad and trolley roads. Traffic was suspended on two branches of the Long Island railroad, while for more than half a day the cars of the New York and Queens County Electric railway were unable to get beyond Steinway owing to the tracks across the meadows being submerged by the tide.

Probably the greatest damage was done at North Beach, on Flushing and Bowery bays, where more than $20,000 worth of docks, paved walks, pavilions, places of amusement and other property was destroyed.

The entire fleet of the Williamsburg Yacht club was floated off by the tide and wrecked. In Flushing bay docks were damaged, boats battered to pieces and the Flushing meadows entirely submerged.

The same state of affairs obtained at Jamaica bay, Roslyn and other points.

An unusual number of trees and wire poles were uprooted and leveled by the storm in Brooklyn. Several small street washouts were reported from different sections of the borough.

The Tribune estimates the damage done by the storm on the northern shore of Long Island sound from and including City Island to the Connecticut line at $350,000.

LONG BRANCH SWEPT.

Big Iron Pier Gone—Hotel and Other Buildings Wrecked.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Nov. 25.—The full rigged ship Flottbek, which went ashore at Monmouth Beach during the gale, is now resting on the sands apparently little the worse for her experience, and her crew are being cared for by the life savers of Station No. 4. The tugboat Robert Haddon is a wreck, but her crew was saved. One man, unknown, probably a resident of Long Branch, was swept away when the iron pier was wrecked. Much property damage resulted from the storm all along that portion of the Jersey coast. Just before daylight a heavy crash was heard, and when daylight came it was found that the big iron pier had gone and that only a few waving spiles remained to show where it had been.

The United States hotel at Long Branch was wrecked early in the night. The gale started a corner of the roof, and the wind, getting under it, ripped almost the whole covering off and rolled it up and finally deposited it in the yard to the rear. Very little could be done to save the interior. The loss is estimated at $10,000 by a contractor who examined the building.

Along Ocean avenue several store fronts were blown in, and the rain beat in during the night before the openings could be boarded up. Many of the avenues are impassable, owing to fallen trees and fences being blown across them. The telephone service is almost at a standstill, owing to broken and crossed wires.

Heavy Losses at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 25.—The storm struck Asbury Park with more force than any in recent years. The wind during the night attained a velocity of seventy miles an hour and did much damage to cottages. The great waves rolled across Ocean avenue, and the surf rolled across the beach and into Wesley lake, overflowing it, something that never occurred since Asbury Park was located. The water of the lake flooded cellars and made the streets in that vicinity almost impassable. The waves beating under the floor of the Asbury avenue pavilion started the flooring and beams under it, and the pavilion is guarded to prevent foolhardy persons venturing on it. The sea end of the Asbury Park fishing pier is started and so damaged that it will have to be torn down and rebuilt. The fishing pier at Ocean Grove suffered almost as much. The Metropolitan hotel, one of the largest at Asbury Park, was swept of its roof, and the rain soaked down into the rooms, causing much damage. The piazzas of the Hotel Strand were torn off and the building considerably damaged.

Great Damage on Connecticut Coast.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 25.—The damage done by the severe storm of the last twenty-four hours has been the greatest in some instances in the history of the state along the water front, and the damage will reach $50,000 or more. At Shippan Ponit, in Stamford, several docks connected with summer residences were carried away by the unusually high tide, and the cellars of a number of buildings near the water front were completely submerged. Along the canal the water rose over the banks, and a considerable part of the lower end of the city was inundated. The freight offices of the North and East River Steamboat company were flooded, as were many of the shops along the canal. Milford probably suffered more than any other town on the Connecticut shore, and the damage is estimated at $10,000. The sea wall at Burwells Beach, recently built, was completely carried away. At Fort Trumbull Beach every bathing house on the beach was washed away, and the banks and lawns of the summer residences were destroyed.

Atlantic City Suffers Loss.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 25.—The severe northeast storm washed away a considerable portion of the board walk near the Inlet pavilion, involving a loss of several thousand dollars. The yachtsmen's wharf was also damaged, while small boats anchored near the inlet were torn from their moorings and washed to sea. Several houses on the upper end of the walk had steps torn away by the waves and the lower floors flooded. The street car tracks were submerged to such an extent that travel was interrupted for awhile.

On the Massachusetts Coast.

CHATHAM, Mass., Nov. 25.—The worst storm of the winter has been in progress here, the wind blowing from the northeast forty-five miles an hour. The life savers along the shore from Nonomoy point to Provincetown report the gale as very severe, with a high tide which has washed away miles of the beaches and made sad inroads into the headlands at many places.

A SERIOUS FIGHT.

British Force Captured and Afterward Set Free.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—This morning's dispatches from South Africa show that the recent fighting near Villiersdorp, southwest of Standerton, as to which Lord Kitchener reported nothing beyond the fact that Commandant Buys had been captured after attacking a patrol of 100 railroad pioneers, was really a serious affair.

It seems that Grobelaar's commando succeeded in surrounding and capturing a British force of 100 British Cape railway pioneers. Subsequently Colonel Rimington came up with re-enforcements and, after heavy fighting, compelled the Boers to retire and to release their prisoners. The British losses included Major Fisher killed and three officers wounded. The casualties among the men have not yet been reported.

With reference to the story that the British placed Boer women and children in front during the fighting at Graspan June 6 when General De Wet's convoy was captured, a story which has been spread broadcast on the continent as an example of British barbarity, The Daily Mail sent a dispatch of inquiry to Lord Kitchener, who replied as follows:

"The statement is absolutely untrue and devoid of all foundation. One child was killed, and one woman and one child were wounded by the Boers."

William T. Stead, lecturing in London yesterday, said he thanked God that Germany and Europe were bold enough to call baby murder crime. "Compared with England's conduct," he exclaimed, "Herod's slaughter of the innocents was saintlike. Great Britain ought to be beaten in this unjust war. In the American war we employed redskins just as we have loosed Kaffirs against the Boers, and, thank God, we were beaten."

Mr. Cleveland Is Better.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 25.—The condition of ex-President Cleveland, who is suffering with a cold, is very much improved. Dr. Wikoff, his physician, gave out the following statement for publication: "Mr. Cleveland is getting along very nicely and to all appearances is entirely out of danger. He passed a restful night and has had a very comfortable day."

Heavy Snow In Maryland.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Nov. 25.—One of the heaviest snowstorms for years has been prevailing at Oakland and Terra Alta, W. Va., on the summit of the Alleghany mountains. The snow has reached a depth of twenty-two inches. The snow is accompanied by a high wind, which is making it drift badly in places along the line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

COLON EXCITED.

Gunboat With Government Troops In Port.

COLON, Colombia, Nov. 25.—The Colombian gunboat General Pinzon arrived in this harbor yesterday. The excitement in Colon at once became intense. The Pinzon will not be permitted to land the troops she is carrying at this point. If such an attempt is made, the Liberals assert they will fire on them. It is thought the landing of the government troops from the gunboat should be effected up the Chagres river in the direction of Gatun station and at a point about five miles from Colon or on the beach south of Colon, where fighting would be permissible.

As a result of an exchange of notes between the United States gunboat Machias and the General Pinzon, Ignacio Foliaco, commanding the Pinzon, which has 600 men on board, has officially notified the American, British and French warships now in the harbor that he intends to bombard Colon at noon today, thus giving twenty-four hours' notice.

The various consuls are notifying their respective fellow citizens that refuge may be had on board the warships.

To bombard the town of Colon it is absolutely necessary to fire across the railroad tracks, and the railroad employees will probably refuse to work.

Lieutenant Commander McCrea of the Machias is the senior naval officer, and he awaits instructions from Washington regarding the threat to bombard.

Breastworks are being erected in the public thoroughfares of Panama. The townsfolk in the vicinity of these are hastily removing to safer places. All persons known to be Liberals are arrested on sight. The government has declared its intention to contest every inch of the ground if an entrance to the city is effected. It is reported that some seventy soldiers who were wounded at Perequito were landed on the island of Taboga, facing Panama harbor, to avoid creating alarm in Panama. Taboga is about eight miles from Panama.

Senor Delarosa, secretary to General Domingo Diaz, has arrived here. Generals Diaz and Lugo are expected at Colon shortly.

The situation here remains unchanged. Traffic across the isthmus is not impeded.

FILIPINO FORT TAKEN.

Lawton's Men Climbed a Precipice and Made Rear Attack.

MANILA, Nov. 25.—Captain Edward P. Lawton's company of the Nineteenth infantry has attacked and captured an insurgent fort on Bohol island, south of Cebu, in the Visayan group.

This fort was surrounded on all sides by a precipice, and the only entrance to the higher ground was guarded by a stockade with a line of intrenchments behind it. Captain Lawton sent Sergeant McMahon and twenty men to climb the precipice and attack the fort in the rear. Sergeant McMahon's party accomplished their task after three hours' arduous climbing through the thick undergrowth.

General Chaffee has ordered that in the future complete records shall be kept of all natives taking the oath of allegiance to the United States. Duplicates of these records will be signed in English and Tagalog.

The Philippine constabulary which was organized last August is proving itself a valuable adjunct to the military authorities and is making an enviable record.

The United States distilling ship Iris has been aground on a reef near Iloilo, Panay island, for three days past. The United States cruiser New York and the gunboat Yorktown have gone to her assistance.

The local steamer Alerta, with 200 passengers, including some discharged American soldiers, from Olongapo, Subig bay, to Manila, is believed to have been lost.

Serious Collision on Lackawanna.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The Buffalo and Chicago limited train on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad leaving here at 1:40 p. m. and a local train from Dover, N. J., to New York, were in collision yesterday afternoon at Morris Plains, N. J. The trains were on a stretch of single track. The engineers and firemen of both trains jumped. Those injured were: Engineer John Skillman of the limited, severely hurt; Fireman Charles Loper, same train, badly bruised; Conductor Charles Nicols, same train, bruised; Engineer Gosper Hill of the local, bruised; James Tinton of Morristown, passenger on the local, pinned down by wreckage of seats, thought to be very seriously hurt. Both locomotives were badly damaged and the tenders derailed, but the coaches of the limited stood the shock well.

STRIKERS CAPTURED

Miners Who Defied Judge's Order In Custody.

STATE TROOPS TOOK A HAND.

The Camp Near Nortonville, Ky., Declared to Be a Menace to the Public Peace and the Source of Armed Attacks on the Mines.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Nov. 25.—The camp of the striking union miners, a quarter of a mile from Nortonville, in the southeast part of the county, was marched upon yesterday by County Judge Hall, Sheriff J. H. Hankins and two deputies, Adjutant General Murray and his aids, Captains Ellis and Gordon, and two companies of the state guard—the Madisonville company, commanded by Captain Powers, and the Hopkinsville company, under Captain Strang.

Of the 200 men that had been in camp, defying the order of County Judge Hall to move, only twenty-five remained when the officers and the militia descended upon their stronghold. All of these were taken prisoners, though two afterward escaped.

Four large tents and all the camp paraphernalia except the arms and ammunition, which had been removed before the officers appeared, were confiscated and were loaded on a freight car brought along for the purpose and brought to Madisonville.

The captured strikers are now in jail here, charged by Judge Hall with a "breach of the peace, unlawfully assembling and banding together, thereby making the camp a menace to the public peace."

The move against the camp followed the refusal of the striking union miners to break camp after an order commanding that the union camp at Nortonville be disbanded by daybreak Saturday and that the campers assemble no more in the county.

Judge Hall issued the disbanding order after receiving sworn statements from more than 100 reliable men residing in the southern portion of this county, who swore that armed men went forth from these camps and were responsible for the nightly attacks on the mines and [illegible] property and homes of those who were peaceable, law abiding and hardworking citizens, that the union camp is an unlawful assembly of men banded together for the purpose of destroying property and intimidating men who persist in working independent of the United Mine Workers of America, who have had representatives in Hopkins county for more than a year trying to persuade and force the miners employed in the mines to join their organization.

After President Wood of the United Mine Workers and Judge Yost, chief counsel for the union, demonstrated their intention not to heed the orders of the court and defied the officers, declaring that they "would not move until they were moved," Judge Hall called on Adjutant General David R. Murray and the two companies of state guards from Madisonville and Hopkinsville that were here to help him disband the camp.

Suffocated In Hoosac Tunnel.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 25.—Eight track layers narrowly escaped death by asphyxiation in Hoosac tunnel, and one of their number, Michael Powers, succumbed. The party began to be overcome by gas and smoke in the tunnel and started for the portal. Some fell behind the others, Powers being the last. When the other seven reached the portal and found that Powers did not overtake them, they went back on a construction train and found him lying unconscious on the floor of the tunnel. He was taken on the train, but died before reaching the North Adams station.

Bear With Us Awhile.

The indulgence of the readers of The Daily Press is asked for a few days until the work of installing the new Simplex type-setting machine and the new "dress" is completed. The paper may be a little late in arriving at your homes and there may appear a trifle less news than usual. If you will bear with us for a week, we will be ready to give you better service than ever.

Good News.

It will be glad news to the people of Plainfield that there is actually a possibility that the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railroad Company is going to improve its service. There is surely need of it. At present Plainfield possesses a street railway service which it would be hard to beat for general inefficiency. The cars are poor and they are run on a very irregular schedule.

A conference was held between R. I. Tollit, chairman of the councilmanic street committee, and Col E. W. Hine, of the trolley company. Col. Hine has promised that the present troubles shall be remedied as soon as possible but asks the indulgence of the Plainfield public until the new equipment can be secured and the old put in good condition.

Those who have met Col. Hine have found him to be a man of delightful personality. He is also accounted a man of his word. It is to be trusted that Col. Hine will use his best endeavors to keep his promise. If the road was more directly under his personal supervision, the present state of affairs might have not been reached. He seems to appreciate the situation. If he succeeds in correcting it, the thanks of the community will go out to the Colonel.

There is no doubt, should all the householders in the city allow the city water faucets to run all day without hindrance, that the results might be serious, particularly if there happened to be a fire and an accompanying demand for a high water pressure. A steady increase in the amount of water used throughout the city would do much, however, to bring about the installation of water meters. If only the water company could appreciate the fact now and put in the meters without compelling the people to take more drastic measures.

It is a very commendable practice on the part of several of the local organists to give free organ recitals during the course of the winter. There is no doubt that such musical treats tend to educate the popular mind to an appreciation of good music. The man to whom music of any kind does not appeal finds something lacking in his makeup. That love, however, may be trained to greater and better enjoyment.

The holiday season is at hand and the local merchants are making extensive preparations for it. What is the use of going out of town to buy what you want when you can get it right here and at a reasonable price.

If that fence separating the tracks at the North Avenue station should be painted white or any other color, making it easily discernable, the people of Plainfield would be thankful.

It is a good thing to count your blessings at least once a year. Thursday is the day set by the Governor for that little operation.

PISTOL USED BY BOOTH.

Derringer with Which Lincoln Was Shot Is in Possession of a Philadelphia Man.

The assassination of President McKinley recalled to George Plowman, a theatrical architect of Philadelphia, the murder of President Lincoln by John Wilkes Booth at Ford's theater, Washington, D. C., on April 14, 1865. Mr. Plowman is the possessor of the Derringer, a small vest-pocket revolver, from which Booth fired the fatal shot.

"Several times it has been doubted that the Derringer which I have is the one with which Lincoln was murdered," said Mr. Plowman, "but there is absolutely no doubt that it is the same weapon. Three or four years after the shooting, while George K.

BOOTH'S DERRINGER.
(Picture of Pistol with Which Abraham Lincoln Was Shot.)

Goodwin and myself were running the Walnut Street theater in Philadelphia, the stage carpenter, who was working at Ford's theater the night of the assassination, put in an appearance at the Walnut Street theater. He informed Mr. Goodwin (they had been friends for many years) in a confidential manner that he had in his possession something that had caused him great anxiety. The carpenter, whose name I do not recall, told Mr. Goodwin in my presence that he had the Derringer that Booth had used to murder Lincoln.

"The reason he had not said anything about it prior to that time, he said, was because he was afraid of being arrested. The carpenter said he picked it up on the stage of Ford's theater after Booth had fled to Virginia. He pocketed the weapon and kept it a secret. He drew up a statement of the occurrence and signed it in our presence. Then he gave the Derringer to Mr. Goodwin. When Mr. Goodwin died his widow made me a present of the weapon, together with the stage carpenter's signed statement."

Mr. Plowman prizes the weapon very highly, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, and no amount of money could purchase it.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY.

Prof. George Edgar Vincent May Be Requested to Take Charge of the Institution.

Prof. George Edgar Vincent, who is prominently mentioned as the possible successor of Seth Low in the presidency of Columbia university, is one of the most capable educators in America, and at present an associate professor of sociology in the University of Chicago. He is a son of Bishop Vincent, of the Methodist Episcopal church, and for more than a dozen years he has been conspicuously associated with the work of the Chautauqua movement, the vast importance and possibilities of which he was one of the first to see. In 1885 Prof. Vincent was graduated from Yale and took advantage of an opportunity to study and to travel abroad. He was tendered his present post in the University of Chicago in 1892, and has collaborated with Prof. Small in the production of text books, upon the science of which he is a special student and an able teacher. He is not yet 40 years old, and hence may be said to belong to the ever-growing group of young men who are gradually filling up the big places in American institutions of higher education.

THE POINT IS—BE CERTAIN YOU ARE COLLECTING THE PROPER KIND, VIZ.: THE SPERRY AND HUTCHINSON STAMP.

IT is to be hoped that the local dry goods house, which published a very misleading advertisement—"No more trading stamps," is not so careless in all its statements to the public. GRAND ORGAN SELECTIONS.

ORGAN RECITAL BY WARD STEPHENS AT CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

Stormy Weather Kept Many At Home—Some Of The Selections Rendered By Mr. Stephens.

To a Plainfield of musical bent, the size of the audience which listened to the masterly organ recital given by Ward Stephens Saturday evening was very disappointing. The stormy condition of the weather, no doubt, was largely responsible for this condition, but one would think that more persons would have taken advantage of hearing a splendid programe under almost any circumstances.

The programme was a well selected one and it is almost unnecessary to say that it was magnificently rendered by Mr. Stephens, who is an organist of no mean degree.

His five numbers from Widor were especially pleasing. Naturally they are of a different order than Wagner's music and hence the prelude to Parsifal, which he played, was a delightful variation. The five numbers from DuBois' Messe du Mariage, which concluded the recital, were rendered in a manner which reflected favorably on Mr. Stephens' artistic ability.

The [illegible]en's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For cou croup bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

Miss Houseman Dies Suddenly.

The death of Miss Alice Houseman, of Central avenue, occurred at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. The cause of death was acute congestion of the lungs. She had been ill but two days, and her death came unexpectedly. A brother, living in New York State, survives her. No arrangements will be made for the funeral until he arrives here.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, Nov. 25.—Robert Cashin, a young lad who said his home was in Piscataway township, at the corner of Fourth street and Rock avenue, had a miraculous escape from serious injury, if not death, Saturday evening, in front of the Central Railroad station. The boy was on the freight from New York which passes through here about six o'clock. He had boarded it in the expectation of its stopping at the freight house, where he could alight. The train, however, did not stop, but passed through here at the rate of about thirty miles an hour. When the boy saw that he was being carried past where he wanted to get off, he became frightened and gave a frantic leap to the ground. He struck on his feet, but fell and was stunned, and but for the action of several men standing about, would have gone under the wheels. He was carried into the station and Dr. Brakeley was called, but the boy was found to be uninjured except for a slight shock, and was able to go home without assistance. It was the opinion of all who saw the accident that the boy was not instantly killed by the jump was the purest good fortune.

Saturday evening, W. B. Campbell, of Prospect avenue, put a pan of lighted sulphur in the kitchen of his home to fumigate the room and left it over night. Coming down early Sunday morning he smelt burning wood and went immediately to the kitchen where he found that the pan had in some unknown way been overturned, and the burning sulphur had set fire to the floor. A large hole had already been burned and the wood was blazing fiercely. He extinguished the fire, which would have doubtless burned the whole house, if it had not been discovered.

A number of persons, who are accustomed to wait in the trolley station, have lately complained of a large dog which is often left to guard a baby carriage until the owner's return and which will not allow any stranger to enter the building. One man was slightly bitten and a number of women badly frightened.

Scotch Plains, Nov. 25.—The heavy storm of Saturday night and Sunday morning did very little damage in town. The high winds broke a number of the dead branches from the trees, and those who were obliged to be out found it very disagreeable. The rain was a thing needed by nearly every one, as the cisterns in town were beginning to show the effect of the continued dry weather, and water was beginning to be a scarce article.

A number of the boys in the borough have been in the habit of making themselves a nuisance about the post-office. Friday it was found necessary to call in the services of Officer Scheelen before they would stop. Constable Scheelen warned them to keep away in the future or he would be obliged to arrest them.

Miss Louise Robison gave a pleasant social evening to a number of her friends at her home Saturday evening. Cards, music and social chat made the evening one of pleasure to all. Friends were present from Plainfield, Westfield, Rahway and the village.

Owing to the storm yesterday the services in the churches were poorly attended. Rev. Mr. Shott, of the Baptist church, spoke for a short while in the morning on the subject, "Four Views of the Christian;" in the evening, "Four Views of the Sinner."

"Thanksgiving" was the subject of an interesting meeting of the Baptist Young People's Society held in the parlors of the church last night. Miss Emma Clark led.

John E. Flannery spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. George Johnston, of Westfield avenue.

Miss Poole, of Plainfield, has been visiting at the home of Mrs. John Marsh, Jr.

Queen of Sweden Interested in Woman's Suffrage and Salvation Army —Romance of Empress and Archduchess.

[Special Paris Letter.]

QUEEN SOPHIA, the devoted wife of King Oscar of Sweden and Norway, is one of the most lovable women that ever sat upon a throne. She was a princess of Nassau when the handsome young ruler of the Scandinavian kingdom married her, in 1857. Nassau then was an independent principality. The family which ruled over the little state was rich and influential, and the match was considered a splendid one for the poor Swede. In 1866 the Nassau dynasty hitched its destiny to Austria's fading star and, like the houses of Hanover and Hesse-Cassel and a number of others who had opposed Prussia, it was "mediatized" and its territory incorporated in the Prussian kingdom. The Nassau family left the land its fathers had ruled for centuries and took up its residence in Austria, where its members live in luxury and seeming content. Queen Sophia, although not directly affected by the downfall of her house, took the change in its fortune seriously, and has never since taken an active part in the gayeties of her capital.

QUEEN SOPHIA OF SWEDEN.
(Woman Suffragist and Supporter of Salvation Army.)

As a girl she was reputed to be one of the exquisite dressers of her generation, but she has long since ceased to be a fashion plate:

"She's adorned
Amply, that in her husband's eye looks lovely—
The truest mirror that an honest wife
Can see her beauty in."

Queen Sophia is the mother of four sons, nice-looking chaps and men with high ideals. The second son, Prince Oscar, some years ago married Miss Ebba Munck, one of his mother's maids of honor, with the full consent of the queen.

Of late years Queen Sophia has taken an active part in the woman suffrage movement. She believes that woman, being a rational being, should have equal rights with man. Thanks to her interest in the matter, the women of Sweden and Norway have just been given the right to cast full ballots, precisely like the men. Among other things notable in her reign is her cordial support of the Salvation Army. When Gen. Booth first introduced his militant methods in the Scandinavian kingdoms he was not received too cordially. But the queen was impressed by the Englishman's system, and eventually joined the army herself. Her critics have expressed the opinion that her majesty's interest in religious and sociological matters is due to unhappiness in married life. Such, however, is not the case, as the relations between her and King Oscar have always been characterized by devotion on both sides.

THE EMPRESS FREDERICK.

Berlin Is Still Interested in Her Reputed Second Marriage.

BERLIN is still talking—in whispers, of course—about the will of the late Empress Frederick and that distinguished lady's relations to Count von Seckendorf. Emperor William has issued peremptory orders forbidding discussion of the subject, but to stop courtiers' tongues from wagging calls for more stringent measures than an imperial edict. In the minds of those in the inner circle there exists not the least doubt that the empress and count were married morganatically. Empress Frederick was princess royal of Great Britain when she married the crown prince of Prussia. Apparently the couple lived in peace and harmony, and when her husband, who had in the meantime become German emperor, died the widow's grief was sincere. Soon afterward she appointed Count Seckendorf marshal of her court and honored him with her complete confidence. Then rumor had it that the two were, one quiet night, married in the chapel of the empress' castle, without the knowledge and consent of Emperor William. The report caused intense excitement in court circles. Some believed, others ridiculed it. But when it became known that the empress had bequeathed the magnificent sum of $750,000 to the count, and that the impulsive William had conferred the order of the royal house of Hohenzollern on him, doubts vanished into thin air and people began to talk. One old court gossip is authority for the statement that the empress had always looked upon Seckendorf as her affinity and, although she paid him but scant attention while her husband lived, she frequently repeated Longfellow's lines:

"Ships that pass in the night, and speak each other in passing,
Only a signal shown and a distant voice in the darkness.
So on the ocean of life we pass and speak one to the other,
Only a look and a voice, then darkness again and silence."

The human heart is a mystery. Its longings possess king as well as peasant. The world probably will never know the truth about the departed empress and her second love; but it does know that while "Unser Fritz" lived his wife was his most intimate friend and most trusted counselor.

ARCHDUCHESS ELIZABETH.
(Austrian Princess Who Is to Marry Her Inferior in Rank.)

ELIZABETH'S ROMANCE.

Austrian Archduchess Places Love Above Rank and Station.

THE house of Hapsburg is just now furnishing another matrimonial sensation. After some little hesitation Emperor Francis Joseph has consented to the marriage of Archduchess Elizabeth Marie, daughter of the late Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, and young Prince Otto of Windischgraetz. The bride-to-be is in her nineteenth year. She is not as beautiful as most of the other Hapsburg women, but her face is expressive and sweet. She is said to be of a melancholy disposition and inclined to take life seriously. The bridegroom belongs to a family which, although mediatized, has equality of rank and reigning houses. He is ten years older than the archduchess, is a first lieutenant in a crack cavalry regiment, and will shortly complete his studies at the military academy and be attached to the general staff. The marriage will be a love match pure and simple. When the archduchess was wooed by a prince of the royal house of Wuerttemberg last winter, she informed him that she had resolved to wed the man of her choice, irrespective of rank, and advised the Stuttgart suitor to look elsewhere for a bride.

Archduchess Elizabeth was six years old when her father died, and she has inherited his frankness, his love of nature and outdoor sports, as well as his melancholy and romantic tendencies. She is now quite a tall girl, blonde, with beautiful blue eyes and expressive features. She has received a most careful education, speaks German, French, English and Italian fluently, and sings and paints. But driving, riding, cycling, skating, tennis and dancing are her favorite pastimes, and it was at her ball, in March, 1900, that she first met the man who is to be her husband. After that they met quite frequently.

Emperor Francis Joseph did not break up the match, in accordance with a declaration said to have been made many years ago, that he would not oppose any union wished for by any members of his house, should the marriage be the outcome of pure affection. That the venerable monarch has been true to this sentiment is evidenced by the fact that only a few years ago a daughter of Archduke Joseph married the head of the house of Thurn of Taxis, who belongs to the same rank of nobility as Prince Otto of Windischgraetz; while the heir to the throne, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, was morganatically married to Countess Chotek, now known as princess of Hohenberg. And only a year or so ago the emperor sanctioned the marriage of Archduchess Stephanie, widow of Crown Prince Rudolph, to Count Lonyay, a Hungarian noble of the lowest rank.

Archduchess Elizabeth is the emperor's favorite grandchild and would inherit the thrones of Austria and Hungary, should the diet ever conclude to revoke the Salic law. She is deeply attached to the lonely old man who has suffered more than any other ruler of our times, and their friendship has repeatedly been made the topic of poetic effusions. On the other hand, the archduchess has nothing but contempt for her stepfather, Count Lonyay, who, she believes, married her mother for purely monetary reasons. But stepfathers usually are not objects of affection to adult daughters, and her dislike must consequently not be considered a reflection on the count's character.

NEW DRESS MATERIALS.

Colors and Textures Worn by Fashionable Women.

Dressy costumes are made in the palest of pastel shades, chief in cafe au lait or a tender gray. Broadcloth is their material. For lesser occasions there are charming zibeline effects both in pastel colorings and in reds and browns. Black rough goods, striped in white hairlines, with a sunny effect thrown upon them in speckled wool, are the greatest novelties of the season. Many homespuns are seen in colors flecked with a contrasting shade, the black and white, however, being far the most stylish. Misty stripes, checked effects and mixed colorings are much sought after for winter tailor mades.

The novelty of the day is called peau de chagrin. It is a kind of short haired zibeline, supple and soft to the touch, and it generally comes in a biscuit or oyster shell tint. The new materials are all manufactured in very wide breadths, which does not go to prove that we are to have shorter skirts. The fact is that Parisiennes will not welcome the short skirt, because they have, as a rule, long, flat feet, and consequently an abbreviated skirt, such as we could wear, would not be becoming to them.

DAINTY GOWN OF CREAM CHIFFON.

Stripes are popular in cloths as well as in silks and satins. For instance, an astrakhan striped cloth, with the stripes wide apart, is made in two shades of the same color contrasted.

A dainty gown for a young girl is the subject of the picture. The material is white chiffon trimmed with bands of yellow lace. This lace is in a dotted design.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART PETTICOATS.

They Are Made With Much Fullness Around the Feet.

The winter petticoats are made with much fullness about the feet. Following the example of the dress skirt, however, the top of the petticoat is very much gored and fits snugly about the hips. In choosing silk for a petticoat avoid the tempting glace which shines so alluringly. It is abominable to make, abominable to wear, and it rustles far too much to be in good taste. Broad yokes share favor with narrow bands, through which the gathering string is run. The new skirts are sufficiently gored and fitted not to require the wide yoke, however.

NEW PETTICOATS.

Many of the newer petticoats are made with a train. The reason of this is that they are often used as slips, particularly in the case of nonsilk petticoats, which save one's silk slip skirt. To uplift a petticoat that is trained a hook and eye are applied somewhere about the center seam.

For ordinary wear skirts of moirette, alpaca and sateen are useful. They are made with fancifully tucked ruffles. Sateen also makes a good petticoat, but gloria silk, a mixture of silk and linen, is especially desirable, as it is lightweight and closely imitates silk.

Two useful and stylish petticoats are shown in the cut. One is of tucked black gloria silk. The flounce is laid in tiny tucks in order to give additional fullness. Six inch wide ribbons give a dressy appearance to the otherwise plain ruffle.

The second petticoat is more elaborate. It is made of taffeta, with the ruffle cut into scallops edged with two rows of fussy ruching. The upper part of the flounce is laid in clusters of little tucks.

STORIES OF RICHES.

They Come from All Parts of Our Wonderful Country.

New Deposits of Precious Metals and Minerals Discovered in the Far West—The Wonders of San Nicolas.

[Special California Letter.]

THIS is, undoubtedly, the golden age of the scientist and explorer. Modern discovery has made transportation and communication between distant points so inexpensive and easy of accomplishment, and new inventions rendered it possible for excavating and prospecting to be carried on so rapidly that work which formerly required years of labor can now be accomplished in a few months. Not many years have passed since the financial world was electrified by news of the discoveries of precious metals at Cripple Creek. That the wonderful fields in that vicinity are not likely to be soon exhausted is proven by the great gold strike just made here. It is believed that the miners have found the dome of a large crater from which immense wealth will be extracted. Sylvanite and rich quartz glitter in florine tale. The vein seems to rise from a chimney in which is a great lake of unknown depth. The decomposed matter is of a bluish color and sparkles with grains of precious metals. Thousands of tons are already in sight.

Wonderful stories reach our ears of the great mineral wealth of the Philippines, and as soon as the government paves a legal way, it will be eagerly trodden by hurrying feet from all parts of the world.

A discovery of great interest to geologists as well as to seekers for wealth has been announced from Arizona. What is said to be the finest marble in the world has just been found near Camp Bowie by L. R. Legier, of Phoenix, who brought to the knowledge of the world in 1881 the big marble deposit in Gunnison county, Colorado. Mr. Legier has been searching Arizona for marble for 15 years. He has found it in small quantities in almost inaccessible localities, on several occasions, but a few days since he came suddenly upon marble ledges of inestimable value right where soldiers of the regular army have camped for 20 years, totally unconscious of the wealth that lay near them. In one place the largest marble ledge is said to be three miles long on the surface and nowhere has it yet been found to be less than 1,000 feet wide. In this vicinity is marble enough of various kinds to supply the world. A large portion is said to be of finer quality than the best Carrara marble. It is fine and close grained. In a deep gorge about a mile from Camp Bowie the marble is black and surpasses that of Ireland, Belgium or Egypt, formerly

"HELEN'S DOOM," WHERE BLACK MARBLE DEPOSIT WAS FOUND.

STONE FOREST, SAN NICOLAS.

the only countries where the stone had been found. This ledge is 300 feet wide. For miles stretches a vein of marbles of all colors and a marble mountain rises here, a great mass.

Soon after gold was discovered in California the gorge was the scene of one of those terrible tragedies which people of the present day of luxurious travel find it hard to comprehend. David Easton started to accompany the family of his fiance, Helen Hight, a beautiful girl, 18 years old, in their long journey across country from Ohio to the coast. While passing through the Chirachuhua mountains, the party traveling with them got far in advance of the Hights, who stopped to repair a broken wheel. Suddenly a band of Apaches attacked the little company in the rear and all were at once killed or mortally wounded, except Helen and Easton, who were subjected to the most cruel tortures their tormentors could devise. Easton was finally fastened to a cactus bush in such a position that the sharp needles macerated his flesh to the bone and doomed to thus witness the end of the girl whom he loved. He finally tore himself loose and rushed to the brink of the precipice, over which Indians were holding the girl. As she fell to the rocks, 1,000 feet below, he attacked the murderers and sent four of them to the same doom, then loosened a bowlder which rolled crashing among his pursuers and escaped down a trail, where he was soon afterwards found, wounded and dying, by some of the emigrants who had returned to ascertain the cause of their companions' long delay. The marble mountain forms a massive monument to the sufferers in the tragedy.

There is a mountain of marble near Colton, Cal., where stone for building is quarried. In an excavation at the top large quantities of concrete are manufactured. The Channel islands, off the Pacific coast, nearly opposite this point, present scenes of great interest to the anthropologist. Of these the best known, of course, is Santa Catalina, a resort of such prominence that everyone has more or less knowledge of its strange caves and grottoes, where the remains of an extinct race may be seen. Heretofore the other islands of this group have been, as a rule, neglected by what is now known as the civilized world. Toward one of these, San Nicolas, public interest is now especially turned, because the University of California is about to begin the most thorough exploration of it ever made. It lies 60 miles off the coast of Santa Barbara and Ventura counties. Strange presences seem to pervade all of these little islands, where peoples of other days and customs lived, worked and loved. On San Clemente are enormous mortars and pestles and indications that the ancient inhabitants were a giant race. San Miguel is chiefly interesting from its topography. Great pillars twist around winding caves and rugged canyons suggest attractions to the explorer. Scientists from the Smithsonian institution have secured quantities of ornaments and utensils of bone, shell and stone from Santa Cruz. On San Nicolas are most abundant evidences of a people of large stature. The islands are seldom visited and loom in lonely desolation on the blue ocean. Science has thus far been able to tell us little of the origin and life of these aboriginal settlers and how and why they disappeared so completely. As far in the past as history deals with the islands skeletons by hundreds have been strewn over San Nicolas. Peculiar stone utensils have been found among the skeletons, indicating a civilization which so far has not been comprehended.

In 1835, 16 members of a strange Indian race were known to live here, and Franciscan padres from the Santa Barbara mission made an attempt to rescue them. A sudden storm drove their sloop from the shore when all the Indians were on board but one woman. Its occupants were all lost, as the sloop was cast on the rocks of Point Conception. Traditions existed among the fishermen of a lone woman at the island, and in the fifties a small expedition landed and found her in a costume of colored bird skins eating blubber from a seal, which she conveyed to her mouth with a bone knife. On seeing the men, she smiled, and falling on her knees, prayed to the sun. On arriving at Santa Barbara she prostrated herself in adoration before a man on horseback. Two weeks later she died from the effects of food to which she was not accustomed. This was a great disappointment to scientists, who hoped to learn from her lips the traditions of her race. The Island of San Nicolas is ten miles long and four wide at its widest point. It consists of a nearly level plateau at an elevation of 800 to 1,000 feet. Two-thirds of the surface is covered with drifting sand, the remainder affords excellent pasturage for thousands of sheep. Sheep shearers and shell gatherers are chiefest among its infrequent visitors. Coral Harbor is the only safe landing place and its entrance is but six or seven yards across. White pelicans in large numbers promenade its strip of beach. Circular depressions are the only marks of ancient dwellings of which none of the materials used in construction remain. Immense shell mounds and bones of fish, seals, whales, sea otters, foxes and birds show that the inhabitants were fond of animal food. The quantity of these proves that the population possessed healthy appetites.

Biologists say that the number of varieties of mollusks in San Nicholas are not exceeded in any region of the same area. From one of the elevations, the peaks of all the Channel islands, some 40 miles distant, are visible through the clear atmosphere. On one side of the island is a sparse, petrified stone forest.

VICTIM OF A CURSE.

Louisville Wonders at Weird Prophecy by Seeress.

Cursing Woman Brought Death to a Popular Young Physician and a Female Prophet Foretold the Catastrophe.

Many are the strange causes of death that have been ascribed by coroners' juries, but none, says the Chicago Tribune, can equal that given by a seeress of Louisville for the inexplicable death of Dr. Alfred C. Lemberger, of that city. For that matter, no death ever occurred under stranger or more dramatic circumstances, for Mrs. Peterman, the seeress, not only gave the cause for the death but predicted it as well, and this prediction included also the death of Dr. Lemberger's horse, his colt, and his last hunting dog, all of which occurred exactly as she prophesied it.

"A woman's curse"—that is the only reason given. "A woman locked his heart up with a curse and he died," declared the strange prophetess. "I know that would not be a reason for a court of law to consider, but it is a true reason, as true as that God is in Heaven. No one who knows the facts can doubt it."

Never has Louisville been the scene of a more tragic occurrence than the death of Mr. Lemberger and his hunting stock. Three weeks ago he was well and strong and happy.

He was a member of a well-known club. One evening as he sat at a card table with a number of friends he said, between deals:

"Boys, I will die within two weeks, if the prophecy of a woman made today comes true."

From that time on the physician's friends gave him no peace. They styled him "The Deader," and never met him without inquiring as to his "latest last words."

"Dead yet, Lem?" was their common salutation, and the doctor was at first as gay as the gayest. He was gay for at least three days, and then one morning his fine, blooded mare was found to have the colic. A veterinary was summoned and everything possible was done to save her, but she died before noon. Dr. Lemberger went down town feeling queer. On the way he met a friend going out of town, satchel in hand. He told him about the mare.

"Well, Lem, old boy, I won't be here when you die," said the friend, "but here is good-by, anyway. I have half a mind to stay and be in at the finish, but I have imperative business in Chicago. Last words written yet? No? Remember, I always thought well of you when you were alive." And with these cheering words the friend went on, leaving the doctor feeling even stranger. From that time on he went about like a man in a dream. Though he wanted to believe the prophecy was a "fake" he could not. He looked at the life about him as an alien would. "I don't belong here," he said to himself.

Two days after the mare died the colt caught pleurisy and died. Next day the last hound ran off and never returned. Dr. Lemberger took every precaution. One day he went fishing, but left careful advice at home as to every step he should take and when he should return. He never went out alone at night. The ninth day came and drew to a close. That night the physician sat again in the card game and laughed at his own presentiments.

"Honestly, I feel creepy," he said, as he dealt the cards. The game was pitch. Three was bid while the doctor was picking up his cards. When it came to him he did not speak. Every one looked up. The doctor was leaning against the table, staring vacantly. One man touched him. Dr. Lemberger was dead. The prophecy had been fulfilled.

When an investigation was made it was found that the physician had been called to treat a little girl for diphtheria. He placarded the house. The parents disagreed in the diagnosis. The child died. After her death the mother came to his office, and, looking him in the eyes, said: "I wish you ill; I wish that your horses will die, that your dogs will die, and then that you will die and burn for evermore."

Dr. Lemberger thought she was crazy and had her taken home. Soon a valuable dog disappeared, and, having failed to trace it, he visited Mrs. Peterman, who is a soothsayer. She told him a curse was on him and he would die. He laughed at her, but she visited his house and told him the same thing. Now the prophecy has been fulfilled and the curse as well, and Louisville is wondering where the seeress and the cursing women got their power or their knowledge.

Large Goat Herds, No Forests.

Greece pays dearly for her goats. They are everywhere, and wherever they are young trees cannot grow. The semi-final and final play for the Holiday cup was the event Saturday morning on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course. W. F. Murray from scratch played Howard C. In the final play, VanBoskerck beat Murray one up. This gives the winner permanent ownership of the cup.

There were only four contestants for the Golf Committee cup who turned in their scores in the afternoon, although there was a large number of players on the course. W. L. A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

City Board of Health is Preparing For a Possible Smallpox Epidemic This Winter.

MANY CASES NOT FAR AWAY.

LOCAL HEALTH BOARD WILL NOT BE CAUGHT UNPREPARED.

Special Attention Given to Vaccination of School Children—Nearly All Vaccinated Within the Last Seven Years.

In order to properly combat with and guard against an epidemic of smallpox, in case the dread disease should make its appearance in this city, the local Board of Health has already made ample provision for dealing with an epidemic. While it is mere supposition at present, such an epidemic is likely to occur at any time. Many cities in New Jersey and some in close proximity to Plainfield are reaping the results of insufficient preparation, deaths occuring daily. In Newark there are at present about 125 cases, while Elizabeth has enough to keep its officials busy.

The strict measures adopted by the local board will make it almost impossible for the disease to get a foothold in this city, but the danger can never be overestimated. An isolation hospital, located in the farmhouse on the Smock farm, owned by the city, near the disposal beds, has been placed in shape for the reception of patients, where they will be afforded all the modern conveniences and methods for fighting the complaint. A special corps of nurses has also been appointed, the members of which will respond to duty immediately upon being called.

Special attention is being given to vaccination and there is hardly a pupil in the public schools who has not been treated within seven years, the time in which the virus is supposed to run its course. For convenience, the school principals have been requested to prepare separate lists of the pupils vaccinated and those who have not been within recent years. In the event of smallpox making its appearance in this vicinity, the latter will be sent home.

PRIZES AWARDED.

As A Result Of The Contests Held At The A. O. H. Fair.

The various contests held in connection with Ancient Order Hibernian fair last week, have been decided. Miss Maggie Flynn received the bicycle, having brought in $116.75. Miss May Mulligan, her opponent, returned $108. Samuel Flatley won the gold watch. He turned in $130. His opponent, James Fitzgerald, collected $59.

The fair was a great success and the order will make a goodly sum of money.

Local Endeavor Meeting

The Local Union Christian Endeavor will hold a union Thanksgiving service next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, lasting three-quarters of an hour. E. E. Anthony will conduct the service. There will be special music. The offering will be for the Children's Home. All are cordially invited to attend.

ACTION IS EXPECTED SOON.

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL GOVERNORS ARE NEARLY READY.

Another Meeting In The Course Of A Fortnight When A Definite Report Will Be Made.

Not much progress was made at the meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital held at the Public Library, last evening. The various committees reported but there was nothing of special interest in their reports.

Naturally interest is centered in regard to the progress made in the plans for the new hospital. In this matter the appointed committee stated that it was not prepared to make a definite and complete report, but that it would be able to do so in a short time. For this purpose, as well as several others, a special meeting of the board will be held in about a fortnight.

Ellis W. Hedges, medical director, made the following report: cases remaining since last report 14; total admitted 28, males 14, females 14; discharged cured 19, males 14, females 5; discharged improved 2, males 1, females 1; discharged not improved 1 male; died 1; remaining 19; dispensery patients 30, males 22, females 18; visits 135, males 101, females 34.

A manganese steel casting, weighing seven and a half tons, has been received at the Hibbard-Bodman-Ely Safe Company plant from the Taylor Iron and Steel Company, of High Bridge. It will be used as a back to a burglar-proof safe of the largest size made by the company.

MOST POPULAR YOUNG WOMAN

RESULT OF VOTING CONTEST HELD AT SOMERVILLE.

Miss Ida May Irving, A Young Newspaper Woman, Was Thus Honored In Recent Contest.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Somerville, N. J., November 26.—The people of Somerville have just closed a public voting contest for the most popular young woman.

A handsome gold watch has been awarded Miss Ida May Irving, a talented young newspaper woman, she having received over twelve thousand votes for that honor, winning the compliment by over two thousand majority.

Miss Irving is local editor of the Somerset Democrat and the society reporter and theatrical critic for several Metropolitan newspapers. Miss Irving's style of writing is crisp and breezy and her articles in the local columns of the Somerset Democrat are always rounded out in pleasing sentences.

MISS IDA MAY IRVING.

The portrait of Miss Irving herewith presented was taken a few years ago, and it is not one that does her anywhere near full justice. She is a graduate of the Somerville public High School and also of Stewart's Business College, of Trenton, N. J. Miss Irving's popularity is not confined to Somerville alone. She has hosts of friends throughout all of Central New Jersey.

Miss Irving is a granddaughter of Jacob Boice, of Somerville, who older Plainfielders will recall as a former business man there, he having at the close of the war of the rebellion a coffee roasting establishment on Somerset street, in a building opposite French's mill.

THANKSGIVING OFFERINGS.

Miss Wentworth And Company Will Be Chief Attraction.

A bill, in which the general equipoise is well preserved and in which there is much that is pleasing, is offered at the Casino, Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, afternoon and night. May Wentworth and company head the bill in "A Woman's Dilemma." The title might with equal appropriateness be made plural, for the predicament in which one woman finds herself is no less complex than the dilemma in which another is placed, but it is a roar from start to finish.

In addition to Miss May Wentworth and her company, a number of other well-known artists appear. They are all of the same standard of excellence as Miss Wentworth, former members of Weber and Field's traveling combinations, and "head liners" on the bills of Keith's and Proctor's at different times. A more refined and high-class entertainment has never been presented in this city. Reserved seat tickets at Armstrong's.

CHARITY WORKERS MET TO DISCUSS PLANS

Helpful Conference Under Auspices of the Organized Aid Association.

ADDRESS BY H. M. MAXSON.

AN INFORMAL DISCUSSION FOLLOWED HIS TALK.

Twenty-five Present Representing Different Lines of Local Charitable Work—Feature Was Address by Mr. Maxson.

A very helpful conference was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Plainfield Relief Association, West Front street, under the auspices of the co-operative committee of the Charity Organized Aid Association. There were twenty-five persons present representing the various churches and charity societies of the city and borough. This was the third conference of a similar nature held and it proved to be exceedingly interesting.

The feature of the meeting was the informal talk given by Superintendent of Schools Henry M. Maxson, who is president of the Charity Organized Aid Association. His talk was regarding the principles of charity from a practical standpoint. It was a clear and convincing argument in support of charity as conducted along the proper lines, and would apply to charity work in any part of the country.

Following Mr. Maxson's talk there was an informal discussion. It is very difficult to persuade some people from bestowing charity in the old indiscriminate way, but progress in this direction was reported.

It is proposed to hold another similar conference in January and all the friends of the Charity Organized Aid and charity workers are earnestly invited to attend and join in the discussion. It is possible that some well known charity worker will be engaged to speak at the conference.

AGAINST POLYGAMY.

Mass Meeting to be Held Here Thursday, December 5.

The strong public sentiment that a constitutional amendment is necessary in order to check the alarming growth of Mormon polygamy in this country, has reached such a height, that a large mass-meeting to further the interests of that object will be held in the Crescent Avenue church on the evening of Thursday, December 5.

The principal speaker on that occasion will be Mrs. Frederick H. Bennett, president of the Woman's Club, of Englewood, N. J. Mrs. Bennett has spoken many times on this theme, and her arguments are convincing. She is considered to be one of the finest woman orators of this State.

Big Results.

ODD LADIES' SOCK SOCIAL.

SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR GIVEN IN WASHINGTON HALL LAST EVENING.

Each Guest Made a Contribution According to the Size of His or Her Hosiery.

An effort on the part of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., to add to the amount in its treasury, was crowned with success when a very large number of friends attended the "sock" social given in its rooms in Washington Hall last evening.

The idea is not a new one in this vicinity, but always takes very well. The plan is to issue invitations together with a miniature sock into which an amount, corresponding to twice the size of the accepting person's own hosiery, is put. This entitles the person so doing to admission.

In return for the contributions, last evening, the members of Mizpah Lodge gave the following programme: Piano duet, the Misses Madeline and Lydia Edgar; recitations and monologue, John Manley; "coon" vocal selections, Miss Madeline Edgar; vocal and instrumental selections, Black Diamond Quartette; piano selection, Miss Lydia Edgar; monologue, O. E. Hepburn. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. Andrew Cox, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Agnes Randolph, Mrs. David Bush, Mrs. S. C. Terry and Mrs. Margaret Sweeney.

FINE BANJO CLUB.

Some Great Music When the Boys From Princeton Come to Town.

No one has ever yet been known to be sad while good banjo music was being played. There is something antagonistic between the merry twang of the banjo and the blues.

Good musical critics say that if David had played the banjo before Saul rather than the harp—that the young man would not have had to dodge so many spear thrusts.

Be that as it may, when the eighteen Princeton students in the Princeton Banjo Club get to playing at the Casino next Tuesday evening a medley of darkey airs and ragtime melodies, arranged by the club's accomplished leader, Charles Hamilton Bradley, of Washington, D. C., the sourest and saddest man in the audience will invariably grow jolly and affable and care wherever he may sit, flies out of the widow.

DR. BRETT COMING.

Will Speak at Thirteenth Anniversary of Park Ave. Baptist Endeavorers.

The Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will celebrate its thirteenth anniversary Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the chapel of the church. A pleasing programme has been arranged and a most cordial invitation is extended to all Endeavorers and others to be present.

Dr. Cornelius Brett, former president of the New Jersey Endeavor Union, will address the meeting. As this will be considered a meeting of the Plainfield Local Union, a large audience is anticipated. A social hour with refreshments will follow the meeting to which all will be cordially invited to remain.

Preparatory Services.

Preparatory services will be held in Trinity Reformed church Friday evenin at 8 o'clock. The elders will meet afterwards to receive all those who desire to unite with the church, either by letter or on confession. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated Sunday morning.

WATER METERS AT ELIZABETH

WILL SOON BE INSTALLED TO STOP WASTE OF WATER.

Elizabeth Water Company Intimately Connected With Plainfield Company, Takes the Action.

Elizabeth is soon to have water meters. This news will probably be received with much satisfaction by the exponents of the introduction of the meters in this city. The fact has its particular significance in that the men who control the Elizabeth Water Company are in control of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, and the action in one city, if satisfactory, may mean its continuation here.

The trouble in Elizabeth appears to be that a great deal of water is wasted. Such a state of affairs may exist in this city in the near future, and then the same argument, which brought the company to action at the county seat, will move it to act in Plainfield.

Concerning this introduction of meters, the Elizabeth Journal, of yesterday, says:

"The Elizabeth Water Company has begun an examination of the fixtures and pipes in houses supplied with water, with a view of installing meters for the prevention of the waste of water. It is estimated that about 20 per cent. of the city's water supply goes to waste, because of the condition of pipes and fixtures or through the negligence and carelessness of consumers.

"It is to remedy this evil that the company has undertaken this departure. The inspector, a young man, has not met with a kindly reception at all houses. On Marshal street some of the property owners thought he was too curious, and insisted that he should show his credentials. He has been supplied with a certificate which gives the object of the examination.

"The investigation will be beneficial to all consumers, and the company asks for its representative a kindly reception and the needful assistance to make the examination successful."

CHANGE IN MANAGEMENT.

Y. M. A., OF HOPE CHAPEL, MAY TAKE UP ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

Plainfield Association Football Club is Preparing to End Its Career—May Transfer Its Schedule.

The Plainfield Association Football Club, the organization which for two years has been the exponent in this city of the style of football popular on the other side of the Atlantic, has decided to go out of existence. Lovers of the game, however, will not be deprived of witnessing their favorite sport, as the passing team will undoubtedly be succeeded by another, equally as strong.

It has been the aim of the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel to place an association team in the field, but a favorable opportunity has never offered itself. When the officials heard the P. A. F. C. was on the eve of disbanding, the subject of forming an eleven and assuming its schedule was broached. It was favorably accepted and as a trial six Y. M. A. players assisted in last Saturday's game, although the contest was under the auspices of the P. A. F. C.

The association officials were well pleased with their showing and the question of formally assuming the P. A. F. C.'s schedule will be decided upon at a meeting to be held this evening.

Junior Endeavorers of Park Avenue Baptist Church Gave Successful Affair.

IN CHAPEL OF THE CHURCH.

A REALLY GOOD PROGRAMME WAS RENDERED DURING EVENING.

Chief Feature Was the Hoop Drill By Eighteen Girls—Those in Charge of the Different Tables—Committee Which Arranged Affair.

A measuring party was the pleasant affair given at the Park Avenue Baptist church under the auspices of the Junior Endeavor Society last evening. Mrs. W. S. Lowry, the superintendent of the Juniors, was in charge of the programme. She was ably assisted by Mrs. E. F. Vail, who had coached the children in the parts assigned to them.

The attendance was quite gratifying and the patronage of ice cream, cake and candy, which were the chief articles on sale, was especially good. Throughout the Sunday-school room, where the party was held, decorations in green and white prevailed. The children, who participated, were all dressed in white with sashes of green, making the scene very effective.

The programme, which was issued, ran thus:

We invite you to come to our party of Measure,
But before you leave home, will you try and find leisure,
To look at your stockings and count up the inches
In the foot of the same; don't get one that pinches.
Please bring us two cents for each inch you may find,
And when planning for this, you will please keep in mind
We have ice cream, and cake, and candy for sale,
So bring some more money, and come, without fail.

The entertainment was good. Miss Florence Smalley rendered a piano solo and George Rogers recited. Albert Swentzel sang in a manner that prompted three encores. Another piano solo was contributed by Miss Alice Rose and a recitation was given by Miss Arline Brown.

Probably the most pleasing part of the programme was the hoop drill given by eighteen of the young girls. Those in this part of the entertainment were the Misses Grace Weeks, Margaret Ostrom, Mildred Ovam, Alice Brown, Elinor Stuteman, Bernie Swentzel, Maud Harris, Arline Brown, Beulah Rogers, Mabel Stutsman, Lillian Cuming, Mary Leveridge, Ethel VanWinkle, Marjorie Brown, Martha Soper, Edith Whitney, Susie Whitney and Autumn DeLaney.

The ice cream and cake was in charge of Mrs. Frank Ostrom. The candy table was presided over by the Misses Elsie Giles and Emily Runyon. Miss Cora Brokaw acted as chief waitress. Assisting her were the Misses Violet VanWinkle, Viola Hellyer, Florence Cuming, Vida Whitney and Mary Kelley. Aaron Thompson and J. M. Hawkins also aided in the affair. The funds derived from the entertainment will be used for church purposes.

ALL BILLS PAID.

Republican City Committee Ends Year With Balance on Hand.

The Republican city executive committee met last evening in the rooms on Park avenue and concluded the business for the present year.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Newcorn for the efficient work performed by him as secretary and treasurer.

A Profitable Battle.

The members of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church are rejoicing over the fact that their organization will clear about $100 from the recent "Modern War of the Roses," entertainment and supper, notwithstanding the fact that their expenses were over $80. The money will be devoted to missionary purposes.

LITERARY.

The Christmas number of "Success" will bring delight, comfort, cheer, and inspiration to thousands of homes. It is a number rich with interesting, timely articles, many of which have the true Yuletide ring. The opening article is a masterly production from the pen of the Chinese Prince, Yo You Chun, a nephew of the emperor of China, who says America should establish universal peace. This belief is exemplified in a poem by Henry Tyrrell. Alexander K. McClure, in an article entitled "Greeley's Ambition Culminated in His Fight for the Presidency," graphically describes the famous journalist's great ambition and its failure. Ella Wheeler Wilcox contributes an article on envy and greed which all should read, and Harriet Prescott Spofford glorifies her sex in an article entitled "Motherhood Links Divinity with Humanity." James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, in an effective style tells "How to Get and Keep a Position." Governor McSweeney, of South Carolina, outlines the coming Charleston Exposition. Chauncey M. Depew, Marquis Ito, Henrick Ibsen, Guillermo de Castro, M. Del Casse, Sir Thomas J. Lipton, and other distinguished men tell of the great progress the first year of the twentieth century has made. There are two interesting fiction stories, by Frank H. Spearman and Hezekiah Butterworth.

There is no lack of the Christmas spirit in the December number of The Ladies' Home Journal. Among the stories that go to fill this largest number of the magazine ever issued are: "The Baby Behind the Curtain," by Elizabeth McCracken; "Christmas Eve on Lonesome," by John Fox, Jr., the Kentucky author; "How the First Letter Was Written," by Rudyard Kipling, and the first part of an amusing story of Western ways called "The Russells in Chicago." "The People Who Help Santa Claus" are told about; the Rev. David M. Steele relates some pathetic stories of the New York poor, and Elliott Flower delightfully describes "The Linfields' Christmas Dinner." The second room of the "Bradley House," the library, is shown in detail. Mr. Bok's editorial is headed "Personal," and that it is. There is a charming Christmas play for children, and a double page of college girls' pictures, which shows groups of students from almost every well-known girls' school in the country. This is the first installment of The Journal's great "picture story" of "What a Girl Does at College." The regular departments are most ably presented by their respective editors, and the holiday cover is the work of Thomas Mitchell Peirce. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

HAND TO HAND FIGHT

Lieutenant Van Schaick Has Encounter With Filipinos.

TWICE WOUNDED, BUT WILL RECOVER.

The Affray Occurred Near Cavite, and the Insurgents Were Punished—The Visayas Leader to Surrender.

MANILA, Nov. 26.—Second Lieutenant Louis J. Van Schaick of the Fourth infantry, while scouting with a few men of that regiment, met 150 insurgents who had attacked and sacked the hamlet of Siaraca, near Cavite. Upon seeing the Filipinos Van Schaick ordered his men to charge them. The command was obeyed, and Van Schaick, being mounted, reached the insurgents sixty yards in advance of his men. He killed three of them with his revolver.

An insurgent fired his rifle point blank at Van Schaick at four paces, but missed. Lieutenant Van Schaick was then knocked from his horse. He jumped to his feet and engaged in a hand to hand conflict with the enemy, using the butt of his revolver. He sustained two severe wounds, one of which nearly severed his wrist. At this point the lieutenant's men arrived, rescued him and put the insurgents to flight. Van Schaick is in the military hospital at Manila and is doing well. He has already been recommended for a medal of honor for bravery in a previous engagement.

General Hughes, commander of the department of the Visayas, reports that negotiations are about completed for the surrender of the insurgent leader Samson on Bohol island. This surrender will doubtless end the revolt against American authority in Bohol, as Samson is acknowledged to be the chief insurgent leader there.

Some Postal Figures.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Third Assistant Postmaster General Edwin C. Madden in his annual report recommends the consolidation of third and fourth class mail matter, an increase of the limit of indemnity for the loss of registered matter from $10 to $100 and that postal employees be made liable for the value of registered matter lost through their carelessness. The total postal revenues for the year from all sources were $11,631,193, being $3,923,727 less than the expenditures. This is exclusive of the cost of transporting the mails over the subsidized Pacific railroads that have not yet settled their bonded accounts with the government. The total value of stamped paper and stamp books issued during the year was $104,785,987. The issue of postage stamp books is regarded as a successful experiment.

A Kentucky Quarrel.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Nov. 26.—During a quarrel here William Bradley, a brother of Representative Elect Bradley, was shot by J. W. Hancock. Two boys were hit by stray shots, but not seriously wounded. It is said Hancock pulled his revolver first, but that Bradley got the drop on him. They then separated, and Hancock went into a hardware store near by and shot Bradley as he passed. Bradley has a bad scalp wound, and his forefinger is almost severed. Hancock assisted last week in serving papers on the strikers at the Nortonville camp. He insists that Bradley was pursuing him into the hardware store.

The company has started work on the foundation of a power station at Framingham, from which the line will be operated.

WIDESPREAD RUIN.

Reports of Damage by Storm Are Multiplied.

LONG ISLAND AND JERSEY HARD HIT

Scarcely a Building at Long Branch Escaped the Gale's Fury—Summer Homes Along the Coast Suffered.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Reports of the damage done by the storm on Saturday night and Sunday continue to come in. There are not many new startling facts coming to light, but the details from points on the Jersey coast, the southern coast of Long Island and the upper shore of Long Island sound show that the destruction was widespread and the monetary loss much heavier than at first supposed.

Long Branch reports show that hardly a building there escaped some damage. It is figured that if the storm had lasted another twelve hours the result would have been a ruined city.

An instance of the great force of the wind is shown by a plank from the roof on the shore end of the pier. This plank is about 20 feet long, 7 inches wide and 2 thick. It was torn from the roof and up ended apparently and whirled into the air and clear across Ocean avenue and struck the Lenox hotel head on. It was driven into the side of the building to a depth of four or five feet at a height between the second and third stories. It still sticks out of the wall.

On Long Island many portions of the Long Island railroad tracks are still submerged. Besides the loss resulting from stoppage of traffic, it will take many thousands of dollars to repair the breaks. Temporary repairs are being made as fast as possible. The damage along Flushing creek alone is estimated at $50,000. Huntington, Long Island, suffered most severely. Yachts and boathouses were swept away, while piers went out to sea by the hundred in that vicinity.

The wealthy New Yorkers who have summer houses on the upper shore of the sound visited them, to find wreck and ruin in all directions. The shore improvements are in ruins, while fine shade trees are laid low and extensive lawns piled high with sand and wreckage.

Reports still come in from points in New Jersey, on Staten Island sound and the surrounding inland waters. It will take days to figure out the loss.

Advices from Toms River, N. J., say that the wrecks of four barges lie along the coast in the vicinity of Barnegat light. They came ashore during the storm and are rapidly pounding to pieces in the surf. There will be no salvage from them, as they are breaking up rapidly under the continued heavy sea.

The barges were the Grant, Wilmore, Davis and Whitman. Each barge had one man on board. Two of the men were saved through their barges being driven far enough inshore for the life savers to send them a line. The other two barges stranded farther out, and the men were washed overboard before the barges worked far enough in to be reached. The bodies of the two men washed ashore. They were interred at once. Their names are not known. Descriptions of them were taken by the life savers.

C., Nov. 26.—Eugene Brooks, elder of Dowie's Christian Catholic Church In Zion, has been found guilty and sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labor for aiding and abetting John Rogers, who was recently found guilty of manslaughter for not providing his infant children with medical attendance when they were suffering from diphtheria, from which they died. Brooks will appeal.

Belated Icebergs.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 26.—Four large icebergs are visible from this port. They are drifting south into the track of Atlantic shipping. Icebergs have never before been known to pass here so late in the season. Their presence is consequently all the more dangerous to ocean shipmasters, who do not expect to find icebergs on the Grand banks.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Secretary Wilson's Report Shows Substantial Improvements.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The annual report of the secretary of agriculture, Hon. James Wilson, is considerably larger than in former years. The secretary announces an important extension of the forecast field of the weather bureau, which now includes reports from certain points in the British isles and on the continent of Europe, from the Azores, Nassau, Bermuda and Turk's island. The Atlantic forecasts based upon these reports now form part of the regular night forecasts issued in Washington. Three new forecast districts have been established—in Boston, New Orelans and Denmark. An extension of the forecast to farmers through the rural free delivery is contemplated. Substantial improvements are reported in the department's system of wireless telegraphy.

A large portion of the report covers the subject of animal industry. The grand total of animals and animal products exported during the year exceeded $250,000,000 in value.

The organization of the bureau of plant industry is reported.

Another of the newly organized bureaus is that of forestry. The secretary reports that this bureau is co-operating with the federal government, with several states and many private owners in handling their forest lands. Altogether assistance has been asked for a total area of 52,000,000 acres, of which 4,000,000 are held by private owners. The work of forest management is reviewed in some detail.

The secretary expresses the belief that irrigation will in the near future become a subject for legislation by congress, there being important reasons why it should have the attention of that body.

"It would never do," added Sir Thomas, "to give up when only a pulse beat came between us and victory." The ovation to the challenger for the America's cup was marked with the greatest enthusiasm.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

One of the Finest in Pennsylvania Dedicated at Towanda.

TOWANDA, Pa., Nov. 26.—The dedication of the beautiful soldiers and sailors' monument took place here today with great pomp and ceremony. Governor Stone and staff, General Daniel E. Sickles, General Horatio King, Levi G. McCauley, department commander G. A. R., and other notables were present. In the parade which occurred previous to the dedicatory ceremony were several companies of state troops, led by the Ninth Regiment band, Grand Army posts, Sons of Veterans, independent batteries and many civic bodies.

The monument cost $20,000 and is said to be the most beautiful of its kind in Pennsylvania. It is thirty-three feet high, cut out of solid Vermont granite from a design by Passiteur. On two sides are striking basreliefs, one representing the battle of Antietam, the other Pickett's charge at Gettysburg. The four figures surrounding the base represent infantry, cavalry, artillery and the navy. The whole is surmounted by the figure of a color bearer.

The monument stands directly in front of the new two hundred thousand dollar courthouse, facing the main street of the town.

Pittsburg Switchmen Strike.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 26.—Switchmen on seven railroads of Pittsburg, having decided to strike, went out at 6 o'clock this morning. At a meeting of the Brotherhood of Switchmen last night, which was attended by about 600 members, this action was decided upon, and the result of this movement can only be conjectured. In anticipation of possible trouble the Pennsylvania railroad made application to the city police department for sixty officers to be on hand in the Union depot yards at 7 o'clock this morning, and in the Baltimore and Ohio yards fully 100 Pinkertons are on duty. The demand of the men is that the Chicago rate be paid here. This rate is 27 cents an hour for day conductors and 29 cents for night conductors of switch engines; helpers, 25 cents day and 27 cents night.

A Rear End Collision.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 26.—New York Central train No. 57 (Buffalo local) was in rear end collision with train No. 207 of the Auburn branch on the bridge over St. Joseph street here yesterday. As both trains were moving in the same direction and slowed down before pulling into the station the impact was comparatively slight. However, the rear coach of the Auburn train was wrecked and thrown across the track, while the engine of No. 57 was severely damaged. The passengers escaped with a shaking up.

He is survived by two sons, ex-Assemblyman Benn Conger and Frank Conger. The deceased was one of the wealthiest men in Groton.

MARINES ON GUARD.

Americans From Battleship Iowa Land at Colon.

ISTHMIAN TRANSIT IS REOPENED.

Fierce Fighting on the Railroad Line Between Panama and Colon—Bombardment of Latter Town Postponed.

COLON, Nov. 26.—An armed guard of marines from the United States battleship Iowa has re-established the transit across the isthmus, and details from the Iowa's marines are now protecting each passenger train.

There has been fierce fighting at Empire Station, on the railroad line between Panama and Colon, between the insurgents and the troops of the Colombian government, with very heavy losses on both sides.

Transit traffic had been suspended for several hours, when the United States cruiser Iowa landed 200 men.

At a conference Sunday night the commander of the General Pinzon agreed to postpone landing his troops until Friday. The vessel left in the morning, it is supposed for Porto Bello.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the schooner Clapet and a railroad barge returned to Panama, bringing 350 men from Chorrera, being the remainder of General Alban's expedition.

Great crowds gathered at the wharf to witness the landing of the soldiers. They were received with bands of music, but the music sounded mournful and more like a funeral march than the joyful strains of welcome to a victorious army. General Alban looked his usual and calm self and acted more like a man on whose hands time hangs heavily for want of something to do than one coping with grave responsibilities under trying circumstances.

At half past 3 in the afternoon at the head of 700 men General Alban left Panama by train for Empire Station, where the Liberals were reported to be in fairly strong numbers. His purpose was to surprise and rout them. The train bearing these troops was held up just before it arrived at the Culebra station owing to the Liberals opening fire on Alban's advance guard. Alban disembarked his men from the train, which returned to Panama. The fighting at Culebra lasted from 4:40 until 9 p. m.

The Revs. Loveridge and Jacobs, Baptist and Wesleyan ministers respectively, narrowly escaped being shot. Their house in Culebra was riddled with bullets.

The government troops continued to advance, and the fighting was stubborn all along the railroad line and continued until Empire Station, a mile and a half distant, was reached. The Liberals continued slowly to retreat, Alban's men following them, until the latter eventually reached Matachin station. Here he met and conferred with Captain Perry of the Iowa, who was returning from Colon on an armored train.

Between the stations of Culebra and Empire over 150 killed and wounded men could be seen along the track. The sight was grewsome. There is no proper Red Cross organization, and the wounded lack care. The Liberals at Colon declare the majority of the men killed on the line to be Conservative troops and that the rebels are still in force along the railroad.

WASHINGTON ADVICES.

Captain Perry of the Iowa Crosses the Isthmus.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Later advices showing the situation on the isthmus to be still unsettled contain the information that free transit by way of the railroad has been re-established. These advices came in a dispatch received by Secretary Long from Captain Perry of the Iowa, who had made a trip across the isthmus from Panama to Colon, from which place he sent a telegram.

The purpose of the guard presumably is to prevent interruption to the free passage of trains by insurgents congregated along the line of the road.

Mr. Herran, the charge d'affaires of the Colombian legation, is very well satisfied with the tenor of the advices which have come to hand from Acting Governor Arjona of Panama, who reported that, the rebel army having been defeated at Culebra and Emperador, General Alban had now marched on Colon.

Nebraska's Official Vote.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 26.—The official count for Nebraska of the November election, just completed, shows that Sedgwick, Republican candidate for supreme judge, has a plurality over Hollenbeck, fusion, of 12,659 and a majority over all of 6,751. The regents of the university, Ernst and Calkins, Republicans, have an average plurality of 15,171. The total vote in the state was 204,192.

Have Patience.

Despite our best efforts, we were a little late in going to press yesterday. The next few days may see us similarly handicapped. The new Simplex type-setting machine is now set up and running under the charge of an expert, who is instructing our own operators how to run it. The Daily Press will be ready to appear in its new "dress" next Monday afternoon. After that, we can promise you better service than ever. Until that time we again ask your indulgence for being a trifle late and for the reduction in the amount of local news published.

A Worthy Object.

In these times of general happiness and prosperity, it is well to remember that there are those in the community whom fortune has not favored and to whom trouble and adversity has come. Some are struggling along alone. Others have been in such unfortunate circumstances that they have been compelled to ask aid from their more successful friends. It was in an attempt to provide organized and regular assistance when necessary that the Plainfield Relief Association was formed. That object has been accomplished.

It is not surprising that in a community the size of this that there are always demands for temporary assistance. It could hardly be otherwise. These demands naturally increase when the cold and stormy days of the winter season begin. It has been the custom of the Plainfield Relief Association, since it was organized, to provide a Thanksgiving dinner for as many of its beneficiaries as possible. This year will be no exception.

An appeal has been made to the people of Plainfield for donations for that work of the association. Out of the plenty which will prevail at many Plainfield homes, Thanksgiving Day, it is but fair that a little should be given to those who cannot afford anything but the bare necessities of life. Everyone of us has something to be thankful for, some more than others, perhaps. Open up your heart, therefore, to the less fortunate one and share with him some of the good things with which you have been blessed during the last twelve month.

Donations for this very worthy cause will be received at the rooms of the Plainfield Relief Association today and tomorrow. Either provisions or cash will be very welcome. Clothing is also welcome there at all times.

The question of the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield is one that will surely have to be answered affirmatively sometime in the future. It is only a question of time. It is going to be a serious problem, just how to accomplish this desired end but it will come nevertheless. The news that the coming Legislature is likely to consider one proposed solution of the problem has aroused considerable interest throughout the State. It not only affects the city and borough but both counties, Union and Middlesex.

A New York firm of bankers has tested the value of newspaper advertising, says the Philadelphia Record and one of the member expresses the opinion that it is only a question of a short time when all bankers will adopt the methods of the merchants in increasing their business. "We began by using the Sunday dailies in this city," he says, "and have rapidly added the newspapers in other cities to our list. Returns on our advertising were satisfactory from the start."

When you make your decision to get your money's worth of water, don't forget to let the Plainfield Water Supply Company understand that you are a strong exponent of water meters. The sooner the company realizes the inevitable, the sooner the meters will come.

This week ends the period of early closing at the local stores until the first of the year. In holiday timee most of the stores remain open until considerably later than usual. Those who can, and have any consideration for the clerks, will do their shopping early in the day.

State Senator Charles A. Reed has been honored this fall with invitations to the social functions given in honor of the Governor-elect. Senator Reed is now figured as one of the leading Republicans of New Jersey.

The Children's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For co croup bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

THE ROLLER BOAT.

Inventor Gets Her Across the St. Lawrence, but Sticks In the Mud.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Knapp's roller boat has demonstrated its ability to roll. In a blinding snowstorm, with a stiff north wind, it rolled from Prescott across the St. Lawrence river to Ogdensburg, but missed the channel to the upper harbor and rolled into the soft mud on a bar abreast the city and settled hard, surrounded by snow and ice. A steamer following the roller was unable to get near her owing to shallow water. Efforts to tow the boat by long hawsers into deep water were unsuccessful, and she may not be released until spring. The inventor and a stockholder who were on board were taken off in small boats. The inventor claims success.

The boat is 110 feet long and 22 feet in diameter. An engine is suspended in a car in the center. The motive power is applied in the form of a climbing engine. Mr. Knapp says he will now build an ocean roller boat 800 feet long and 200 feet in diameter, with a capacity of 4,000,000 bushels of wheat and a speed of twelve knots an hour.

Mrs. Bonine Unmoved.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The trial of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine for the murder of James Seymour Ayres, Jr., at the Kenmore hotel last May began in real earnest yesterday. The preliminary details as to the finding of the body, the location of the furniture, blood stains, etc., were all in with the conclusion of the testimony of J. F. Drew, the capitol policeman, who was on the stand when the court adjourned last Friday. Baker, the man who saw Mrs. Bonine descend the fire escape; Hopkins, who roomed over Ayres and raised the first outcry; Miss Woolums, who roomed under Ayres, and Miss Lawless and Miss Minas, who roomed on either side of him, testified yesterday. The two latter were regarded as star witnesses, but they testified to no facts not developed at the inquest. Mrs. Bonine throughout the trial, when witnesses described the cries, groans and throat gurgling of the dying man, remained absolutely unmoved.

Fighting Porto Rican Illiteracy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—M. G. Brumbaugh, commissioner of education for Porto Rico, in his annual report says the 1,000 schools there, good as they are, cannot successfully cope with the tremendous illiteracy and the vast army of children in need of education in Porto Rico. There are 34,000 children in school this year, and the enrollment next year will be 50,000. A large normal school has just been opened at Rio Piedras to meet part of the demand for teachers. An annual appropriation by congress of not less than $300,000 per annum for ten years is urged. This, the report says, would equip the island with proper school facilities for 150,000 additional pupils, which, with the present enrollment, would make above 66 per cent of the school population of the island.

Coal Barges Leave Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 26.—The river coal combine has succeeded in starting south 1,750,000 bushels of coal, employing 135 barges. The bad condition of the channel at Logstown, near Sewickley, made it necessary to start harbor boats out with small tows as far as Beaver, where they will be assembled into larger tows and given to regular towboats for the balance of the journey. The combine expects to get out on this rise between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 bushels of coal. There are about 25,000,000 bushels in the harbor.

Kitchener and Sprigg Agree.

CAPE TOWN, Nov. 26.—Lord Kitchener and Sir Gordon Sprigg, prime minister of Cape Colony, have reached an agreement, under the terms of which Cape Colony resumes the control of the colonial troops in twenty-nine districts. There has been much discontent in Cape Colony, arising from the fact that the colonial troops were being removed from the command of the colonial government.

Washington Aqueduct Completed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The Washington aqueduct tunnel, commonly known as the Lydecker tunnel, work on which began twenty years ago and in 1888 was suspended for ten years, following sensational discoveries of faulty construction work, has been put into operation. This reservoir will give fifteen feet of additional pressure in many parts of the District.

A CASE OF IT.

Many More Like It in Plainfield

The following case is but one of many similar occurring daily in Plainfield. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue says: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

The Purchasing Agent for one of the large brass rolling mills in Connecticut had a "mighty hard time" with his stomach. "I used to get up in the morning feeling 150 years old," he said, "and at meal time I felt faint, but still I had an insatiable appetite. I was cross and irritable. I didn't take any interest in business or anything else, and finally I got so bad I had the jaundice and was as yellow as sulphur. I was getting to be a perfect wreck and I didn't care so very much whether I lived or died. It was at this point that I began using Ripans Tabules, but before I had used three dozen my natural color began to return. All my stomach trouble has disappeared and now I consider myself well."

DINNER GOWNS.

Transparent Effects and Beruffled Skirts Are the Style.

Evening toilets are most beautiful this year, many of them being set off with the richest chantilly and velvet. Skirts are much beruffled in the second empire style, the waists being beautifully worked, with boleros, berthas and elbow sleeves lace trimmed. Many gowns show appliques of velvet representing cherries and grapes. Other trimmings show incrustations of hand painted lace placed in Vandyke designs as insertion. The most original effects are sought after and obtained—for instance, layers of silk mousseline ornamented with beautiful reliefs of velvet on black tulle are especially beautiful.

Transparent effects and changeable grounds with flashes of atmospheric lights are all the rage. These are called oriental sun effects, and to get them dressmakers do not spare themselves. Mousseline de soie accordion plaited makes exquisite gowns for debutantes. These mousselines are incrusted with lace and frequently painted with sprays of marguerites and other dainty flowers. Long sashes of peau de soie are edged with frillings of lace passed through jeweled buckles.

A dinner gown of deep purple spotted net is shown in the cut. The waist is trimmed with two straps of string colored lace applique, and the sleeves consist of a band of this lace, supplemented by narrow velvet ribbons and a wide frill of mousseline de soie. At the lower edge of the decolletage in front there is a large soft bow of black velvet. The girdle is also of the velvet. The skirt is cut with a circular flounce, on which are appliqued perpendicular strappings of lace. The lower edge is finished by a full ruching.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

UP TO DATE WAISTS.

They Are Made In Lace, Chiffon and Velvet.

Separate blouses of rare elegance are being shown ready made in the shops. It is no longer necessary to have a waist made to order to insure its originality. From $5 to $20 will purchase a blouse of remarkable chic and dainty finish. Accordion plaited chiffon seems to be the most popular material for dressy occasions. These chiffon waists are banded with rich insertion and sometimes with narrow velvet ribbons. All over lace waists in black or cream are most useful for theater wear. They are often made separate from their linings.

PERSIAN SILK DRESS.

A most fetching gown of Persian flowered silk is shown in the illustration. The waist has a tucked yoke of chiffon and insertion and a bertha of plaited chiffon ending in front with a loose bow with long ends. The skirt is on the serpentine order; it is trimmed with bands of medallion insertion filled in with tucked chiffon. These bands run biaswise on the skirt and upward in bolero fashion on the waist. The sleeves are gathered into a cuff of chiffon and lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Harvest Hand's Pay

What He Receives in Minnesota and North Dakota.

DURING the recent wheat harvest season in the northwest I was traveling northward between Minneapolis and Winnipeg, through the states of Minnesota and North Dakota, on the line of the Great Northern railway. It was the busy time of the year in both states, and the great fields of wheat were beginning to fall before the harvester. Everywhere there was a demand for men, and every train was carrying new men into the country to assist in the bountiful harvest.

At a little town in North Dakota, so near the Minnesota line that the incident serves to illustrate conditions in both states, I found what was practically an organized mob administering mob justice to a man who had presumed to accept employment at a wage of two dollars per day during the harvest season when his colaborers were demanding and receiving $2.50 per day. His cutting the wage scale resulted in his being tarred and feathered and run out of the community, minus the greater part of his belongings, at the hands of his angry coworkers.

The incident interested me, and, through the medium of reports issued by the agricultural department of the government, I have since investigated the wage scale in these two states for several years past. If $2.50 per day was the rate paid for harvest hands during the past summer in these two states, as it evidently was, it was the highest average rate paid since 1882, in which year harvest hands in the Dakotas received an average wage of $2.65 per day, and in Minnesota they received $2.61 per day.

So far as any available records show, that year marked the top notch in the wages of harvest hands in Dakota, but not so in Minnesota. In the latter state the rate of 1882 has been three times surpassed. Once in 1875, when the average rate of harvest hands per day was $2.82; again in 1866, when the rate was $2.68 per day, and the top notch in 1869, when the rate paid by farmers was $2.90 per day. In Dakota—this was before the division into two states—harvest hands were paid $2.50 per day in 1866 and $2.37 per day in 1875.

But when we investigate further and find the years in which the average wage run from $2.50 downwards to as low as $1.53, which it reached in Minnesota in 1894, the rate of the season just closed must be considered a good one for the laborer in the harvest field. The next lowest year in Minnesota for which there are available records was in 1895, when the scale had advanced to $1.72 per day, and by 1898 it had reached $1.90. The following year, 1899, showed a still further advance in Minnesota to $2.20 per day. For the next available figures we must accept the statement of the mob "that no man should work in the harvest fields in that part of the country for less than $2.50 per day."

Going backward in Minnesota from 1894, we find the records give the average wage scale for 1893 at $1.87 per day, for 1892 at $2.15, for 1890 at $1.95, for 1888 at $2.20, for 1885 at $2.29, for 1882 at $2.61, for 1879 at $2.63, for 1875 at $2.82, for 1869 at $2.90 and for 1866 at $2.68. The average rate for the 14 years mentioned, between 1866 and 1899, is nearly $2.24 per day, the rate for the past season, taking it at $2.50, was just 26 cents per day above the general average.

The official records show that Dakota has paid less for her harvest hands during the last third of a century than has Minnesota. The records for Dakota cover but 12 years, those for 1879 and 1869 being omitted, but the general average for these 12 years was but $2.14 per day.

But while the general average rate of wages has been lower in the wheat fields of Dakota than of Minnesota, it has not been so each year. In 1899, for instance, when Minnesota was paying $2.20 per day North Dakota was paying $2.49 per day. In fact, all through the latter years for which records are given North Dakota led Minnesota in point of wages. In 1898 she paid her harvesters an average wage of $2.17 when Minnesota was paying but $1.90. In 1895 North Dakota paid $1.98 when Minnesota paid $1.72; in 1894 she paid $1.75 when Minnesota paid $1.53; in 1893 she paid $2.11 when Minnesota paid $1.87; in 1892 she paid $2.25 when Minnesota paid $2.15; in 1890 she paid two dollars when Minnesota paid $1.95. We have to go back as far as 1888 to find the first instance in which Dakota paid a less average wage than was current in Minnesota. In that year Dakota—then undivided—paid $2.12 per day while Minnesota paid $2.20. But it is 1885 that brings Dakota's general average down below that of Minnesota, for in that year while Minnesota was paying $2.29 per day the official records give Dakota credit for paying but $1.38 per day. In 1882 Dakota paid $2.65 per day while Minnesota paid but $2.61; in 1875 Dakota paid $2.37 and Minnesota $2.82, and in 1866 Dakota paid $2.50 and Minnesota $2.68. In both states during the past season thousands of men found employment in the harvest fields at a daily wage that would average close to $2.50 per day, and it was evidently unwise on the part of one man to attempt to cut the average.

A NEGRO DOCTOR'S OFFICE AT WILMINGTON, DELAWARE.

world of the progress the negro is making in business in every part of the country and to stimulate local business enterprises through its annual meetings and in any other manner deemed wise; to encourage the organization of local business for the purpose of furthering commercial growth in all places where such organizations are deemed needful and wise." That these aims had been realized to a gratifying extent was evident. The recommendation made at the Boston session that local business leagues be formed in all towns and cities of the country where the race is strong enough in number has resulted in the organization of such local leagues all over the country. And through these local leagues will flow the inspiration and life of the Chicago convention, for the delegates departed hearing the words of their president ringing in their ears: "We want to learn the lesson of small beginnings. We must not feel ourselves above the most humble occupation or the simple humble beginning. If our vision is clear, our will strong, we will use the very obstacles that often seem to beset us as stepping stones to a higher and more useful life."

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S TALE.

The Use of a Familiar Phrase Spoils a Promising Hold-Up and Unites Friends.

An individual of somewhat shabby exterior, but whose every movement betrayed the fact that he had once been able to pay for a 50-cent dinner, was walking along the highway at night with his shoes in his hand and the moonlight whispering through his hair when an object suddenly sprang out of the bushes and cried to him:

"Avaunt—that is, stop in your tracks! Your money or your life!"

The object was a young and tender man and there was grace in the way he swung a cudgel around his head, relates the Chicago Daily News.

"Just repeat that first word again, will you?" asked the traveler, as he leaned against a huckleberry bush.

"Avaunt! Blood! S'death!"

"I thought it had the old familiar sound. Romeo, how art thou?"

"Busted all to smash. And how fares it with theee?"

"Stone broke. I was the leading man in the Great Hot Wave Comedy company."

"And I the heavy in Sea of Ice Dramatic Strollers. It's our third bust this summer."

"Same here. Dost fare to New York to try again?"

"'Tis so. Nothing can discourage true talent."

"Then let us fare together and if, perchance, we come across the juvenile of our company, who had two plunks when I saw him last, we will cry halt and despoil him to our betterment."

WITNESS WAS WITTY.

How He Got Ahead of a Lawyer Who Wanted to Compel Him to Make an Admission.

It is a wise witness who can outwit a lawyer. One of our exchanges tells of such a one:

The counsel for the plaintiff, being anxious to discredit a hostile witness' evidence, remarked that the occurrence described by the witness bordered on the miraculous.

"It must have been a miracle—eh?" he said, turning to the man. The witness, shaking his head, said he did not know what a miracle was.

"Oh, come," said the counsel. "Supposing you were looking out of a window on the seventh story of a building and were to fall out and not be injured, what would you call that?"

"An accident," was the stolid reply.

"Yes, yes! but what else would you call it? Well, suppose you did the same thing the next day. Suppose you looked out of the seventh-story window and fell out again, and again found yourself uninjured. Now, what would you call that?"

"A coincidence," said the witness.

"Oh, come now!" the lawyer began again. "I want you to understand what a miracle is, and I'm sure you do. Now, just suppose that on the third day you were looking out of the same window and fell out and struck your head on the pavement seven stories below and were not in the least injured, what would you call it?"

"Three times?" said the witness, rousing a little from his apathy. "Well, I'd call that a habit."

The counsel gave it up.

SCARING A DEBTOR.

A Newark Story of the Persuasive Power Which Lay in a Lawyer's Business Card.

A good story is told of the way a Newark lawyer was tricked by a clever client the other day, relates the News of that city. The barrister was sitting in his office when Mrs. B—, a friend, entered, and proceeded to tell him of the difficulty a Mr. C— was in through a loan he had made to Mr. D—. Mr. C— was in great need of the money, but Mr. D— refused to return the sum, which was quite a large one.

"I think," said Mrs. B— to the lawyer, "that if you should take hold of the case you could collect the money."

"All right," said the barrister, thinking of the neat little fee that would be his after he had succeeded in inducing Mr. D— to part with the sum claimed by Mr. C—. "I'll give you one of my cards to hand to Mr. C—. If he will step in and see me I'll handle the case for him."

Shortly afterward the lawyer left the city for a few days' outing in the country. On his return he inquired of Mrs. B— what had become of Mr. C— and his claim against Mr. D—.

"Oh, that's all settled," replied the woman. "Mr. C— said he just went to Mr. D—, showed him your card and said he had retained you in the case. Mr. D— paid the money at once."

Now the lawyer is wondering where his prospective fee is coming in. He believes he has a good case against Mr. C— for about ten per cent. of the amount of Mr. C—'s loan, but has not decided whether to press the case or not.

JOURNALISTS IN HIGH OFFICE.

Republic of France Offers Unusual Advantages to Men of the Profession.

M. Delcasse, the French minister of foreign affairs, who has had and is still having so much to do with the arrangements for the czar's visit to France, is a journalist who has won his way to his position straight from journalism. Journalism in France is one of the high roads to political rank: Witness MM. Brisson, Dupuy, Delcasse and others less known out of France. In England there is but one journalist, pure and simple, who has reached cabinet rank, and that is John Morley.

Theophile Delcasse is a Gascon, who was born a few kilometers from that town of Foix, which he now represents in the chamber, but, although a near neighbor of Taraseon, he has nothing of the immortal Tartarin De Tarascon about him. He began life on the Republique Francaise and made foreign affairs his specialty. He has been in the French parliament for only 12 years, but he got into office eight years ago. Despite the so-called Fashoda rebuff he has remained minister of foreign affairs in three ministries, and thus keeps up the continuity of policy at the Quai d'Orsay. He will not be 50 till March 1 next year. Can we wonder that the Parisian journalist magnifies his office?

INFLUENCE OF DIME NOVELS.

They Have Been an Important Factor in the Building Up of the Great West.

"The old-fashioned Indian stories produced the settlement of our great west," said a man wearing a broad-brimmed hat and a big diamond, as he sat talking to a group of friends in a Kansas City hotel.

"I don't mean Cooper's stories," he continued; "they were too tedious. I mean the dime novels of years back, which were within the reach of all the boys. These novels used to circulate in a neighborhood till they had been read by every boy and had fallen to pieces through handling. They fired the ambition of the youngsters, set them to practicing shooting and riding, and sent many of them to the west in search of adventures. Some soon returned to their homes, others became bad men and were killed in time, but the great mass of them, too proud to return home, created the vigorous, wideawake population of our western states.

"I have talked to hundreds of our western pioneers about the causes which brought them west, and a majority of them admit that dime novels had more to do with it than anything else."

Scarcity of Ermine.

Ermine is to be very dear this winter, because a quantity of it is ordered for coronation robes, not only for royal personages but for peers, judges and other official dignitaries, says London Truth. Ermine is so beautiful in itself that it is bought and worn by thousands whom it merely disfigures. It is one of the most trying things that anyone ever put near the face, unless that face is young and happy in complexion. A child's soft rosiness looks absolutely delicious above an ermine-trimmed coat or collar. The incomparable freshness of early youth in no way suffers from the propinquity, but what of the sallow, the wrinkled, the over-red? Sable is kind even to these, but ermine shows them up shockingly.

An Enterprising Yankee.

An American once went to Windsor castle and insisted upon seeing Queen Victoria. He was told that it was quite impossible, as an audience with the queen could be had only by appointment. Still he persisted, and then they told him flat-footed that before seeing the queen he must state the object of his visit. He said he wanted to show her a new piece of furniture—a throne bed, a perfect throne by day and a perfect bed at night.

SPORTING.

GOLF.

The active season at golf will close next Saturday at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, when there will be the final play for the Golf Committee cup. The play for the Mellick cup was concluded last Saturday, when Lida van Herwerden finished a winner.

In addition to the regular and last play for the Gilbert cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, Thursday, there has been arranged a kicker's handicap event. A similar event was held Election day, and proved to be so interesting that the committee was led to hold another such event Thursday.

It is now a settled fact that Robert Abbott will be the winner of the Golf Committee trophy, the final play for which will take place next Saturday. He has fifteen and a half points. Even if Dudley H. Barrows, his nearest competitor, should win three points, he would then be a fraction behind Abbott. This competition has been throughout the season has been one of the most interesting held on the course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. It has brought out the best talent and enabled the committee to ascertain who the best players are.

The season of golf has closed at Princeton University and the new champion is Frank O. Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, who is in the freshman class. He was a strong opponent for inter-scholastic honors last spring at Oakland, when the championship was won by Pierra Proal, now a Harvard freshman. Princeton considers Reinhart one of its best men for the inter-collegiate championship, when the tourney is played next spring. Another Princeton golfer who has received honorable mention for successes this year, is J. Whitney Baker, of Stelle avenue, who is also a freshman.

BASKET BALL.

Plainfield Still a Possibility for Location of Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Plant.

A delegation of local merchants and members of the Board of Trade met in New York yesterday afternoon the official board and directors of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, which contemplates removing its plant from Easton. The meeting was arranged at the request of the local Board of Trade.

James E. Martine acted as spokesman and enlarged upon the merits of this city, dwelling on its accessibility, health, educational facilities and other important factors. In conclusion he presented a petition signed by hundreds of the leading citizens asking the officials to build in Plainfield.

The delegation was received courteously by the board and was informed after Mr. Martine had finished that out of 125 locations first considered, they had been sifted down to three, one of which is Plainfield.

For the comfort and convenience of his men this winter, Superintendent E. W. Mills, of the United Express Company, has had erected a corrugated structure on the railroad platform back of the express office. The little building is lighted with a good-sized window.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT'S TO HAPPEN ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

Many Will Gather in Local Churches to Unite Their Voices in Thanksgiving.

OUTDOOR SPORTS PLANNED.

SEVERAL ATTRACTIONS ARE SCHEDULED FOR THE EVENING.

Union Services at Trinity Reformed Church Preceded by Endeavor Meeting—Golf and Football Booked For Morning and Afternoon.

As usual Thanksgiving Day will be generally observed in this city and in the borough. The places of business will be closed and the postoffice will not be open after 10 o'clock in the morning. In fact, the residents of Greater Plainfield will carry out the spirit of the day by giving thanks for the blessings bestowed and gathering at their homes for a merry day.

Services will be held in the various churches. The majority of the congregations in the city and borough will hold an union service at Trinity Reformed church, commencing at 10:45 o'clock, as has been customary in the past. Another service at the Crescent Avenue church at 10 o'clock will be addressed by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards.

In the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches there will also be services. At Grace P. E. church there will be an early celebration at 7:30 o'clock, and another service at 10:30 o'clock, which is also the appointed time for service at the Church of the Holy Cross and at St. Stephen's. The masses at St. Mary's church are at 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

The Local Union of Endeavor Societies will hold a service in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church at 10 o'clock. It will last for forty-five minutes. E. E. Anthony will lead.

As far as amusement is concerned there will be plenty of it. This evening a masquerade ball will be held in Saengerbund Hall and a dance is the promised attraction at the Park Club. Naturally a large number of smaller social affairs will be given not only this evening but tomorrow as well.

The only game of football tomorrow morning will be that between the Alls A. A., of this city, and the eleven of the Elm Club, of Princeton University. It is said that some of the Princeton "scrub" will be in the line-up of the out-of-town team. The game will be called at 10:30 o'clock on the Hope Common.

At the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club tomorrow there will be play for the Gilbert cup in the morning and for the kicker's handicap during the whole day. No special features are promised at the Park Golf Club, but the course will be used for play all day.

In the afternoon, the Plainfield Association Football Club's team will play the team representing the Thistle Club, of Newark, on the Clinton avenue grounds, the game being called at 3:30 o'clock.

Vaudeville is the attraction booked for the Casino, for both afternoon and evening. An excellent programme will amply repay those who witness either of the performances. Also in the evening many will no doubt attend the Y. M. C. A. Star Course entertainment, which will be given by the Metropolitan Quartette and Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey.

DOUBLE CONGRATULATIONS.

Celebrated Wedding and Birthday at the Same Time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graves, of Liberty street, entertained a number of intimate friends at their home Monday evening, in honor of the thirty-sixth anniversary of their wedding. Vocal and instrumental selections were the features which made several hours pass pleasantly. The occasion was also the anniversary of Mrs. Graves' birthday, and she received a double share of the congratulations.

Brick Addition.

E. S. Alpaugh has received a permit from Building Inspector T. O Doane for the erection of a brick addition to his dwelling on East Ninth street, near Second place. Frederick Lancaster has drawn the plans and the work will be done by George Hummer, the carpenter.

Fast Work On Typewriter.

An exhibition in touch-typewriting was given in the North Plainfield High School at noon yesterday by Miss Lewis, an expert from New York. The operator found no difficulty in attaining a speed of 110 words a minute on an unlettered keyboard.

BUILDING TO GRADE.

West Third Street Beyond Manson Place is Being Improved in Several Ways.

Street Commissioner Gavett has placed a gang of men at work on a number of improvements to be made to West Third street, beyond Manson place. The roadway is being cut to the proper line making it three feet wider on each side. Excavated material is being used to widen and build up the sidewalks.

The object of these improvements is to afford more room for the large volume of water which passes along this point after each rainfall and also to give the street a uniform width from Plainfield avenue to Clinton avenue.

GONE INTO KICKING GAME.

YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION, OF HOPE CHAPEL, WILL HAVE A TEAM.

Will Assume Schedule of Plainfield Association Football Club Beginning Tomorrow Afternoon.

At a largely attended meeting of the Young Men's Association, of Hope chapel, held last evening, the members unanimously decided to assume the schedule of the Plainfield Association Football Club. The team will be re-organized at once and it will be made a distinctive feature of the association, as is baseball in summer.

James Smith, one of the best association players in the city, was elected captain of the new team and George McComb, a former P. A. F. C. member, will act as manager.

The first game of the new team will be played tomorrow afternoon, on the Clinton avenue grounds, with the Thistle Club, of Newark, an exceptionally strong eleven. It will be a hard contest for the local men, but as all are good athletes they will undoubtedly hold up their end. A number of former P. A. F. C. men will also be on the team and will be put where they can work to the best advantage. The game will be called at 3:30.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS PLAYED LIVING DOLLS.

Junior Class of City High School Gave Madame Jarley's Wax Works in Clever Way.

INFORMAL DANCE FOLLOWED

MISS DOROTHY WALDO CLEVERLY FILLED THE LEADING ROLE.

Those Who Made Up Her Collection of Remarkable Characters—Committees in Charge of the Details of the Affair.

The assembly room of the Franklin School was crowded last evening when Madame Jarley's wax works were presented by members of the Junior class of the Plainfield High School. This popular piece served as the introductory part of a delightful evening.

The affair was arranged by the class as a social event, and it was quite successful in more respects than one. Miss Dorothy Waldo, as Madame Jarley, received frequent applause for her clever work in introducing and exhibiting the different characters. Some of her remarks were very witty. Alden Moore, as John, took his part exceedingly well.

The others in the cast were: George Washington, Arthur Conant; Two-Headed Girl, the Misses Lucy Coriell and Grace TenEyck; Carrie Nation, Miss Anna Richards; Senora Squalena, Miss Wilhelmina Patten; Velvet Man, Claude Cubberley; Officer of the High School Battalion, Hervey K. Doane; Private of the High School Battalion, Cyril Brown; Napoleon Bonaparte, Norman Hill; Mrs. Winslow, Miss Antoinette Moodey; Fair Girl, Miss Helen Moodey; Indian, Harold Brown; Boy Stood on the Burning Deck, Vincent B. Miner; Peter, Luther Shepherd.

At the conclusion of the play, dancing was the pleasing feature which attracted the young people. The music was good and this enhanced the enjoyment of the occasion. Dainty refreshments were served by the young women in the class.

The commitee in charge of the affair was Vincent B. Miner, chairman, the Misses Marjorie Fleming, May Murray and Dorothy Waldo, and J. Hervey Doane and Alden Moore. Those who decorated the room were Ralph Lane; chairman, the Misses Harriet Randall, Mary St. John and Edna Long, and Blanchard Fosgate and Arthur Conant. Miss Florence Martin was chairman of the refreshment committee and with her were the Misses Marie Finch, Wilhelmina Patten and Winifred Haven.

A FINE CLUB.

Good Work Expected From the Princeton Mandolin Club.

Mandolin clubs are one of the latest additions to college musical organizations. The one to which the Plainfield public will have the privilege of listening next Tuesday night at the Casino is exceptionally good. Damon Beckett Pfeiffer, the leader, is playing on the club for his fourth year, and has established a higher standard of excellence than has yet been known at Princeton where good clubs have been the rule. The clubs most popular piece is one composed of selections from "Miss Bob White," though Punchinello and Schubert's Serenade are very attractive numbers.

Petitions Against Polygamy.

Petitions protesting against Mormonism and polygamy are being circulated about Plainfield for signatures. They will be forwarded to Congressman Fowler at the proper time, asking him to use his influence toward the abolishment of Mormonism and the adoption of laws making it punishable by a heavy fine.

Surprise For Her Guest.

At the home of Miss Minnie Hartfelder, on Whitewood avenue, a complete surprise party was given Monday evening to Miss Clara Fath, in honor of her departure for Philadelphia. Games, music and dancing were continued until a late hour. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Building in Netherwood.

Mrs. Phoebe Sprague, of 929 Woodland avenue, has obtained the requisite building permit for the construction of a frame addition to her residence. Charles Hand will superintend the work.

Bifocal Glasses.

Do you wear two pairs of glasses? We can make you one pair which will take the place of both. We guarantee every pair. Examination free. Stiles & Co.

COLE ESTATE BOUGHT.

Inter Urban Realty Company Secured Title and Then Redeemed From the City.

Among the last of the Plainfield properties to be redeemed under the Martin Act is the estate of Elias Cole on East Front street near Leland avenue. Last Saturday the time for redemption of this property was up and on that day the Inter-Urban Realty Company redeemed the same, paying in all about $7,000.

This realty company is the real estate branch of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, for the reason that the company had trouble some time ago when constructing its trolley road through that part of the city, it decided to purchase the property and forever settle all dispute.

This property, which is in two parts, comprises many acres, and is considered a very valuable site. Just what the company will do with it is not known, but it will probably be put to some good use before many months.

The Inter Urban Company purchased the title from the executors of the Cole estate, a short time ago, and has now settled the indebtedness to the city.

WORD OF PRAISE.

For Entertainers for Y. M. C. A. Star Course Tomorrow Evening.

At a recent entertainment given by the Jersey City Athletic Club, the singing contributed by the Metropolitan Quartette was enjoyed to such an extent that Frank D. Reilly, chairman of the dramatic committee, wrote:

"You must indeed have felt flattered by the very enthusiastic reception given your quartette (The Metropolitan,) at our entertainment last week; but it was no more than you deserved, for your singing was simply perfect, and captured our members from the start. I trust we shall have you with us many times in the future, and express the sentiments of all our members in saying your quartette is the best we have ever had."

This quartette will appear with Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, elocutionist, in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course entertainment tomorrow night.

WESTFIELD'S PARK.

Meeting of Citizens Last Night Showed Feeling Was Almost Unanimous For It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Nov. 27—A special meeting was held last evening in the Washington schoolhouse to decide the much-talked of matter regarding the location of a park in this place. William S. Pottle was chairman and Wellington Morehouse was secretary of the meeting. There were nearly two hundred citizens present.

Out of 152 votes cast there were eighteen against the proposition and 134 in favor of the park. Ira Lambert and J. H. Townley were the only two persons who, by word of mouth, objected to the establishment of a park. It is now an assured fact that Westfield will have a park.

COLLECTION OF MAYORS.

Pictures of Borough Executives Will Soon Adorn Walls of Council Chamber.

Life sized portraits of the chief executives of North Plainfield, since the incorporation of the borough, will shortly adorn the walls of the Council chamber on Somerset street. Horace A. Woodward, of Madison avenue, has been selected as photographer, and he will perform his duties at an early date.

The men whose pictures will be placed about the chamber are Former Mayors John H. VanWinkle, H. E. Needham, William L. Saunders, Chas. Place, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Col. John F. Wilson and the present mayor, Newton B. Smalley. Mayor Smalley's picture has already been finished and is ready to be put in place.

VERDICT FOR COUNTY.

Dr. Weeks Lost Big Damage Suit Against Somerset County Freeholders.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 27.—The suit of Dr. Grenville M. Weeks, of Newark, against the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders, for $30,000 damages, was begun in the Essex Circuit of the Supreme Court Monday and a decision rendered yesterday was in favor of the county.

The doctor met with an accident November 8, 1900, at Gladstone. It was a dark night and he was obliged to cross a bridge with no railing on it. He fell from it onto a fence and sustained injuries of a serious nature.

WINFIELD SCOTT POST IN A FINE CONDITION

Annual Inspection of Local Grand Army Post by the Department Commander.

ACCOMPANIED BY HIS STAFF

DEPARTMENT COUNCIL OF ADMINISTRATION ARRANGED ENCAMPMENT.

Regular Nominations for Officers Made—Mason W. Tyler Named for Post Commander — Women's Relief Corps Gave a Supper.

The annual inspection of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., took place last evening, when Department Commander John Lawrence and his staff were present. There was a large attendance of veterans and members of the Woman's Relief Corps. The post was inspected by Inspecting Officer Cawley, of Somerville, and he returned a most favorable report concerning the local organization.

After the inspection there were remarks by Commander Berg, of Post No. 73, Department Commander Lawrence, Department Chaplain Charles Hill, of Bed Bank, and Mr. Cawley, after which the members retired to the room below, where the women served a bountiful repast.

The remarks made by Department Commander Lawrence were appreciated by the veterans. He complimented Post No. 73 for its excellent showing and he spoke in the highest terms of the work of the officers and regulars. The other speeches were all in a happy vein and greatly enjoyed.

While the Post was in session the regular nominations of officers were held and left open until the next meeting, when the election will take place. Col. Mason W. Tyler and Francis Whiteley were the only two nominees for commander, while for the other offices there were many nominations. In the meantime some are liable to withdraw and other names substituted.

During the early part of the evening the Department Council of Administration met and decided to hold the next encampment in May of 1902 with Robert Boggs Post, No. 63, of New Brunswick. The council consists of James M. Atwood, of Trenton; George B. Stinson, of Paterson; J. A. Borden, of Asbury Park; S. M. Long, of Orange, and J. J. Kirkbride, of Camden.

This was the twenty-first visit this year of Department Commander Lawrence, and he was accompanied by the following members of his staff: Senior Vice-Commander Silas W. Volk, of Camden; Junior Vice-Commander D. D. Keefe, of Newark; Chaplain, Rev. Charles Hill, of Bed Bank; Assistant Adjutant General E. P. Southwick, of Trenton; Assistant Quartermaster General Walter S. Tully, of Jersey City; Chief Mustering Officer Robert Johnson, of Newark; Chief of Staff Joseph A. Sedam and Commissary of Subsistence J. M. Terrill, of New Brunswick; Inspector Cawley, of Somerville.

The members of the Woman's Relief Corps who arranged the supper include Mrs. Caspar Bolsterli, Mrs. W. C. Smith, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, Mrs. Samuel Terry, Mrs. Charles B. Stephens, Mrs. V. W. Nash, Mrs. Harry Baglin, Miss Nash, Mrs. W. R. Mattox, Mrs. Leland.

PUTTING IN CATCH BASINS.

Meeker's Men Began Work On West Third Street Yesterday.

Contractor C. M. Meeker's employes began work yesterday putting in catch basins at West Third street and Plainfield avenue, to connect with the new storm sewer. There will be a basin on each corner with two extra inlets. When these are installed the depression in Plainfield avenue will be filled in so as to make a flush crossing. This will give a much-needed relief to teamsters crossing this point.

Specimens of Local Service.

There are one or two trolley cars now being operated on the West Front street and Netherwood line that make an almost unbearable noise. It is with difficulty that they are started after being stopped.

Combined Effort.

The Epworth League and Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church are completing arrangements for a supper to be given in Vincent chapel next week Friday evening.

Getting Ready to Build.

The Watchung Silk Company will meet soon and award the contracts for the erection of the new silk mill on Washington avenue.

INSPECTED CO. K.

Officers From Somerville Examined the Work Done By Plainfield's Militia Company.

Major Nelson Y. Dungan and Capt. John Wherley, of Company M, of Somerville, visited this city last evening and inspected Company K at the regular weekly drill held in the armory.

Captain Browning put his men through the manual for some time, after which the visiting officers assumed charge and continued the drill. The members of the company conducted themselves in a manner which called for unstinted praise on the part of the inspectors. A large number of spectators were also in attendance.

STUDENT SWEENEY WANTED.

WARRANT OUT FOR WM. SWEENEY ON CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

A. A. Stryker Made Complaint Before Justice Moffett—Sweeney Cannot be Found.

A. A. Stryker, the well known carpenter and contractor, has sworn out a warrant before Justice Moffett, charging William Sweeney, formerly a clerk with W. K. McClure, with the embezzlement of $125. The warrant was placed in Constable Weaver's hands yesterday but so far no trace of the "law student" had been found. He was last seen in this city Monday night, when he boarded a trolley car bound for Dunellen.

In his complaint, Stryker alleges that Sweeney collected rent from one of his tenants and withheld the money. When he asked for it some time ago Sweeney put him off with various excuses. He demanded the money on Monday and, on Sweeney's refusing to comply, the warrant was sworn to.

It is said that another charge of the same nature has been preferred against Sweeney by a second party and the warrant is now in the hands of a constable.

They denied being vagrants but their stories failed to impress the court. Both were sent to their starting out place for twenty days, in default of a $5 fine.

I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

"I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections. TWENTY-SIX KILLED

Terrible Explosion In a Detroit Factory.

SCORES ARE INJURED AND MISSING.

The Crash Came Without Warning, Demolishing Buildings and Burying Workmen In Ruins—Cause of Catastrophe Unknown.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 27.—Twenty-six men are dead, five of them unidentified and so terribly burned and blackened that identification is almost impossible, and twenty-four other men are lying in the various hospitals of the city, suffering from terrible cuts and burns and other injuries, all results of the explosion of one of the boilers in the Penberthy Injector company's large plant at the corner of Abbott street and Brooklyn avenue.

All night a great force of men was searching the ruins by electric light, and the work will not be stopped until every foot of the debris has been examined.

The Penberthy Injector company's plant occupied half a square at the corner of Abbott street and Brooklyn avenue. It was composed of two brick buildings, separated by a sixteen foot alley. The rear building, in which the boiler was located and which was completely destroyed, was three stories in height, 54 feet in depth and 100 feet wide. The boiler room was located at the northwest corner of the building on the first floor. It was in this building that most of the manufacturing was done.

The first floor was utilized as the engine and boiler room and a room for testing the output of the plant. The finishing and brass manufacturing department was located on the second floor, and the third floor was devoted to the foundry. It is impossible to tell exactly how many men were at work in the various departments of the rear building when the explosion occurred, but the officers insist that the number was not over eighty-five.

There were four boilers in the plant, two horizontal ones, which furnished steam for the engines, and two vertical boilers, which were used solely to test injectors. It was the horizontal boiler that was in use and which exploded and caused the awful loss of life.

The awful crash came without the slightest warning. Those in the front building said it seemed like the concussion of an immense cannon. The floors and roof of the rear building bulged upward and then crashed down with their heavy loads of machinery and foundry apparatus. Walls, roof and all dropped into a shapeless mass of debris. Windows in houses for a block around were broken by the concussion, and flying bricks filled the neighboring yards.

A dense cloud of dust arose, and as it settled and was succeeded by denser clouds of smoke and steam agonized cries began to come from the heap of tangled wood, metal and bricks. Those who were only partly buried frantically dug themselves out and then as energetically turned to digging for their comrades who were buried deeper. Flames broke out almost immediately, and the horror of fire was added to the suffering of the imprisoned ones.

A fire alarm was turned in and quickly responded to. Calls were sent out for all the ambulances in the city, and they were hurried to the scene. Pending their arrival neighboring houses were turned into temporary hospitals, and those physicians who were in the vicinity eased the sufferers as much as they were able. The first ambulances on the scene were totally inadequate to carry those who had already been extricated, and express wagons and similar vehicles were pressed into service.

Engineer Riley was among the first to be dug out from the wreck. His escape was little short of miraculous. When the boiler let go, he was knocked to the floor, and one of the smaller testing boilers was blown over his prostrate form in such a way that one end rested on some debris high above him, thereby forming a shield that kept the falling timbers, bricks and machinery from crushing him.

The escaping steam, however, burned him frightfully. After his arrival at Grace hospital Riley's first words were: "How did it happen? The engine and boilers were all right."

The property loss, according to Secretary George W. Childs, is about $180,000.

Subscriptions for the relief of the sufferers have been started. Nothing is known as yet about the cause of the explosion. The boilers had been recently inspected, and the engineer was known as one of the most careful and capable men in the city. The firm has already taken temporary quarters and will resume business as soon as possible.

Henderson For Speaker Again.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The Republican members of the house of representatives will meet in caucus Saturday at 2 o'clock for the purpose of nominating house officers. There is no contest, and Speaker Henderson and the other elective officers will be re-elected. It is expected that there will be quite a sharp contest over readopting the Reed rules. The Democratic caucus will be held at 11 o'clock Saturday to nominate minority candidates and also to name the few employees conceded to the minority in the house.

Severe Winter Predicted.

FREE POSTAL ROUTES

Delivery System Already Self Sustaining.

URBAN SERVICE NEARLY PERFECT.

Assistant Postmaster General Johnson Says 4,000,000 Rural People Will Be Enjoying Free Delivery of Mails Dec. 2.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — First Assistant Postmaster General W. M. Johnson in his annual report says the yearly increase in the postal revenues has resulted in the free delivery service becoming self sustaining. Of the gross postal revenues of the United States for the past fiscal year $74,295,394 came from 866 free delivery cities. The remaining 3,600 presidential postoffices yielded $16,063,252, while the 72,479 fourth class postoffices produced $18,913,519.

Mr. Johnson says the fact that the postal service in the largest cities is practically perfect is the explanation of why the annual percentage of increase in the revenues of the free delivery postoffices should be three times greater than in the smaller cities and five times as large as that of the fourth class offices. As rural free delivery reaches out into the country, giving equal facilities without regard to locality, he says it increases the revenues at a rate at least equal to that maintained in the free delivery cities, where during the past five years it has averaged 8 per cent.

At the end of the present fiscal year 8,600 rural routes will be in successful operation, 6,000 being in effect by Dec. 2. The latter figure represents just 50 per cent of the applications for such service filed since its inauguration five years ago. The inflexible policy is announced hereafter of avoiding maintenance of unnecessary postoffices and superfluous star routes contemporaneously with rural free delivery routes.

On July 1 last the force of 4,301 rural carriers was serving 2,840,644 people at a fraction over 75 cents per capita, and on Dec. 2 next 4,000,000 of the rural population will be enjoying free delivery. Every establishment of a route, the report says, is followed promptly by a steady increase in the volume of mail, both delivered and collected.

The city free delivery service now embraces 866 cities and towns, including four in the new insular possessions, all these employing an army of 16,389 uniformed carriers, who collect and carry the mails two or more times each working day to 32,000,000 patrons. The total cost per annum to the department for this service is 50 cents per capita. The gross receipts of the free delivery postoffices were $74,295,393, an increase of over 11 per cent for the year. The total estimate for the next fiscal year for this city free delivery service is $18,745,450.

The average daily sales of money orders in the United States, fees included, are $973,814. The aggregate amount of money orders issued was $294,618,681, an increase of $39,000,000 for the year. In the five years just passed the number of presidential postoffices has increased 23 per cent.

Among the recommendations are a reduction of money order fees so as to make the maximum 25 cents instead of 30 cents, reclassification of clerks at first and second class postoffices and an appropriation of $20,000,000 for postmasters' salaries.

American Impartiality Demanded.

HAVANA, Nov. 27.—That part of the National party which is supporting General Bartolome Maso, the Democratic candidate for the presidency of Cuba, has voted to send a cablegram to President Roosevelt asking the latter to recommend that the representatives of the United States in Cuba observe the strictest impartiality in the approaching election for a Cuban president. Senor Palma has renounced his American citizenship through a power of attorney given by him to Secretary of State Tamayo. Secretary Tamayo, accompanied by General Emilio Nunez and General Maximo Gomez, appeared in court and made this formal renouncement.

A Salt Lake Shooting.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 27.—William Haynes, a traveling man from Chicago, was shot and probably fatally wounded by Roy Kaighn, the nineteen-year-old son of Colonel M. M. Kaighn, who is prominent in law and G. A. R. circles of this city. The shooting occurred in the lobby of the Knutsford hotel and created a panic among the guests and employees of the hotel. After firing the shot young Kaighn coolly lighted a cigarette, sat down and waited for the police to arrive. He refuses to give any reason for the shooting.

Killed by a Trolley Car.

CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 27.—Peter Melony a drover of Springfield township, in Delaware county, was struck by a trolley car here last evening and instantly killed. He was knocked from his wagon and wedged beneath the gearing of the car, his head torn off and his body terribly mangled. It was necessary to use jacks to hoist the car to get his body free from the gearing. The horse was also killed.

A Peaceful Settlement Sure.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 27.—The recent incident between Chile and the Argentine Republic is about to be satisfactorily arranged. The Chilean authorities and the minister here of the Argentine Republic will shortly sign a memorandum of agreement. There is not the slightest cause for alarm.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and continued cold; fresh northerly winds.

MARCHING ON COLON.

General Alban's Force Suffers Heavy Loss at Barbacoa Bridge.

COLON, Colombia, Nov. 27.—The overdue passenger train, with a marine guard on board, arrived here late last night. The train brought news to the effect that General Alban, with about 300 government troops, had crossed Barbacoa bridge and was continuing his march to Colon. He is now at Tavernilla, where he is resting.

The Liberal forces continue to retreat before him. They explain their retreat, saying they have no ammunition. All of the fighting yesterday occurred at Barbacoa bridge. Passengers by the delayed train assert that fully 100 Conservatives were killed and wounded during the fighting there and that the Liberal losses were insignificant.

The Liberals are now approaching Gatun Station, about five miles from Colon, and it is believed a decisive engagement will probably be fought at Monkey Hill cemetery, distant one mile from the limits of Colon.

The trains which left here in the afternoon for Panama with the Iowa marines and the passengers from the steamer Orizaba were delayed in transit, but reached Panama safely.

Reports current here that the General Pinzon had bombarded Portobello have been found upon investigation to be unreliable and not authentic.

The Pan-American Congress.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 27.—The committees of the pan-American congress are rapidly completing their work, with the exception of the arbitration committee and the committee on commerce and reciprocity. The latter is withholding action until it learns the stand which President Roosevelt will take on the subject of reciprocity in his forthcoming message to congress. The work of the arbitration committee is delayed by the difficulties of the subject and the many conflicting interests which it is necessary to conciliate. It held its first meeting yesterday after a fortnight's adjournment. The committee on future pan-American conferences will, it is understood, recommend the holding of a conference every five years.

Three More Tetanus Victims.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 27.—Two more deaths from tetanus following vaccination have been recorded in this city, making a total of nine deaths from that disease during the past three weeks. The latest victims were Ada Heath, aged thirteen years, and Georgeanna Overby, colored, aged nine years. The children were recently vaccinated, and two or three days ago symptoms of lockjaw began to present themselves. Every effort was made to counteract the disease, but the children died in great agony. There are several suspicious cases of lockjaw under observation by the physicians. Another death from tetanus, that of Sarah Johnson, colored, aged four years, is reported from Merchantville, near here.

Exposition Opening.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Arrangements have been made for the opening of the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian exposition by the president next Monday. At the conclusion of the address of Senator Depew in Charleston messages of greeting and felicitation will pass between the president and the managers of the exposition, and at 2:30 o'clock the president will press the button which will set the machinery of the exposition in motion. The South Carolina delegation in congress and several prominent government officials will be present at the ceremony in the White House.

Bandits In No Haste.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 27.—The brigands are determined to wait until the disappearance of the snow permits them freedom of movements before resuming negotiations for the release of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, and Mme. Tsilka, her companion. The impression which prevails among the best informed people here is that Mr. Dickinson's departure for Constantinople increases the difficulty of gaining the confidence of the brigands and expediting a settlement of the ransom question.

A Pastor's Silver Anniversary.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Nov. 27.—The congregation of the First Dutch Reformed church last night celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. John Garnsey Van Slyke, D. D., by presenting him with a one thousand dollar solid silver tea service. Addresses were made by Judge A. T. Clearwater of this city, the Rev. Dr. Demarest of the Gould Memorial church, Roxbury, and others. The church was founded by the Dutch in 1656.

Mayor Johnson Wins.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 27.—The supreme court has allowed the motion of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland for leave to file a petition in mandamus against the state board of equalization of railways, compelling it to reassess the railroad property of the state at a valuation based upon the market value of its securities.

Small Codfish Catch.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 27.—The French codfishing at St. Pierre has closed, with results 20 per cent below those of last season. The people of St. Pierre are consequently much disappointed, but are hoping for fine weather to enable them to dry and cure their catch; otherwise their losses will be considerably greater.

The Trouble With Queen Draga.

VIENNA, Nov. 27.—The Hungarian papers allege that King Alexander of Servia desires to divorce Queen Draga in order that he may marry his sister-in-law, Helene Benyewitch, and that this accounts for Queen Draga's recent hysterical outbreaks.

THE TURK'S STORY.

Explanation of the Recent Seizure of an Armenian Convent.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Costaki Anthopulo Pasha, the Turkish embassador to Great Britain, has given out the porte's explanation of the seizure of an Armenian convent in the neighborhood of Mush by Armenian revolutionists and the subsequent surrounding of the convent by Turkish troops.

The embassador says that bandits have been ravaging the country and extorting money and goods from the Armenian population, murdering those who refused to comply with their demands. These bandits brought about sixty women and children as prisoners to the monastery, and Andramik, the leader of the bandits, tried to obtain money by threats from the Armenians of Mush. Thereupon, in order to protect the women and children, the imperial authorities surrounded the monastery with Turkish troops.

Some fighting occurred, during which two brigands and a Turkish corporal were killed. British and Russian consuls repaired to the scene and testified to the correct attitude of the Turkish soldiers. The brigands kept up a hot fire from the monastery, and, being well provisioned, they were able to offer stout resistance.

This official statement from the Turkish embassador does not explain how the affair ended, but a dispatch received subsequently from Constantinople says that the brigands fled and the Turkish troops were then withdrawn.

Deer Hunter Killed.

ASHLAND, Wis., Nov. 27.—The body of William Johnson of Ashland was brought here, and the manner of his death has aroused indignation. Johnson had shot and wounded a deer and had traced it into a ravine, where he found it dead. After cleaning the carcass Johnson seized it by the antlers and dragged it out of the gully. This brought him to a stooping position, and just as he arrived at the brink of the ravine a bullet struck him squarely in the top of the head, killing him instantly. Whoever fired the shot fled without investigating, and Johnson's body was found next day frozen stiff, with one hand still holding the deer's antlers and a portion of his body under that of the deer. The shooting occurred twenty miles west of Ashland, in the heart of the deer country.

Large Cargo of Halibut.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 27.—The steamer Dolphin has arrived from the north with 200 passengers, of which sixty were transferred from the disabled steamer Farallon, that anchored in Cardenas bay, Alaska. The Dolphin brought the largest cargo of fresh halibut that ever reached this port on any one vessel. The Dolphin left Skaguay Nov. 21 and reports that the Yukon river froze over entirely Nov. 19. Preparations were being made to put the sledges and horses of the Overland Transportation company in readiness for service, although it was expected that the trip could not be made over the ice until about the middle of the month.

A Possible Safe Robber.

RED BANK, N. J., Nov. 27.—James Cummings of Tinton Falls, N. J., was arrested here by a secret service officer on suspicion of being concerned in the many safe robberies which have occurred in this section of New Jersey within the last year or so. In the majority of the cases the safes have been in postoffices or in the stores in which the postoffices were and contained stamps and government cash. This caused the interest of the secret service in them. Cummings has always been looked upon as a hard working steady man. He has been employed in a sawmill at Tinton Falls for the last seven years.

New Smallpox Cases In Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—The board of health bulletin shows nineteen new cases of smallpox. One death was reported. The victim was taken to the Newton hospital on Nov. 17. The patients include nine men, seven women and three children. About 8,000 persons have been vaccinated at stations maintained by the board of health.

Old Monitors Condemned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — Three more of the old war monitors, which have been lying at the League Island navy yard for years past, have been condemned and are to be sold at public auction. They are the Catskill, built by Ericsson, and the Manhattan and Mahopack, built at Jersey City during the days of the civil war.

Battle Abbey Sold.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The historic Battle abbey and the estate surrounding it were sold at public auction yesterday afternoon for $1,000,000. The auctioneer in referring to the fact that the abbey was erected by William the Conqueror described the latter as the Dr. Jameson of that period.

PITTSBURG'S STRIKE

Only One Road Is Seriously Affected.

FEW SWITCHMEN OBEY THE ORDER.

Boasts of the Strikers Not Fulfilled During the First Day—Other Unions Not In Sympathy With the Movement.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 27.—Judging by apparent conditions, the switchmen's strike inaugurated yesterday morning has proved a flat failure. The strike was ordered by the Switchmen's Union of North America, and the claim was made by the union officials that every railroad in the city with the exception of the Fort Wayne and the Big Four would be tied up completely. The developments, however, demonstrate that only one road, the Allegheny Valley, was seriously affected. On this road but one crew was at work, and the road is badly crippled. The company officials, while admitting that freight traffic has been practically suspended, say that within twenty-four hours they will have all the men they need and work will be resumed as usual.

The other roads affected were the Baltimore and Ohio, 12 men out; Pittsburg Junction, a branch of the Baltimore and Ohio, 15 men out; the Pittsburg and Lake Erie, 4 men out, and the Pennsylvania, 15 men out. One hundred and fifty would be a high estimate of the number of men who struck. None of these roads suffered much inconvenience, because new men were readily secured to take the place of the strikers, and some of the men, upon discovering that the strike order had not been generally obeyed, returned to their places.

A meeting of the union was held in the afternoon, and the claim was made that the strike was a success as far as it had gone and that within forty-eight hours the members of the union, about 700 in number, would be out.

The demands of the switchmen call for the enforcement of the standard scale of wages.

It is claimed that the Monongahela connecting line has signed the scale, but the officials of the other roads say they are more determined than ever not to sign. The strikers have not the sympathy of the other trainmen's unions. W. G. Lee, first vice grand master of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, is in the city and says the members of his organization will oppose the present movement.

The strikers last night gained eight men in the Ormsby yard of the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston road. This is the principal yard of the road on the south side, and the defection has crippled the company considerably. The officials claim to be able to put on new men today. The strikers claim to have crippled the Baltimore and Ohio in the Glenwood yards. They say only one crew out of the twelve regularly employed are at work and that no attempt to move freight is being made. The report made by strikers' committees is that at Glenwood twenty engines are idle and that at the Bennett station yards of the Pittsburg and Western there are fifteen idle. The company officials say the majority of these engines are passenger and road engines.

Murder Trials For Mutinous Convicts

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 27.—United States Attorney Dean has been here in consultation with Warden McClaughry of the federal prison. After the consultation Mr. Dean said that every convict that was in the mutiny would be tried for murder at the April term of the United States district court. Dean says each one of the fifteen prisoners recaptured is guilty of murder. Warden McClaughry has received word of the capture at Tuscumbia, Ala., of James Seymour, one of the convicts who escaped during the mutiny. Captain Telford left last night to bring him back.

Better Pay For Rock Island Men.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The management of the Rock Island railroad has completed its annual session with the board of adjustment representing the engineers on the entire system. The result of the session is a raise in the wages of about 100 men, as follows: The pay of engineers on local freights has been increased 20 cents per 100 miles. The engineers now get $4 for every 100 miles run. The pay of the engine men of certain switch engines of big draft has been increased from $2.75 to $2.85 for every ten hours' work.

American Locomotives Are Swift.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—American locomotives in their preliminary trials between Miramas and Arles, France, are stated to have maintained a speed of 71.45 miles an hour, according to a report received at the state department from Consul General Skinner, at Marseilles, under date of Nov. 6. Mr. Skinner reports that the speed at certain moments was as high as 77.67 and 80.77 miles an hour over an especially good portion of the track. The trials were regarded as very satisfactory.

Greedy Postoffice Thieves.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Thieves broke into the postoffice at Cedar Grove, Essex county, N. J., and carted off the entire office outfit from postage stamps to blotting paper. They also robbed the store of Edward Taylor, the postmaster, in which the office is located.

Mrs. McKinley's Income.

While the Daily Press did not reach the homes of its subscribers quite on time, yesterday, it was only a little late. It is no easy task to turn out an entire new paper as The Daily Press will be next Monday and it requires time to prepare. All the while the regular duties go forward. Therefore we still ask your indulgence for the remainder of the week when we will be ready to show you one of the best newspapers published in New Jersey.

Thanksgiving Day.

How the time flies. Here is the Thanksgiving season again. It seems but a short time ago that the new century was ushered in. Most of the familiar faces are still to be seen. Some are gone—forever. Others are scattered about in divers parts of the universe. Happiness and prosperity have come upon the land. There have been troubles for many but, nevertheless, there is much for us to be thankful for today.

It was way back in 1621 that the first Thanksgiving day was held. Then the Pilgrim Fathers set aside a day for thanksgiving. They had passed through many perils. Trials had surrounded them on every hand. But the Lord they trusted had been with them and they realized that they had been greatly blessed. It was the first Thanksgiving and never was one more earnestly observed.

Put aside your thoughts of profit and advancement. It will not hurt you for a moment. Just call to mind how you have been favored in the past year, what countless blessings have been showered upon you, how many things there are that you can be really thankful for. Of course, the last twelve-month has not been one entirely of pleasure. But see how much worse it might have been.

Tomorrow will be Thanksgiving Day. Don't forget that fact. Spend the day as you will, but devote a little part of it to observing it as did those sturdy forefathers of ours way back in the seventeenth century. If little things about the house do not go just right for the moment forget them and remember that many, indeed, are the blessings which the All Seeing One has showered upon us all in the last year.

According to the Philadelphia Record a progressive farmer in Central New York who had a farm to sell advertised the fact in the leading newspapers of the principal cities east and west. His success in disposing of his property at a large price has led his neighbors to advertise not only such farms or implements as they want to sell, but also apples, leaf tobacco and other farm products. They have found their advertising profitable.

The choice of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company has narrowed down to three and Plainfield is one of the favored cities. There is not a citizen who would not gladly welcome such an industry to Plainfield. We have an ideal city and can offer attractions that no other city in New Jersey can hope to do. It will be a great day for Plainfield if the decision is in our favor.

The action of the Plainfield Board of Health in preparing for all possible emergencies this winter is commendable. While everyone sincerely hopes that the dreaded small pox will not visit this community this winter, it is impossible to say what may happen and the only thing to be done is to prepare for what might happen.

Let the truth be told about the alleged "speak-easies" in Plainfield. There are a few, as the police admit, but the stories that are going the rounds of the newspapers of the State are wildly exaggerated. It is ridiculous to say that there are a hundred of them in Plainfield.

Troubles never seem to come singly. Little accidents insist on intruding themselves into the affairs of the New Jersey Central Railroad and the schedule has suffered accordingly. When the new shops at Elizabethport are built, the company hopes for better times.

See how wise is the Elizabeth Water Company. Meters are soon to be installed at the county seat. It will be Plainfield's turn next and don't fail to let the company know that you think so.

As tomorrow will be Thanksgiving Day, a legal holiday, The Daily Press will not be issued.

The Children's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

A Card.

Permit us through the columns of The Daily Press to express our heartfelt thanks and gratitude to the members of the local fire department, who, by their united efforts, saved our dwelling from destruction last Saturday afternoon; also to those who threw open their homes for the taking care of members of our family.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The question of municipal ownership of the water plant will be the leading issue of the Long Branch election, which will be held on December 10. The taxpayers appear to be thoroughly aroused over the attempt to foist upon them a new contract, which is alleged to be unjust, with the private corporation now furnishing the supply of water. The company is taking a ten-year franchise, at a high rate for the service. No other source of supply is available at present. But the people are demanding that a short-term contract be entered upon and that the necessary legislation be secured this winter which will allow the town to erect its own water plant. The advantages of municipal ownership of water supply have been so clearly demonstrated by the experiences of surrounding towns that the Long Branch residents feel confident that no mistake will be made in taking this step. The water company, however, is making a vigorous effort to retain its prestige, and it will do all in power to have placed in nomination candidates for commissioners who will favor a long contract. Party lines will not be drawn in the election. The issue is so distinct that the taxpayers should have no difficulty in deciding how to cast their ballots.—Newark News.

TEA TABLE TALK

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

In the current issue of "Fire and Water," a publication devoted to fire protection, Chief T. O. Doane, of the Plainfield fire department, discusses the desirability of fire-proof structures for business purposes. Their slowness in burning permits the firemen to do better work in combatting the flames. He also recommends the installation of sprinklers in all buildings of more than one story in height.

* * * * *

A good story is told at the expense of Morgan Jennings, of Warrenville. It has been his custom for years past to drive from his home to this city, a distance of six miles, every morning at 3 o'clock. He brings cans of fresh milk, which are transferred to Plainfield dealers. The other morning he made his appearance bright and early and was about to transfer the cans, when he found that the milk wagon was empty. Then he recalled that in his haste he had forgotten to place the cans in the wagon. He did not relish traveling twenty-four miles that morning.

Keith production of Living Art Studies; LaMar and Gabriel, the big and the little fellow; Whitney brothers, in a refined musical act; Jackson family, bicyclists; Bano's trained bull terriers; Kenyon, the equilibrist; La-Porte sisters, duettists; Al Coleman, mimic, and numerous other features. The following week Capt. Woodward's famous troupe of trained sea lions will begin a long engagement at this theatre. A Wrinkle in Apple Packing.

"There is a knack in doing everything," is an old saying, and the truthfulness of it was brought to mind the other day by a gang of men engaged in wrapping and packing apples. Each man had a full box of apples, a pile of thin paper cut into wrappers and an empty box. An apple was taken from the full box, a wrapper put around it and it was put into the other box. It is not an easy thing to pick up a wrapper of thin paper from a pile without missing one occasionally, and in doing this the men adopted different schemes. A new hand wet his thumb on his tongue for every wrapper. One who had been longer in the business and found that it was unwholesome to be wetting his thumb on his tongue, had a slice of lemon beside his pile of wrappers and moistened his thumb in the lemon before picking up a wrapper. The scheme worked well, but he did not know whether the acid of the lemon would make his thumb sore or not. A third man had a thin rubber thumb stall on his thumb and could pick up wrappers all day long and never make a miss. He was an old hand at the business.—Portland Oregonian.

Venezuelan Pearls.

When the Spanish discovered Venezuela they found the natives wearing pearls for ornament and the fishery is still flourishing to-day. More than 400 boats are employed in the work, each one paying about three dollars per year to the government. The pearls are of fine quality, usually white or yellow and rarely black. Only recently a white pearl valued at $2,000 was found. The shell of the pearl oyster of Venezuela is small and of poor quality. The oysters themselves are short-lived—eight years or so. A French company has lately been formed to exploit the fisheries by means of divers, who take only the mature shells and leave the smaller sorts, so that the beds will not be exhausted. The annual output of these fisheries is about $600,000 and it is said that most of the pearls are sold in Paris.—N. Y. Sun.

Something of That Kind.

Parent—Well, Charles, you will soon be getting through with your schooling, and it's time you thought about what you expect to do for a living. Have you any preference for anything in particular?

Offspring—In a general way, nothing more. I have thought I'd like to be a stockbroker or a clergyman, or something of that kind.

Parent—Something of that kind?

Offspring—Yes; something in which other folks furnish the confidence.—Boston Transcript.

Execution in Different Lands.

In carrying out a death sentence Austria, Bavaria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Hanover and Saxony use the guillotine. Holland, England, United States generally and Portugal depend on the gallows. Ecuador and Oldenburg shoot condemned criminals. Brunswick retains the ax, China falls back on the sword or cord. The sword is Prussia's resource, the garrote that of Spain, while Russia varies her settlement of such matters among shooting, the sword and the gallows.—N. Y. Post.

Ten Years' Progress in Speed.

The net result in respect of speed is that while ten years ago the highest sustained ocean speed was 20.7 knots, it is now 23.51 knots; the highest speed for large warships was 22 knots, and is now 23 knots on a trial of double the duration of those of ten years ago; the maximum speed attained by any craft was 25 knots, as compared with 36.581 knots now; while the number of ships over 20 knots was eight in 1891, it is 58 now.—London Engineering.

Hymns at $500 a Yard.

A musical composer once said to Mr. Sankey, with more frankness than courtesy, that he could write such tunes as those of the "Gospel Hymn Book" by the yard, if he were willing to come down to it. Mr. Sankey quietly replied: "Well, sir, all I have to say is that I am willing to pay $500 a yard, either to you or to anybody else, for all the tunes you can bring me like those in our Gospel Hymn Books.'"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Rev. E. E. Jackson Will Preach.

WITH BOW AND ARROW.

Hunters Are Now Given to Matching Their Skill Against Animal Cunning.

A new class of sportsmen has been growing up within the last few years, whose distinguishing characteristic is based upon the line followed by the late Maurice Thompson, sportsman and author, says the Chicago Journal.

Thompson disdained to use the shotgun on small game, preferring to match skill against cunning. He made it a practice not to kill game until he was close enough to watch and study it. So he took a long bow and went into the woods after quail and grouse. He hunted rabbits in the same manner, and was very successful.

When he went after quail he stole upon the flock in its haunts and picked off the birds with arrows that made no noise and did not frighten those that remained. In this way he grew to know the haunts and habits of his quarry as the shotgun hunter never does. Rabbits he stalked in a similar manner. The point to be won was to see the rabbit in the little "form" where it spends the day, in surroundings that render it well-nigh invisible, and shoot it before it could run away. For squirrels he took an ancient flint-lock rifle.

Most hunters are not handicapping themselves to this extent, but take instead of a bow or flintlock a small rifle with which the head may be snipped off a quail or grouse and a tiny puncture made in a rabbit's skull.

SYMBOLS IN A CARPET.

Interpretation of Figures in an Ancient Persian Product by by an Expert.

During the shah's last stay in Paris he paid a visit to the Gobelins, where he showed a most appreciative interest in all that he saw. Before a remarkably fine Persian carpet, given to the museum by M. Goupil, he remained for some time, intepreting for himself the symbolical allusions thickly embroidered upon it, which, however, he declined to translate into French. A few days since the mystery was cleared up. There arrived in Paris the manager of the imperial carpet weaving factory in Teheran, who stated that he had been commissioned by the shah to study the methods of manufacture in use at the Gobelins. To him the director applied for a solution of the legends which had so captivated the shah. Thereupon the Persian began to read out a running translation: "A carpet for the ruler of the earth; superiority for his feet; how beautiful it is; it is in his cabinet and knows his secrets. It is pleasant as Paradise, and brighter than the Academy of Mari (Persian painter), for it contains all the colors of China. The nightingale coming to perch upon it cannot tear itself away from its loveliness. Neither winter nor autumn can ever change the tints of this carpet." This is a good deal for one carpet to signify, says the London Pall Mall Gazette, but critics say that it is justified in holding a high opinion of itself. It is about three centuries old.

AT A DUNKER MEETING.

Picturesque Services of an Ascetic Sect Described by an Eye-witness.

At one side, at the long tables, sit the sisters, their white prayer coverings showing full against the general gloom, their mild, serious faces turned toward the preachers, and on every hand hang their black bonnets—somber draperies added to the somber scene. At the other side are the brethren, long-bearded, long-haired men with solemn faces, and along every low-lying beam stretch row on row of great hats, their crowns rising like a series of monuments to the doctrine of humility. On the platform are the preachers—a line of them—most of them old and white, says an exchange.

The few flickering lights throw strange shadows everywhere, and now and then bring into relief the black forms of the unregenerate in the half-filled mows at either end. From the stables below come the sound of cattle stirring restlessly in their straw bedding, the half-suppressed bleat of a lamb, the cluck of a nervous hen. Back of it all, a pushing, vulgar mass, crowding at the wide doors, stares in at the company—the sightseers from the neighboring villages, arrayed in bonnets gay with paper flowers of every hue, bright dresses, or the terrible productions of the "fashionable tailor" or the "gents' furnisher" of the country town.

Hydrogen as an Illuminant.

The production of oxygen and hydrogen on an industrial scale by the decomposition of water with electrolytic apparatus in Germany, says a foreign exchange, has led to the suggestion that hydrogen thus produced may find a wide field of employment as a lighting agent. It is used for inflating military balloons. For lighting purposes it is compressed in steel cylinders. With a proper burner it is said to be a cheaper illuminant than acetylene, the relative cost for equal illuminating power being as 25 for hydrogen to 59 for acetylene.

A Novel Way of Driving.

A man riding a bicycle and driving a horse at the same time startled people on a Philadelphia street the other day. He held the reins in one hand and guided his machine with the other. His feet rested upon the coaster and the horse did the rest. In and out among the other vehicles he guided the animal, and all along the street people stopped and gazed in wonder.

A CASE OF IT.

Many More Like It in Plainfield.

The following case is but one of many similar occurring daily in Plainfield. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue says: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

A consumptive patient, who made use of Ripans Tabules, found his weight increased but was made anxious because expectoration ceased, and feared on that account that harm would result, but on consulting a physician he learned that Ripans Tabules do not affect the conditions of the lungs in any material degree, but if they do so at all they have more tendency to favor expectoration rather than to suppress it. Consequently there is no reason why a consumptive should discontinue the use of Ripans Tabules because expectoration has ceased. Furthermore, in lung troubles an increase in weight is the best indication of improvement, and as the Tabules regulate the digestion they increase nutrition and are doing the very service required to produce best results.

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

SMART MILLINERY.

Hats Are Broad, Flat and Trimmed Fancifully.

Hats are low and large, trimmed with feathers, painted velvet, chantilly and Irish guipures. No two hats are alike, but the distinguishing feature is a soft, draped effect even in those small shapes which ought rightly to be considered tailor made.

The little three cornered hats are still much worn. For traveling hats camel's hair felt is seen in dark as well as very pale shades. The marquis shape is more fascinating than ever in the pale colors, especially gray. It is a trifle smaller than heretofore, and there is a little strap in the same felt as the hat which passes over the corner at the back, with a tiny cut steel button. Rather similar to this shape is the Dick Turpin. The brim is caught up and fastened to the crown in two places with steel and strass ornaments. A long, drooping ostrich feather falls from the side over the back of the hat and is fastened down in the front with satin ribbon bows.

Many of the rough white felts are trimmed with wreaths of roses and irregular black velvet bows.

One of the latest French hats is shown in today's illustration. The material is beige colored velvet. It is made up with a wide, floppy brim and a soft crown. The brim is raised on the left side and held in place at the back by an oblong buckle. A scarf of soft liberty silk spotted in gold is wound in and out of the folds. The charm of this hat consists in its becoming softness. JUDIC CHOLLET.

STYLISH FURS.

The Latest Fashions For the Winter Season.

Costumes made entirely of fur are one of the season's novelties. Broadtail is the favorite, but seal and Persian lamb are equally adaptable. The skirt of such a costume is usually made up with its lining of taffeta and a wide bias ruffle to give the fashionable flare around the feet. This ruffle is joined in so skillfully that it is impossible to perceive the point from which it starts. A blouse jacket with rounded fronts allowing a soft full blouse of lace to be seen occasionally is a very pretty model. The sleeves are very chic made full from the elbow down, with wide turnover cuffs. Medici collars incrusted with rich lace are often seen on these fur costumes, and the lace applique is used down the front, around the cuffs and about the bottom of the skirt. Very often a postilion effect is simulated with bands of the lace around the hips.

All the fur garments this year are lined with most beautiful pale colored silks and brocades.

A smart fur gown is shown in today's illustration. It can be carried out in seal, broadtail, Persian lamb or any other short haired black fur. The Eton jacket has a medici collar, deep revers and full sleeves with long, wide cuffs. It is short, to allow the undervest of heavy white corded silk to be seen. This vest closes with a row of tiny gilt buttons. The belt is of stitched white satin. The skirt is cut with a wide ruffle, but this is added on so neatly that it is invisible. The plain muff matches the fur of the costume.

The picture hat is of black velvet, trimmed with two long ostrich plumes and a bow of coral pink velvet. The brim is slashed here and there after the new fashion. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Wise Turkey

NOW this turkey lived in a wildwood glen,
He was fat, and smooth, and sleek;
He had ne'er borne love for the haunts of men,
But he loved the little creek;
Yes, he loved the creek
And its water's play,
And the forest's leafy shade,
He was king of the chase,
And lord of the place,
Where the speckled eggs were laid.

IN the turkey tongue of his elder kin,
He had heard of the day of thanks,
And he hurried away as it wandered in,
To the creek's secluded banks.
And there on the banks
Of the little creek,
He thought with his thinking brain:
"I'm a gobbler now,
And one I trow,
Forever I will remain!"

SO he squat him down on a slippery log
That passed through the waters slow,
And he said, while his wattles were all agog,
"It's a risky thing, but all the same, you bet your life I go."
And he made a sail,
A tail-spread sail,
That carried him on and on,
To the land of the leal,
And the turkey's weal,
Where other good turks had gone.

AND all of the turks that stayed behind,
In the leafy wildwood glen,
Were caught by the men who were much inclined
To render thanks, and then
Their heads were cut off, their bodies filled,
Yes, with sage were their bodies filled,
And they helped give thanks
While the bells did peal,
But one gobbler was safe in the land of the leal,
For he'd left the little creek's banks.

God Guard Columbia

A New National Hymn Suitable for Popular and General Worship on Such Occasions as Thanksgiving.

By REV. HENRY C. McCOOK, D.D., AND GEORGE BALCH NEVIN.

What time the clouds of woe
Hung o'er us dark and low,
Thou, Lord, wast near.
Still be our Staff and Stay;
Hear Thou Thy People pray:
God Guard Columbia,
Our Country dear!

Hold in Thy Mighty Hand
Our troops by sea and land,
In fort and field!
Give them to do and dare;
In days of danger spare,
And guard them by Thy care
O God, our Shield!

Lord God of land and wave,
The sovereign People save!
On Thee they wait!
Do Thou perpetuate
Thy glory in the State!
Save our Chief Magistrate!
God save the State!

The authors of the above hymn have no desire to replace our beloved "America" in the hearts of the American people. Nor could they do so if they wished, for it has a place in our history almost as sacred to us as that occupied by "Old Glory" itself.

But they do believe, and with reason, that the time has come when there is room for another national hymn; that a time has come when with our broadened boundaries, our expanding commerce, our enlarged sphere in the affairs of the world, there should be another national hymn, perhaps of secondary importance, that should give recognition to the American army and navy, to the chief magistrate of the nation, to the heroic services of those who purchased our liberty, and the times of national calamity which have sometimes befallen us. They believe that, like "America," such a hymn should contain the elements of popular and general worship, suited to the needs of great public gatherings at times of national thanksgiving and rejoicing, and these conditions we believe "God Guard Columbia" meets.

To some the fact that the music of "America" is borrowed from the national hymn of England, "God Save the King," is not in keeping with our American institutions, nor our American ideas of independence. To such this new hymn will be acceptable as it is set to strictly original and American music.

The hymn is first offered the American public at a time when it will undoubtedly be acceptable as a feature of the universal thanksgiving offerings that will ascend from the heart of the nation.

EXPOSITION PLANS.

Ground to Be Broken at St. Louis With Great Pomp.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 27.—The committee on ceremonies of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company has decided that the breaking of ground for the world's fair Dec. 20 shall be celebrated with a great procession. This procession will form at Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard, in the western section of the city, and will march to the world's fair site in Forest park, where impressive ceremonies will take place. All of the organized bodies in the city will march in the procession and participate in the ceremonies.

Arrangements for the power plant to provide illumination and power for the intramural railroad, for the operation of the exhibit machines and for pumps for cascades, fire protection and water supply are now under consideration by Director of Works Taylor.

"The power plant to be installed at the exposition will be one of the largest in the world," said Mr. Taylor yesterday. "It will have a capacity of about 31,000 horsepower.

'The present intention is to put the big power plant as an exhibit in the center of the machinery building.

"We have under consideration plans for operating the boiler plant with oil from Texas instead of with coal. This will eliminate the dust which is inseparable from the handling of coal and will do away entirely with smoke."

The Bonine Trial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — The fact was brought out yesterday in the trial of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine for the killing of James Seymour Ayres, Jr., that she had made a private confession of her part in the tragedy on the evening after the homicide, several days before she took the police officials into her confidence. This recital was made to Mr. George B. Gardner, an attorney employed in the law division of the interior department, who was a boarder at the Kenmore hotel and usually sat at the same table at which Mrs. Bonine took her meals. Mr. Gardner was on the witness stand and told his story for the first time. A number of other witnesses were heard during the day, several of them being men who had taken Ayres out to neighboring saloons during the evening of May 14 and one of whom had taken him to his room after midnight, about two hours before he met his death.

Life Saving Statistics.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — The annual report of the general superintendent of the life saving service for the year 1901 shows the smallest loss of life from documented vessels suffering disaster since the general extension of the service and also with respect to vessels of all classes, including the undocumented, with the exception of the years 1880, 1882, 1885 and 1888. The average number of lives lost annually during the entire period (twenty-five years) was thirty-seven, one life having been lost in every thirteen casualties, while the number lost during the past year was seventeen, or one in every forty-three casualties. From documented vessels alone the number lost was only seven, one to every fifty-four casualties.

Semple Jury Failed to Agree.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—After deliberating for nearly thirty hours the jury in the case of John L. Semple, the Camden (N. J.) lawyer who was tried in the United States district court here, charged with aiding and abetting counterfeiters, were unable to agree and were discharged by Judge McPherson. Semple was accused of having assisted Arthur Taylor and Baldwin S. Bredell in the manufacture of plates from which were printed twenty dollar counterfeit notes. Taylor and Bredell are awaiting sentence for their part in the famous Lancaster (Pa.) revenue stamp counterfeiting case.

OPEN LETTER FROM CHIEF.

NEED OF SPECIAL CARE TO GUARD AGAINST FIRE.

Dangers Of The Holiday Season Should Be Very Carefully Guarded Against.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—It is approaching the time of the year when houses and stores will be decorated for Christmas, Christmas festivals given, and trees decorated.

The other night, in this city, a benefit supper was given. Some of the women present were dressed in light, inflammable gowns, with paper flowers in their hair. The electric light bulbs were covered with colored tissue paper, two of which (I don't know how many more) caught fire. A man happened to be near in each of the two cases, and caught the paper in his hand, smothering the fire. Had a spark fallen on some of the gowns, some one might at least have been badly burned.

Electric lights handled with ordinary care, are the safest lights that can be used, but where there is light there is heat, and it is never safe to cover an electric light with anything inflammable, unless the cover is so arranged that a circulation of air is complete and the covering used does not touch the bulb. There are colored fireproof coverings for sale very cheap.

For decorating show windows, Christmas trees or clothing, where a snow effect is required, mineral wool, for sale at any hardware store, and much cheaper than cotton can be had, and is absolutely fireproof. Candles on Christmas trees should never be lighted as the trees are very inflammable.

A little care taken in this matter may be the means of saving many lives, not to speak of much valuable property.

T. O. Doane,
Chief Plainfield Fire Depar't.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

A RESTRICTED DIET.

Eccentric Old-Time London Physician Who Did Not Prescribe for Himself.

A famous and eccentric physician of London, who flourished 130 years ago, was a stout advocate of a restricted diet. He held that one meal a day was enough for anyone, and he practiced what he preached. But that meal! A chronicler of the time, relates the Boston Advertiser, said of it:

"For over 20 years Dr. Fordyce dined daily at Dolly's chop-house, near Paternoster row. At four o'clock he entered and took his seat at a table always reserved for him. A silver tankard full of strong ale, a bottle of port wine and a measure containing a quarter of a pint of brandy were instantly placed before him.

"The moment the waiter announced him the cook put a pound and a half of rump steak on the gridiron, and on the table some delicate trifle as a bonne bouche to serve until the steak was ready. This morsel was sometimes half a broiled chicken, sometimes a plate of fish. When he had eaten this the doctor took one glass of brandy, and then proceeded to devour his steak.

"When he had finished his meat he took the remainder of his brandy. (He drank the ale during his dinner.) He then took his bottle of port. He thus spent daily an hour and a half, and then returned to his house in Essex street to give his six o'clock lecture on chemistry. He made no other meal until his return next day at four o'clock to Dolly's."

Forerunner of His Flock.

A country minister in a certain American town took permanent leave of his congregation in the following pathetic manner: "Brothers and sisters, I came to say good-by. I don't think you love each other, because you have not paid my salary. Brothers, I am going away to a better place. I have been called to be chaplain of a penitentiary. I go to prepare a place for you."—Household Words.

CITY WOOD GLEANERS.

Women and Children Clear Away Wreckage of Buildings in Short Order.

One of the picturesque sights of certain sections of the city is that of a woman bearing bundles or baskets of wood on their heads. Sometimes the dimensions of the bundles exceed the stature of their purveyors. In that case it may be concluded that the journey is toward home, where the material will be worked up, perhaps, into kindlings. After certain days it may appear again in the street, carefully bestowed in a basket and heaped high over the edges—two sticks being run up from the inside of the basket to support the pile—and the whole balanced on the head of an Italian woman, says the Chicago Tribune. The women who collect and peddle wood—often helped by their children—are sometimes an annoyance to wreckers, since it does not always "come natural" for them to limit their pickings according to the prescribed restrictions. They make short shrift, however, of clearing away such wreckage as is left to their mercies, and when there is a considerable "find" it vanishes before the assault of many rival hands almost like mist. The carriage of such heavy burdens on the person is not an ideal method of transportation for this day and generation, but the erect posture, bold step and free movement of the wood peddlers as they pace off under their towering burdens is one of the most interesting and artistic sights which the streets afford, and the grace and strength of the figure thus attained may well be admired and coveted. The sight itself is one which will largely disappear with the wooden pavements and frame cottages which now survive from an earlier day and are gradually being sacrificed.

CHINAMAN GAVE UP HIS SEAT.

A Heathen's Courtesy to a Tired Woman While Christians Remained Seated.

A Columbia avenue car, with a good crowd aboard, was wending its way up Ninth street late one Saturday evening. Only a few of the gentler sex were on the car and these had seats. Among the seated passengers were two severe-looking clergymen, several prosperous business men and a docile Chinaman who carried a large bundle on his knees.

At Arch street a middle-aged woman who carried a small valise got on the car. It jolted along and the slender, tired-looking woman glanced around appealingly for a seat. She stood close to where the two ministers sat and her face wore an expression of pain as the car rattled along and she clutched nervously at the hand-strap. The Chinaman rose from his seat, and, holding his heavy bundle with his left hand, tapped the woman with his right hand gently and motioned her to the seat he had vacated. She accepted the favor with a smile and a gracious "Thank you, sir."

All the men seated in the car stared at each other as if each of them had received a rebuke.

"That Chinee is all right," remarked the conductor, according to the Philadelphia Record. "He's a good sample of those supposed barbarians we are endeavoring so hard to civilize."

HE WANTED A BEAR.

But When He Met One Face to Face He Forgot What He Was Out After.

"The sickest man I ever took into the woods," said an Adirondack guide, near North Creek, relates the New York Times, "was a lawyer who came in from Buffalo last fall to kill a bear. He said he was going to kill one if it took all season. He wanted a rug of his own killing for his office. He staid in the woods three weeks, and wouldn't look at deer or small game. Finally he had to go home. He sent his stuff out to the railroad by team, and walked out himself, saying that would be his last chance at a bear.

"Sure enough, he went around a big rock and met a bear face to face in the trail. He forgot what he was after, forgot he had been hunting three weeks for this very animal, forgot that he wanted a rug for his office, and even forgot that he had a gun. He turned and sprinted in the direction from which he came till it all came over him that that bear was just what he wanted. Then he stopped, went back and saw from the tracks that the bear had gone a good deal faster than he did, and in the opposite direction."

Science and Sport.

We would like to take some of these mosquito fearing gentlemen with us on some of our squirrel hunting expeditions along the Pamunky river and let them see and feel what every huntsman endures while engaged in this sport, says the Southern Clinic. It is a fact that at times in these river bottoms the mosquitoes are so thick that they are unendurable, and when a fellow goes to aim at a squirrel he has to fight them off with his gun barrel before he can see the squirrel. We are not joking as to the number of bites that the huntsman suffers from, and we are serious when we say that the idea of malaria being dependent solely upon the bites of these insects sounds foolish to men who have observed what we have in thousands of cases.

Intestines of an Ocean Liner.

The boiler tubes of a liner, if placed in a straight line, would reach nearly ten miles, and the condenser tubes more than 25 miles. The total number of separate pieces of steel in the main structure of the ship is not less than 40,000.

AT THE CASINO.

Manager Maze Edwards Announces Two Strong Performances For Thanksgiving Day.

Manager Maze Edwards, with the assistance of Messrs Vion and Homans, agents of the Weber & Fields, Keith's and other attractions, fully demonstrated the possibility of presenting clean and wholesome vaudeville last week, and make a second bid for support and recognition of their endeavors in the presentation of a bill of unexcelled, refined and high-class excellence in the vaudeville line, at the Casino, tomorrow afternoon and evening.

A bill characterized especially by novelty is the order this time. It is none the less pleasing because it contains features that are decidely unique. The most pretentious offering along the line of a dramatic sketch is "A Woman's Dilemma" in which May Wentworth, a talented actress is seen Her company of five people get laughs enough for a three-act play.

In addition this sketch, highly endorsed over the Keith circuit, other "head-liner" artists appear, including Alice Chester, piano monologuist and vocalist; Wm. Baynore, black-face parody singer; Daily and Paine, Irish comedy singing and dancing performers; George Cunningham, operatic baritone singer; Murphy and Slater, "Komedy Koon Kings" and the Jessups, comedy artists. PRINCETON ELEVEN WAS DEFEATED BY ALIS.

Elm Club of Princeton Beaten on a Local Gridiron by Score of 11 to 0.

GREAT PLAYING BY ALIS.

TEAM WORK RESULTED IN TWO TOUCHDOWNS FOR PLAINFIELD.

Collegians Could Not Gain—Futile Attempt at Goal From the Field—Princeton Improved in Second Half—Game Played Yesterday Morning.

The Princeton Elm Club's football team went down in defeat before the crack Alis A. A. eleven of this city in a well played game, which took place on the Hope chapel gridiron, yesterday morning. The score of 11 to 0 in favor of the home team tells the tale.

It was a splendid exhibition so far as Alis was concerned. The aggressiveness of the Alis boys overwhelmed the collegians and their battering plunges had a sledge hammer effect. When the two teams lined up it seemed as if the Plainfielders had a strong proposition to tackle but in a few moments this idea was dispelled from one's mind.

After the kick-off by Princeton the Alis boys pushed the ball to mid-field where the visitors obtained it. They had it but a few moments when they lost it on downs. Then started the procession up the field and within five minutes from the kick-off Rapalje went over the line for a touchdown. Phillips tried at goal and achieved success. When the half ended the ball was in the possession of the Elm Club in Alis territory. One attempt had been made by Tom Smith, fullback of the Alis team, to kick a goal from the field, but the feat was a difficult one and resulted in failure by a small margin.

In the second half the Princetonians were kept continually on the defensive, but they put up a much better game. After some work Cuming was sent over the line for a touchdown and Phillips failed to kick goal, the difficult angle and the wind being responsible for the loss of the additional point.

The line up:

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

JOLLY TIME AT MASQUERADE.

FIRST ATTEMPT OF TIMBO A. C. HELD THANKSIVING EVE.

Gaily Costumed Folk Danced Far Into the Night to Music of O'Reilly's Orchestra.

A jolly good time was enjoyed by the members of the Timbo Athletic Club and their friends at their first annual masquerade ball in Saengerbund Hall Thanksgiving Eve. Throughout the evening and well into the morning hours the floor was crowded with a gay throng.

As for the costumes there was the usual variety in the selection of garbs and some of them were quite good. The light-hearted folk glided about the dancing floor until after midnight when refreshments were served in the banquet room. Few seemed to spend much time at the supper table and in short order the dancing was resumed.

Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra furnished the music. Tommy Timbo, the sponsor of the club, was kept busy in the capacity of a superintendent. James McClain acted as a floor manager. The committee of arrangements consisted of Charles Greer, James McClain, R. D. Eick, D. Galbraith and L. Bennett.

ORIGIN OF THE DAY.

Rev. O. G Norseen Preached On It to Congregation of the Pilgrim Church.

A Thanksgiving service was held by the congregation of the Swedish Lutheran Pilgrim church in the Congregational church last evening. Rev. O. G. Norseen, the pastor, preached on the significance of the occasion, speaking of the origin of the day and also the first proclamation by President Lincoln. Incidentally he referred to the death of President McKinley.

An orchestra furnished the instrumental music. The members were Miss Christian Olson, guitar; Miss Anna Sward, guitar; Miss Anna Lindmark, pianist; Joseph Tingof, violin. Rev. Mr. Norseen also played the guitar at the service. Mrs. Lydia Utterberg acted as accompanist. A collection was taken for the church fund.

MANY GAVE THANKS IN LOCAL CHURCHES.

Thanksgiving Services Were Held in Several Churches Yesterday Morning.

UNION SERVICES WERE HELD.

LOCAL ENDEAVORERS HELD SPECIAL MEETING AT TRINITY CHURCH.

Union Service Followed—Another at Crescent Avenue Church—Episcopals and Roman Catholics Also Observed the Day.

A union Thanksgiving service was held in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, in which a number of churches united. At 10 o'clock the Local Union Christian Endeavor held a union service in the lecture room of the same church.

The Endeavor service was led by E. E. Anthony, who spoke briefly in an appropriate manner. He directed the thoughts of all to the many things for which they should be thankful. The meeting was then thrown open for testimonies and prayers. A great many took part. During the service Miss Florence G. Hawkins and Miss Elsie Giles sang two duets. Miss Voorhees presided at the piano.

At the union service which followed in the main part of the church, there was a large attendance. Rev. Cornelius Sobenck, Ph.D., pastor of the church, made the opening prayer, after which the church quartette, Miss Minnie Williams, Miss Edith Derby, Joseph Martin and H. J. Martin, sang an appropriate anthem. This was followed by the singing of "Come Thou Almighty King." Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass read the Scripture lesson and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes offered prayer. After the singing of another hymn, the sermon was preached by Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church.

Mr. Herring dwelt upon the thought that this was a National Thanksgiving and it made no difference whether the past year had been filled with trials and sorrows or joy and successes for everyone had something to be thankful for. He said that God is in this country and he has a particular purpose to accomplish. He considered this the greatest country on the earth.

He reviewed some of the more important events during the past year for which all should be thankful. Mr. Herring did not believe in the saying "America for Americans," but "America for the Americanized." In conclusion the speaker said that inasmuch as much has been given to many much would be expected of them by the Lord. The Gospel of Christ is the power of God unto salvation and he urged all to live earnestly and unselfishly.

After the sermon and while the offering was being made for the Plainfield Relief Association, Miss Derby sang a pleasing solo, The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. W. Richardson.

The pastors at the service included Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass, Rev. G. W. Gardner, Rev. C. E. Herring, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., and Rev. J. W. Richardson.

At the service in the Crescent Avenue Church, yesterday morning, the attendance was very large and the sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards was greatly enjoyed.

He selected for his text Proverbs xiv:34, "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." The past year, the speaker said, had been an extraordinarily prosperous one for the American nation, but all it has achieved has been secured through the righteousness of its people. Its bonds are rated exceptionally high; its crops, upon which the prosperity of a nation depends, have been very large, and fortune has smiled upon it.

Aside from these facts, the speaker continued, the year was a triumph of righteousness. The manner in which the government proceeded after the terrible death of its President, the fair trial afforded his assassin, the part the United States took in settling the recent troubles in China, the overthrow of vice by the recent election in New York city, were all, he said, examples of the stability of the government and national character, for which true thanks should be given to God.

In the Catholic churches, Anglican and Roman, services were held yesterday morning. It has been the rule of the Episcopalians to fittingly recognize Thanksgiving Day, since the American Constitution went into effect in 1789. The Roman Catholics have observed the day since 1881.

In the Roman Catholic churches masses were said. At St. Mary's, the celebrations were held at 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock, Father Smyth officiating. The prescribed service was used as was also the case at St. Joseph's church, where Father Miller officiated at the 7:30 o'clock mass.

In all the Episcopal churches the service set forth in the Book of Common Prayer was used. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman preached a sermon on Thanksgiving at Grace church and there was some special music. Early celebration of the Blessed Eucharist was held at this church at 7:30 o'clock and a later service was held at 10 o'clock. At the latter service the sermon was delivered.

At St. Stephen's, Rev. William Bryce Morrow officiated at the 10:30 o'clock service. There was also service at the Church of the Holy Cross, in North Plainfield, at 11 o'clock, where a sermon on the day was delivered by Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, the rector. At the Church of the Heavenly Rest, William Winans Moore, the lay reader, read the service.

GOOD SHOW AT THE CASINO.

BUT THE AUDIENCE AFTERNOON AND EVENING WAS NOT LARGE.

The Entertainment Was Deserving of a Better House And Pleased Those Who Attended.

It was the same old story at the Casino yesterday. There was a good attraction and a poor attendance at both the afternoon and evening performances. May Wentworth's vaudeville company provided high class entertainment, which was thoroughly appreciated.

The best thing on the bill, if judged from the amount of applause received was the sketch by Murphy and Slater, "Kings of Koon Komedy." Their stunts kept the audience in continual uproar. Billy Raynore, the monologue comedian, Daly and Paine, the comic character dancers and George Cunningham were exceptionally clever artists in their lines.

May Wentworth, herself, caught the audience and her witticisms were thoroughly enjoyable. The thing that bewildered the younger generation was the surprising work of a card magician.

It was disappointing that there were not more people to witness the performance but those that were there went away well repaid.

IT WAS GOOD.

Large Audience Enjoyed Star Course Entertainment at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

The second entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Star course was held last night. It was attended by a large number of people. The entertainers were the Metropolitan Quartette and Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, elocutionist. The quartette, consisting of Robert J. Webb, first tenor; Nelson W. Doyle, second tenor; David N. Maxson, baritone, and Hugh H. Kennedy, bass, gave a delightful programme, their voices blending in perfect harmony. Miss Luckey's selections were excellent.

NO INSTALLATION.

But Calvary Baptist Church Literary Society Held Its Debate.

Unavoidable circumstances compelled the committee in charge to postpone the installation of the Literary Society of the Calvary Baptist church, which was to have been held yesterday afternoon, until Sunday.

The debate scheduled for last evening took place. The subject was, "Resolved, That the White Man was Justified in Driving Out the Indians." Lewis Harris and J. W. Brooks for the negative were awarded the decision. The affirmative was championed by Miles Tabar and George Janet.

VISITED AT ELIZABETH.

Big Delegation of Gesang and Turn Verein Guests of Liberty Singing Society.

The Gesang and Turn Verein was the guest of the Liberty Singing Society of Elizabeth, at a concert given by the latter organization at Turner Hall, in that city, Wednesday evening. Forty members of the society made the trip and they were accompanied by fourteen members of the Ladies' Society, an allied organization. The singing section of the Gesang and Turn Verein, composed of twenty-two persons, rendered some airs of the Fatherland at the concert.

THANKSGIVING DAY AT HILLSIDE CLUB LINKS.

Play for Gilbert Cup and Kickers' Handicap Furnished Entertainment for Golfers.

WERE NO SOCIAL FEATURES.

WATER PIPES AT CLUBHOUSE WERE FROZEN UP AND STOPPED FLOW.

Miss Katherine Reinhart and F. O Reinhart Won Final Play for Gilbert Cup—Kickers Handicap Won by Walter Petersen.

There was not a very large attendance at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course yesterday, which was no doubt due to the intense cold weather. The water pipes in the clubhouse were frozen and no water could be secured. This had a tendency to upset all plans of a social nature.

In the morning there was the final play for the Gilbert cup for mixed foursomes. This was won by Miss Katharine Reinhart and Frank O. Reinhart, who made a net score of 96½. The scores were as follows:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Miss Katharine Reinhart and Frank O. Reinhart	109	12½	96½
Miss Margaret Goddard and W. L. Glenney	112	9	103
Miss vanHerwerden and Robert Abbott	108	3	105

An event of considerable interest was the kicker's handicap, the competition being continued throughout the day. The winning score selected by the Golf Committee was 81 and this score was made by Walter Peterson. A. D. Beers also made an 81, but as he is a junior and not qualified to play in the event, especially on a holiday, his score did not count. The prize awarded the winner was a box of golf balls.

There were a number of scores below 81 as the following will show:

	G.	H.	N.
Roger F. Murray	99	25	74
Robert Abbot	91	15	76
C. F. Abbott	127	50	77

FORMAL PARK CLUB DANCE.

SOCIETY FOUND IT A PLEASANT INCIDENT OF HOLIDAY TIME.

Many Attended, Including a Number From Out of Town—Under Charge of Entertainment Committee.

One of the pleasant social events of Thanksgiving Eve was the dance given at the Park Club. This was given under the patronage of a number of prominent society women of the borough and city. Like the other similar events given this season, was a great success.

The pretty little clubhouse was thronged with society folk and the programme of dances was thoroughly enjoyed. Music was furnished by Herbert Harold and his orchestra and it was entirely satisfactory.

Included among the guests were many of the younger set who have come home to spend the Thanksgiving season and the following from New York; Miss Hartshorn, Miss Smock, Miss Bruno, Edward M. Olson, B. S. Cook, Albert M. Doty, Miss Flanagan, Miss Ida Borsum and Miss Wisners, of Brooklyn. The affair was given by the entertainment committee of the club.

OFFICER KNOCKED DOWN AND BICYCLE WRECKED

Roundsman Flynn Was Attempting to Stop Harold Phillips For Fast Driving.

CAPTURED HIM AFTERWARDS

WESTFIELD POLICE PURSUED PHILLIPS HOME FROM THAT TOWN.

Tried to Stop Him There for Overdriving a Horse—'Phoned Warning to Plainfield—Phillips Arraigned, Found Guilty and Fined.

An attempt to stop a rapidly moving horse, driven by Harold Phillips, of this city, yesterday afternoon, resulted in the partial demolition of Roundsman John Flynn's bicycle, while the officer narrowly escaped serious injury. He was crowded to the curb at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street, and was thrown to the ground. One wheel passed over his foot. He secured another mount and caught the rig at Park avenue and Eighth street. Phillips was placed under arrest and arraigned this morning.

The trouble began at Westfield yesterday afternoon. In company with John Conway, Phillips had been driving about the county roads. According to Wm. Barton, of Westfield, he had used the horse unsparingly. Thinking the animal was a hired one (it is the property of Conway) Barton complained to the Westfield police and Officer Young asked Phillips to give it an hour's rest before starting for home. The young man said he would but, on getting in the wagon, whipped up the horse and, it is alleged, told Young to catch him if he could.

Young secured a wheel and followed Phillips, but every time he seized the horse, he claims he was forced to the curb. He passed over the Westfield boundary line, but resolved to follow the rig and learn the identity of the occupant. In the meantime, some one telephoned to the Plainfield police. Flynn met the wagon at East Fifth street and Watchung avenue.

In the City Court, this morning, Phillips pleaded not guilty to the charge of fast driving. The testimony of Flynn and Officer Young convicted him. A sentence of $5 or twenty days was imposed. The fine was paid.

SENTENCED "BIG SOCKS."

Frank Harrison Given Five Years in States Prison for Shooting at Officer.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, November 29—Judge B. A Vail, Wednesday morning, sentenced Frank Harrison, alias "Big Socks," who was found guilty of having fired two shots at Roundsman Frederickson, of the Plainfield police force. He was given five years in State's prison.

The severity of the sentence was no doubt brought about by Harrison's boast while on the stand that he never did an honest day's work in his life and had no intention of doing so. He maintained his innocence of the charge preferred against him until he appeared for sentence and then admitted his guilt.

Won Turkeys at Bowling.

The members of the Gesang and Turn Verein enjoyed yesterday afternoon at Saengerbund Hall, where they participated in various games, bowling being the principal one. In the bowling contests turkeys were won by John Reizer, Henry Rummel and Henry Hertle. John Wirt won a quilt in another bowling contest.

Reliable and Gentle.

"A pill's a pill", says the saw. But there are pills and pills. You want a pill which is certain, thorough and gentle. Mustn't gripe. DeWitt's Little Early Risers fill the bill. Purely vegetable. Do not force, but assist the bowels to act. Strengthen and invigorate. Small and easy to take. L. W. Randolph.

SHE FOUND THE RECIPE.

It Had Been Lost in the Family Bible and the Minister Brought It to Light.

"My wife will be careful hereafter how she takes liberties with the truth," said Jones, with a grin, relates the Detroit Free Press. "We had our minister with us the other day for dinner, and the conversation turned upon absent-mindedness, and my better half had to tell her story.

"'I am dreadfully absent-minded,' said she. 'I remember some six or seven years ago a friend of mine gave me her celebrated recipe for making jam. When I reached home I carefully put it away where I would be sure to find it when I wanted it. But, do you know, a few weeks later when I needed it I couldn't remember for the life of me where I had put it, and to this day I have never been able to find it.'

"After dinner she turned to Rev. Mr. Thirdly and said, sweetly:

"'Would you mind reading a chapter in the Bible? We make it a rule to read at least one chapter every night.'

"This statement caused me to look at her in surprise, for it was news to me.

"The reverend gentleman consented graciously, and she brought the family Bible, which she had carefully dusted and placed in a conspicuous spot before he had arrived.

"As he turned the leaves a paper fluttered to the floor.

"'Goodness!' gasped my wife, as she picked it up, not realizing how her words were going to sound, after her somewhat pious statement, 'it is that recipe for jam!'"

ESTRANGED COMRADES.

The Quarrel of Two English Army Officers and Its Touching Termination.

A touching story of two friends is told by William Beatty-Kingston in his "Journalist's Jottings." They were two officers in the English army who quarreled about some trifle, and although they had been the closest of comrades, became, in consequence, entirely estranged. The fact of their separation was extremely bitter to both of them, and one Christmas day one of them received from the other a card bearing a dove with an olive-branch.

The recipient kept the message by him for a twelvemonth, and on the following Christmas sent it back to his fellow officer, who, in turn, laid it aside for a year, and then dispatched it on the next anniversary.

Through three successive decades, at each Christmas-tide, the mute messenger was regularly sent in token of continued friendship, until a year came when it was forgotten because the present possessor was too harassed by financial losses to remember it. In the course of the Christmas week, however, his wife came upon the card, and sent it off to her husband's friend with a newspaper cutting referring to her husband's bankruptcy. The returning post brought her a letter, inclosing a thousand pounds, and explaining that the sender had just come into a fortune, and that in return for this trifling sum, intended for his old friend's rescue, he should keep the Christmas card as his most precious possession.

Modern Surgery Surpassed.

"While suffering from a bad case of piles I consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, "says G. F. Carter, Atlanta, Ga. "I procured a box and was entirely cured. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unnecessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, burns, bruises and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

WHEN A LOCOMOTIVE BLOWS UP

An Old Railroad Man's Account of a Catastrophe That He Witnessed.

"I am one of the very few persons who ever saw a locomotive blow up," remarked an old railroad man to a reporter of the Baltimore Sun the other day. "Generally the men who witness the explosion of a steam engine are so dead when the smoke has cleared away that they are never able to give an account of the disaster.

"Like many other accidents, the one I saw was the result of carelessness—low water in the boiler, for the engine had just come from the shops and was in complete repair. It was on a railroad in West Virginia a number of years ago. I was on a locomotive some distance behind the one which exploded, and was looking ahead out of the cab window, so that the ill-fated engine was immediately before my eyes. Suddenly I saw the machine rise in the air; it seemed to me about as high as the telegraph poles beside the track, which, as you doubtless know, are not so high as telegraph poles in the city. Then came a cloud of dense black smoke and dust, which hid the engine from view, and almost simultaneously I heard the roar of the explosion.

"Both the engineer and the fireman were killed, and the locomotive was fit for nothing much but the scrap heap when it fell to the ground. The crown sheet over the firebox had blown out.

"The strange thing about the explosion was that no white steam was seen. You know that perfectly dry steam is invisible, being like the air, and before it had time to condense it was probably smothered by the cloud of smoke and dust raised by the bursting of the boiler."

A NEW JERSEY TRAGEDY.

Man Kills Employer In a Quarrel Over Wages Due.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 29.—John Krause, who kept a little cigar store on Lincoln avenue, was murdered last evening in his apartments in the rear of the store. The police are now looking for Frank Williams, who, according to the statements made to the police by his wife, committed the crime. Williams was an employee of Krause and, accompanied by his wife, went to Krause's place to collect some back wages due him. Krause was unable to pay the money, and the men quarreled. Williams, in a fit of anger, picked up a stick and struck Krause, fracturing his skull and killing him instantly. Krause lived alone.

After the murder Krause's body was tied up in a compact bundle by bending the legs, and then Williams, taking his wife with him, went to a livery stable to hire a wagon ostensibly for the purpose of carting the body away. Mrs. Williams remained outside the livery stable office and as a man approached became hysterical and asked him to save her. She said she was afraid some man who was in the livery stable was going to kill her. She was directed to go to a saloon near by to get out of the way. This she did, and to the saloon keeper, Anton Jaeger, she told of the killing of Krause by her husband.

TAFT COMING HOME.

The Governor General's Wound Successfully Treated at Manila.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 29.—Former Congressman Charles P. Taft, publisher of The Times-Star and a brother of the governor general of the Philippines, William H. Taft, has received a cablegram from Manila stating that Surgeons Stafford and Rhodes have successfully grafted the skin on Governor Taft's wound, and he will probably be able to pay his projected visit to the United States at the end of December.

A party of Cincinnatians headed by J. G. Schmidlap, the banker, had expected to leave this week on a tour around the world, their objective point being a visit to Governor Taft at Manila. They have postponed their trip indefinitely on advices from Manila, and arrangements will be made to give Governor Taft a reception here by his old neighbors on his return.

Long Buried Safe Found.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Nov. 29.—After being buried for years the safe of Terry Bros., brick manufacturers, was recovered yesterday. Twenty years ago a landslide occurred, carrying the house and office of Albert Terry into the Hudson river at East Kingston. The principal loss was the safe, containing money and valuable papers. Yesterday morning an unusually low tide revealed the safe to John Broadhead, watchman at the works, who secured it. The safe was blown open and the papers and money found intact. A peculiar fact regarding the landslide was that Mrs. Terry objected to living in the house because of the sinking of the floors. The family bought a residence on Broadway, moving into the new house the day before the landslide, which occurred at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Revising the Creed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The preliminary work of revising the creed of the Presbyterian church, so as to make it more popularly understood, has been inaugurated here at a meeting of a section of the committee of twenty appointed at the last Presbyterian assembly to accomplish this result. The section that met began the preparation of a new statement of the doctrine of the church. It spent several hours in discussion, but no action was taken on any phase of the subject. Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson of Chicago presided.

Conductor and Engineer Killed.

DUCKTOWN, Tenn., Nov. 29.—A northbound freight train on the Atlantic, Knoxville and Northern railroad was wrecked two miles south of here. Conductor Harvy Ott of Knoxville and Engineer Ed Dawson of Blue Ridge were killed, and the fireman and brakeman were seriously injured. The locomotive jumped the track while running at a high rate of speed around a sharp curve and rolled down a forty foot embankment, followed by several iron cars.

Big Fire In Yankton, S. D.

YANKTON, S. D., Nov. 29.—The Union block, one of the best business blocks in the city, has been burned; loss, $100,000. William Pierson, city marshal, who slept in the building, jumped from a third story window and may die. Several people were rescued from the upper stories with ropes.

Costa Rica In Hard Lines.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 29.—The financial distress of Costa Rica is increasing. The country is unable to meet the interest upon its foreign indebtedness and is experiencing difficulty in paying its public employees. The revenues have lately decreased considerably.

Ice Closing the Hudson.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Navigation on the Hudson from this city will probably end today. Ice is so thick in the river that the big night boats of the Citizens' line have too much difficulty to break through. The river is solidly frozen in this vicinity.

Chicago Sights a Comet.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—A comet was visible here in the southern sky last evening. Its position as viewed from the Auditorium tower, in which the United States weather bureau is situated, was about 10 degrees southeast from the zenith.

THE WABASH WRECK

Victims of Railway Disaster Estimated at Eighty.

MANY FRAGMENTS OF CHARRED BODIES

Number of Lives Lost Near Adrian, Mich., by Collision and Fire May Never Be Accurately Known.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 29.—When night fell over the scene of Wednesday evening's awful calamity on the Wabash railroad near Seneca, Mich., those who had been investigating the disaster had found nothing to alter the estimate of about eighty lives lost as a result of the collision.

However, in support of the estimate it is pointed out that there are now fourteen passengers known to be dead. The bodies of eight of these have been recovered, and it is considered that the fragments of other bodies now in the morgue at Adrian will account for many more than the twelve dead necessary to make up Superintendent Burns' estimate of twenty. In addition to the comparatively few fragments recovered and sent to the morgue those who were early on the scene say that many more pieces were discovered which crumbled to powder while they were being removed.

Superintendent Burns said that he was unable to tell the exact number of Italian emigrants aboard train No. 13, but thought there were not more than fifty. Passengers on the train and a number of those who were early on the scene dispute this and say the number was nearer eighty. Superintendent Burns has received no report as yet from Ticket Collector Eames of train No. 13, who probably knows nearer than any one else the number of Italians in the cars.

Coroner Hamilton of Adrian yesterday afternoon impaneled a jury and will begin an inquest into the disaster today.

That the officials of the Wabash railroad are trying to minimize the results of the catastrophe is evident from the official list of the dead given to the local papers. This list shows the names of but ten dead and forty-eight injured. The Detroit newspaper men who were at the scene of the wreck and talked with survivors of both trains say that the official list does not bear out the statements of the passengers or evidence of the horrible loss of life which they witnessed at the spot where the accident occurred.

The Free Press says that the loss of life was in round numbers 100 and that the statements made by the Italian emigrants in train No. 13 bear out this claim. These emigrants say that there were about 125 of their nationality on the train and that only about twenty-five of them escaped. While there are only ten of them known to be dead, it is asserted that the other ninety were completely incinerated and that with the removal of the wreckage the bodies crumbled to dust, which was scattered by the wind which swept across the country. If the names of these dead are ever known, it will be when friends make inquiry for them, and in many instances this seems highly improbable.

Ito Received by the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—The czar granted an audience to Marquis Ito, the Japanese statesman, at Tsarskoe-Selo yesterday afternoon, and later Count Lamsdorff, the Russian foreign minister, gave a gala dinner in honor of the visitor. An effective entente between Russia and Japan is regarded as the probable outcome of the audience between the czar and Marquis Ito, although it is not anticipated that permanent or binding obligations will be undertaken by either government.

President Clark Going Abroad.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, president of the World's Christian Endeavor, will sail for Europe Jan. 4, where he will give his personal efforts to establishing the society more firmly on the continent, especially in central Europe, Scandinavia, France, Spain, Italy, Holland, Bohemia and Bulgaria. In all these lands Christian Endeavor has already shown good results, and it is expected Dr. Clark's presence and efforts will give it a still greater impetus. He will be away about seven months.

Socialists Close Belgium Chamber.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 29.—Amid scenes of violent disorder the Socialists yesterday forced an adjournment of the chamber of deputies owing to the refusal of the government to consider a universal suffrage resolution. The Socialists also announced that they will continue their obstruction indefinitely and prevent a vote on the budget until their demands are granted.

Dog Days at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—A large and fashionable crowd was in attendance at the third annual dog show being held in Horticultural hall. It being a holiday, the number of visitors during the morning hours was larger than usual. The judging of dogs began an hour earlier, and the different classes were unusually well filled.

A DAY OF FEASTING.

The Hungry Fed and Generally Made Happy.

THANKSGIVERS CROWDED CHURCHES

Charitable Institutions and Hospitals Remembered—Helen Gould's Customary Munificence—The Festival Elsewhere.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—All who were hungry in this great city had an opportunity to eat their fill yesterday, for besides the number of private dinners that were given by happy householders to their friends there were hundreds of places all over the city where no other card of invitation was required than a hungry look.

Thanksgiving day services in the city churches were more general and more largely attended than at any time since outdoor sports usurped the traditional celebration of the day. From the pro-cathedral in Stanton street to old Trinity and St. Patrick's cathedral the churches were crowded with people, who flocked to give thanks for the blessings of the past year, and in almost every instance some touching reference was made to the late president.

Food in plenty, the best the Thanksgiving market affords, was eaten by the destitute poor of New York city at the municipal lodging house, Twenty-third street and First avenue. It was the annual treat of the city to its unfortunate, and Superintendent William C. Yorke of the institution voluntarily took upon himself all the duties of buyer and caterer for the occasion. Between 600 and 700 men, women and children were fed.

The menu consisted of 1,000 pounds of fresh picked turkey, 5 barrels of potatoes, 2 barrels of turnips, 4 barrels of apples, 3 bushels of onions, 650 pounds of bread, 100 quarts of milk and an unlimited supply of coffee.

The several thousand patients in the various hospitals controlled by the department of charities were given Thanksgiving dinners.

At the Infants' hospital on Randall's island special attention was paid to the wants of the little ones.

At the almshouse, where 3,300 men and women make their home, instead of turkey chicken fricassee was served.

The 2,030 women patients in the Manhattan State Hospital For the Insane on Ward's island were given the regular turkey dinner. Then there was an entertainment and dance, music for the occasion being furnished by a woman's orchestra, the members of which are inmates.

There was also a dinner for the inmates of the workhouse on Blackwell's island.

In the penitentiary, after having eaten their turkey and chicken, the prisoners enjoyed an entertainment, the programme consisting of speeches, recitations and songs.

Patients in Bellevue hospital were well fed. There was no entertainment.

Up at Tarrytown Thanksgiving day was duly observed at Woody Crest, Miss Helen Miller Gould's home for crippled boys. Miss Gould ordered a large supply of turkeys and other good things for her proteges and came from the city herself to see that her young charges had a good time and were properly provided for.

According to annual custom a fat turkey was also presented to all the married men on the place, so that every family might be sure of a good dinner.

A Cold Thanksgiving.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Had there been snow on the ground in the southern section New England would have had an old fashioned Thanksgiving yesterday, for it was fair and bright, with plenty of frost in the air. In the northern parts there was deep snow, and all over the territory it was as much like winter as it could be without snow. The day was observed, according to the custom, very generally. All day trains from the metropolitan sections were thronged with happy homegoers, and in the cities there were many evidences of exchanges of hospitality. The usual religious services were held in various churches, and the charitable institutions and persons of philanthropic bent, as usual, fed multitudes who otherwise might have gone hungry. The largest dinner was that given by the Salvation Army, in which about 4,000 participated.

The Day In Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 29.—American residents celebrated Thanksgiving day by a special ball, which was numerously attended. President Diaz was among the invited guests. Many members of the pan-American congress, with their ladies, were present. The decorative scheme embraced a display of the flags of all American republics.

The President's Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt had quite a large party of friends at their Thanksgiving dinner at the White House. They included Senator and Mrs. Lodge, Commander and Mrs. Cowles and a half dozen others, the party spending the evening at the White House.

The Day In Vienna.

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—United States Minister Robert S. McCormick and Mrs. McCormick signalized their entry into the official life of the capital by holding a Thanksgiving day reception here in their new residence, which was formerly the property of Prince Solons.

Drowned While Skating.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Nov. 29.—Emile Chanette lost his life by drowning while skating on the Androscoggin river here. He was sixteen years of age.

NOTABLE THANKSGIVING PARTY.

Many Expressions of Good Will Toward America at London Dinner.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Three hundred guests assembled last evening for the Thanksgiving dinner under the auspices of the American society in London. John Morgan Richards was in the chair.

Paul Cambon, the French embassador to Great Britain, proposed the health of President Roosevelt. Henry White, the United States charge d'affaires, responded to the toast "The Charge d'Affaires," proposed by Justice Walton. M. Cambon paid a feeling tribute to the late President McKinley, whose death, he said, had shocked France and knit the sister republics in closer bonds of sympathy and sorrow. While President Roosevelt was an unknown quantity in the world, said M. Cambon, his was a cultured, energetic and charming personality, and his elevation to the presidency had been received in France with the happiest anticipations of carrying on those cordial relations which had existed between the two countries for over a century past.

Justice Walton paid a high tribute to Mr. White's efforts to promote good feeling between Great Britain and the United States.

Conan Doyle, the novelist, produced perhaps the greatest effect of the evening by declaring the pendulum of the British world had now shifted to somewhere between New York and Chicago.

"There is no use in disguising this important fact," continued Dr. Doyle. "Yet if the English speaking races should be compelled to meet a common foe the world would soon see how quickly these same English speaking people would close up their ranks and march shoulder to shoulder for the advancement of civilization."

When Anthony Hope, the novelist, spoke, he said the only thing which remained to be done to bind the nations more closely together was for some one to find a common denominator for English and American jokes.

Admiral Sir Edmund Robert Fremantle referred to the friendly relations existing between the navies of Great Britain and the United States.

A TRANSPORT LOST.

The Wright Struck a Rock Off San Jacinto and Sank.

MANILA, Nov. 28.—The United States transport Wright has been wrecked in the strait of Darman. She will probably turn out to be a total loss.

The Wright struck on an uncharted rock at the entrance of San Jacinto and sank in fifteen feet of water. To raise her will require wrecking machinery which is not available here.

The United States transport Wright, formerly the Aid, was originally a fruiter and was presented to the government by some patriotic women of Boston when the Spanish war broke out to be used as a hospital ship. Later she was fitted out as a dispatch boat and was sent to Cuba to be used by General Wood. More recently she was sent to the Philippine Islands as a dispatch boat and storeship. She had a fine refrigerating plant and a refrigerator storeroom, which made her of great value in the islands. The Wright was first called the Bay State. This was before she was transformed into a hospital ship.

Fire In the Oilfields.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Nov. 29.—The most dangerous fire since the discovery of the oilfield occurred here, and for a time it was thought the field was doomed to destruction. Plumbers working on pipes built a small fire several hundred feet northeast of the Exporter Land and Pipe company's mill, on the northeast side of the field, for the purpose of making connections. The fire spread in the oil soaked grass and soon got beyond control, threatening the great forest of derricks of the Hogg-Swayne syndicate. Every fire on the field was extinguished in the boilers, and every rig was shut down, and the population of the field turned out to fight the flames. Fortunately and almost miraculously the men succeeded in staying the flames within twenty feet of the nearest derrick and finally extinguished them.

Gates Gets an Iron Plant.

LARAMIE, Wy., Nov. 29.—The Laramie rolling mills operated by the Colorado Fuel and Iron company under a five years' lease from the Union Pacific Railway company are reported as having been sold to John W. Gates, the steel magnate. It is said to be the intention of Mr. Gates to greatly enlarge the plant and so remodel it as to include the reducing of the native iron ores of the state.

Thanksgiving In Berlin.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—American residents of Berlin to the number of 300 informally celebrated Thanksgiving day with a supper and dance at the Kaiserhof last evening. Owing to the mourning for the late President McKinley the members of the United States embassy here were not present at the gathering.

The Plague at Honolulu.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 29.—Arrivals by the steamer Miowera, from Honolulu, state that there has been a recurrence of bubonic plague in that city. One Passengers says there have been two deaths, a Japanese and a Chinaman, and that there are ten more cases in the city.

Serious Trolley Accident.

ANDERSON, Ind., Nov. 29.—An electric car loaded with twenty-five glassworkers collided with a coal car while returning to the city from the factory. All of the workmen were injured, and three will probably die.

LIBERALS TO YIELD.

As Result of Conference Colon May Be Surrendered Today.

COLON, Colombia, Nov. 29.—The railroad telegraph line, which was cut Wednesday evening, has been restored. It is reported that the government troops are driving the Liberals toward Colon. The marines of the United States gunboat Machias are guarding the railroad station. Great excitement prevails here.

The Colombian gunboat General Pinson has anchored on the other side of Colon harbor. She is reported to be landing troops at Kenney's bluff.

Generals Alban and Jeffries arrived here yesterday and were received at the railroad station by the guards of the United States gunboat Machias and the British second class cruiser Tribune.

A conference between Liberal and Conservative representatives and the officers commanding the foreign warships here was not held on shore, but on board the United States gunboat Marietta in the harbor.

The commanding officers of the Marietta, of the British cruiser Tribune and of the French cruiser Suchet and Lieutenant Commander McCrea of the Machias and Captain Perry of the Iowa were present, as were Generals Alban and Jeffries, representing the government of Colombia, and Senor de la Rosa, secretary to General Domingo Diaz, who represented the Liberal party of Colombia.

No information of the result of this conference has been made public, and none of the details of the understanding arrived at has leaked out. It can be said upon the best authority, however, that the Liberals will surrender Colon today to the government authorities.

United States marines guard Colon. Many unreliable statements concerning the terms of surrender are current on shore, but the only men informed in this regard refuse to answer questions. Colon is quiet, but much anxiety prevails.

The Switchmen's Strike.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 29.—There appears to be no radical change in the strike situation. The strikers are still making the claim that the roads are badly crippled, and the company officials are just as positive in their statement that there is practically no strike except on the Allegheny Valley road, which, they say, is gradually resuming normal conditions. At a meeting of strikers yesterday fifty-three new members were taken in. Six men known as "extras" in the Pennsylvania yard joined the strikers, but their places were filled at once.

Arranging For the Canal.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 29.—William L. Merry, United States minister to Nicaragua, Salvador and Costa Rica, is in daily conference here with Dr. Fernando Sanchez, the Nicaraguan minister of foreign affairs, concerning the matter of the construction of the Nicaragua canal and the terms under which the undertaking shall be carried out. A new commercial treaty between the United States and Nicaragua is also under discussion. Mr. Merry expects to leave here Dec. 3 for Costa Rica.

Chinese Loan Adopted.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The chamber of deputies by a vote of 335 to 213 has adopted the Chinese loan, after rejecting two paragraphs of the final article which the commission had inserted against the wish of the government and which would have excluded religious congregations from the benefits of the loan and which also provided that indemnities be distributed to private claimants only as China paid the installments. Both paragraphs were thrown out by big majorities.

Fell Seven Hundred Feet.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 29.—Ten passengers survived a fall of 700 feet in the cage of a coal shaft at Lambert, near Uniontown, though three lie seriously injured at the hospital. None of the occupants of the car escaped scathless, but it is not likely that any will die. The accident resulted from a break in the hoisting machinery near the head of the shaft. Safety appliances operated to check the speed of the descent.

Ill Treated by Bishop Matz.

ROME, Nov. 29.—The papers here publish the following declaration by Father Cushing, who acts on the advice of the congregation of the propaganda: "I went to the college in order to confer with Bishop Matz on religious matters. For all reply the bishop had me arrested by three police agents, who sent me to a lunatic asylum. I have never been insane, and I am appealing against Bishop Matz."

An Early Ice Harvest.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 29.—As a result of the zero weather that has prevailed in this vicinity during the past few days ice has formed in the lakes and ponds near here. Several local dealers announce that they will begin to harvest their first crop in a day or so. Six inches is the thickest ice so far reported.

George M. Pullman Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—George M. Pullman, son of the late millionaire car builder, died at his country home at San Mateo yesterday morning, aged twenty-six. He had been ill several weeks with pneumonia, but until Tuesday his condition was not considered serious.

Treasurer Young's Shortage.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 29.—It is believed in official circles that the alleged discrepancy in the accounts of former City Treasurer Stuart Young, who committed suicide Wednesday night, will amount to between $40,000 and $50,000.

OUT IN SECOND ROUND

McGovern Loses the Featherweight Championship.

DECISIVE VICTORY FOR DENVER LAD.

The Brooklyn Fighter Had Held the Belt For Eighteen Months Against All Comers, but He Lost It In Less Than Seven Minutes.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 29.—Knocked out in the second round, on which one minute and four seconds had elapsed, was the referee's verdict of the fistic battle between "Young Corbett" of Denver and Terry McGovern of Brooklyn, who has held the featherweight championship unflinchingly since he won it from George Dixon eighteen months ago.

Outwitted and outpointed with a fighter just the same as himself, McGovern had to lower his colors yesterday afternoon at the Nutmeg Athletic club to Young Corbett within seven minutes from the start of the fight.

Young Corbett, who, outside of ring parlance, is known as Billy Rothwell of Denver, got the better of the champion in less than two rounds of fighting, and he did it so perfectly that there was no doubt about it.

The shock to the Greater New York enthusiasts who crowded the boxing pavilion when the little champion was knocked out in the second round was a repetition of the disappointed adherents of John L. Sullivan when Corbett defeated him in New Orleans.

Terry was as fit as the proverbial fiddle, but he was not fast enough for his man. From the word "go!" the lads went at each other like gamecocks, and it looked as if either would go out in the first round. McGovern got the worst of the opening round, and in his endeavor to get in left himself open several times.

Corbett just stood off McGovern on every lead and trick, but the little Brooklyn boy went on as if there was nothing to it but the winner's end of the purse.

New Champion Challenged.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 29.—Billy Corcoran, manager of Jack McClelland of this city, has posted a $500 forfeit with P. S. Egan, sporting editor of the Pittsburg Times, on behalf of McClelland for a fight with "Young Corbett" for a side bet of $1,000, winner to take all, or any other terms satisfactory to the new champion.

Columbia Defeated Carlisle.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—With practically perfect football for the first sixty-five minutes of play, Columbia's eleven rolled up their largest score of the season against the Carlisle Indian team yesterday afternoon. In that time they scored 40 points, shutting out the Indians completely. In the last five minutes, however, the Indians, making a sudden and unexpected brace, and Columbia, weary, going to pieces from the previous hard work, the speedy Carlisle team gained 12 points almost in the twinkling of an eye, making the final score 40 to 12 in favor of the blue and white.

Cornell Won From the Quakers.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—The University of Pennsylvania football team ended its disastrous season yesterday with a crushing defeat at the hands of the Cornell eleven, the Ithaca boys scoring 24 points to the Quakers' 6. It was the first time since the two universities have played football together that Cornell has been able to conquer Pennsylvania.

Wisconsin Shut Out Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Wisconsin, 35; Chicago, 0, and Wisconsin's goal only twice in the least danger was the record of the game here. Straight football won the day, and team work on the part of the victors was clever, though in nearly every case scores were made by star plays. Chicago throughout the game put up a manful though unavailing offense.

Michigan's Good Showing.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Michigan scored almost at will against Iowa, making 50 points to the Hawkeye's none. Thus Michigan closes the regular football season with a total record of 501 points, while not one of the teams she has met has been able to score a single point against her.

Dartmouth Too Much For Brown.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 29.—With a score of 22 points the Dartmouth eleven recorded their first victory over a Brown team and distinguished themselves by shutting out their opponents, who from the very start were unable to hold their own.

Walcott Bested Jackson.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29.—Joe Walcott won last night from young Peter Jackson at the end of twenty rounds on points.

Partridge For Police Commissioner.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Times announces that Colonel John N. Partridge of Brooklyn will be commissioner of police of New York city after Jan. 1. The Times says it is in a position to say that Mayor Elect Low has offered the commissionership to him, that he has accepted it and that Governor Odell has selected the man who is to succeed Colonel Partridge as state superintendent of public works.

Tidal Wave on English Coast.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A remarkable tidal wave, accompanied by strong winds, has done much damage along the eastern coast of England from Norfolk to Kent. Rivers have overflowed their banks, dams and sea walls have been invaded and miles of country have been submerged.

For The Good of The Service.

Those Plainfielders, whose business demands that they shall be in New York city at an early hour in the morning, are united in their desire that the New Jersey Central Railroad shall provide an early morning train in place of the 3:37, which was removed. Unless something is done in the near future, several say that they will be compelled to move elsewhere.

The man, who wants to go to New York at that time, must choose between the 2:17 and the 6:02. The trouble with the former is that it is almost never on time. Occasionally it is only a few minutes late. More often the delay runs up into the hours and the would-be traveller waits with what patience he possesses until the train arrives. The other train is entirely too late. Something between the two is sadly needed.

There is another reason for adding such a train to the east-bound service. Those who have attended any function in this city and are desirous of returning to Westfield, Roselle or Cranford, must do so by the 11:28 train or wait for the 5:38. The other two alternatives are the trolley and a walk. The trolley cars do not run after 1 o'clock.

The reason given out by the railroad officials for the discontinuance of the train in question was that it did not pay. The company cannot expect that every one of its trains will be paying investments. Some must be run at a loss, only to serve the convenience of the patrons. In the long run, there can be no doubt that the railroad company will actually gain by catering to such a demand, even though, on the face of it, it is not a paying investment.

The gas company does not attempt to regulate its rates according to the number of burners. There would be a a great public outcry if such an attempt were made. Why is it right that the charge for water should be made according to the number of taps? Bring that fact continually before the minds of the Plainfield Water Supply Company officials and the example set in Elizabeth may be followed here.

'Twas a pleasant holiday in more ways than one. There were a number of attractions in town and the spirit of the day seemed more generally observed than usual.

If only those new cars for the local trolley system had arrived yesterday, Plainfield would have had a whole lot to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day.

The public schools of the city and borough are closed until Monday for the usual Thanksgiving holidays.

COLLEGE SONGS.

Varied Programme by Princeton Boys at the Casino.

A varied programme will be presented by the Princeton boys at the Casino Tuesday night, Fifty-three men on the stage, some twanging the banjo, some playing the mandolin and the rest singing with might and main, all at the same time, this as a grand finale. Other conbinations of the banjo and mandolin clubs, and of the glee and mandolin clubs are scheduled. G. S. Young, the soloist for the clubs, has met with great success and his ability to please is undoubted.

The social features of the entertainment will be enjoyed by the younger set who will stay for dancing after the concert. Music will be by Pound, of New York, and refreshments by Steward Ivamy, of the Hillside Club.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

William Griscom, of Sycamore avenue, has purchased the valuable residence on the above avenue known as the Roome property. This property was purchased some time ago by B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and W. J. Roome, Mr. Griscom will make extensive alterations after which he will take possession.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, Nov. 29—The Dunellen Football Club met the strong Raritan A. C. yesterday afternoon and was defeated by the score of 11 to 6. Although the Dunellen team was greatly outweighed, it put up a plucky game and was only prevented from scoring again in the second half by the call of time. Dunellen kicked off in the first half and soon secured the ball on downs. After seesawing up and down the field for a while, Dunellen finally secured a touchdown by a series of end runs by I. Hardingham and Peters and kicked the goal. Raritan secured one touchdown in the first half and one in the second and kicked one goal. Neither team displayed much teamwork, but Hardingham and Peters played brilliantly for Dunellen and Grogan for Raritan. But for a number of unfortunate fumbles, Dunellen would have secured several more touchdowns.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, Nov. 29—The annual Thanksgiving Day entertainment of the public school was held in the assembly room of the building Wednesday afternoon. An interesting programme, appropriate to the day, was rendered which was enjoyed not only by the school but by a number of the parents and friends. The little members of the kindergarden department, in charge of Miss Ella Squiers, observed the day in their own room with a pleasing programme of music and recitations.

Thanksgiving Day services were held yesterday morning in both the Episcopal and Baptist churches, the hour of service in the latter church being from 10 to 11. The flower committee pleased everyone by its thoughtfulness in decorating the pulpit with the many harvest crops. The sermon was preached by Rev. George A. Francis, of the Westfield Baptist church, the subject being "God's Unchangeableness."

Those who are interested in forming a young men's club in town for the purpose of furthering athletic sport, have called a final meeting for tonight at Edward L. Hand's. So far $40 has been paid in. The sum required at the lowest figure is $50. If the young men decide to raise the balance the club will be organized at once; if not the project will be abandoned.

The members of the junior football eleven met for practice yesterday both in the morning and afternoon. The work done showed that the club is in fine condition to meet the eleven of the Bayonne Field Club at Bayonne tomorrow afternoon.

The weekly prayer-meeting in the Baptist church this evening will be a study of the Sunday-school lesson for Sunday. Rev. Mr. Shott will lead.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met and transacted routine business in the Library rooms last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dayton gave a Thanksgiving family reunion yesterday. There were twenty guests present.

Mrs. J. Y. Ruppell and daughter, Maud, of New Market, spent the day with Mrs. J. A. Cubberley.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The O Be Joyful Club sent its strong football team to Cranford yesterday to play a game with the Echo Club, of that place. As an incentive to victory a live duck was taken along as a mascot. In the shuffle the duck was stolen by the home team and the visitors were defeated by the score of 29 to 0. Two twenty-minute halves were played. The home team used a live pig as a mascot, but he was guarded so closely that the visitors were unable to retaliate.

THE SOCIETY WORLD.

At This Moment It Is Dominated by the Fair Debutante.

The Presentation of a Young Woman to Her Social Peers Is an Event of Importance, Especially in This Country.

At this season of the year the principal feature of the social events is the introduction to society of the debutantes. In no other part of the world is the young woman's debut made so much of an event as in this country.

In England the social debut of a daughter of good family takes place gradually and unostentatiously. The only exception is when she is presented at court. This happens but occasionally, otherwise her position is in the rear, rarely in the foreground. The verdict of women who have lived abroad is that England is a paradise for the young married woman, but not for the young girl.

The debutante to-day is almost invariably introduced at an afternoon tea or reception, sometimes followed by a dinner and dance later in the evening. One of the reasons for this form of introduction is that a tea is the most expansive way of entertaining; at one function the debutante may be introduced to the whole of society. Preparations for the tea must be begun a considerable time in advance. The debutante must early turn her attention toward securing her aids, a task not so easy as may be imagined, even though the list of her friends be large. None but those who had been introduced not more than one season ago, who have just been presented, or who expect to be soon, are allowed to assist in receiving. These limitations make the securing of a proper number of assistants hard, especially if the number of presentations be large. Thus it is all the more important that she should early settle upon the day of her coming out. A month ahead is none too early for her to select the personnel of the party she wishes to receive with her. By beginning thus early the debutante can select an afternoon for her tea which has not already been chosen by others for the same event.

MISS ROSEMARY SARTORIS.
(One of the Charming Debutantes of Washington Society.)

When she has received acceptances from the required number of friends to help her receive she calls them together for a consultation on several important points, one of which is the gown to be worn. Fashion just now requires that the debutante shall receive the guests with her mother or the relative that may be introducing her with a line of youthful helpers at her side. It is often said that these debutante teas are among the most attractive of the social functions because of the presence of these young women.

So firmly fixed has the custom of sending flowers to the debutante become that it nearly amounts to a law. No one but the debutante holds a bouquet during the tea, and to show no preference she frequently exchanges the one she has been holding for one of the many others that are ranged about the room.

In regard to the wardrobe of the young debutante it seems to be the general rule that the gowns be simple in construction and material, though many in number. The dresses of a girl's first season are usually one of the most important features of her coming out.

One of the most charming debutantes of last winter was Miss Rosemary Sartoris, of Washington, D. C. The unaffected nature and sweet disposition which has endeared Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris to her friends and which made her "My Sweet Nellie" to her illustrious father has been inherited by Rosemary Sartoris, her youngest daughter. Miss Sartoris has just passed her twenty-first birthday. The accompanying portrait is her latest, and shows her, not as the young girl Americans have become accustomed to see in her portraits, but in her new role of young woman and society favorite. She is at present in England with her sister, whose engagement to Archibald Balfour was broken five weeks ago after the wedding preparations were well under way. The sisters are devoted to each other and are seldom separated. Miss Sartoris was educated at private English schools and at Georgetown convent, Washington. She is especially accomplished in music, for which she has shown an aptitude since infancy.

The Latest Floral Wonder.

The newest floral wonder is the "Shasta daisy," originated by a flower grower of California. It measures a foot in circumference, and, when one was exhibited recently in a florist's window in San Francisco, people literally flocked to see it.

Size of British America.

British America is about 300,000 square miles greater than the United States.

PAY OF WRITERS AND ARTISTS

Newspaper Illustrators Receive Much More Money for Their Work Than Authors.

"The difference in the rate of remuneration of the average writer and the average illustrator does not seem to be quite fair," an average writer said, according to the Philadelphia Record. "There is in town this week a young fellow from New York drawing comics for the Sunday supplements. He makes in a morning $50; the other morning he made $65 in two hours, and he is paid cash for all he does. Then I know a newspaper illustrator who gets $50 a week, working in the afternoon and evening. In the morning he does outside stunts in his studio, and last month he got $400 from a New York weekly, $75 from one magazine and $80 from another. Now take the writers.

"Here is So-and-So, who spent two years on a novel. It was published, and his returns thus far have been $17.50. Blank, another acquaintance of mine, does short stories, and good ones, but he only gets two cents a word for them. Thus a story will average him $60, and it will take him a month to write it. But the illustrator of that story will get from $75 to $100 for his pictures, which he will turn out in two days. The thing doesn't seem fair, does it?"

ABOUT THE BULGARIANS.

Are Not All Savages, as Many People in This Country Would Imagine.

The Bulgarians are the equals in modern civilization of any nation of eastern Europe. They are not savages, as some of the most excited of our people seem to imagine. They are a Christian folk whose good will toward Americans in general and American missionaries in particular has been too often displayed to leave room for any doubt of its existence, says the Boston Transcript. Although the Greek church is the national religion of Bulgaria, many Bulgarian public men are graduates of or have been students at Robert college, in Constantinople, an institution affiliated with our missionary enterprises. Indeed, Bulgaria's political and social development has been in no small degree stimulated by the culture spread by our missionary efforts. There is not the slightest ground for the many slurs and sneers at Bulgaria which have appeared in the American press since Miss Stone was taken captive. It may be added that the Bulgarians have what many persons well deem the national virtue of hating the Turks intensely.

Tattoo Marks.

Tattoo-marks on the human body are deep-seated, as has been proved by an investigation at Mount Washington hospital, Baltimore. An individual who died there, shortly before his death willed his body to the surgeons in the hospital for the benefit of science. One of the surgeons, curious to learn the depth of tattooing, experimented on the arm and found that the design of what on the surface of the arm was a coat of arms was marked through the flesh as far as the bone. There was also discovered the trace of the figure on the bone, but it did not penetrate the bony structure.

Elocutionary Education.

A western city has started a tremendous reform. It is nothing more or less than the compulsory education of the telephone girls. They are to take lessons in voice culture, so that their clear enunciation will be unmistakable to the customers. If the plan works well, there is no telling but the system may be extended to brakemen on trains, so that passengers like the befogged congressman will no longer be compelled to wonder "where they are at."

A gentleman of New York City, who had found Ripans Tabules an excellent thing for dyspepsia, observed after using about fifty tabules that they were in his case a great kidney and bladder washer. "About two hours after taking one," said he, "I urinate so copiously that I at one time almost became alarmed. Once it seemed as though something thick like mucus was passing also and a slight pain or stoppage was noticed." On consulting a physician this man learned that the fact that he passed an increased amount of urine while taking the tabules was in no way detrimental but rather beneficial, and that the momentary stoppage was caused by a collection of the mucus washed out of the bladder by the unusual flow of urine, and was a desirable thing to have brought about.

WANTED:—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Five dozen and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

EVENING GOWNS.

Fashionable Materials and Novel Trimmings.

Evening gowns are noted this winter for their rich materials and fine workmanship in the way of embroideries, application, etc. Lace seems to be the favorite material. Tucked chiffon, soft silks in all the delicate colorings, crepe de chines and liberty satins are also very stylish. Panne, especially in black and in the Persian and pompadour colorings, makes handsome princess dresses. Lace plays an important part is the trimming of dinner and dancing gowns. Frequently the entire gown is banded with insertions of different widths. These insertions are alternated with tucks so that scarcely any of the original material is seen.

Today's picture shows a gown of black point d'esprit over white taffeta. The skirt, which is plain and clinging, is ornamented by arabesque designs traced in black chantilly lace. The blouse waist is also trimmed with chantilly applications. The sleeves, which reach only a few inches below the shoulders, are supplemented by a large puff and frill of white chiffon edged with lace. The belt and buckle are of cut jet.

BICYCLE SUITS.

Skirts Are Longer and Materials Less Heavy.

Bicycle skirts are being made much longer—so long, in fact, that they may also be used for golf. It is noticeable also that the goods used are of darker shades, black, navy blue and iron gray being the most popular hues. The stitchings are less broad than formerly, and, in fact, much of the heavy effects are being done away with.

Double faced goods are no longer a necessity now that the increased length of the skirts prevents them from blowing up so easily. Many of the latest costumes are made of lightweight covert or hairy cheviot lined with silk. The jacket of such a suit is pretty made blouse fashion, ornamented with tucks and fancy buttons. The latest Parisian cycling costumes simulate an ordinary dress with its skirt cut so as to reach to the ankles.

Such a model is shown in our illustration. It is made of gun metal gray cloth with the vest, turnover collar and cuffs of royal blue velvet. The skirt is laid in plaits down the center of the front gore. These plaits are held half way down to the knees by stitchings. The same effect is given in the back. The jacket is trimmed with pointed strappings. It fastens with three buttons part way down, where it opens over a snug fitting vest of velvet. The lines of the Eton are cut short, so as to reveal the wide belt, also of the velvet. A jaunty turn-down collar and velvet tie give added chic to this smart coat.

The hat, which is of rough gray felt, is trimmed with a scarf of red and blue plaid.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 1, "Children of God"—Text, Rom. viii, 14-17.

"As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

Beyond all questioning there is a power which pervades all material things, giving them form and organization according to plan and displaying order everywhere. All forces act according to law, and the great aggregation makes a universe because there is one mind in and through and over all. And this ordering and organizing power must be spirit and must be personal. All that the Christian Scriptures teach of the nature of this Lord God the deepest philosophy recognizes as necessary truth.

God is in His world everywhere immanent and active. It reveals Him because it is His workmanship. But it reveals Him only to one who is so like Him in nature as to be able to comprehend and interpret His language in His works. He has made rocks, trees, winds, sun and stars and all animated existences; but, while His life is in them all and His wisdom exercised in making and keeping them, though they all do His will, none of them knows Him or is conscious of His presence or will. They blindly fulfill their destiny held in bands of necessity.

We have capacity above all other creaturehood. Body we have allied to all the world of nature and matter, of the earth and time, and subject to physical law. We are soul united to body and by the union able to develop spirit life in highest moral nature of love. We may come to know God in His world, to think, feel and do as He does.

The Holy Spirit is the power of God working not in spiritual nature, but operating in man's spiritual nature, awakening to exercise all its powers, as in the other realm the individual is in birth brought into separate existence and activity. Spiritual birth is the beginning of conscious preference of good over evil. It is the choice of the leadership of the Spirit of God, and the subordination of all powers and appetites of body and soul to the ideas of right, duty and truth.

In Jesus Christ this task of making the ideal divine life an actual reality in human existence has been fully accomplished. He is the express image of the Father, Son of God and son of man. We are to become like Him, not by any magical transformation or mysterious instantaneous operation, reaching the end without the use of any known means. He was made perfect through suffering. He was tempted as we are and overcame. He has given us the perfect specimen of glorified manhood, Spirit filled.

We are to become like Jesus by being led by the Holy Spirit as He was led. No transfer of His righteousness to us by any sort of legal fiction can suffice. We become pure and good only as His spirit lives in us and we overcome impurity and evil. This is more than innocence. It is mature personality which is fixed because it has felt the pull and thrust of desire and has guided all its powers into channels of right habits amid the conflicting impulses and appetites and solicitations of every sort. It is strong because developed where resistance of evil and persistence in good has been required.

Would you be a son of God? Let the Spirit of God lead you.

The Aim of Religion.

We have all known what it is to be true and faithful; we have all at times resisted temptation; we have acted unselfishly; we have known from these the healthy joy of a good conscience. But with the irreligious man this is not the rule, but the exception. The general drift of his life is selfish and unfaithful. Now, the aim of religion is not to introduce some extraordinary experience into his life, but to make righteousness and love the rule of life instead of the exception. The aim is to spread the rule of conscience over the length and breadth of life, thus making fixed and abiding what before was only transient and fleeting. God bids us to do justly, to love mercy and walk humbly with our God. Faith, trust, sorrow for sin, religious exercises of any sort, are valuable only as they issue in regenerated character.—Independent.

The Future.

We can as little argue respecting the laws of the future state from those which gird us about here as the Eskimo could argue respecting tropical productions from the sterility of his own icebound, snow covered coasts. That there is a future, that we shall live in it and that God will be our God then as now—these are the great facts of transcendent importance. That there will be love and friendship and fellowship and mutual recognitions is indicated by many passages in Scripture and is not contradicted by Christ's teaching.—Church Standard.

Not Enough Trust.

They greatly dare who greatly trust. If our faith were greater, our deeds would be larger. The reason so few of us do not attempt great things for God is simply because we do not trust Him enough.—Episcopal Recorder.

Death—Life.

He hath solved the sacred mystery,
Hath crossed the great divide,
Within the sacred city, far
Beyond the soundless tide,
He the Master's face beholdeth
Whom unseen we all adore;
He praiseth Him, rejoicing
On that bright celestial shore.

Praises be to God the Father,
We all may live for aye;
Though folded like a garment,
We lay our body by.
Eternal life we enter
By that full swelling tide,
Within the Golden City,
Where the gates stand open wide.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 1—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Children of God.—Rom. viii, 14-17.

The theme of this glorious eighth chapter of Romans is the security of believers. The salvation of those who have renounced the law and accepted the gracious offers of the gospel is shown to be absolutely certain. The whole chapter is a series of arguments, most beautifully arrayed, in support of this one point. Paul takes as his text, "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit," and develops it so forcibly and so conclusively that the weakest and most doubting child of God cannot but be convinced and strengthened by his burning words.

The second argument produced in support of the general theme that believers are assured of salvation is the fact that they are the children of God. "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." Being the children of God, we are sure of eternal life, for we are "heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ," and eternal life is one of the priceless inheritances which the children of God shall enjoy in common with Jesus Christ.

The glorious fact that believers in Christ are the children of God is abundantly proved: 1. The Scriptures testify to it. 2. We are conscious of it ourselves. If we have the feelings of children toward a parent—of reverence, of confidence and of love—toward God, we know that we are the children of God. 3. The Holy Spirit testifies to this fact. "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God." In some way, though we do not know how, the Holy Spirit "beareth witness with" or corroborates the testimony of our own feelings that we are the children of God.

We become the children of God through the work of the Holy Spirit. By the Spirit we are born again—changed in our natures and made in the likeness of the divine nature—and when thus changed we are adopted into the family of God; hence the Spirit is called the "Spirit of Adoption." And as a result of this adoption we no longer fear God, but address Him in confidence and love as "Abba, Father."

The general results of divine sonship are that we (1) possess the nature or disposition of God, (2) are the peculiar objects of His love and favor and (3) are heirs of God. These are priceless prerogatives, but they carry with them great responsibilities. The child of a king has the name and the honor of a king to sustain. His opportunities, his privileges, are great, but so also are his responsibilities. This is even more true as applied to the children of God. By word or deed we honor or dishonor the heavenly King, whose children we are. How important it is, considering our exalted positions, that we should know thoroughly the duties as well as the privileges of divine sonship and, knowing them, should perform them.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a Bible reading covering the whole phase of this subject as set forth in the Scriptures.

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. xii, 46-50; John i, 11-13; xx, 11-17; II Cor. vi, 14-18; Gal. iv, 1-7; Eph. i, 3-6; Heb. xii, 1-10; Jas. i, 17, 18; I John iii, 1-3; v, 1-3; Rev. xxi, 1-3.

Through Toil and Suffering.

Through toil and through suffering we are enabled to gain a keener insight into spiritual things and greater power in doing spiritual things, increased purity of heart, a deeper humility, more intense desire for holiness. Then toil and suffering are endowed with the highest of all meanings. And this meaning is given to labor and sorrow just in the degree that they are borne in humble trust in God and in the desire, so far as lies in our power, to be faithful to our profession of faith in the Saviour. That we know not the reason why we are compelled to labor so hard or to suffer so much does not affect the result. Through the presence in us of the true spirit of devotion, through the offerings of ourselves in this way, the blessed effects will be wrought, for in our lives as individual, as well as in the life of the church and the nation, there is the hiding of God's wonderful power.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Faithfulness.

Faithfulness is the explanation of many a successful career. Opportunity, ability and the friendly assistance that may be given all tend to further one's efforts, but the persistent, undaunted faithfulness to the labor in hand, in the very face of opposition and hindrance and obstacles, is that which conquers. The character that is developed by devotion to duty, in life's smallest undertakings, is being equipped for glorious achievements. Therein is found the secret of success.—Presbyterian.

The Hidden God.

We are drawing nearer and nearer to the Infinite Spirit, tolling upward in the night, fulfilling the great intelligent purpose. Not one pang is administered that does not prove a stepping stone to higher things. Still we grope onward in the dark, catching here and there a glimpse of light and hope to cheer us on our way. One day we will stand astounded when we realize that we have threaded our way into the very presence of the eternal, hidden God.—Christian Leader.

Christian's Unrest.

The cause of the Christian's unrest is you have not yet "received Jesus into the ship." You have given your heart to Him, but you have not wholly grasped Him by faith. Assurance comes only from the abiding presence in your soul of a personal, living Jesus.—A. E. Kittredge.

GOT HOME AT LAST.

Story of a New Yorker Who Climbed Above Mathematics.

Unique Progress to His Flat of a Late Diner Who Could Count Only to Two—How He Cut the Gordian Knot.

"I went to a club dinner the other night," said the man who lives in Harlem to a New York Sun reporter, "and had an adventure when I got home which shows the advantage of having a scientific mind. You see, I live in an apartment house, whose elevator stops at 1:30 a. m. Well, on this night I reached the house an hour or so after the time of the last trip.

"First there was the front door to get open, but with the aid of my night key I accomplished this in less than half an hour. Then I sat down before the locked elevator door and tried to reason out the situation. Half an hour more and the thing was as plain as day. If I wanted to get to my apartment on the fourth floor that night I'd have to walk! I rested awhile and then started upstairs. Of course, the halls and stairways were all alike, so I would have to count each flight to know when I was at my own door.

"'One flight,' I counted. 'Two flights.' Then when I was half-way up a flight I suddenly realized that I wasn't sure whether I was still on the second flight and had counted it as I got to it or whether I was on the third flight and was waiting to count it when I reached the end of it. Of course, there was only one thing to do, and I did it. I went down to the front hall again and after another rest started upstairs again.

"'One flight,' I said, as I put my foot on the first step. 'Two flights,' I said as I struck the first step of the second flight. What a beautiful thing is method, I thought. There I was tangled up in a regular quagmire of stairflights on that first trip, and here I was mounting upward with the ease and precision of an automobile with a cyclometer. Not only is method a beautiful thing, but when it is based on science—. Just then I paused in my upward career.

"I was conscious of a growing and unpleasant impression that I had passed the beginnings of at least two, perhaps three or four flights of stairs in my rapt consideration of the beauties of method — especially scientific method. I turned and went slowly down to the front hall, a somewhat saddened, but a determined man.

"I won't weary you with the accounts of my further attempts to make the fourth floor of that six-story house, nor of the elaborate systems I devised to make sure of my counting. I tried it four or five times more and every time I failed on account of some unforeseen flaw in my system and finally found myself panting and perspiring on the settle in the front hall. I thought it over carefully, but could see no hope, at my present rate, of anything but climbing up and down those ghastly stairs until I was a feeble, gray-bearded old man. The picture was so sad that I got out my handkerchief and wept a little while. Then I set to thinking again, sternly. I would at least play the man and make a final effort to see my wife and children again.

"One point was as clear as mud. In all my trips over those stairs I had always been sure of my count up and including two flights. It was only when I tried to mount beyond the second that I plunged into a dark mathematical abyss. I stated this over to myself several times so there could not be any dark corners in the idea to be overlooked. I thought some more.

"After that I smiled. It's a great thing to have a scientific mind. It was too easy. I was in my own bed and asleep inside of 15 minutes. You couldn't guess it in a thousand years. I started upstairs again. Oh, no, I didn't count a flight. I simply went up. One flight—two flights—three flights—I didn't know which and didn't care. By and by I came to the roof. It's a six-story house, as I said before. And you remember that I also said I was sure of my count as far as and including two flights? Well, I counted down two flights, went in and crawled into bed."

A floral weather prophet is the marigold. When the day is going to be fine, the flower opens about five or six o'clock in the morning; but if wet weather is to ensue, the marigold does not open at all.

GREAT PIANIST WILL VISIT IN PLAINFIELD.

Josef Hofmann is to be the Guest of Ward Stephens December 14.

WORLD WIDE REPUTATION.

STUDIED AND DEVELOPED UNDER THE GREAT RUBINSTEIN.

His Wonderful Career as a Boy—Will Now Play a Hundred and Twenty-five Concerts in This Country—His Visit Here.

Fifteen years ago all of Europe and America were talking about the marvelous performance on the piano of a little fellow then ten years of age. He was heralded a second Mozart. He played with his tiny hands many of the master pieces, and was frequently heard with orchestra in a Beethoven concert.

One of the phenomenal things he did was to improvise variations on a theme given him by one of the audience. He played with all of the feeling and sentiment of an artist many years his senior, and his fingers would remove technical difficulties with ease. The Metropolitan Opera House, in New York city, was packed from pit to dome at every performance, and Henry E. Abbey, his manager, was getting rich.

Finally the "Gerry Society" prohibited his playing on the ground that he was too young. His father then took him to Anton Rubinstein who pronounced the boy a genius. One can hardly say that he studied with Rubinstein for a genius will retain his individuality and simply develope. He played something new for Rubinstein every week and acquired a colossal repertoire.

Rubinstein said just before he died "I leave Josef Hofmann as my successor." He had introduced him all of Europe as his successor and in Russia he is idolized.

Hofmann was born in Austria, Poland, and calls himself a Pole. Hofmann today has fulfilled the words of his great master and he has no peer as a pianist. His playing is in no sense of the word morbid but full of sentiment. He is what a musician would call a "healthy and legitimate artist."

Hofmann has not been made a fad of in America and, because he has not, the public will look blindly to the one that has. It's a discouraging fact that Americans in their own country cannot fully appreciate more than one great artist at a time, at least, in the musical profession. They are essentially a fad-loving people, and always put some one on a pedestal and fail to see that each and every artist is a specialist. Anton Rubinstein never played Chopin's music with more grace or delicacy than did dePachmann. Paderewski never played a Beethoven sonata with as much musical and technical forcefulness and musical conception as did d'Albert and neither of these artists ever excelled Josef Hofmann in musical interpretation.

Mr. Hofmann will play one hundred and twenty-five concerts in America this season, a stupendous task when you stop to think that it has to be done inside of four months and a half. Although a small man he is very strong and does not wear himself out with practicing, and during the summer months devotes his time to inventing and automobiling.

December 14, Mr. Hofmann will be the guest of Ward Stephens, at his Plainfield home.

Peculiar Accident.

Miss Lillian Scribner, of West Front street, is detained at home with the painful results of a large sliver of wood entering her foot. Dr. Clawson, who is in attendance, states it will be several days before she will be able to use the disabled member.

Caulfield Is Recovering.

James Caulfield, of Johnson avenue, is recovering from his recent serious illness brought on, it is alleged, by injuries inflicted by John Kennedy. He is now sitting up and the attending physician looks for a complete recovery.

Will Appeal Case.

As a result of the decision in favor of the plaintiff in the case of VanAlstyne against the State Jr. O. U. A. M., which was decided Wednesday by Judge Vail at Elizabeth, the case will be appealed to a higher court.

Special Christmas Music.

Arrangements have been made for a double male quartette to sing at the First Presbyterian church at Christmas time.

SOCIAL HELD.

By Epworth Leaguers Of The Grace M. E. Church Last Evening.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church, a pleasant social was held in the church edifice last evening. To some extent the weather affected the attendance, but those that were there had a jolly good time. Games of various sorts made the evening pass rapidly. Before the young people disbanded refreshments were served.

The affair was given under the supervision of the social and literary committees. Miss Mary Steiner is chairman of the former committee and her associates are Mrs. Annie Most, Miss Delia Voehl, Mrs. Charles Greer, and Ray Stevens, Ralph Bullman and Benjamin Schuck. Mr. and Mrs. Dyckman Winckler compose the latter committee.

RED JACKET'S VISIT.

Will Be Guests Of Warren Engine Company Early In December.

It was expected that the promised visit of the Red Jacket Hose Company, of Elizabeth, to the Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, would take place before the close of the month, but circumstances have compelled the company to defer its trip until the second week in December. According to arrangements, a band will be brought along, and the guests will be escorted from the North Avenue station to the Saenberbund hall, where a supper will be given.

Temporary Pastor.

Rev. Edward E. Johnson will have charge of all the services at St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, during the month of December, the service on Sunday as usual. Early celebration 7:30 a. m., second service at 11 a. m. even song at 7:45 p. m. The church has been well cared for since the resignation of Rev. S. P. Simpson by Rev. William Bryce Morrow and Rev. Dr. Stocking.

Installation of Pastor.

The newly elected pastor of St. Peters Evangelical church, Rev. Theodore Duensing, of Brooklyn, will be installed on Saturday evening, December 7. Rev. Dr. Helsehmann, D. D., president of the New York conference, and Rev. Dr. Moldenke and Rev. P. Peterson, of Jersey City, will conduct the service. The installation sermon will be preached in German and English.

Impressive Service.

The alterations and improvements at the Home, connected with St. Joseph's parish, on Manning avenue, are nearing completion. Arrangements have been made by Father Miller to bless the new buildings on Sunday, December 8. The service will be an impressive one. This institution is conducted by the Sisters of Mary.

Irving Dodge to Wed.

Many Plainfielders will be interested to learn of a wedding which is to take place in Bayonne Thursday evening. The groom will be Irving Dodge, a former well-known resident of this city, and the bride, Miss Helen Grace Thomas. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents on Fifty-Second street.

Parlor Meeting.

A. W. C. T. U. parlor meeting will be held in the rooms, 100 Madison avenue, Tuesday afternoon, December 3, at 3 o'clock, when Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson will speak on the subject of "Gleanings from the National Convention at Fort Worth, Texas." An offering for the work will be received.

TALENTED ELOCUTIONIST.

What the Brooklyn Eagle Says of Miss Mae Colt.

The Brooklyn Eagle, one of the most prominent newspapers of the country whose criticisms are regarded as authentic and conclusive, in a recent issue speaking of the appearance of Miss Mae Colt in that city, and who is to assist at the recital given by Miss Bertha VanNuise Willis and Miss Saidee Mae Howell at the Casino, Monday, December 9, says: "The first number was 'The Sculptor's Vision.' Her voice is strong and clear, her facial expression comprehensive and her manner most attractive. In her second number 'The Auction,' by Harriet Blogett, the young elocutionist completely won her audience."

Hobart Smock, the famous tenor, will also be heard at this recital, which is likely to be an event of the season here.

STILL AT LARGE.

Report That He Was Seen in Elizabeth Not Confirmed.

Word has been received by the local authorities that William Sweeney, the former law student, who is wanted in this city on a charge of larceny preferred by A. A. Stryker, has been seen in New Brunswick and also Elizabeth. Two Plainfield young men claim to have seen him in the latter place Wednesday afternoon. The police are not inclined to believe these stories as Sweeney is too well known in both places to openly invite arrest. It is not at all improbable that he has left the State.

READY FOR SNOW STORM.

BUT STREET DEPARTMENT PREPARATIONS WERE NOT NEEDED.

Street Commissioner Gavett Had His Men Ready to Handle a Heavy Storm Had One Arrived.

The snowstorm of yesterday, while enough to make the streets disagreeable to pedestrians, was not sufficient to impede traffic in any way and there was nothing for the street department to do.

Street Commissioner Gavett, however, had made preparations and his men were ready to begin work on crosswalks at a moment's notice. The men have all received instructions for an emergency and a heavy storm will in no wise obstruct the streets.

In addition to the men designated for team work by Mr. Gavett, the street railway company also has a force in readiness which can be put to work as soon as the occasion demands. It is an assured fact that at no matter when a storm arrives Plainfield's streets will be taken care of.

A sextette of small boys, who answered to the names of James and George Moore, Herman Overland, Willie Muir, John and Tim Murphy appeared in the city court, this morning, charged by Joseph Steinberg, of South Second street, with continually annoying him by throwing stones at his windows and doors.

On one occasion, he said, a large rock had crashed through a window and narrowly escaped striking his wife and infant son. He was unable to prove that the boys in court were the ones who had done it.

The boys themselves accused each other but several finally admitted casting pebbles on the front steps. City Judge Runyon gave all a reprimand and placed a suspended sentence over their heads.

COMING COMEDY.

Clever Production In Store For Plainfield To Be Given At The Casino.

Humor, which has thus far been the keynote of the season in New York, as well as elsewhere throughout the country in theatrical circles, will be served to the patrons of the Casino in two weeks hence.

"The Brixton Burglary," which is considered to be the best laughing vehicle since "Charley's Aunt," will be the medium. While the name suggests old-fashioned melodrama, the play is a three-act, rollicking farce, with scarcely a serious moment.

The farce will be presented here with what is considered the most expensive comedy cast on the road this season. It includes W. J. Ferguson, one of the most popular comedians of the day.

COLLEGE ENTHUSIASM.

Will Pervade the Concert of Princeton Boys Tuesday.

College boys are always interesting. You may not approve of much that they do, but they interest just the same. Whether you watch them maul one another on the football field leaving behind them a trail of gore and glory on the gridiron, or you hear of them risking their necks to steal some coveted bell clapper, or it may be straining their muscles sore at some terrific tug-of-war, yet so much enthusiasm and earnestness go into their sports that you smile even if you condemn.

And so when they sing it is with the same abandon and whole souledness. They sing not because they are paid for it, but for the fun of the thing and because they love it. Such a spirit, when it leaps out in song from young strong throats, carries an audience by storm.

The Princeton boys sing at the Casino Tuesday evening.

THIRTEEN YEARS OF WORK FOR ENDEAVORERS.

Endeavorers of Park Avenue Baptist Church Celebrated Their Anniversary Last Eevening.

DR. BRETT MADE ADDRESS.

ADVISED ENDEAVORERS TO CONDUCT EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.

Reports for Past Year Were Presented—Society's Work During Its Career Was Also Summed Up—Dr. Brett's Strong Address.

The thirteenth anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was celebrated last evening. There were present representatives from all the societies composing the Local Union. The colors of the local society, green and white, and the State Society colors, orange and black, formed a very attractive decoration.

Miss Cora Brokaw, president of that society, presided. The exercises opened with a fifteen-minute song service. Miss Henrietta Cuming presided at the piano. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the church, after which Rev. Dr. Cornelius Brett, of Jersey City, offered prayer.

Miss Almira Runyon, secretary of the society, presented her report. The society was organized November 23, 1888, with a dozen members. There are now thirty-four active members, seven honorary and five absent ones. The highest number ever enrolled was fifty-four.

Miss Henrietta Cuming, treasurer, reported that during the existence of the society $1,589 28 has been raised, an average of $153 a year. There is now a balance of $7.97. There has been given to the church in thirteen years $550. The sum of $25 has been pledged for this year. From the amount received by the two-cent-a-week plan three-fourths has been given to foreign missions. During the past five years $118 has been contributed to the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, and money has been contributed to mission work in New York.

Miss Lillian Cuming, as secretary of the Junior Endeavor Society, made a report. This society is eight years old, and it has had in all 165 members. Over $140 has been collected and divivided between the church and mission societies. The present membership is twenty-seven, of which fifteen are church members.

Miss Adelia Runyon sang a solo, accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Emily Runyon. Miss Brokaw then introduced Dr. Brett, who took for his subject, "Endeavor to Evangelize."

Dr. Brett spoke of the origin of the Endeavor Society twenty years ago in Portland, Me., and told of the spirit of evangelization that has manifested itself since that time. He disputed the prevailing idea that Dr. Clark is the originator of the young people's society, and, to substantiate his assertion, told of such societies as existed when he he began his ministry.

Dr. Brett believed that Dr. Clark had found the essentials for a successful society of young people, as had been proved during the history of the Endeavor society. The speaker liked the word "Endeavor," believing it to be a great help to young people generally. It signifies a desire to try and try again when success does not come.

After Dr. Brett's address, he conducted an open parliament as to the advisability of an Endeavor Society conducting work of an evangelistic nature, Rev. J. W. Richardson fell in heartily with the idea and said he would be pleased to have his society take the initiative. Dr. Brett advised members abstain from all worldly engagements and unite with the pastor in a series of meetings. M. E. Anthony favored such a movement, but thought the spring of the year the best time for it. This idea was suggested by Dr. Brett, who favored the Passion Week.

This part of the exercises was followed with a social hour during which refreshments were served. The social committee in charge consisted of Aaron D. Thompson, Jr., chairman; Miss Elizabeth Runyon, Miss Helen Cuming, Miss Mary Giles and Miss Lizzie VanWinkle. This committee was assisted by Joseph M. Hawkins, Miss Etta Cuming and Mrs. S. A. Krom.

WOOD AT CAPITAL.

Here to Discuss Cuban Economics and Affairs.

HAVANA IS FREE FROM SICKNESS.

Governor General Will Consult the President and War Secretary Regarding the Turning Over of the Island to New Control.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—General Leonard Wood, the governor of Cuba, reached this city late last evening. The general was accompanied by Mrs. Wood and Lieutenant McCoy of the Tenth cavalry, his aid.

General Wood looked robust and strong and not like a man who had suffered a severe attack of typhoid fever within a twelvemonth. His eye was bright and his skin ruddy and clear. He said that he felt as well as he ever did and attributed his complete recovery to his excursion along the New England coast last summer. Havana was so free from sickness when General Wood sailed that neither he nor Mrs. Wood felt the least fear of leaving their three children behind.

The governor general comes to discuss with the president and Secretary Root the arrangements for turning over the island to the independent government to be chosen at the coming elections and to talk over the economic situation of the republic about to take its place among the nations. No troubles are expected at the elections. The Cubans are anxious to show the world that they can conduct their own affairs in an orderly and decent manner and may be depended upon to keep the peace.

The general said: "They will find an excellent government machinery at work all over the island. I had just completed a tour of inspection when I sailed, and the last place I visited was Santiago, the scene of my earliest labors on the island. We have built roads, established efficient urban and rural police systems and an elaborate educational scheme. More than 1,800 schools in which 3,600 teachers are at work have been instituted under American authority. The Cubans are evidently anxious to have their children properly educated, for the schoolhouses are crowded to the doors.

"The chief features of the economic situation relate to sugar and tobacco, the staple products of the island. The Cuban people will not, I am assured, under any circumstances restore the export duties on these products levied by the Spaniards, which we abolished two years ago to stimulate industry. They will ask the United States to reduce the duties on sugar and tobacco at least 40 per cent."

A Tablet to McKinley.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—A Roman bronze tablet to the memory of the late president will be sent to Washington in a few days as a tribute from the Italian residents of the United States. President Roosevelt will be requested to give the tablet a place in the capitol. On the tablet in bas-relief is a figure of President McKinley as if walking toward a tomb. In the lower right hand corner is seen the sharply drawn facade of the capitol at Washington. In the lower left hand corner four infant figures represent the four sections of the United States—east, west, north, south. A gracefully draped figure in somber shade also sits by a shield with a cluster of newly plucked grain.

Miss Stone Still Alive.

SOFIA, Nov. 30.—According to a letter, dated Dubnitza, Nov. 28, Miss Stone and Mme. Tsilka are still alive. The letter in question further says that at a recent meeting of the committee held in Dubnitza it was definitely decided not to kill the prisoners upon any pretext whatever. Nevertheless the committee insisted upon the payment of the full amount of the ransom. A naive suggestion is current in political circles here to the effect that the United States should force Turkey to pay the balance of the ransom and as soon as the prisoners are in safety force Bulgaria to punish those persons guilty of their abduction.

Dare Not Touch the Safe.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 30.—Boyd & Co., the potato chip manufacturers here, at whose office cracksmen attempted to blow the safe Wednesday morning, are puzzled at what to do with the unexploded nitroglycerin charge which the burglars left in the safe door. The fact that the explosive goes off in temperature under 45 and over 90 degrees has led the firm to place thermometers about the office and to pad all the doors with felt to prevent sudden jars. A safe expert called in refused to touch the door on account of the explosive in it.

Roosevelt to See the Game.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Roosevelt left here at 10 o'clock this morning for Philadelphia to attend the Annapolis-West Point football game. He will return this evening. He traveled in a special car in which were Mrs. Roosevelt and two children, Commander and Mrs. Cowles, Secretary and Mrs. Cortelyou, Mr. Loeb, Mrs. Douglas Robinson and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Rixey, Colonel Bingham and Mr. and Mrs. Richardson. Secretary Root and a party of thirty-five persons occupied another special car.

Boiler Explosion Killed Two.

FINDLAY, O., Nov. 30.—Al Halter, an oil dresser of this city, and Earl O'Neill of Nellsville, O., were installing a new gas engine at an oil well on the Price farm when the boiler exploded, killing both instantly. The shock of the explosion was felt in this city, a distance of five miles.

BIG BRIDGE DELAYED

New East River Span Grows Slowly.

HOW THE CABLES ARE TWISTED.

Each to Contain 7,696 Wires—Length of Span Is 2,975 Feet, and the Four Cables Will Require 24,000 Miles of Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The new East river bridge commission has granted the Roebling Construction company six months' extension. Ten months were asked for. Commissioner Boyle, who a few days ago opposed the delay, saying it was wished for by Croker for private reasons, voted to grant it.

The third of the 7,696 wires which will constitute each of the cables on the new Brooklyn bridge was strung yesterday afternoon. The first was stretched across on Nov. 19 and the second on Wednesday. As two wires are carried across at one time, the machinery bringing one from Williamsburg to Manhattan at the same time a loop is carried from Manhattan to Williamsburg, six wires are now in place. Three of these are on cable No. 1 and three on cable No. 2.

The method by which these pieces of wire which will support the new bridge are suspended, though at first sight complicated, is really very simple. A continuous cable three-fourths of an inch in diameter runs over the towers from one end of the structure to the other. It revolves on huge steel sheaves at either end. On this cable are two stationary wheels so placed that when one is at this terminus the other is in Williamsburg.

When a wire is ready to be stretched, a few feet of it are uncoiled from a spool which weighs between eight and nine tons and the end made fast to an eyebar at this end. The loose piece is then thrown over the stationary wheel and the cable set in motion by a forty horsepower engine. As the stationary wheel goes over the bridge it carries the double wire with it. At the same time another stationary wheel is bringing over a loop from Williamsburg.

When the stationary wheel reaches its destination, the loop of wire is taken off and slipped over a horseshoe. Each horseshoe will accommodate 208 wires, or a strand. When the strand is complete, the loop is taken from the horseshoe and placed on a permanent block of the steel eyebars which hold the cables in place.

The wire used in the cables is three-sixteenth of an inch in diameter, and it takes thirty-seven strands to make a cable.

Each span of wire is 2,975 feet in length, so that in the four cables there will be 24,000 miles. Every spool contains enough wire to stretch five times over the bridge. When one spool is exhausted, the end of the wire is joined to the end of the coil on another spool by means of a grooved socket. The wire composing the strands is therefore continuous, but the strands composing the cables will be separate.

New Baseball Association.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—The American Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, with Thomas J. Hickey as president, has been launched. The new magnates finished their preliminary business and adjourned subject to the call of the president. Chicago will be President Hickey's headquarters as soon as he can arrange his personal matters and come to this city to stay. The circuit is announced as follows: Indianapolis, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Columbus, Toledo, Minneapolis, Omaha and Kansas City. The new league announced that it would not affiliate with the national body or with any of the minor leagues.

Jenkins In a New Role.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 30.—Tom Jenkins, the champion wrestler, intends to turn pugilist and has issued a challenge to meet James J. Jeffries in a glove contest for the world's championship and a reasonable side bet. Jenkins has long been known by the public only as a wrestler, but he is equally skillful with the gloves and believes that the greater financial emoluments accruing from the ring would warrant his adopting pugilism as a profession.

Killed His Wife.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 30.—Samuel Van Stavern, aged forty-two years, last night shot and instantly killed his wife. The shooting took place on the sidewalk near Fourth and Chestnut streets and was witnessed by a number of persons. Van Stavern fired four shots, each of which took effect. The couple had been married eighteen years, but had frequently separated and had not been living together recently.

The Roller Boat Released.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Knapp's roller boat has been released from the Ogdensburg bar, where she settled in the mud on her trial trip. The boat was towed to the Canadian side. The tug Dauntless of Montreal and the barge Regina, sunk on the St. Lawrence river canal, have also been released.

Canal Navigation Closed.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Snow has been falling in this city for twenty-four hours. Navigation on the canal closed at 12 o'clock last night. One hundred boats between Watervliet and Utica are frozen in and cannot reach tidewater.

Wisconsin Town Burned.

PLAINFIELD, Wis., Nov. 30.—Practically all the business houses in this village are in ruins as the result of a fire which raged here last night.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

Business Brisk, but Greatly Hindered by Lack of Transportation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

When consumptive demand equals or exceeds supply and prices are firmly held at an exceptionally high level, it is generally considered that there is little to be desired in the business situation. These factors are now in evidence to an unusual extent, yet many industries are halting. The principal disturbing element is the lack of cars to handle the phenomenal shipments that are urgently needed.

A general advance in the price of pig iron indicates that record breaking activity at furnaces fails to produce accumulation of supplies. Steel mills are seeking material urgently.

With higher water in the Pittsburg region there has come a brisk movement of coal on the river, and coke ovens are constantly attaining new top figures of weekly output. The feature among the minor metals was the sharp advance in tin to much the highest point of the year because of delayed arrivals. In marked contrast to the rise in tin was a sharp decline in silver to the lowest price since early in 1898.

Shoeshops at the east are fully employed, while western producers were never before so actively engaged.

Recent buying of cotton goods for China has stimulated the export movement, and for the year thus far the value shows an increase over any preceding year. Asia and South America are the leading customers.

Another new high record for the season was established by corn, not alone because of speculative operations, although these were most aggressive at the west. Receipts come forward slowly despite the attractive prices, for the week amounting to only 2,208,279 bushels against 3,386,370 last year.

Wheat also held firmly, closing the week more than 4 cents a bushel above the price a year ago, which is most satisfactory in view of the vast increase in yield.

Failures for the week numbered 182 in the United States against 178 last year and 25 in Canada against 21 last year.

JAPANESE ADVICES.

Financial Matters of the Empire Adjusted—No Loan Needed.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 30.—The steamer Glenogle has just arrived from the orient. She brings news that when she left Japan grand military maneuvers were in progress in northwest Japan. The two brigades opposed to each other in the mimic war were inspected by the emperor. The result of the campaign was favorable to the defense corps. A number of Chinese, Russian and Korean officers present at the maneuvers were decorated by the emperor.

The Japanese cabinet has adjusted its financial affairs, and loans will not be necessary, domestic or foreign, during the next fiscal year. The main feature of the new programme is that large economies will be effected in the ordinary expenditure and the departments will pay into the treasury sums held by them on account of the uncompleted works.

Big fires are reported from Tientsin. The Welsh fusiliers' barracks was among the buildings destroyed, and two soldiers were burned to death. A fire also occurred in the British barracks at Sinho. All the fires were of incendiary origin.

Partridge For Police Commissioner.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Mayor Elect Low has made the formal announcement that Colonel John N. Partridge of Brooklyn would be the new police commissioner and that he would succeed Colonel Michael C. Murphy on Jan. 1. He would not tell who was going to be Devery's successor as deputy commissioner and said that he had only made the announcement of Colonel Partridge's selection because Colonel Partridge requested him to do so on the ground that it would be an advantage to him in closing his duties in the office of state superintendent of public works.

Parcels Post Bill Opposed.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 30.—The Nebraska Retail Merchants' association, through its executive board, is sending out a circular letter in opposition to the proposed parcels post legislation. The letter defines the sense of the association as opposed to house bill 6,055 or any similar bill on the ground that it will permit the mail order houses in the larger cities to control the retail business of the country, taxing all the people to pay the expense of carrying the merchandise at a cost much in excess of the amount of postage charged.

Insurgent Activity In Batangas.

MANILA, Nov. 30.—The insurgents are active in Batangas province. Brigadier General Bell, with a battalion of the Fifth infantry, left here yesterday to assume command of the troops in Batangas. Recently the insurgents killed a merchant in the town of Batangas, terrorized the people living in the outskirts of the town and escaped after a running fight with a small detachment of the Eighth infantry.

This Wurm Turned.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Nov. 30.—When the divorce case of Bertha Wurm against her husband, Innocent Wurm, was called in the chancery court here, it was announced that they were reconciled. The Wurms have been married twenty years, but separated two years ago because Innocent called Mrs. Wurm names.

PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS.

A Common Commercial Nomenclature Proposed.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 30.—The session of the pan-American congress was largely taken up with the reading of the reports of committees. These reports were those of the committees on international banking and monetary exchange and on literary relations, favoring an exchange of official publications, and a long report of the committee of which Senator Davis is the head with respect to the pan-American railroad.

A project was submitted by William I. Buchanan of the United States delegation on commercial nomenclature. Mr. Buchanan says that if uniformity of name and description can be secured for the common articles of pan-American commerce and such nomenclature officially adopted and made the basis of the customs schedules and the laws of the republics of the hemisphere a distinct and valuable step in all that appertains to the general betterment of commerce will be gained.

Mr. Buchanan proposes that the governments represented in the bureau of American republics contribute among themselves $40,000 in gold with a view to a careful revision and compilation in English, Spanish and Portuguese and under the direction of the customs divisions of each of the said governments of commercial nomenclature of the American republics heretofore issued by the bureau of American republics. Mr. Buchanan's proposal was referred to the committee on commerce.

Through Hon. Volney W. Foster a letter of Henry J. Amber, Jr., chairman of the International Olympian Games association, to be held in Chicago in 1904, inviting the countries represented at the conference to participate in the said games was submitted to the assembly. The letter was referred to the committee on general welfare.

THE PITTSBURG STRIKE.

Traffic Not Greatly Interrupted. Switchmen Still Confident.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 30.—Traffic was not interrupted in a marked degree yesterday on any of the railroads save on the Allegheny Valley. This road is still badly crippled, and as a result several industrial plants along the Allegheny river were compelled to temporarily suspend operations owing to their supply of coal being exhausted.

The Shoenberger plant of the American Steel and Wire company at Twenty-fifth street has partially suspended operations owing to a lack of coal, as did the American Steel and Wire company's plant at Twenty-sixth street. The Marshall Machine and Construction company at Twenty-sixth street and the Zugs Sable Iron works at Thirteenth street, which closed down on Wednesday night, did not resume operations yesterday. None of the works of the Crucible Steel company along the Allegheny river was forced to cease work on account of the coal shortage.

The striking switchmen have not relinquished hope of winning the battle.

Millions For Railroad Improvements

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30.—It is announced that under the financial plan to create a new division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad there will be available several million dollars for improvements on the properties to be taken in. These comprise the lines extending from the great lakes to the coalfields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, embracing fourteen distinct properties. There will be issued $20,000,000 of additional common stock and from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 of bonds secured by a deposit of the securities to be exchanged and which are now treasury assets of the Baltimore and Ohio.

New Treasurer For Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 30.—William Franklin Willoughby, the newly appointed treasurer of the island of Porto Rico, succeeding Jacob Hollander, resigned, has arrived here and taken the oath of office. The executive council of Porto Rico at a special session raised the bond of the treasurer of the island from $100,000 to $150,000. This action was taken because of the increased funds handled by the treasurer.

A Georgia Salt Well.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 30.—Assistant State Geologist McCallie, who recently analyzed a sample of brine taken from a new well near Chickamauga park, announced that the liquid contained 10 per cent pure salt. The brine was struck at a depth of 212 feet. There are no other salt wells in that part of Georgia.

Germany's Expenses In China.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The estimates for Germany's expenditure in China for the year 1902 are 39,500,000 marks as against 123,500,000 marks expended in China in 1901. The pensions for widows and orphans resulting from the China expedition amount to 491,000 marks annually.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The first snow of the season, less than one inch, has fallen in New York city.

COLON SURRENDERED

Liberals Gave Possession to United States Troops.

GENERAL ALBAN PLACED IN CONTROL

Captain Perry, With Men From the Iowa, Marietta and Machias, Conducted the Negotiations. The Harbor Crowded.

COLON, Nov. 30.—Captain Perry of the United States battleship Iowa arrived here yesterday with a battalion of marines from Panama. The Liberal force here surrendered to the United States troops, who took possession of the Cuartel Piera.

General Alban, the commander of the government troops, entered the town in the afternoon, when Captain Perry handed the command of the town over to him as representative of the Colombian government. French troops now occupy Christophe Colon.

The terms of surrender agreed upon at the conference held on board the United States gunboat Marietta, at which the commanding officers of the Marietta, of the British cruiser Tribune and of the French cruiser Suchet, Lieutenant Commander McCrea of the Machias, Captain Perry of the Iowa, Generals Alban and Jeffries, representing the government of Colombia, and Senor de la Rosa, who represented the Liberal party, were present, are briefly as follows:

Senor de la Rosa agreed to surrender the Liberal soldiers now at Colon, with their arms, to Captain Perry at noon yesterday. Captain Perry in his turn agreed to hand over these men and their arms later in the day to General Alban, who, in his turn, guaranteed life and liberty to all men recently in arms against the Conservative government of Colombia. The surrender of arms was to be bona fide in every respect.

At half past 11 in the morning a large number of marines and bluejackets from the Iowa, the Marietta and the Machias landed at Colon and proceeded to the barracks. Here the arms belonging to the Liberal soldiers were taken over by the Americans in the presence of Captain Perry, the commanders of the warships above mentioned, the American, British and French consuls at Colon and a large concourse of people who sympathized with the Liberals in their surrender.

The Liberal guard patrolling Colon in the morning appeared sad and downcast. Their behavior, however, has all along been most praiseworthy, and it is not at all an exaggeration to say that they have gained the respect of a very large portion of the community and especially of the foreign elements during their short administration of Colon.

Later in the day General Alban, accompanied by officials of the Conservative government of Colombia, arrived here from Panama, and Senor de la Rosa, representing General Domingo Diaz, whose secretary he is, surrendered himself and the Liberal troops to the Conservative general in the presence of Captain Perry and the naval and consular officers above mentioned.

For years the harbor of Colon has not been so crowded as it is now. Five men-of-war and several German, Italian and British merchant and passenger steamers, as well as other vessels, are in port.

A Long Term Railway Lease.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—The lease of the Burlington and Quincy Railroad company for a term of 999 years was consummated at Burlington yesterday when papers in the case were filed there. President Harris signed the lease both for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company and for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway company, as he is president of both corporations. The $100,000,000 Iowa corporation was founded for the purpose of making a new bond issue to take the place of the various bonds now outstanding against various portions of the system and which will begin to fall due in 1903.

Fire at an Orphans' Home.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Fire at the German Lutheran Orphan home at Mount Vernon, N. Y., last night destroyed two buildings. Damage amounting to $40,000 was done. It is asserted that the fire must have been of incendiary origin. There were 150 orphan children inmates of the home, but all escaped. The fire was fought vigorously by the orphanage fire department, assisted later by two engines from this city.

Locomotive Famine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Because of increase of business the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which for years manufactured the greater part of its motive power, including engines, now finds it necessary to go outside for assistance. It has given an order for fifty locomotives to the American Locomotive company, one of the largest orders placed with that new corporation.

Clear Off Your Sidewalks.

The light fall of snow brings to mind the fact that winter is really here, and that the little flurry is only the forerunner of many more storms which may be expected before the grass grows green again. A great variety of predictions have been made by the weather prophets. Some say that the winter will be mild, others class it as one of the most severe we have yet to experience. If you have any wish in the matter, take the one you prefer and believe in it if you can.

There are, however, several things which the arrival of snow calls to mind. One is the need of cleaning off the sidewalks promptly. There is a city ordinance on the subject, but the good citizen should not await for its effects. The snow should be cleaned off as soon as possible, so that it will not pack. When it is allowed to pack and slippery walks are the result, sawdust, sand or ashes may prevent a serious accident to some passing pedestrian.

In cleaning off the sidewalks, there is one thing which it would be well to remember. Clean for a few inches either side of the walk itself, so that when the thaw comes, the melting snow will not run down on the walk and freeze there at night. Many people neglect to do this, and the period of thawing and renewed freezing leaves many sidewalks so that they are actually dangerous to passersby.

In yesterday's issue of the Union County Standard, of Westfield, announcement is made of the retirement of Alfred E. Pearsall as editor in favor of his son, Clifford E. Pearsall. The Standard is one of the strongest and most enterprising weekly newspapers published in this part of the State. During the time that the elder Mr. Pearsall has been at the helm, the paper has achieved an excellent reputation. Mr. Pearsall's editorials have long been noted for their originality and strength. Although we may not have always agreed with him, he has won our sincere respect. A personal acquaintance with the son assures us that he will be a worthy successor to the father.

The poor support given by Plainfielders to Maze Edwards in his efforts to present to the people high grade attractions, reflects unfavorably on this city. Thus far this season the entertainments have been much varied and all have been of a superior class. In no case has there been anywhere near what is commonly called a full house, notwithstanding the broad advertisement given the events as booked. What is the use of talking about a new opera house, if this thing is kept up. From appearances there is no necessity for such a place of amusement and entertainment.

One of the happenings of the coming month which will be watched with much interest will be the caucus of the Common Council of 1902. There seems no doubt but the honor of presiding over the deliberations of that body will go to B. Frank Coriell, now chairman of the committee on fire and buildings. His successor as the chairman of that important committee has not been determined, but it seems likely that some prominent member of the present committee, like Councilman George P. Mellick, will be slated for the place.

This is the last time that The Daily Press will appear in its present form. The new "dress" will be used for Monday's issue when the bulk of the composition will be done by the Simplex type-setting machine. Every effort will be made to keep The Daily Press right up to date and many other improvements may be expected in the course of time. Our aim will be, as ever, to give the people of Plainfield all the news fairly and truthfully told. The changes so soon to be made will enable us to give far better service than ever.

The commuters on the New Jersey Central Railroad have been finding fault lately with the general lateness of the trains on that railroad. Many of the delays have been occasioned by the numerous accidents to the rolling stock. The present repairing facilities are very inadequate owing to the recent destruction by fire of the shops at Elizabeth and the fact that the new shops are not yet complete. When they are, there will be an improvement.

This attempt to have certain portions of the Stokes School Revision law declared legal by the Court of Errors and Appeals will probably serve to tie up Plainfield's new High School for a little time. A decision may be expected soon, however. If the entire law is thrown out, the school affairs of many municipalities in the State will be left in such a state of confusion that it will take much time and trouble to straighten them out.

While the assemblies will not be held this winter, several prominent families in local society circles being in mourning, their places will be partially filled by a series of subscription Casino dances. They will serve to keep up the interest in local society circles.

The Thanksgiving season brought home a host of young people who are at the various colleges and universities of the land. The result was a decided boom in local social activity.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scroggs of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. L. W. Randolph.

A $5,000 Dwelling.

A building permit has been granted by Inspector T. O. Doane for the construction of a frame dwelling on Grant avenue, near West Fifth street. John Rafferty made the application, and his residence will cost $5,000. The plans were drawn by William H. Olum, and the contractor is W. H. Brokaw.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." L. W. Randolph.

Victims of Fashion's Notaries.

Flowers and Insects.

Felix Plateau continues to prove that insects are not attracted to flowers by their color, but simply by their odor. Muller would assign an aesthetic sense to a good number of insects, but M. Plateau remarks that even in men the aesthetic sense is rarely developed in weak minds. The syrphides hover above objects quite unlike flowers. Highly colored stuffs do not attract insects. Bright metallic objects appear to attract them, but this he thinks is an effect of the reflected light.—London Globe.

Interesting Find in Sweden.

Another Viking ship has been found imbedded in the mud of the harbor of the old Hanse town of Wisby, in the Swedish island of Gothland. The vessel is exceedingly well preserved, in spite of its antiquity. It was found under a quay built in the eleventh century, and is of remarkable construction, wooden nails showing a manner of fixing boards now unknown.—Chicago Daily News.

SUPREME COURT.
STATE OF NEW JERSEY,

In the matter of the Union Furniture Co. vs. the American Rug and Carpet Co., a decision is hereby given by one of the Justices of the above Court that the defendants must furnish to the plaintiffs Fifteen Hundred Rugs at the price agreed in the first purchase.

The above decision explains by itself. The Union Furniture Co. purchased from the American Rug and Carpet Co., 75 rugs and allowed them to be sold at 98c each, as an advertisement for Plainfield, N. J., only thinking that the immense business we do with them they can afford to lose 75 rugs to be sold at such a price, but it was verbally agreed that in case should there be more demand for same, they are bound to furnish as many as we will need for the same price. When we first put them on sale we sold 6 times the amount we had in stock. We wrote to the Company and they refused to ship any more at the first Price. We began action in Supreme Court. A decision was granted in our favor.

We will continue to sell Smyrna Rugs 30x60 in., in all colors, at 98c.

EIGHTY-FOUR DEAD.

This Is the Latest Estimated Loss of Life in Wabash Wreck.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 30.—An interview with Thomas E. Moran, deputy customs collector at this port, practically verifies the estimate that at least eighty lives were lost in Wednesday night's collision and awful holocaust on the Wabash railroad near Seneca.

The two immigrant cars in which the greatest loss of life occurred and in which so many of the wreck victims were roasted to death were part of train No. 13, which crossed Detroit river from Canada on the ferryboat Great Western Wednesday afternoon, and Deputy Moran inspected the baggage of its passengers. He says there were at the very least calculation a hundred Italians in the two cars. In addition to these there were ten more in the smoking car, which was ahead of the two immigrant cars.

Official advices to Superintendent Burns of this division of the Wabash say that of the Italians in the wreck twenty escaped unhurt and were taken to St. Louis, fifteen are in the company's hospital at Peru, Ind., there are six others in Peru, and two are near Adrian, injured. Subtracting these forty-three from the 110 immigrants Deputy Moran says were aboard the train leaves a loss among the Italians alone of sixty-seven. In addition, eight other bodies were recovered and identified, which makes a total of seventy-five dead.

Philippine Currency Question.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Accompanying the annual report of Secretary Root is a report made by Special Commissioner Charles A. Conant, who was sent to the Philippines to investigate the currency situation. His recommendations are submitted to congress for its action. The most important is that there should be a distinctive Philippine coin of silver which shall be legal tender for 50 cents in gold, to be called the peso and to contain 25 grams of silver. The coin is to be issued in such quantities as the trade requires and sustained at a parity with gold by limitation of the amount coined. The Mexican silver dollar and other coins are to cease to be legal tender after a certain date. It also is recommended that national banks in both the Philippines and the United States should have authority to establish branches throughout the islands and in the United States. Power to issue notes should not be extended to any bank having a capital of less than $500,000.

The Bonine Trial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Upon the adjournment yesterday of the criminal court, before which Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine is being tried for the killing of James S. Ayres, Jr., District Attorney Gould announced that the government would rest its case after the introduction of one or two more witnesses. Mr. T. W. Keane will then make a preliminary statement in Mrs. Bonine's behalf, and witnesses for the defense will be introduced. It is expected that about twenty-five of these will be heard. Mrs. Bonine's counsel say that they have not yet decided whether she shall be put upon the stand.

A Hotel Holdup.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 30.—The hotel of John Nealis at Avoca, this county, was entered by seven masked men at an early hour yesterday morning. The inmates were held up at the point of a revolver which each man carried. Nealis, who was in bed, was rendered unconscious by a blow from a blackjack. The burglars then took $250 from a hiding place in the bed and fled.

Ohio Republican Campaign Expenses.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 30.—The statement filed by Treasurer Burdell of the Republican state campaign committee, in compliance with the Garfield law, shows the cost of the late campaign to have been $62,304. The receipts of the committee were $59,900, of which amount $11,900 was contributed through Senator Hanna and $7,000 through Senator Foraker.

The Stalker Stalked.

The hunter in pursuit of big game must be prepared for the unexpected. Mr. Horace A. Vachell, in "Life and Sport on the Pacific Slope," relates the experience of a friend of his, a man for whose veracity he vouches. My friend was after bear, and was accompanied by an Indian guide whom he always took with him on such trips. One morning they sighted a large wapiti, which they wounded.

The Indian took the trail; but the hunter, knowing the habits of wounded deer, took a short cut across some hills, hoping to get another shot at the wapiti as it crossed a certain divide. He reached the divide and climbed a tree for a wider outlook. Presently the wapiti came slowly up the steep slope; the Indian followed, knife in hand; and then, behind the Indian, not 40 yards intervening, waddled a huge bear. So intent was the Indian upon his quarry that he was unaware that he, in his turn, was being tracked, till a bullet whistled past his head from the hunter's rifle and laid the bear low. That was a surprised Indian!

Graham's Grit.

The little story below is Lord Wolseley's tribute to the bravery of Lieut. Gen. Sir Gerald Graham, V. C., G. C. B., G. C. M. G.:

At the storming of the Taku forts Graham, who was in China with Gordon, led the sappers, whose duty it was to lay the pontoon across the wet ditch surrounding the great northern fort.

While superintending this operation he was on horseback, and being almost the only mounted officer present, afforded an easy mark to the Chinese matchlockmen, who had already picked off 15 of his sappers.

During the height of the uproar caused by the firing of the great guns and small arms, Lieut. Col. Wolseley, who was standing by Maj. Graham, having some remark to make, placed his hand on that officer's thigh to draw his attention.

"Don't put your hand there!" exclaimed Graham, wincing under the pain. "There's a jingal-ball lodged in my leg."

It was the first notice he had taken of the wound.—Youth's Companion.

"My wife and myself are in the balloon and parachute line.
"We travel all over the country making parachute jumps at summer resorts, county fairs, and with tent shows.
"Up to a few months ago neither my wife nor myself was in good health.
"Our poor physical condition was due, to some extent, to the fact that we were almost constantly traveling, and were obliged to eat and sleep irregularly.
"In filling our balloon we would become warm and perspire profusely. Then in a little while we would be high in the air, where it was so cold that we would become chilled; and then came the drops, often into water.
"We had had colds, so bad as to be almost chronic, and for some time after the drops into cold water I would be so choked up that I could hardly speak above a whisper.
"Then I had been affected with cold night sweats for almost two years. My appetite was poor and I was badly run down, so badly, in fact, that when I felt the worst I often made up my mind to quit the business.
"At about this time I was talking with a friend about my condition and he suggested I try Ripans Tabules. I bought a small packet, and they did me much good.
"They have benefited my wife as much as they have me.
"The 'giddy' feelings have disappeared; we rarely have colds; the night sweats have gone, and I eat and sleep well.
"My bowels used to be irregular, even when I was careful about what I ate. Now I eat almost anything, and my bowels were never in better condition.
"The Tabules have toned up our systems so thoroughly that we are proof against all such attacks.
"The Tabules have done my wife and myself more good in the past four months than all the doctors' advice and medicine we have ever had."

PARISIAN FANCIES.

Tunic Gowns and Floral Decorations For Evening Dresses.

Many of the latest French evening gowns are being made on the tunic style. There is a tight fitting taffeta underdress, over which hangs softly a transparent tunic of embroidered net which reaches a little below the knees. From there down a wide ruffle attached to the slip simulates a second tunic. Both tunics are edged with handsome embroidery. This quaint style is very becoming to a tall young matron.

Floral decorations are more popular than ever on ball gowns. Large sprays of artificial orchids are the latest thing. One spray goes half way around the decolletage on the left side, falling in graceful clusters to a point a trifle below the waist line. The companion spray is fastened with apparent carelessness among the folds of the train.

A TUNIC EFFECT.

Aigrets are now confined to elderly women. Bows of jeweled tulle are preferred as hair ornaments by younger matrons. For a young girl nothing can be prettier than the single large rose fastened a little above the left ear.

A rich gown on the peplum order is shown in our illustration. It is made of rose colored silk mull, dotted in silver. The mull, which is transparent, falls in a double tunic effect over a tight fitting princess slip of pink taffeta. The edges of these two tunics are edged with costly point lace. Vandyke points also appear berthe fashion around the low decolletage and over the tops of the full transparent sleeves. The front of the gown is one long panel of lace, outlined by sprays of tea roses and their foliage. A single rose is worn in the hair.

AFTERNOON DRESSES.

Soft Fabrics Are Covered With Tucks and Cordings.

For afternoon gowns tucks, cordings and gaugings are so popular that stiff silks are entirely out of favor, since it is only limp, soft fabrics which will admit this treatment. Taffeta glace, which is the old fashioned glace with a softer finish, will be much used for dressy gowns. This tucks and cords beautifully and is most effective when contrasted with the inevitable chiffon or mousseline brilliante. The latter material is a thicker sort of chiffon with a glistening surface and is quite ideal for ruches and frills.

For young people there are many varieties of silk or wool crapes, which can easily be cleaned and renovated for summer wear. Silk and wool crepe de chine is pretty and quite inexpensive. Eolienne is soft, artistic and, like all the crape goods, is dyed in soft pastel tones.

All semitransparent or clear materials are made quite distinct from the underskirt foundation, and in place of darts on the hips there are groups of tucks. The newest flounces are gathered or laid in fine tucks.

The illustration shows a smart Eton jacket made of broadtail. The wide collar and the facing of the double breasted front are of ermine edged with a narrow band of sable. The sleeves are bell shaped. The coat is lined with white satin. The wide hat is of soft gray velvet, trimmed with a gray and white breast.

DE WITH ORIENT

Bound to Enrich Our Pacific Coast Cities.

eral Prosperity Has Given New Life to Several Enterprises of Moment—California's Great Marine Industries.

[Special San Francisco Letter.]

FOURTEEN large and improved steamers will be built at once by the several California and oriental steamship companies to meet the increased and increasing demands of commerce between these countries, and our trade with the Hawaiian islands. Six of these steamers

BRIDGE AND IRRIGATING FLUME.

(for the Asiatic trade) will be of 10,000 tons each, to supplant a similar number of vessels of 6,000 tons capacity. The oriental demand for our goods has increased a greater per cent. during the present year than in any year since trade was opened with China and Japan. We are also a larger consumer of their products, with the balance of trade in our favor. With these swift steamers, of greater carrying capacity, no doubt the trade will continue to increase, as freight rates will no doubt decrease.

As another indication of the general prosperity of the Pacific coast and our increased trade with the east, there is also considerable activity in railroad building. The long contemplated road from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles will soon be built. Western capitalists have acquired the right of way, and the small section of road that has been heading in that direction for several years, and will push the road to completion. This will shorten the distance from Salt Lake to Los Angeles about 300 miles, and give to southern California points quicker service and cheaper rates. will also open a new country to set- ment and commerce. A large por- of the country through which road passes is desert lands. It is posed to reclaim these by a sys- of artesian wells. This plan has ved successful in some portions of Arizona desert where the winds not so strong. In such localities eavy winds soon fill the wells drifting sand.

k has also begun on that other roposed railroad from San to Yuma, Ariz. This road will o the people of that section of rnia a direct outlet to the east- markets, instead of a circuitous ute by way of Los Angeles, as at present. It will also increase the trade with Arizona, and enable San Diego to make a direct and cheaper shipment of Mexican and oriental goods to eastern markets, as these countries have direct lines of steamers to San Diego. This road will also open a new country to ttlement, which is now principaly occupied by stockmen, vagrant Indians, mining prospectors, coyotes and cacti.

The old scheme of reclaiming the desert, by flooding it from the Colorado river, is again seriously talked of. It is doubtful, however, if there is enough water in that river to flood the desert so as to "lay" the sand and bring forth vegetation. Besides, the river partly belongs to Mexico, and we already have enough recurring trouble with our contentious neighbor over our boundary water privileges. Our government might, however, solve the problem by digging a canal and turning the ocean into it. Wilder suggestions than this seem to have proven feasible! The desert is below sea-

But would it prove profitable? whaling industry has grown profitable during the past season owing to the increased demand for bone and ivory. About 50 vessels have this port yearly for the arctic seas. The immense ice floes begin breaking in May or June, when the vessels which have been waiting at the "edge of the ice" sails further northward, in the arctic regions, in their hunt for whales. The most populous whaling grounds are in the Arctic and Okotsk seas, and their bays, and around Herschell island, at the mouth of the McKenzie river.

In an interview the captain of one of these whaling vessels gave an interesting statement of the manner of catching these monarchs of the sea, and the equipment required: A vessel has a crew of about 50 men, and each man is provided with heavy skins, furs, and India-rubber boots. It carries a number of light, swift-running canoes, used for "boarding" the whale; also, about 100 harpoons, as many lance-bombs, and a large supply of rope. The whale usually runs away with the harpoon, and the plan is to give him plenty of rope, and let him drown himself. The lance bomb is used when the harpoon is not effective, and sometimes it is attached to the harpoon. It is about an inch in diameter, and a half foot long, and explodes as it strikes the whale. If it has entered a vital part, the whale dives for the bottom and gives up the fight.

The "feeding grounds" of the whales are off the coasts and from 100 to 200 feet deep. On nearing these "grounds" the vessel stops its propeller and hoists sails, for the whale has a sensitive ear and can hear the slightest noise, as he is continually rising to the surface to see what is going on. When frightened they seek safety amid icebergs, where vessels cannot go. When the "lookout" in the "crow's-nest," or topmast, sees with his field glass a geyser of water, he shouts to the captain: "Blow forward," or "Blow starboard," according to the direction of the disturbance. This is the sign of a whale. He again rises to the surface and throws up another stream from 50 to 100 feet. He again "flukes," or sinks about 100 feet, and rises again. He repeats this from seven to nine times, at intervals of 20 or 30 minutes, when he makes a final "fluke," throwing his tail about ten feet above the surface. Before this, however, several canoes have reached to within throwing distance of the "blow." The men are directed to this spot by a system of signals from the captain on the ship who is watching through his glass, and notes the movements. The canoe is so directed as to strike the whale about midships, and in order that the harpoon may be thrown into the vital part under the fins. The whale is more easily approached from the side, as his eyes are set back in his head and his oblique range of vision is short. When within 50 feet the missile is thrown. The fine steel points of the harpoon cut through the hide and blubber which is from ten to fifteen inches thick. If the aim is well directed, the whale "flukes" for the bottom, lashing his tail savagely as he partly rises out of the water. Rope is then "payed" out until the whale stops, where it soon dies. A buoy is then anchored over the spot, as his monument, until others come and tow the dead whale to the ship.

But if the whale is only slightly wounded, the matter becomes very exciting for the men. The whale makes a "fluke," dragging the canoe and crew with him, or he swims along the surface so rapidly as to upset the canoe, when, perhaps, the men are drowned. Most frequently he launches out for the icebergs against which the canoe is wrecked, and, sometimes, in his "flukes," the frail craft is crushed with his tail. The whale is a fighter when wounded, and when he has wrecked a canoe, will throw himself upon his side, project the lower jaw, and crush the struggling men in the water. It holds its head high out of the water, and leaps upon its object. The waves are red with the blood of the wounded animal, and it strikes at every object within sight. His "bellow" is heard several miles, and is almost human in its agonizing tones.

After being towed to the ship a raft of timbers is made upon which the men stand, while stripping the whale, which is trieed up by pulleys by the tail and fins. The head, which forms nearly one-third the length, is cut off, and dissected for the bone, known as "whalebone." The yield is from 2,000 to 4,000 pounds. The head contains 300 broad strips—150 on each side. These must be separated with skill, else they are ruined for commerce. The tusks are polished, and the ivory is very valuable. The blubber is cut into "blanket" pieces, or strips, about six feet in length and four feet wide. These are sent to the factory and "tried" into lard. The average whale yields about 200 barrels of oil. During the fleshing, petrel and albatross swarm around, scenting the food. The carcass is turned adrift as food for other fishes.

Whales are quite plentiful on the California coast, but are not so valuable for commerce. They feed along as far as the Golden Gate, and occasionally there are shoals of them at the Farallone islands, where they have interesting battles for the feeding grounds. Some few enter the Golden Gate and create trouble among the seals at Seal Rock.

ANTS FELL IN SHOWERS.

Singular Phenomenon That Was Lately Witnessed in the City of Brussels.

From time to time we hear of showers of blood, of pollen, of caterpillars and now M. A. de Longree, a member of the Astronomical Society of France tells of a shower of ants which fell recently at Brussels.

M. de Longree resides in that city and therefore he had ample opportunity for observing this curious phenomenon. It was four o'clock in the afternoon, he says, when the ants began to fall, and the weather was very warm, the sun being brilliant and the sky clear.

A great cloud of small black-winged ants, interspersed among which were some gigantic black ants, measuring from five to seven millimeters in length, spread quickly over the city and its suburbs, and in a few minutes the gigantic ants were swarming over the pavements and the small ones were falling on the garments of pedestrians and even entering their mouths and noses.

For two hours the insects remained in the city, causing everyone to wonder how they came there. It is supposed that they were brought thither in a storm, which started in a neighboring district, the assumption being that the tempestuous wind tore up entire nests of ants from the ground and carried them along in its course. The only objection to this theory is that there was no sign of a storm in Brussels when the insects appeared. Naturalists, however, insist that in no other way can this singular phenomenon be explained.

RIGHTS OF MEN OF SCIENCE.

In Germany They Give Way Only to Members of the Royal Family.

The street railways of Berlin have recently been fitting their lines with electricity, following years in the wake of those of the United States. The directors of the reichsanstalt, the imperial physical and technical institute of Germany, feared that the proximity of trolley wires with the magnetic field which would be set up at the passage of every car might interfere with their experiments and they made representations to that effect to the government. In Germany science is esteemed only second to royalty and the government being all-powerful the street railroads were ordered not to place any trolley wires within a kilometer (five-eighths of a mile) of the reichsanstalt.

As a result, and oddly enough it is to an American, the trolley lines of Charlottenburg, when they approach the imperial mausoleum, the emperor's memorial church and the reichsanstalt—royalty and science—are run underground and the cars are compelled to cover the intervals by means of power drawn from storage batteries. Asphalt pavements have also replaced the old cobblestones in the streets around the reichsanstalt to prevent the jar of trucks from influencing the delicate instruments in the buildings.

FLOWERS ATTRACT INSECTS.

Not by Their Bright Colors So Much as by Their Stores of Sweets.

Much interesting information in regard to the attraction which flowers possess for insects is contained in a paper by Prof. F. Plateau, of Ghent, which is published by the Entomological society of Belgium.

He arrived some time ago at the conclusion that insects are but little attracted by bright colors, and he is now confirmed in this opinion by experiments, which show that brightly colored stuffs and scintillating metallic objects placed among the leaves of flowers have only a slight attractiveness for insects. In regard to the constancy of insects in visiting invariably the same species of flowers on the same flight, he says that certain species of Bombus are very inconstant; that the megachile and coelioxys are less so, and that the honey bee and anthidium manicatum are remarkably constant.

The habit of constancy he attributes to the insect's desire to save labor. The syrphidae (hover flies), he points out, show a considerable tendency to be attracted by bright colors, whether of flowers or of inanimate objects, and to this quality, and not to any aesthetic sense, is to be attributed their habit of hovering over flowers.

A Queer Trade Drawer.

By very simple means a Philadelphia merchant attracted more attention to his store than any amount of placard advertising would have gained for it. A great Maltese cat was tied to eight yards of rope which was fastened in the marble doorway. It was a rare instance of a cat liking its liberty thus restricted, and throughout each afternoon crowds of persons flocked about the door. The bravest among them did puss the honorary of a pat on the head, while more timid souls felt sure the animal was fierce and kept at a safe distance.

Nutrition in Mushrooms.

Recent investigations made by the department of agriculture show that mushrooms are about equal to potatoes in the element of nutrition that goes to make flesh and blood, but that, on the other hand, they do not hold much of the fuel stuff required to keep the body machine running.

SERPENT UTILIZATION.

Black Snake to Be Employed by Its Captor in Ridding His Place of Mice.

A few days ago passengers on a car of the Middle river line were given a remarkable exhibition of snake catching between Black and Middle rivers. As the car was speeding along the motorman saw a large blacksnake crossing the rails. He stopped his car and pursued the snake with the switch stick in his hand. He was about to kill it when a passenger jumped off the car and begged him not to kill the snake, as he wanted to take it alive. The stranger quietly approached the snake, grabbed it firmly just below the head, and held it up. It was nearly seven feet long, and it entwined itself about its captor in a manner that fairly chilled the blood in the veins of the onlookers, says the Baltimore American.

The man then started to board the car with his prize, but this was too much for the passengers, and with one accord they blackballed the snake. They appealed to the conductor to put man and snake off the car, but the nerve of the official failed him as he approached the man holding the ugly reptile. A compromise was finally agreed on by which the man and his pet were to be given full possession of the rear platform, and the car proceeded to its destination.

When questioned as to what he intended to do with the snake, the man stated that he was going to take it home and turn it loose for the purpose of ridding the place of mice.

THE EXECUTIVE ENGINEER.

A Position That Is Exciting the Ambition of Students in All Mechanical Departments.

Engineers—mechanical and civil—now make it their ambition to become, not consulting experts, but executives. Among military and naval cadets, the most brilliant and successful students eagerly enter the engineering corps of the service, and become in after years the most thorough and successful officers, says the Engineering Magazine. The same tendency is pervading commercial life. This state of affairs is becoming more and more prevalent. The managers of street railway, gas, electric lighting and similar companies are, in the main, men of engineering training. The general management of broader manufacturing industries is being concentrated in the same direction. The departmental organization of commerce requires men who shall be, first of all, able executives—second, experts in the departmental work. In all excepting purely specialized branches—such as the legal or financial—use is being made of the trained engineer. Salesmen of mechanical goods, railway transportation department officials and incumbents of many other apparently unrelated fields are made from engineering timber. The highest executive positions in the great industries are accessible to men of mechanical training and common sense.

DOCTORS' SHORT VACATIONS.

Medics Look with Envy on Those Who Can Steal a Month or Two Off.

"What a contrast the legal profession presents to the medical in respect to holidays," said a well-known New York physician the other day, according to the New York Mail and Express. "A medical man rarely, until he has attained the highest position, thinks of taking a clear two months and the greater number regard themselves as exceptionally fortunate if they get a clear three weeks, whereas lawyers and judges take their three months at a stretch and as much as another month more at odd times.

"A doctor of 35 whom I know has been trying in vain for five years to see a play. Another told me lately that he had not been out of New York city save for the day for five years. As for myself, since I took my degree in 1873 I don't think I've had a year's vacation, taking it all in all, up to the present time, and I am now 65 years old. Very few outside the medical profession realize what a terribly exacting service it imposes."

THREE ANTELOPE AT A SHOT.

A Michigan Hunter Tells of a Remarkable Exploit in Montana.

One of the most remarkable shots ever reported was made by the late Dr. J. B. Welch, of Hudson, Mich.

Welch was hunting antelope in Montana and was surprised one morning to see a herd of the animals appear upon a ridge some 400 yards from camp. Welch ran to the top of the range and saw that after going a short distance directly from the camp the antelope had turned and were running so that their broadside was exposed. They were nearly a quarter of a mile away and Welch did not expect to hit when he opened on them with his high-power rifle.

His astonishment may therefore be imagined, says the New York Times, when on seeing one drop and going to the spot, he found three dead antelope each shot through the head. The three had been running side by side, and one bullet had potted the trio.

Cover the Mule's Eyes.

The mule drivers who take their animals across the South American Andes always cover the eyes of the mules with a poncho while they put on the heavy loads. If they could see they would be unmanageable, but blindfolded they meekly accept their burdens and start on their journey without protest.
